COUNTY FAIR TO BE A CELEBRATION OF VICTORY

Returned Soldiers Will be Welcomed Home—Celebrated Zouave Band Engaged

A meeting of the executive committee of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society was held at the secretary's office at East Jordan, on Tuesday the 22nd day of April. It was decided to make this year's fair in the nature of a celebration of victory and a welcome for all our returned soldier boys and to engage Carlisle's Frontier Shows and Ewing's Zouave band for the free attractions and music.

The Frontier Shows are in the nature of wild west performances and will provide ten different programs for fair week, among the acts being the capturing of the horse thief, exhibition fancy riding, riding a bucking broncho, an educated horse, etc. This company also brings with them tent shows to be placed on the midway and which will provide clean entertainment for the patrons of the fair.

Ewing's Zouave Band comes from Shampaign, Illinois, is handsomely uniformed, is composed of professional musicians, has with them Miss Alma Huntley, a lyric soprano with a voice especially adapted for singing with a band. Turner Nearing trumpet soloist, has been with the organization for eight years and ranks with the foremost trumpet soloists of the United States. This organization has been for the past fifteen years playing on the larger Chautauqua circuits and at the larger fairs and will be a real treat for lovers of good band music.

A number of changes in the grounds were provided for. The executive committee voted to build an addition to the educational building, costing approximately two thousand dollars, and appropriated five hundred dollars toward this addition, the balance to be raised by popular subscription. This addition will make the building in the form of a double cross and will provide an auditorium thirty feet by sixty feet. The south wing of the building will be a model standard school house completely furnished and equipped and should prove to be a great benefit to all country school districts in the county.

The entrance to the grounds is to be changed in such a manner as to relieve the congestion at the gate. The fence at the gate will be dropped back, permitting room for the jitneys to turn around without interfering with the cars going into the grounds. A double entrance for cars and entrances and exits for foot passengers and cars were provided for.

It was also decided to build a new ticket office and judges stand, and to provide ticket offices in the business district of East Jordan, on the road to the fair grounds so that the patrons may buy their tickets without blocking the entrance to the grounds.

The price of admission was changed from the old price of fifty cents, for adults and fifteen cents for children, no charge to be made for cars and teams entering the grounds and this entitling patrons to attend both the day and night fair if they remain on the grounds. The charge of twenty-five cents is made for the night fair.

The midway will be well taken care of this year. The association having contracted with the Collins Amusement company for a merry-go-round, ferris wheel and six good, clean, side shows and at least twenty additional concessions. With this as a starter the association is assured of a midway such as has never been seen on any of the fair grounds of Northern Michigan.

Everything points to the largest and most successful fair ever held, even Mr. Hicks consenting to assure good weather for fair week.

The association is especially desirous of having the exhibition buildings filled with the best productions from every section of the county and urges all farmers, stockmen, poultry men and fruit raisers, all housewives, all canning and garden club members, pupils and teachers in the public schools, in fact all citizens of the county to keep their county fair in mind and make plans for each to contribute his or her share to the success of the fair.

Let us make this fair a real county fair and such a one as has never been held in the county.

ANOTHER CHANGE IN BUSINESS FIRM

Miles Olmstead Buys Fowler Interest in Central Garage

Miles Olmstead, for several years in the employ of Erickson & Fowler at the Central Garage, has purchased the interests of Mr. Fowler, and in the future the business will be conducted under the name of Erickson & Olmstead, the new firm taking possession on Friday of last week.

The deal includes the garage building, machinery, fixtures and stock, Mr. Fowler retaining the Maxwell and Moon agency.

Both members of the firm of Erickson & Olmstead are competent workmen, and understand the working parts of an automobile thoroughly. For the present they will confine their activities wholly to repair work, storage and care of cars, and the sale of auto accessories. A complete line of tires, tubes, accessories will be kept in stock, besides their regular oil station.

The new firm are deserving of a liberal patronage from former as well as new patrons of the garage and extend an invitation to all to visit them when in need of work in their line. Read their announcement on another page of this issue.

EAST JORDAN MAY GET FINE ARMORY

CITY INCLUDED IN APPROPRIATION RECENTLY MADE

Matter Hinges Only on a Suitable Site Being Offered State—Matter of Great Importance

If the City of East Jordan will give the state of Michigan a suitable building site for the erection of an armory, it is practically assured of an $80,000 appropriation for that purpose, at least that is the conclusion one can draw from the following dispatch from Lansing, under date of April 19:

"The house passed the armory bill under which $240,000 is made available during the ensuing year for armories in seven cities, Big Rapids, Ypsilanti, Port Huron, South Haven, Alpena, Adrian and Lansing. Lansing will get $60,000 and has raised $40,000 by private subscription so as to insure a $100,000 building. Alpena has raised $50,000 and thus will have a $50,000 building. All these towns have delivered, or will soon deliver, deeds of sites free to the state. The sum of $150,000 is appropriated for the following year for armories in the following towns: Houghton, Cheboygan, East Jordan, Jackson, Monroe, Menominee and Sault Ste Marie. None of these have delivered deeds and the first five to do so will get $30,000 each, except East Jordan, where $60,000 is provided because of its naval unit."

What a memorial to the boys of old Co. I, now Headquarters Co. of the 125th, many of whom made the supreme sacrifice that we, as American people, might live in peace and prosperity. Every effort should be put forth to have this proposed armory, not only by citizens of East Jordan, but Charlevoix county in general.

CLAIMS ADVANTAGE OVER BOAT LINES

Handle Freight Business as Well as Passengers

The new boat line, Michigan Transit Company, claims a big advantage over most boat companies in having three steamships so different in type of construction as the Kansas, Missouri and Maritoun.

The Kansas, being the smallest and very economical to operate, can handle the light passenger and freight business of very early spring and very late fall.

As soon as the business warrants in the spring and as late as it keeps up in the fall, the Missouri, one of the heaviest freight and passenger carriers on the lakes, can handle the increased business in one shape.

And for the nine or ten weeks of summer resort business, the Manitou, which is known as one of the finest passenger carriers on the Great Lakes will be added to the fleet, to take care of the bulk of high class passenger business of mid-summer, as well as to handle the portable freight, which requires fast transportation and demands high freight rates.

It seems to be an ideal combination for the new boat line.

JAMES GASKINS HEARD FROM

WAS ALIVE AND WELL THE SIXTEENTH OF APRIL

Now With Motor Repair Unit No. 1, According to Advice Received From Washington, D. C.

Word was received from Washington on Friday of last week by Mr. and Mrs. James Gaskins, Sr., of this city, concerning their son from whom they have had no word since October 29, 1918.

The information was to the effect that Pvt. Gaskins, formerly with Co. E, 47th Inf., had reported for duty on April 16, with Motor Repair Unit No. 1, at Marimmas, supposedly some point in France.

James Gaskins, Jr., was last heard from direct on October 29. At that time he had been out of the hospital but a short time, having been wounded in action. From this time until the word received from Washington on Friday last no trace of him could be found, despite efforts of Red Cross officials and hundreds of inquiries sent direct to commanding officers of not only his division, but to others in command overseas.

It was known by his parents that he had been wounded, as they received information from him while in the hospital. But after receipt of his letter after leaving the hospital and reporting for duty, he seemed to disappear entirely, and all efforts to get in touch with him failed.

Whether again wounded after leaving the hospital is not known. On Wednesday morning a cable sent direct to him in care of Motor Repair Unit No. 1, Marimmas, was returned to the sender reported unopened, but contained the information that Pvt. Gaskins had been transferred with his unit to Paris, his present address being Motor Repair Unit No. 1, E. S. M., A. E. F. No further information was given.

The parents of this young American soldier have undergone hours of suffering and suspense, hoping day after day that word might come that their boy was safe and would be returned to them. The information just received has somewhat lightened their burden of sorrow, but his return to home and friends will only heal the trials and sorrows they have undergone.

PRETTY WEDDING ON EASTER SUNDAY

Miss Ruth Reed of Charlevoix Married at Newberry Home

The home of Mrs. George Newberry, 203 South Hamilton street, Saginaw, Michigan, was the scene of a pretty Easter wedding at three, Sunday p. m. (Easter Sunday) when Miss Ruth Reed of Charlevoix became the bride of Joseph J. Richardson of Whiting, Indiana.

The room was tastefully decorated with ferns and lilies and the ceremony took place under a canopy of white and yellow, from the center of which hung a large white bell. The bride was dressed in white crepe de chene and carried a bouquet of roses. They were attended by Miss Pearl Byron and Mr. John Cronk. Mrs. G. E. Dutton presided at the piano, skillfully rendering Wagner's beautiful bridal chorus. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. H. Glass of the First M. E. church of Saginaw, west side.

There were twenty-four guests present, those from out of the city being Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Dutton of Bay City and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ross of St. Louis, uncle and aunt of the bride.

A dainty two course luncheon was served and the happy young couple were showered with congratulations. After a short visit with relatives in Ellettsville, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will make their future home in Whiting, Indiana.

LOCAL I. O. O. F. WILL CELEBRATE

WILL OBSERVE CENTENNIAL WITH LODGES OF COUNTY

One Hundredth Anniversary to be Observed in Charlevoix June 10—Appropriate Exercises

The Charlevoix lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the order with appropriate afternoon and evening programs at its hall, Tuesday, June 10th.

The order was one hundred years old on Saturday, May 26, but owing to the inability of the grand lodge officers to be here on that date, it has been decided to hold the celebration on June 10, a date when Grand Master George Harland and Grand Secretary Fred Rogers, who are making a tour of the state, visiting all lodges, can be here.

Members of the order from Boyne City, East Jordan, Horton Bay and Ellsworth will meet with the local lodge on the day set for the centennial celebration, and it is expected the event will be the greatest ever pulled off in the history of the local lodge. Plans for the celebration are now going forward and will be announced from week to week in the columns of the Courier.

The year of 1919 is a real epoch-making period in the realms of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows—a fraternity that has received the plaudits and challenged the admiration of the civilized world because of its practical beneficence and because of the real bond of brotherhood that is exemplified by its membership. This is the centennial year of Odd Fellowship and throughout the United States and Canada where the great majority of its 18,000 lodges are established celebrations are being held commemorative of the event. The membership does not celebrate because the fact that the Order has existed 100 years so much as they rejoice at the record of its wonderful achievements during that period.

The founder of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows in America was Thomas Wildey, who is spoken of by members of the order as "Father" Wildey. He was born in London, England, in 1782 and followed the trade of a blacksmith. He joined the Odd Fellows in early manhood and was an enthusiastic worker for the fraternity.

In 1817 he was lured to America "the land of the free and home of the brave." He located in Baltimore and worked there at his trade.

He had visions of a world-wide fraternity and through an advertisement in a Baltimore newspaper, got in touch with four other members of the English Order of Odd Fellows and finally on the night of April 26, 1819, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows had its birth in an attic room of the Seven Stars tavern in Baltimore, the charter members being Thomas Wildey, John Welch, Richard Rushworth, John Duncan and John Cheatham. It is said that two were Englishmen, one a Scotchman, one an Irishman and one a Jew. Indicative of their loyalty to the land of their adoption they named the new lodge "Washington Lodge No. 1" and it still exists as the "mother" lodge to the world of Odd Fellows. During the past 100 years the membership of the order has grown from five members in 1819 to 1,700,000 in 1919. Added to the present membership are 550,000 sisters of the Rebekah degree and the grand total is two and a quarter millions.

The first lodge in Michigan was organized in Detroit in December, 1843 being known as the "Michigan Lodge No. 1" but it is still one of the thrifty lodges of the state. Round Lake lodge No. 293 of Charlevoix was organized in 1877 and has a membership of over 200. Twenty-five years ago the membership in Michigan was 25,000, while today it is nearly 75,000. To the present membership should be added the 35,000 sisters of the Rebekah degree, making a total of 110,000 members in the 540 subordinate lodges and the 450 Rebekah lodges scattered throughout Michigan.

The membership of this great fraternal institution honors its glorious past, they rejoice at its prosperous condition and they anticipate a glorious future. Thus they pass the beginning of the new century fired with renewed zeal and with a determination to push on in their great endeavor until misfortune has no wants to relieve and sorrow no tears to dry."

CHARLEVOIX LOSES ANOTHER PIONEER

Well Known Marion Farmer Buried on Saturday Last

Thomas Cunningham, a well known Marion township farmer, died at his home Wednesday afternoon, April 23, 1919, after a lingering illness. He leaves a wife and one son Edward, of Marion township, and a daughter, Mrs. Albert Dennis of Banks, to mourn their loss. Six other children died before him, two in infancy.

Thomas Cunningham was born in Canada, January 1, 1842, and came to Michigan in 1856. He was married to Emily Gregory in 1871 and moved on a homestead in the western part of Marion soon afterwards. About thirty-four years ago he settled on the farm where he died.

He was a straightforward, honest, unassuming man and will be missed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The entire community extend to the bereaved family their heartfelt sympathy.

LOG CABIN OF FRONTIER STYLE

Now Being Constructed on Shores of Pine Lake

Charlevoix the Beautiful, already acknowledged everywhere as the most beautifully located and ideal resort of the north, is also gaining prominence as a city of ideal summer homes. Few resorts of the United States, including those of Florida and southern California, can boast of as many beautifully located and well constructed summer resting places than Charlevoix.

One of the latest additions is that now under construction by George B. Douglas of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, located on the east shore of Oyster Bay, just north of the city. Its size is 20 x 40 feet, built of peeled pine logs, a 12 foot porch running the entire length of the cabin, facing the lake. The rafters are small pine logs in the interior of the cabin as well as on the porch. A massive globe-stone fireplace built opposite the entrance, greatly beautifies the interior and adds to the frontier effect that prevails throughout the entire structure. Large three-panel French windows are placed on both sides and ends of the cabin giving plenty of light to the building.

The work of construction is in charge of James M. Saunders, local contractor, who is deserving of considerable credit for the work he has accomplished.

COUNTY LAGS IN VICTORY DRIVE

ACCORDING TO REPORTS FROM WAR BOARD

But One Township in County Goes Over Top—Shortage Estimated to be Close to 60 Per Cent

Charlevoix county as a whole is lagging in the Victory loan drive. Up to Tuesday night it was estimated by the chairman of the county war board that not over 35 per cent of the county's quota had been disposed of. But one township, Boyne Falls, went over the top the first week of the drive. Present indications are that it will require considerable pressure to dispose of the required amount, the county's quota being $255,450.00, during the time to be consumed in the drive.

Charlevoix district, composed of the city of Charlevoix, and the townships of Charlevoix, Marion, Norwood, Peaine and St. James, were assigned some 70 per cent of the amount of the fourth drive, or in round dollars, $76,950.00. To date the amount subscribed will amount to less than $40,000.

According to a letter received from the treasury department, bureau of publicity, war loan organization liberty loan branch, Chicago district, and state dispatches, Michigan with a quota of $110,925,000 for the Victory Liberty Loan did itself proud by exceeding its quota the first day of the drive. By so doing it made a name for itself of being the first state in the nation to secure its quota.

As Michigan is leading the states in the amount of subscriptions secured relative to its quota, so Detroit is in the van of the big cities of the country. With subscriptions of approximately $80,000,000 and the campaign still going, the Michigan metropolis is setting a final record for the final loan which it is doubtful will be approached by any city of magnitude in the country.

Many of the other big cities and populous counties of the state have also established magnificent records, showing that in the hearts of the people the Victory Liberty Loan is at one and the same time a Victory and a Thanksgiving loan.

With all the splendid work of the big cities and the counties that have already registered their vote of gratitude for the work of the government of the United States, and their appreciation of the noble work of our army and navy there is to be no let up in the campaign until the last day of the campaign.

Leaders of the loan organization for Michigan, not only are not relaxing their efforts for a single moment, but are preparing to go ahead with renewed energy and determination until not only every county in the state has secured the quota assigned to it, but until every township as well is over. The determination is to make the final war loan campaign Michigan's unanimous indorsement of the work of the nation. In spite of big subscriptions which have helped put the state over, the loan is to be popular and it is expected to have the distribution record the best of any loan.

It is the intention of Mr. Fowler to conduct a first class Maxwell service station, and also keep on hand a sufficient supply of parts for both the Maxwell car and truck, besides a full line of automobile accessories.

ENDORSED AT HOME

Such Proof as This Should Convince any Charlevoix Citizen

The public endorsement of a local citizen is the best proof that can be produced. None better, none stronger can be had. When a man comes forward and testifies to his fellow-citizens, addresses his friends and neighbors, you may be sure he is thoroughly convinced or he would not do so. Telling one's experience when it is for the public good is an act of kindness that should be appreciated. The following statement given by a resident of Charlevoix adds one more to the many cases of Home Endorsement which are being published about Doan's Kidney Pills. Read it.

Charles Hebert, 405 May St., says: "My back and kidneys gave out on me, causing me much suffering. My back was so sore and lame I could hardly go about my work. My kidneys were out of order and this caused me a lot of annoyance. Dizzy spells bothered me when specks floated before my eyes, blurring my sight. I was in bad shape before I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills but they soon had me feeling fine. Three boxes of Doan's cured me." Price 60c. at all dealers. But, regardless of the kind of cake, suppose that for one cent you could absolutely insure the quality of that cake, wouldn't that be real economy?

SCHOOL COMMISSIONER'S NOTES

Schools visited during the past week were Milton, Norwood, McGeagh, Burgess, Maple Grove, Hopyard, Bay Shore, Murray.

Libraries in Marion Center, Barnard and Hilton were inspected on Friday through the kindness of the state traveling librarian, who was giving a series of lectures to the county normal classes and expressed to the commissioner a desire to get out in the country to see just what the rural school libraries were like. The trip was arranged and many helpful suggestions were made to the teachers. Knowing local conditions, also, Miss Allen, the librarian, will be able to give much more help to the normal class.

The following wrote on the teachers' examination held in Char-

voix at the court house on the 24-25th: Mrs. Lizzie DeNise, Mrs. Cora Willis, Miss Thelma Spees, Miss Sylvia Jensen, R. Verne Woodworth. Board of Examiners will meet on Saturday, May 3rd, to vote and issue certificates according to law.

In another column of this paper see notice of eighth grade examination.

The following teachers have completed their terms of school for this year: Olive Underhill, Orthella Porter, Georgia Scroggie, Muriel Kerry, Eva Latham, Mary Doyle, Josephine Drakes, Vivian Keller, Eileen Gunsohus. Miss Orthella Porter will complete the term of school left unfinished by Mrs. Leah Peters.

Only one new teacher available according to the outlook from the examination. There are seven in the county normal class. Six have already been offered positions. Of our present teaching force it seems that three are undecided as to their work for next year, four will go to school, six will change their professions entering into clerical or other office work, and fourteen will be married. This reduces our present corps by twenty-seven and we have a class of eight inexperienced girls to replace them. We may estimate our shortage at about twenty teachers. If it were patriotic to teach last year, it will be doubly so the coming year, even more so, because the school directors are doing everything in their power to pay wages that are just and right.

Note the splendid list of supplementary readers in the Burgess school library, purchased this year through active interest of the teacher, Miss R. L. Canniff: Little Kingdom Primer, Children's Classic in Dramatic Form, Riverside Primer, Art Literature Primer, Playtime, Elson's Primer, Free and Treadwell Primer, Oyr'a Primer, Aldine's First

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

The county board of supervisors in session at Bellaire last week, passed a resolution to expend $1,100 in the purchase of poison and ergot to kill grasshoppers and rid this section of these pests that have done a lot of damage to the farmers crops. The board also gave the sheriff an extra $400 per year to help out on the salary of that office, which has been considerably lessened by the "dry" times.—Mancelona Herald.

An arrest was made Monday that will be pleasing news to a lot of people in this village who have been obliged to buy wood. M. E. Dyke, who lives near Cedar river and has made a business of selling stove wood in town for several winters, and been noted for short measure, was arrested and brought before Justice Wallace, for selling a load half a cord short and getting pay for it. He pleaded guilty and was given a fine of $15 and $8.40 costs or 30 days in jail. Dyke put up the cash grumblingly. And he isn't the only offender in this line.—Mancelona Herald.

Wexford county good roads advocates have launched a movement to induce the special session of the legislature which will be called to consider the handling of the $50,000,000 bonding proposition to abandon the encouragement of gravel road building and advocate only concrete construction for trunk lines. Cadillac citizens are preparing petitions to the legislature asking that state rewards on gravel roads be discontinued altogether and that the concrete awards be increased to such an extent that the cost to the counties building highways would be equalized for the two principal types of highways. The good roads campaign in Wexford county has reached such lengths for concrete construction only that the Wexford Good Roads association has presented petitions to the board of supervisors asking that body to demand the resignation of T. E. Stancil, of Boon, chairman of the county roads commission. He has refused to line up with the concrete road advocates. Frank P. Rogers, state highway commissioner, has been invited to Cadillac in the near future to attend a road rally there at which the state movement for concrete construction only will be launched.

Representative W. H. Gowdy's bill increasing the pay of supervisors from $3 to $4 per day while taking assessments has passed both houses and is ready for the governor's signature. The bill also provides that the township clerk as clerk of the board of commissioners of highways and of the township board shall receive $4 per day and the same rate for parts of days, but no township officer shall be entitled to pay for acting in more than one capacity at the same time. The act will not apply in counties of less than 30,000 population except by vote of the township board. Both houses have approved Representative Charles Weissert's bill permitting board of supervisors to appropriate not to exceed $200 per year for the collection and publication of historical data in the county.

Two handsome summer cottages located near the railroad station at Oden were destroyed by fire at about midnight Sunday of last week. The places were owned by John Carpenter, well-known Oden resident. The Petoskey fire department was called and the motor truck sent to the scene but too late. However, the nearby cottages were saved. How the fire started is not known.

"Postmasters will co-operate to the fullest extent with recruiting officers of the army and navy and marine corps." This message was flashed to postmasters throughout the country by the postoffice department to get their aid in the campaign for recruits to fill up the ranks of the army and relieve the men drafted for the emergency. The air service of the war department, having also inaugurated an aggressive recruiting campaign in an endeavor to recruit the air service to its authorized strength, postmasters will be expected to aid this campaign also, it was stated. Postmaster Finucan will start co-operating immediately and any young man interested in the army should see him at the postoffice.

Charles Kelley and son who once lived in Boyne City and who have been working as section hands on the B. C. G. & A. R. R. came to town Wednesday afternoon for their pay envelopes and secured a room in the downtown district. It seems that one of their first acts after finding quarters, was to patronize a local drug store, where two bottles of Beef, Iron and Wine were purchased; these were sampled freely with the result that Mr. Kelley became reckless and insulted a fourteen year old girl on the street, and a married woman in the hallway of the rooming house. The sprinting ability of the girl and the screams of the lady brought them relief from the man's attentions, also started on irate brother and husband in search of the police. Mr. Kelley was arrested at his room about seven o'clock Wednesday evening. He was in possession of a remaining half bottle of the beverage and a poor memory at that time. He was locked up over night and Thursday morning was forced to appear before Prosecuting Attorney Rueggesser and Judge Hammond. He pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and was sentenced to spend thirty days in the county jail. Sheriff Weaver took him to Charlevoix Thursday.—Boysie Citizen.

At the annual meeting of the Petoskey Fishing club last Friday evening, it was voted to move the club lodge from Indian River, where it was placed last fall for the fall fishing, back to the Pigeon river for the early summer weeks. The site is between the Pigeon and Black rivers and is beautifully located for trout fishing. The club decided to enjoy bass fishing as well as trout fishing this year and will move the camp to some good bass lake about the first of July. The old officers were re-elected as follows: President, George W. McCabe; secretary, Samuel Hoover; treasurer, Jesse Herrick.

D. N. Gregory the popular real estate dealer of this city accompanied by F. J. Beals car accountant of the Boyne City, Gaylord & Alpena Railroad left Charlevoix about 8:30 p. m. Wednesday evening for Boyne City. When about twelve miles from home on the north shore road they ran into soft sand and the Ford started for the grass alongside the road. Mr. Gregory endeavored to gain the road a little too quick rolling the car over. The top of the car was considerably damaged and Mr. Beals' face and one eye showing having done heavy work.—Boysie Citizen.

WILL AMERICA GUARD ARMENIA?

PRESIDENT WILSON MAY TAKE ARMENIANS UNDER THE AMER.
ICAN EAGLE'S WING.

MICHIGAN MUST TAKE INTEREST

Turks Deliberately Sought to Wipe Armenians Out of History Forever.

Paris—The American eagle may extend its protecting wing over famine-stricken, centuries persecuted Armenia.

This suggestion, it is known, has been made to President Wilson, and is now under consideration.

If the United States took such action, it would be a fitting climax to the efforts of individual Americans to aid the suffering peoples of the Near East through the work of the American Committee for the Near East.

Michigan has one of the largest Armenian populations of any state in the Union, and therefore will take especial interest in the disposal of the Armenian question by the peace conference.

That something be done at once by the peace conference concerning the Armenians is imperative it is said, because of the desperate condition of these people. It is authoritatively stated that approximately 4,000,000 Armenians have met death through Turkish persecution since the war started, and Turkey seized upon the opportunity afforded her to accomplish the "murder of a nation," as our American Ambassador to Turkey at the time, Henry Morgenthau, terms the Turkish persecutions.

Evidence which cannot be called in question makes it plain that the Turks deliberately set about the task of wiping the Armenians out of history forever. The Armenians had always been a thorn in the side of Turkish government, as is every persecuted people who stand as an ever present reproach to the dominant nation, which, through misgovernment and every kind of oppression seeks to hold them to subjection. The Armenians, too, were the most progressive people in the Ottoman empire, and easily outdistanced the sleepy, shiftless Turk in merchandising, agriculture and every form of activity, so that the Armenians were the wealthiest and the most cultured people in the Sultan's empire.

If one stroke the Armenians could be exterminated, Turks would occupy the Armenian villages and towns and hamlets and the Turkish empire it was argued would gain just so much in unity and in wealth.

It was decided—with the aid of German advisers it is said,—that the best way of exterminating the Turkish nation was to deport these people. The great deportation, as was planned, took the form of a general continuous massacre. The whole idea behind the massacre was to wipe out the entire Armenian race by—killing, on, through starvation, drownings, the sword, rifle and machine gun, and various other ways, all the Armenian men and women able to propagate the race. The old men and women were killed also however, because that was in most cases the easiest way to get rid of them, while the children who were judged young enough to forget their race and religion were placed in Turkish "orphansages," where they were to be brought up as Turks and presumably "slaved" out to Turkish masters.

Hundreds of Armenians were put to horrible tortures, one of the favorite means of making "examples" being the fastening of an Armenian to the floor of his jail, and the dropping of water on a certain point of his body. This torture is one of the most fiendish methods of expressing cruelty. Many of the Armenians subjected to it became insane, before being put to death. Beating the soles of the feet until they swelled and burst, burning with red hot irons, and many other terrible tortures were resorted to by the Turks to express their religious and racial hate for the defenseless people whom Mohammedanism taught them it was an act of virtue to slay.

Now it is proposed to restore Armenia, and Americans have voluntarily, and with the active aid of President Wilson, Governor Sleeper and other leading men, already taken a leading part in the salvation of the Armenians from death through starvation and plague, and the rehabilitation of their towns and villages so that they may get some kind of a start, however unsatisfactory, in earning their own livelihoods and making their future secure. After they have been fostered for some time (ill their strength as a people has been restored) the Armenians will be removed to nationhood—a consummation to their long centuries under the master's whip which they have deeply longed for but which they had not dared to hope.

Now America appears as the rainbow of hope after the storm, and preaches the interest in the future by its charity to these suffering Armenians in the present.

PROCLAMATION

Pursuant to established custom, Tuesday, May 6th, next, is hereby designated as GENERAL CLEAN-UP DAY for the City of Charlevoix. On this day let all citizens unite in a fixed purpose to improve the appearance of our city. Charlevoix has the reputation of being one of the cleanest and best kept cities in Michigan. Let us maintain this good reputation and add to it by giving special attention to our property. Remove every unsightly pile of rubbish. Correct every unsanitary condition about your premises and if any such condition exists in your vicinity, which it is not your duty to correct, promptly notify the Board of Health, or any city official.

On the day named and as soon as may be thereafter, all refuse or rubbish, excepting brush and ashes, will be gathered by the city teams and removed, provided it is put in an accessible place on the side of the street or alley, in boxes or barrels.

This clean-up day is not meant solely for residences but is intended to extend to the owners and occupants of business places wherever situated. It is directed to owners of vacant as well as occupied property and applies to the owners and occupants of property along the water front. In fact, every nook and corner of the city comes under the rule for special attention.

We hope the SIXTH OF MAY will not find a civic slacker in this community.

Yours respectfully,
S. M. ROSE, Mayor.

NINETEEN FAMILIES
PRESENT AT SHOWER

Home of Mrs. Orton VanDusen
Scene of Enjoyable Event

A very pleasant afternoon was spent at the farm home of Mrs. Orton VanDusen of Norwood township on Wednesday of last week, the entire neighborhood turning out, nineteen families being represented at a shower given in honor of Mrs. Marie Jones, formerly Miss Marie Webster. Mrs. Webster was the recipient of many useful presents, given in token of the esteem in which she is held in the community.

After a jolly good time in general, all partook of a pot luck supper, and in departing wished the young bride a long and joyous journey on the sea of matrimony.

HOW EMERGENCY ROD SURGERY MAY HELP THE ANGLER.

It is well to have all your trout rods duplicates, with interchangeable parts. The tip is the most breakable part of the rod.

When the tip you are using is of doubtful integrity it is a good plan to carry an extra tip on your back, where it will be out of your way when you go upon the stream.

By tip is here meant the upper joint of the rod. The small metal tip at the end of the rod is another matter. Always carry two or three of these metal tips in your pocket so that you can easily replace a broken one.

By means of rod surgery you can generally mend a broken rod on the spot. Often the middle joint and not the tip will break.

When this happens apply a lighted match to the metal tip or ferrule that you wish to remove and heat it enough so that the broken piece will come out.

With your knife make a new setting on the broken end and crowd the ferrule or tip securely on.

For the repair you should have with you plenty of matches and a small piece of rod cement. Heat this with a match until it melts a little and smear it on the seat before forcing the ferrule or tip back. This will make the joint waterproof.

It is not often that such mendicacies are of permanent value, although they may serve for a brief period.

A rod so mended has a weak place and will soon come to grief.

For the proper making of these repairs you should also have with you a small pair of pocket pliers and a glue.

These may be very useful in getting the wood out of a ferrule and pliers are the only efficient device for extracting porcupine quills out of a dog's nose.

You can never know when some overzealous dog who may be around camp will need this antiseptic.

In putting a rod together it is a good plan to anoint the ferrules with a little grease. It makes them fit easier and keeps out the water. Mosquito dope will do for this.

If the joints fit too tightly the rod may be strained in taking it apart or putting it together.

TAKING HOT BATHS.

Why Harm May Come Through Bad Hygienic Methods.

"The majority of bathers undoubtedly do themselves more harm than good," said an English physician recently. "First let me tell you how I bathe myself—the ideal way. I have the bath filled, and when all is prepared I step into it straight from bed. Doubtless you put on a dressing gown, perhaps light a cigarette, lounge about your room, then stroll along a drafty corridor and get into the bath already chilled. When there you stay until your skin vessels are thoroughly relaxed by the heat and unable to react. Afterward you are surprised to find yourself chilly and depressed."

"Some men shave first. Let me advise you to do this after the bath, not before, and so avoid chilling. Not every one has his bathroom opening off from the bedroom or even next door, so in many cases it is wiser to take a sponge bath in your sleeping room and to get into the bath while the heat of the bed is still upon you. This should be the rule in all but the very hot months of the year."

If you take a cold plunge bath stay in it only for ten seconds; then do not waste time drying yourself. Get on some clothes within three seconds after the bath. The workiest can take a cold bath with benefit in this way; the strongest will suffer in the ordinary way."

How to Curb Your Obesity and Become a Sylph.

We are all asking for diets and systems of exercises for reducing the weight, but it must be borne in mind that the reduction of weight must invariably be accompanied by a reduction in strength. This means that the woman who systematically enters upon a dietary, bathing and exercise system must give herself over to this entirely, for it will exhaust her strength if it removes the flesh. The woman who does her own housework or the woman who is in business must not undertake bathing, violent physical exercise or golfing and combine with these her regular work. Physique and nerves cannot endure the strain. A breakdown is inevitable.

How to Remove Window Panes Without Smashing Them.

When a pane is to be removed from a window frame apply soft soap to the putty, which, however, hard, will be gone soft in a few hours. Then the putty may be scraped away with the blade of a knife and the glass removed without fear of breaking.

The stereopticon lecture, "The Challenge of Africa," at the Methodist Episcopal church, last Sunday night brought out a congregation that filled the auditorium. Both lecture and pictures were very much enjoyed. Next Sunday the subject of the stereopticon lecture will be China. World conditions of today make these lectures very interesting and educational. Admission free and everybody welcome.

Sunday morning the sermon subject will be "How Can We Know God." Sunday school and men's class at high noon. Epworth League devotional service at 6:30. Sunday school and preaching service at Barnard in the afternoon. All who ordered new hymnals are requested to secure them from Olaf Nordrum next Sunday. The material for the new financial system has arrived and it is expected that everything will be in readiness for the adoption of the new system by next Sabbath.

Seashells Instead of Glass.

One curious thing noted by Americans in the Philippines was the use by natives of seashells in lieu of window glass. There is a lively mollusk native to the waters of that part of the world, which has a shell seven or eight inches in diameter, so thin as to be transparent. It is plentiful and costs nothing. Glass is expensive.

In his recent speech before the house of commons, Premier Lloyd George declared that while the bolshevik armed force was apparently growing stronger, "Bolshevism itself was gradually waning and breaking down before the relentless force of economic facts."

Here in the kernel of the whole matter, seen and recognized by nearly every intelligent and unbiased investigator who has gone to the trouble of finding out the facts about bolshevism. It is primarily an economic system and it is inevitably bound to fall because its economics are absurd.

The bolsheviks have undertaken to operate a nation's industries without capital, and without the managerial ability trained under the old system. Without capital or management, how can industry succeed?

Lenine and Trotsky have tried to make things go by pouring into industry public funds obtained by confiscation or consisting of flat money. That cannot last forever. Figures compiled from official bolshevik publications show that in every important instance the industries are operating at a loss. Production has fallen off enormously. In many cases the total output of factories is worth less than the money given by the government to keep them running.

The workmen, in whose behalf the bolshevik regime is supposed to be operating, seem to sense the absurdity of it, so that in Petrograd, Moscow and other industrial centers they have been deserting the factories by wholesale, going into the army, where the pay is higher, or into the country to stake out land claims. If workers cannot be held to their work, and if factories cannot make a profit even on the books, what hope is there of success?

Bolshevism turns economics upside down and inside out. It destroys itself. Lenine has admitted that he foresaw no benefit to the working classes from bolshevism for several generations, that it would bring Europe to ruin. All this infatuated leader seems to expect is that out of the wreckage will come a better era for the common people "some generations hence."

The common people will not be content, in Russia or elsewhere, to wait "some generations" for their economic and political salvation. They want dependable employment, decent living conditions, freedom and opportunity for growth and personal acquisition right here and now.

So Lloyd George is right. It is not necessary to fight bolshevism by force of arms. Let bolshevism stew in its own juice for a while longer. The more bolshevistic it is, the sooner it is destined to self-extinction.

The Lenine-Trotsky regime has only one chance of survival, and that

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIRUse the "Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody
Will know."

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhance its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

is by renouncing bolshevism in favor of some workable system, or slowly modifying it so that, under whatever name, it will be unrecognizable by the genuine bolshevist.

THE HOME MERCHANT

The home merchant. Who is he?
He is the chap who gives you credit it when you are financially broke, and carries your account until you are able to pay.

He is the chap who gives you back your money or makes exchanges when you are not satisfied with what you have bought.

He is the chap who meets you at the door with a handshake, and lets you out with a message to the "kids" and a real "come again" goodbye.

He is the chap whose clerks and bookkeepers and other employees live in Charlevoix and spend their money with you and with other Charlevoix people.

He is the chap who helps support Charlevoix churches and charitable organizations and talks for Charlevoix and boosts for it every day in the year.

He is the chap who visits you when you are sick, sends flowers to your family when you die, and follows your body out among the trees and tombs, as far as human feet may travel with the dead.

Don't you think you ought to trade with him, and be his friend and his helper in the time of his need?

Don't you know that every dollar you send out of Charlevoix for merchandise is sent to strangers—to men who would not trust you for a box of matches; to men who would turn you over to the police if you should enter their offices?

You don't save much, frequently nothing, when you send your money out of town and you take all of the risk yourself of short weight or measure and of getting damaged or inferior goods. And don't you know that the growth and prosperity of Charlevoix depends very largely upon the success and prosperity of the home merchant? Out-of-town people judge our city by the appearance of our stores and the degree of enterprise shown by our merchants. And our home merchants cannot succeed unless homefolks give them loyal support.

FROM A TO Z

The first name on the alphabetical list of the American expeditionary force is Private Annae and the last is Corporal Zeppenfeldt. Between the two names are more than 2,000,000 others.

George Washington, Abraham Lincoln,
General Ulysses S. Grant, Robert E. Lee, Woodrow Wilson, several Caesars and a few Bismarcks adorn the ranks with intermittent frequency.

Excluding the commander-in-chief of the army and navy, there is but one Woodrow Wilson. He is a private and according to Stars and Stripes has just been placed in the working personnel of Base Hospital
No. 27, which was organized in Pittsburg.

There is an abundance of names of great men including 75 George Washingtons. The name of the first president is surpassed by 76 Robert E. Lees, who holds the record for hearers of the name of great men.
There are but two Abraham Lincolns and seven Grants; twelve Caesars and four Bismarcks.

Among the "common people" there are about 51,000 Smiths. True to their traditional predominance of the directories of most cities, they dominate the American expeditionary force in numbers. There are 39,000 Joneses and a like number of Greens, Sullivans aggregate 10,500,
Browns 9,000 and Cohens, 4,500.

If the Boyne City Silo is made in Charlevoix county, it must be a good one. Better investigate, Mr.
Farmer, before you buy.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Get less ment if you feel Backache or have Bladder trouble—Salts fine for Kidneys.

Most forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels, removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithiawater drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Saya glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast
washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this fastidious bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.

"They shall not perish"

President Wilson has asked all Americans to rally generously to the support of the Committee for Relief in the Near East. The need is urgent. Four million refugee women and children, the victims of Turkish lust and brutality, are starving and dying.

There is only one possible source of help—America. The other nations of the world can scarce bind up their own wounds. Upon what we do—you and I depend the lives of these millions of helpless women and children. They must not perish—they shall not perish.

The Government has asked the Committee for Relief in the Near East to undertake the rescue work among these victims of Turkish oppression. During the past year the Committee has cared for over 900,000 refugees who otherwise would have perished.

There are now 4,000,000 dependent upon the Committee for relief. Of this number 400,000 are children, many of them little more than babies, whose parents have died of privation or been murdered by the Turk.

To carry on this work a minimum of $30,000,000 is needed immediately.

Where Your Money Goes.

Give! Every penny of every dollar you give goes to relieve the suffering of some starving refugee. None of it is used for administrative expenses either here or abroad. These, even to the cost of mailing the money—are met privately from funds especially solicited for the purpose. During the past year the Committee has spent in actual relief work $50,000 more than it has received in contributions, the difference representing the interest on daily balances.

The money is cabled to the field through the American State Department, and is administered there by United States Consuls, American educators, doctors, and other responsible agents already on the ground and thoroughly familiar with the needs. No direct money aid is given.

What Your Money Buys.

The funds are used for the purchase of food, clothes, and other supplies absolutely essential if America is to save these stricken Eastern peoples. $30,000,000 will feed and clothe for six months three million refugees, all in desperate need, and all entirely dependent upon American aid for the bare necessities of life. In addition, it will restore to their bodies the nearly two million of these refugees now in exile in Egypt, the Caucasus, Persia and the remote districts of Turkish Empire.

It will buy seed, farm implements, cattle and sheep to enable them to become again an industrious, self-supporting people. If this program is carried through, the present sufferers will within a year need little or no further help from outside.

Seventeen cents a day, $5.00 a month, $60.00 a year will keep one of these unfortunates alive. Can you save less than one life?

Make your contributions payable to American Committee for Relief in the Near East. (Formerly American Committee Armenian-Syrian Relief.) James I. Horton, chairman; Chas. R. Crane, Wm. H. Taft, Chas. E. Hughes, Henry Morgenthau, Samuel T. Dutton.

Every dollar subscribed goes to the Relief Work

All expenses are privately met
All funds are cabled through the Department of State
All funds are distributed through U. S. Consuls or American Agencies
Our Government is prevented from giving aid
The Red Cross is not organized for Relief Work in these sections

I, therefore, again call upon the people of the United States to make even more generous contributions than they have made heretofore . . . to help re-establish these ancient and sorely oppressed people in their former homes on a self-supporting basis.

"What's the Matter With Michigan?" Asks Spillane, of American Committee

Detroit, Mich.—With such far less prosperous states as Arizona and Virginia over-subscribing their quotas of the American Committee for Relief in the Far East Fund by from seven to 63 per cent, Michigan, with only 83 per cent of its quota paid in, is among a few laggard states which have not yet gone over the top, according to a statement made by James J. Spillane, state chairman of the organization.

"What's the matter with Michigan?" asks Mr. Spillane, and answers his question as follows:

"The matter with Michigan is that a few county war hoards which have been doing heroic service for many weary months are either disbanded, or did not make allowance for the American Committee when their campaign for funds was on.

"These boards, being unwilling, or unable, to do anything for the American Committee to their respective counties, it devolves upon the American Committee to go into these counties and, working through some such organization as the local Rotary Club, or other live body of men, put over its own separate campaign.

"Now, the most pleasant fact about the whole business is that the quota of the individual county is very small in proportion to that county's wealth.

"The quotas of some counties which have not gone over the top by the way, is only $60. In counties like Berry, Coss, Branch and Allegan, the quota is of course larger, but still very small in proportion to that county's wealth. In rich Oakland county, for instance, the quota is a little over $13,000; in Washtenaw, not quite $10,000. In Monroe, about $8,000, and so on. Wayne, with its quota of $200,000, has given it without a hitch, and gladly. Every county pays its equal share, proportioned on that county's wealth.

"When the campaign started, I—a Michigander with a Michigan man's pride in his state—thought that we would certainly over-subscribe our quota. I was so familiar with the sufferings of the Armenians and so earnest myself that their sufferings

British "Tommy's" to Act as Big Brothers

Bagdad—British tommyes and American civilians co-operating in the care of little Armenian orphans in a good augury of the new internationalism that is being born. The American Committee for Relief in the Near East, states that from the very start of the Marshall's Bridge Refugee Camp work, the British military cord for the most pressing wants of these people. Since the military had undertaken such care, and for reasons more than purely humanitarian the American committee felt it unwise to expend much money there, and have limited activities to organization of simple industrial work, the largest industry of which has afforded a financial return which to some extent reimbursed our wage payments.

In a splendid way a military machine has been devoted to the provisioning, tenting, and medical care for over forty thousand destitute Armenians and Assyrians. The attitude of many officers and "Tommyes" is splendid.

"There is, for instance, an orphanage which have been gathered over seven hundred 'kiddies' of Armenian and Assyrian stock, uncared for, and unclaimed, by anyone. Lieutenant Hopkins' men have never had a stranger task, as soldiers. They go to fight; they end their Mesopotamian career in caring for homeless little girls and boys, and in teaching the manual of arms (with staves) to a group of romping youngsters.

"O, we'll take care of the kids all right," one corporal remarked. "They say us 'ow beauty is only skin deep, so I'll take back to Blighty the ugliest one of the lot."

There is a big brother movement growing up within the limits of the area devoted to the orphanage work.

There have been many smaller children, recently in a hospital, and too weak to stand the rigors of the cold weather in the tents. These, and the more puny ones from the orphanage have been transferred to the orphanage houses (in number, three) maintained by the Committee in Bagdad. In all, about fifty have come, and their care under the charge of matrons sent by the Camps has been arranged for.

People Starving to Death

Aden—"Going into Persia last June I saw many evidences of the severe famine of the winter of 1917-18," says Addison Southard, American consul here. "On the first day across the frontier, at Kesh-Shirin, our convoy of military motor trucks stopped for the noon rest. I sat upon a truck to have my lunch which consisted mainly of a tin of baked beans. I opened the tin and skimming off a spoonful of beans from the top, because they looked unfit to eat, threw them into the thick dust of the sandy road."

"I had not noticed the ravenous, looking villagers who had gathered around in the meantime; but when I threw the spoonful of beans into the dust there was a sudden rush as a dozen men and women, so weak that they could scarcely stand alone, threw themselves into the road in a wild scramble to get the bits of food which I had just thrown away. Each grabbed a handful of the sandy dust which might contain a bean, and consumed it in to his or her mouth."

"Public Opinion"

In awakening public appreciation to the economical value of the automobile in general, the 600,000 Overlands now in use have played an important part. Model 90 is a car of such attractive appearance and sterling performance that owners everywhere praise its economy and practical value. It has power in abundance and luxurious comfort that make staunch friends. Public approval thus won and expressed is your safe guide in selecting a car. Now is the time for a Model 90.

THAT INSURANCE PREMIUM SURCHARGE

Some time ago, State Insurance Commissioner Ellsworth ordered the fire insurance companies to cease collecting the 10 per cent war-time surcharge on policies, which in Michigan has amounted to about $1,100,000 a year. The companies have objected to the order and their representatives are to have a hearing at the end of this week.

Meantime it may be interesting to the public to learn that in 1918 the proportion of insurance company losses to the amounts they received in premiums was about 52 per cent, and that according to estimates, the companies can stand a 60 per cent loss and still make expenses and a fair profit. Another feature of the situation is the rumor that many fire insurance agents in Michigan are for the reduction made by the commissioner because they believe the 10 per cent surcharge is bad for business and if continued, will in the end hurt them more than it will help the companies.

So far Mr. Ellsworth has taken a commendable position as guardian of the public interest. The policyholders of Michigan owe him their heartfelt gratitude.

LATE SPRING WHEAT REPORTED A GAMBLE

Barley and Oats Better Crops for Late Seeding

Many farmers of the state are faced with serious planting problems because of the fact that frequent rains have kept them from seeding spring grains at an early date, according to Prof. J. F. Cox of the M. A. C. farm crops department. Oats and barley may still be planted in proper season, but large acreages of grain are certain to be planted late.

"Those who plant spring wheat in late April or after the first of May do so at a great risk," declares Professor Cox. Only wheat planting made at an early date and on ground which retains moisture are certain to give successful crops. Either barley or oats may be counted on to give comparatively better yields when planted after the first of May. Barley is a better crop than oats for seeding during the latter part of the planting season (say about May 12) because it does not suffer as greatly as oats from the hot, dry spells which occur in early summer. Both crops do best when planted fairly early in the spring, although barley is a little more susceptible to frost.

At this late date, disking will in most cases prove a better method of preparing the ground than plowing. Both oats and barley start off best on a firm seed bed. Because late planted crops do not stool out as rapidly as earlier ones, it is a good practice to seed at least half a bushel more per acre of either oats or barley when planting late. Acid phosphate and fertilizers high in phosphate are also strongly recommended, both to increase yield and to hasten maturity.

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOME

House Total Loss But Part of Contents Were Saved

Fire completely destroyed the house and a part of the contents belonging to Frank Kass, a farmer living on the Central Lake road about two and one-half miles south of Ellsworth.

The fire was discovered in the roof when the men were coming to the house for dinner but with the high wind there was no chance to save the house and only hard work by neighbors prevented the barn from going up also. Neighbors gathered at the first alarm and by hard work managed to save most of the furniture on the first floor but everything upstairs was lost as was the vegetable and canned fruit in the basement. An insurance of one thousand dollars was carried on the building which will no more than half cover the loss.

NUN TORTURED 4 YEARS BY FOE

MARQUETTE GIRL TAKEN PRISONER EARLY IN WAR

Compelled to Nurse Hun Brutals—Patient Twists Arm Until It Breaks

Four years of torture at the hands of her German captors, including the twisting of one arm until it broke and the cutting off of the other at the elbow by a German patient she had nursed back to health, was the experience of Marie Rousseau, a Marquette girl serving as a nun in a French convent in Belgium at the outbreak of the war.

Broken in health and spirit, given up by her family as dead, Sister Marie is now in an army hospital at Rouen, France. Her experiences have just been revealed in a letter to her brother, Henry Rousseau, an Olivet college junior.

She was taken prisoner during the second week of the war while teaching in a convent in Trois-Pistoles, Belgium. The 200 girls in the convent were deported in box cars after each was mutilated through the cutting off of an ear, hand, or severing a nerve near the eye.

The sixteen nuns in the convent were forced to nurse wounded Germans in that locality two weeks, then taken to a German hospital near the Belgian border, where for four years they were compelled to nurse German soldiers. They prepared food which consisted of boiling grass and the bark of trees; they worked in gardens and made bandages from their clothing. Most of this time no doctors were in attendance.

The cruelty of their captors surpassed belief. A nun who tried to hide two eggs from the officers in order to feed herself, was killed and her body burned. The wounded whose lives were being saved by the nurses never showed a sign of appreciation of friendliness. And as the war slowly drew to a close, the barbaric tendencies of the Germans at the hospital increased.

When the armistice was signed the four nuns still living were given their freedom. Miss Rousseau will never forget the soldier who wished to "thank her for taking care of him." He seized her right hand, twisting her arm until it broke. Then her left arm was cut off at the elbow.

With 35 cents in German money, now in possession of her brother, she left the hospital and made her way back to the village she had left. Only the houses which had belonged to German families remained.

The end of the march was the hospital at Rouen, where Miss Rousseau is slowly recovering from her terrible experience which undermined her strength, mentally and physically.

She confirms reports of German brutalities, first accounts of which were seriously questioned even by the allies. She tells of old women and children nailed to trees and of German women tied to guns and compelled to fight. One nun who accompanied Miss Rousseau from the German hospital was a German woman, who as portress at the convent in Belgium, refused to admit the soldiers, was treated with no more consideration than the French sisters.

Miss Rousseau hopes to return to her home in Marquette in the summer. Her family, who had learned of her capture through a card sent by a German officer, written early in the war, had given up all hopes of ever seeing her again until letters arrived.

TERMS CASH

PAY THE BILL; FINISH THE JOB

ALL SHOULD BE WILLING TO DO THEIR DUTY

Do You Value Your Citizenship?
Then Buy a Bond and be Thankful for Liberty

This is our government. We elect the men who make the laws. Therefore, we are responsible. Our citizenship has its obligations no less than its opportunities.

Not only was it necessary for each one of us to bend every energy to win the war it is now the duty of each one of us to finish the job and pay the bill.

There are only two ways to pay it. One is in taxes, the other by purchasing Victory Liberty bonds. In the latter case, we get a short term interest bearing bond of our government with all the property in this country your property and my property behind it. No other bond is as good, no other bond is as safe, and it is our duty to buy them.

We are careful to protect our credit by meeting our obligations at the bank. Are we fully as careful to protect our credit as citizens? Today that credit is at stake. If we do not keep faith, if we do not back up our government, if we do not pay the cost of the peace which came sooner than anybody expected, then we are slackers and have no right to enjoy the blessings of this great, free country.

Now, what is a Victory bond? It is more than the promise of the United States government to pay a certain fixed sum of money and a certain fixed rate of interest at a certain definite time. It is our pledge to civilization, to Christianity, that we shall meet our great responsibility growing out of the world war. It represents honor, truth, freedom, justice, equality under the law and the pursuit of happiness. And it represents these just as truly as those brave boys of ours, those human liberty bonds who went across the sea to fight for these priceless things.

*Some months ago we picked up a Louisville newspaper and read an account of the death in France of a young soldier from wounds received in battle. A reporter asked that boy's father if he cared to make a statement about his son's death, and the father replied: "I have nothing to say, except that my son died doing his duty."

"My son died doing his duty"—an epitaph of the soul.

Are you willing to do your duty? Are you worth fighting for? Do you value your citizenship? Then finish the job, pay the bill, and be truly thankful for liberty and for peace.

NEW SALES AGENT FOR SILO PLANT

Boysie City Concern Engages Services of E. S. Stacks

The Boysie Citizen in a recent issue, prints the following news item which will interest many of our readers in this section of the county:

"The Boysie City Silo Company has secured the services of Mr. E. S. Stacks of Boysie Falls, to act as general sales agent. He will have full charge of the sales department, will cover all territory that gives promise of profitable workings, and is authorized to appoint local or sub agents. Mr. Stacks has previously demonstrated his ability as a salesman, and, with his intimate knowledge of farm matters, his wide acquaintance with farmers throughout the northern half of the lower peninsula, and his reputation for handling only such things as are all right, can hardly fail to make a success of selling the silos made by the local plant. The new general salesman began his duties only last week, but, before the end of the week he turned in a contract and a goodly check, closing the deal on a silo. The officials of the company, and such stockholders as know Mr. Stacks and know of his appointment, are smiling."

We believe the Silo company have made a wise selection. If any man can sell their wares, Mr. Stacks can, and we predict a successful season for the concern under his management.

COMMUNICATIONS

We have received the following communication from William J. Gray of Detroit, relative to the Armstrong-Rachow matter, and we print it as requested. We are not inclined to make this newspaper a medium for trying out differences between individuals which are more properly determined in the courts, but if we have at any time misstated any fact concerning any matter, we are probably bound to recognize any offered correction. If our news item referred to or the communication of Mr. Gray does not correctly state or interpret the opinion of the supreme court, all we can say is that the opinion undoubtedly will show for itself.

Detroit, Michigan,
April 21, 1919.
Editor,
The Charlevoix Courier, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Dear Sir:

In your issue of April 16th you published the following item in relation to the Armstrong vs. Rachow lawsuit:

"The Armstrong-Rachow case was reversed in the supreme court on one point only, that the stock was not proved worthless on date of sale, or of what worth. All the other points were admitted as of fraudulent intentions, misrepresentations of reports. The case will be tried over."

I have read the record and the opinion of the supreme court and your article, I think, carries a misleading implication. What the supreme court really decided was this, that the statements of value which plaintiff claims the defendant made upon the sale of the stock were more than the mere expression of opinion, that they amounted to statements of fact—actionable if untrue—but the only competent testimony of value offered by the plaintiff showed the stock to be worth $4.04 per share (being $1.04 more per share than plaintiff paid), hence the trial judge should have directed a verdict for the defendant.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM J. GRAY,

Vice President First and Old Detroit National Bank.

WAR EXHIBIT TRAIN

HERE FRIDAY P. M.

May Stimulate Interest in Victory

Loan Drive

The "Trophy Train" consisting of three flat cars and one baggage car, all of which are loaded with trophies of the war, most of them being captured German ordnance and other death dealing devices, will be in Charlevoix on Friday of this week, at 6:30 p. m., remaining over night.

There will be about twenty soldiers and sailors in charge of the train and these men will remain here over night. It is expected that hundreds of people of this section will view the exhibits, and thus may derive some idea of the terrible death-dealing war implements our boys were compelled to face on the battle fronts "over there."

It is also hoped that more interest will be shown in the Victory loan drive, and that the county's quota will be raised to the last dollar.

RECEIVED ORDERS YEAR AGO WEDNESDAY

April 23 Marks Beginning of History
Made by 32nd Division

A week ago today, April 23rd, marks the first anniversary of the military orders in France which sent the 32nd division from behind the lines into the front line trenches.

It marks the beginning of the history which the Wisconsin and Michigan boys made for themselves, of which few divisions of Americans or allied fighting men equalled and none excelled.

Just a year ago the division moved into its place in the front lines in Alsace, and were the first American troops on German soil. The division planted the first American flag in Germany.

Following service in Alsace, the division was thrown into the major offensives at Chaumont-Thiery, and chased the Boche from the Oureq to the Vesle. Then it went into battle on the Soissons front and stormed Juvigny Plateau, later went into the Argonne scrap and was in the final drive crossing the Meuse on Nov. 1.

The division fought on five fronts, met twenty of the crack Prussian Guards, and never yielded a yard of ground to the enemy's counterattacks.

Tonight there lie in graves in France many Charlevoix county heroes. They trained, fought and died so that American ideals and love of democracy might prevail in the whole world.

Today Uncle Sam is calling for the American people to invest their savings in the Victory Liberty loan. Money is no comparison to the blood offered at the altar of liberty.

Today there is many a mother whose heart is aching for the death of her son!

Money is merely a medium of exchange.

Does Charlevoix county wish to preserve the spirit in which her heroes died, by exchanging its money for Liberty bonds?

Let us not forget the debt we owe the memory of the heroes who died for us.

GOOD ROAD DEVELOPMENT.

It is Important That Methods of Permanent Construction Be Followed.

It is estimated that the concrete roads cost $15,000 a mile and involve $50 a mile upkeep. Combined statistics of the road experience of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey and New York for eight years show an average cost a mile of $800 a year for upkeep for roads built of material other than concrete.

The difference in upkeep, $538, if capitalized at 5 per cent, gives a principal sum of $11,160 as the differential capital advantage for the saving in upkeep. Should the movement to construct permanent roads gain headway a vast volume of road bonds would come on the market, and on account of the great agricultural savings effected by good roads over and above the saving in upkeep such securities should form an excellent class of investment, provided the funds are properly expended. It is important only that methods of permanent construction shall be followed.

Vermilion county, Ill., has recently accepted bids for 141 miles of concrete highway to cost upward of $1,500,000. Spread over twenty years and over the acres benefited and on the basis of $3002 value of land an acre, the total cost to the farmer is estimated at 83 cents an acre a year, which is a negligible figure. Cayuga county, O., has about 1,000 miles of such roadway.

To attempt to express a transition to permanent roads into pounds of cement to be used and into cubic yards of trap rock to be crushed, considering the vast mileage which could be advantageously constructed from the economic standpoint of money, actually saved, would require figures, or, rather, methods of expressing figures such as astronomers use in measuring the

Special Bargains in Paint

The Devoe & Reynolds Co., makers of the famous "Devoe" lead and zinc paints, inform us that they have cut out the manufacture of certain colors of their paint which we have been carrying in stock, substituting others which they consider more pleasing colors. This leaves us with about fifteen colors which we cannot match and on which we must sacrifice the price in order to close out at once. Most of these colors we have enough to paint from one to three ordinary houses.

The Devoe Paints have been known many years as being one of but very few strictly pure paints manufactured. They contain only the ingredients which any good painter would buy, were he to mix his own paint from lead, zinc, oil, turpentine and coloring pigments. A paint standing the highest chemical analysis by the North Dakota Agricultural College—to say more of their purity is unnecessary.

These paints we are offering at a price for which you will not be able to buy a pure paint again for some time, possibly several years.

TO LINK NATIONAL PARKS.

Aims of National Park to Park Highway Association Approved.

Stephen T. Mather, assistant to the secretary of the interior, is a strong supporter of the plans of the National Park to Park Highway association. In regard to the route chosen and what it will accomplish he says:

"Every transcontinental highway merges into the park to park highway, and all become feeders to this the most scenic road in the world. The route turns the Yellowstone, with its strange phenomena, goes through Montana to Glacier park, with its rich foliage, beautiful flowers and immense glaciers; thence on to the west coast with various points of interest on route, down to Yosemite, with its ancient trees, some of them thirty feet in diameter, on to Los Angeles and into Arizona, to take in the Grand canyon of the Colorado. The Mesa Verde, an ancient home of the cliff dwellers, a new national park, is a point of interest, and from there Colorado is traversed, taking in the road to the top of Pike's peak, the Garden of the Gods, Rocky Mountain National and Estes parks.

"To the Americans and to the European in years to come this road will be of compelling interest, and its attractiveness will bring thousands to spend their summers along the backbone of the Rockies and down the Pacific slope.

"This highway of 3,500 to 4,000 miles cannot all be built at once, but by organization and concentration of effort upon it within five years it may become a standard width road."

New Scenic Highway.

Commercial organizations of Wyoming are working for the construction of a scenic road between Laramie and Cheyenne. The idea is being taken up enthusiastically among a number of organizations and arrangements are already under way for preliminary surveys.

Hog Worm Remedy.

A good remedy for preventing worms in hogs is three pounds graham salt, three pounds common salt, four pounds charcoal, one pound sulphur, three pounds copperas and three pounds sodium bicarbonate. Mix and keep in a self feeder or trough in a dry place where the hogs can have access to it at all times. Hogs that are practically free from worms are much harder than hogs that are badly infested with worms. In fact, hogs that are more resistant to other diseases coming to the hog. So hogs should be kept free from worms if they are to be most profitable.

PURPOSE IS A WORTHY ONE

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING IS, BADLY NEEDED

"Education First" One of First Steps in Reconstruction Work—Good Work Started

Signs of the times? A dance at the D'Ooge barn on Wednesday, May 14th, a social at Deer Lake on Friday, May 1st, and other socials of recent date at Tainter, Pine River, Marion Center and so many plans everywhere, and the fact that every one of these good time events was for a serious purpose, and furthermore, that every event was for the same purpose.

People are so used to turning their good times to serious thought, and so used to DOING with common aim in view, that they still demand a purpose and rejoice when that purpose is an immediate and worthy one. The public was happy to learn that as one of the first steps in reconstruction and that as one of the first and foremost of the many needed improvements on the fair grounds, the executive committee decided "education first." The biggest lesson that has been taught us is that there are bigger lessons in the future. These can be solved only by correct educational guidance. This can not be accomplished without an assembly and community hall and without a model school room near at hand.

With long and suffering patience the schools have displayed their work under crowded and unfavorable conditions. Only two out of three city schools could be well accommodated and there was practically no room left for the rural schools' wall display. There has been no space for athletic drills, for indoor games, and when the junior orators contested last fall, they had to stand in the gangway and run competition with the merry-go-round. Only a few of the many who wished to hear Patterson could crowd into the hallway, and then there was standing room only. There has been no space for a rest room, to say nothing about providing the chairs.

In the state fair grounds there was erected last year a model school room to serve as a demonstration center for club work, a meeting place for boy scout activities, and for oratorical contests, not needing the larger assembly hall. It has answered in one moment what several hooks might tell about construction, form and equipment, and tells at the moment "why." No school building is complete without a community especially on the fair grounds. Social life is never complete where the community is ignored and space must be given for the get-together element of the patrons of the fair. Is the building to equal the state fair educational hall, and is it to surpass all other county fair buildings? If Charlevoix county is to maintain her record, this should be the case.

Well, contractor Henry Clark estimates the cost at $1900, with an additional $300 for equipment. But the spirit is just right. The county fair association started the fund off with $500 (that you already know) and every one of the committee agreed to assume the chairmanship for gaining contributions from his territory. That means that E. B. Ward and Frank Bird are the chairmen for Charlevoix and vicinity;

INSECTS READY FOR SPRING DRIVE

May is the month when insects wake up and get ready to attack your trees, says a bulletin from the American Forestry Association. Here is some tree advice from the association for May:

Plant evergreens during the first part of May. Spray for all varieties of insects, those that chew, suck and bore. Spray for fungous disease. Commence cultivating and watering trees and shrubs. Complete the removal of trees hopelessly infested with boring insects such as the Hickory Bark Beetle, the two-lined Chestnut borer. Examine trees to see that they are free from eggs of the Tussock moth, Gypsy moth, etc., and from cocoons such as those of the Brown-tail moth and the Bag-worm.

that Horace Hipp and D. L. Wilson are Chairmen for East Jordan and vicinity; and that Frank Wangeman and Terry Barber are chairmen for Boyne City and vicinity. Mr. Ward agreed also to take the matter up with the different granges of the county for he was sure that they would wish to help. The committee appointed Miss Stewart to take the situation to the schools of the county and get all possible aid from both city and rural schools. Mr. Henry Clark was also made a member of the committee and to begin with he agreed to accept the contract for the building free of cost to the association, putting it up by day labor only so that all improvements may be made as far as the money raised will go. Mr. R. F. Sloan spoke for the Loeb estate when he said "Now you are saying something that interests us." How would you like to have us buy steel seats for the building just like we shall have in our new model school? and then "we'll help you on the building too, a hundred dollars." And everybody is getting in the game as the reader notes in the dances, the socials and the jolly good will of all who back the schools and the county fair.

WHOLE STATE FOR GOOD ROADS

EVERY COUNTY IN STATE VOTED FOR BONDS

Dry Won by About 207,000 Majority In Fight to Keep Michigan Dry

Michigan repudiated the beer and light wine amendment to the constitution at the recent election by a majority which will exceed 207,000 when the total vote is compiled by the state canvassing board. With two small counties missing the majority against the amendment, according to official returns made to the state department is 206,939. The vote for the amendment was 322,119 yes and 529,055 against. More than 850,000 votes were cast on the beer and wine amendment, while the combined vote for the leading republican and democratic candidates for justice of the supreme court was 723,760, indicating that more than 125,000 voters marked the beer and wine ballot and paid no attention to the remainder of the ticket. Three counties in the state returned majorities in favor of the beer and wine amendment. In the November election in 1916 Michigan adopted the prohibition amendment by approximately 60,000 majority.

The amendment to the constitution authorizing a state bond issue of $50,000,000 for the construction of good roads, was endorsed in every county in Michigan. Early reports indicated that the amendment had been defeated in Grand Traverse and Eaton counties, but the official canvass showed a majority in both places. With Lake and Isosco unreported, the vote on the road amendment stands 557,230 for and 224,994 against, a majority of 332,236.

WHY LOSE THE PICKLE STATION

One of Best Cash Crops That Can be Grown

Will it be good business for Charlevoix farmers to lose the local pickling station because of the fact that not enough cucumbers are grown to make the proposition even pay expenses, not taking into consideration at all returns from the investment.

But such is the truth concerning the matter, and the 1919 season may be the last year it will be operated. That there is money in cucumbers is again demonstrated by the net returns. John Doctor, a farmer living near the county line, south of Charlevoix, says that his net proceeds from one and one-half acres of cucumbers was $360.00. He also stated that he can produce this much every year he plants. If he can get such returns as this, why is it not possible for other farmers to do the same thing, or close to it.

But the fact remains that if more acreage is not taken this season, the station will be moved.

FOX, THE TIRE MAN, INCREASES OUTPUT OF PLANT

Repair of Auto Tires Conducted Along Scientific Lines—Invites Public to Visit His Plant

The industrial development of Charlevoix should be one of the foremost thoughts of every business man, and every private citizen living within the limits of our beautiful little city.

The industry, however large or small, if it be one that will make or save money for the people of our community, should be given our attention and support. Bearing directly upon this, we wish to call to your mind the industry of auto tire repairing, which was started a year ago by H. R. Fox, in a little shop in the rear of his residence at 303 Antrim street, which is being successfully conducted by him on a scientific basis.

The art of tire repairing is growing in popularity throughout the country in equal strides with the enormous increased demands for automobile tires each year, and the motorist will take advantage of the opportunity to have his tires repaired at the proper time and in the proper way. There are tremendous possibilities in store for him to save enormous sums of money by cutting down the expense of tire mileage, and this can be easily and as surely done by having your old tires repaired properly, thereby in most cases, doubling the mileage that the average motorist has hitherto been getting from his tires.

Mr. Fox has spent much time in experimental and research work during the past six years in tire repairing, and before going into business to serve the public and to more thoroughly fit himself for this work, he decided to go to the very root of the business and dig out any hidden mysteries that might be yet unknown to him. So he sought admittance to the home of three of the great tire makers, namely: the Goodyear, the B. F. Goodrich and the Kelly-Springfield, all of Akron, Ohio. In the first place he took the regular course of instruction at the Goodyear school for repairmen, then going to the B. F. Goodrich plant, he took a similar course, including the repair of Silvertown Cord tires. Then upon completion of these two courses of instruction work in the repair of all types of tires, he was still not satisfied and decided that in order to thoroughly and effectually perform the work of repairing tires, he should learn the principles, methods and process of the manufacture of new tires. So he then gained admittance to the Kelly-Springfield factory, as an apprentice tire builder, in which place he spent several months under the most competent instructors, and before leaving this factory was thoroughly schooled in the construction and manufacture of high class tires. So it is not as a half-way and inexperienced tire repairman, but as a thoroughly competent, well-schooled and highly efficient workman, he is prepared to deal systematically and scientifically with your tire troubles, including sectional repairs on all types of tires, re-treading, and a complete rebuild.

Mr. Fox has enlarged his shop, installed more new and up-to-date equipment this spring, and has employed the services of a thoroughly competent helper from the Goodyear factory, Mr. F. R. Gilmore, who has already been on the job for several days, and as he comes well recommended is proving his ability as a high class workman.

Mr. Fox invites the patronage of all users of pneumatic tires and tubes and guarantees satisfaction in all work he turns out, and also stands ready at all times to make good to you on short-comings on his part should there be any in the way of defective workmanship or material. He also invites you to come in and inspect his work, the equipment for turning out the work, and thus draw your own conclusions as to the merits of the art as it is performed in his own little factory.

So Mr. Car Owner, if you have any tire troubles, large or small, you will do well to consult Mr. Fox.

They say the Boyne City Silo is the best on the market today. Have you seen it.

PLUNGES THROUGH GATES AT BRIDGE

CAR AND OCCUPANTS THROWN INTO THE RIVER

Distressing Accident Sunday Night Causes Death of Mrs. George Ross—Driver of Car Escapes

An accident which has been a distinct shock to the entire community, and one that should serve as a warning to reckless automobile drivers, occurred Sunday evening between 10:30 and 11:00 o'clock, when a Ford car driven by Guy Olney, in company with Mrs. George Ross, plunged through the lowered gates of the swing bridge into the river.

Details bearing directly on the accident and events leading up to it have been told the Courier representative as follows:

About nine o'clock Sunday evening, Mrs. Olney, feeling somewhat indisposed, requested her husband to go to the home of Mrs. Ross, with whom she had been on most intimate terms for some years, and bring her to the Olney home for a short visit. Olney complied with the request, and went to the Wood Livery barn and asked permission to take a car to drive Mrs. Ross to her home, as at the time it was raining.

He was granted the request and drove to the Ross home, Mrs. Ross accompanying him on his return trip to the Olney home. Shortly after 10:30 Olney again came to the livery barn and borrowed the car to take Mrs. Ross home. They left the Olney home about 10:45. Reports are conflicting as to the speed of the car as they approached the bridge, some placing it as fast as 30 miles, while others stated it was under 20 miles.

As the reports state, Olney did not notice that the bridge was open, having been swung but a few minutes prior to the entrance into Round Lake of the St. Kansas. When within 40 feet he saw that the bridge was open, and in his effort to stop the car, put on the breaks and tried to steer the car into the railing. When the breaks were applied, the car swung around, skidded into the gates, breaking the one on the east side of the bridge, and slid into the channel backwards.

In falling the car struck the water close to the south abutment and sank to the bottom. In some manner Olney extricated himself and swam to the abutments, where he was rescued by Fred A. Myers, whose attention had been attracted by cries of those who witnessed the accident. From the time the car hit the water, nothing has been seen of Mrs. Ross, nor no outcry was heard.

The car was removed from the channel early the following morning, and a deep dent was found in the back of it where it came in contact with the gates, indicating that it must have struck the gates at more than ordinary speed.

Up to the time we go to press, no trace of Mrs. Ross' body has been found. Members of the coast guard dragged the channel and Round Lake on Monday and Tuesday, and on Wednesday many boats manned by citizens, united with them in their efforts to recover the body.

At the time of the accident the wind was from the west and it is estimated that the water was flowing into Round Lake at a speed of six miles an hour. Early in the morning after the accident, the current shifted outward, and the body possibly may have been carried into Lake Michigan.

The unfortunate woman who lost her life was the wife of George Ross, and the mother of four children, Carrie, aged 12 years, George, aged 8 years, Douglas, aged 6 years, and Eva, aged 4 years. She was the daughter of Mrs. Mary Moore, who lives on the south terrace.

As the curtains were on the car, she had absolutely no chance to escape, and might have sustained injuries when the car struck the heavy gates that made it impossible for her to even make an effort. A robe and the hat she wore were found on the east shore of Round Lake about nine o'clock Monday morning, indicating the strength of the current flowing into the lake.

But one conclusion can be derived at, taking into consideration all events leading up to the accident, and that is her death is due to carelessness on the part of the driver of the car, as every precaution has been taken by the city to protect the public when the bridge is swung or about to be swung, not only by gates but by red lights and the ringing of a gong.

The surviving husband, children, mother, sisters and brothers are extended the deepest sympathy of the entire city in their hours of grief and sorrow.

BENEFIT DANCE AT D'OUGE BARN

Indications Point to Record-Breaking Attendance

Present indications are that the benefit dance to be given at the D'Ooge barn, Wednesday evening, May 14, will have a record breaking attendance, as many from Charlevoix, as well as Boyne City, East Jordan and rural districts have expressed their intention of attending, regardless of what the weather conditions may be.

The proceeds of the dance will be donated to the building fund of the agricultural society, to be used to pay the expense of erecting the new school building on the fair grounds. The present building is too small and at last year's fair many schools were unable to exhibit their work.

ELKS WILL AID U. S. GOVERNMENT

DISABLED SERVICE MEN TO BE ASSISTED

Plan is to Give Each Man Full Vocational Education and Make Him Self-supporting

The United States government and the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks have entered into a co-operative arrangement through which every disabled soldier will be given full vocational education of whatever character may be necessary to fit him to become self-supporting and independent. The Petoskey lodge will have part in this work.

This has been made possible through an act of congress, passed June 27, 1918, putting this work in the hands of the federal board for vocational education and authorizing a co-operative arrangement between it and such private agency as it may select to aid it.

The Elks relief commission fund will be used for advancing money to men whose cases are still pending before the war risk insurance board and for re-educating those technically outside the purview of the vocational education act, including citizens of the United States who were wounded while fighting in the armies of the allies.

The United States government has made ample provision for this vocational work and pays all costs of tuition, books, laboratory equipment, etc., as well as living expenses of the men while in training and allowances to their dependents, for all who come within the provisions of the law. For those disabled men who are technically outside the law, the fund of the Elks war relief commission will provide.

But it has been found that even after full provision has been made for this free vocational education, much remains to be done in persuading all disabled men to avail themselves of it. The men themselves and their families must be personally consulted as to the best line of vocational work for these men and impressed with the importances of beginning training without delay. More than 500 vocations are open to these disabled men for special training and to be done by the members of the Elks fraternity in connection with this work will be in personally interviewing the wounded men and their families to insure their taking advantage of this opportunity for free vocational training. Too often these disabled men or members of their families get the idea that the country will provide generously for them in return for what they have sacrificed for it, forgetting that no man can be contented to go through life under a handicap that might have been overcome. For it has been found that practically every physically disabled man can be taught some trade or profession or vocation that will enable him to take care of himself and hold his own in competition with the physically fit who have not had the special training he has had.

Nearly 300 educational and technical institutions throughout the country, such as Yale and Harvard universities, Massachusetts Institution of Technology, trade schools, agricultural colleges and commercial

WORK STARTED ON NEW THEATRE

NEW BUILDING TO BE A MOST MODERN ONE

L. A. Moon of Petoskey Purchases Theatre Site on Bridge Street Across from Levison's

That Charlevoix will have a modern up-to-date moving picture house is assured by a deal put across Tuesday, when L. A. Moon of Petoskey, purchased the property owned by Martha Ayer, on Bridge street, opposite Levison's store, better known as the Green property.

Just about a year ago operations were commenced toward the erection of a theatre on this same site, but was discontinued for obvious reasons. This time the building will be finished, and when completed, Charlevoix will have a moving picture house that she can well be proud of, and equal, if not superior, to anything in this section of the state.

The new amusement house will be built of tile and brick, with pressed brick front, two stories high, and the former plans will be closely followed. While plans for the interior are not as yet fully decided upon, we are told that it will be equipped with upholstered seats throughout; both on first floor and balcony and have seating room for 800 people. The building will be heated with steam and equipped with an electrical ventilating system which changes the air in the interior every twenty minutes.

The plans include a stage of 20 x 45 feet, large enough to accommodate any opera troupe that may visit the city, as well as being for lectures, public meetings, etc. Double motor driven picture machines will be installed, thus giving a continuous show from the time the curtain raises until the program is completed. The plans also include the installation of an electrical driven pipe organ.

For the protection of people entering or leaving the theatre, a canopy glass top entrance is to be built from front of the building across the sidewalk to the street line, a convenience that will be greatly appreciated by all in stormy weather.

Mr. Moon expects to have the building completed and in operation by July 1, and has placed the building contract with Wm. H. Wallace. He will devote his entire time to the management of the theatre and states that nothing but the better class of pictures will be shown.

S. S. BRUCE HITS SWING BRIDGE

Both Boat and Bridge Slightly Damaged and Tender Shook Up

The S. S. Bruce, on her return trip from St. James about 5:00 o'clock Tuesday night, collided with the bridge as it was being swung, slightly injuring the bow of the boat, and damaging some of the bridge equipment. The bridge was being swung by hand, owing to the electric current being shut off due to an accident at the electric light plant.

Bridge tender Elmer Johnson says he would like to have some wise guy tell him just what to do, as when he swings the bridge some auto is bound to run into the river and when he has it shut or partly closed, he is likely to be bumped by a boat going up or down the river.

RECORD OF THE PAST

No Stronger Evidence Can be Had in Charlevoix

Look well to their record. What they have done many times in years gone by is the best guarantee of future results. Anyone with a bad back; any reader suffering from urinary troubles, from kidney ills, should find comforting words in the following statement:

Mrs. John Hull, 102 W. Lincoln Ave., Charlevoix, says: "I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for they have done me worlds of good. I suffered from an attack of lumbago, I tried various remedies but got no relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. In a short time they entirely removed the trouble. A short time ago my back and kidneys troubled me again but Doan's Kidney Pills brought my relief promptly."

FIVE YEARS LATER Mrs. Hull said: "I can speak just as highly of Doan's Kidney Pills as I did when I recommended them before. I use this medicine occasionally and it keeps my back and kidneys in good condition."

After raking the yard and clearing away all rubbish, the pupils and teacher joined in making three flower beds which will add much to the appearance of the grounds. They also planted and dedicated a "Victory tree" to two of our soldier boys, Joe Wederburn, and Joe Holecbeck, who have received gold stars. The tree was christened "The Victory Joes," thus immortalizing our boys who not long ago were our schoolmates and bringing beauty out of barrenness, also making a better and more wholesome environment for our children and those to come after. We commend their good work and trust that with Miss Jensen's able leadership it may not cease here.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

Has a medium short stroke motor as much power with a crank shaft two and one-half inches in diameter as one with the same stroke and bore using a crankshaft one and one-fourth or one and one-half inches in diameter? Is not the larger one too much like an acorn?

The larger diameter crank shaft would give the more power, as it would offer the greater rigidity, which is one of the big aims in motor construction. The increase in rigidity or eccentricity you speak of would not occur, as the center of the crankpin will be the same distance from the center of the crank shaft irrespective of the diameter of the pin bearing. It is only a question of having enough crank case space to accommodate the larger parts. With the larger diameter shaft you get more bearing surface and consequently higher efficiency.

On opening a storage battery which was out of order I found in the bottom and extending up about one-third on the plates of it a gray jelly substance. What is it and what is the cause of such an accumulation?

The accumulation may have been mud accumulations formed from deposits by the disintegration of active material from the positive plate. This accumulation is due to the gradual disintegration of this material from charging and discharging and also to material getting loosened by vibration.

What are the advantages and disadvantages of the splash system of lubrication?

The chief advantages of the splash system of lubrication are its simplicity and inexpensiveness. The chief disadvantages are that the amount of oil supplied to the cylinders usually decreases as the motor speeds up, whereas the amount of oil should be increased. This is because at high speeds the oil does not have time to settle to its level before the connecting rods come around again and they do not dip enough oil. In some motors this is compensated for by lifting the oil trough as the throttle is opened or as the engine speeds up.

Kindly inform me of the relative merits of the several types of gasoline feed. So far as I know there are three types: Gravity, vacuum and force feed, by pressure. I have air pressure feed and am always uneasy about leaks developing. Can one feel more secure with other types or is he warranted in feeling greater security?

Gravity feed, though usually efficient in level districts, sometimes fails to give best results when ascending steep grades. Even if entirely efficient gravity feed requires location of the main gasoline tank either in the front or under the front seat, both of which are dangerous and inconvenient. Pressure feed requires an elaborate system of tubing and pressure pump and needs constant attention on the part of the driver. Tanks are frequent. Its construction permits carrying the gasoline tank in the rear, where it belongs, while at the same time forces the gasoline to the carburetor faster than needed, resulting in waste because of unconsumed gas.

Vacuum feed permits carrying the main gasoline tank in the right place—that is, in the rear, and carries gasoline unfailingly to the carburetor without attention. A saving of gasoline consumption of from 10 to 12 per cent is shown over pressure feed, although no saving is shown over gravity feed.

Can you tell me the cause of a slight grinding noise in the transmission of my car? It is most noticeable in first and second speeds. Is it caused by worn bearings?

The grinding noise is probably due to wear in the gears and not to any bearing wear. If your clutch has been in the habit of slipping and not releasing properly, due to its being slightly out of order, the gears have been splashing when the shifts were made, with the result that the gear teeth are badly buried and worn. Nothing will make a more unpleasant grinding noise than old gears under load. The fact that you do not hear this noise as much in high is an indication that it is gear trouble, as you are not driving through the gears then. There is no remedy except replacement for worn gears.

What would be the effect of a salt water solution on different parts of a motor? Please tell me whether or not it is injurious and how.

You undoubtedly refer to a salt water solution when used as a radiator anti-freeze. You may or may not know that the hardware, propellers, etc., on ocean going yachts are made of bronze or brass because of the fact that iron, no matter how dressed with paint, will quickly rust, due to the action of the salt water. The same trouble will occur if it is used in a motor car engine.

What is meant by piston displacement and how is it figured?

The amount of space in the cylinder between the piston and the top of the stroke and the point where the top of the piston comes on the bottom of the stroke. It is figured by squaring the bore and multiplying by 0.7854 times the stroke times the number of cylinders.

Is it advisable to use shellac or graphite on leaky gasoline pipes? Shellac has been recommended as a temporary repair. Another temporary repair of a leaky gasoline line is to wrap it with electrician's rubber tape. The gasoline soon eats through this, but it usually lasts long enough to do the work.

What is the efficiency of a friction drive, disregarding the loss on bearings due to excessive pressure for frictional purposes?

In cars of light weight the friction loss is very little if any greater than in a sliding gear construction and no more and probably not as much as in a planetary construction. An unsatisfactory construction in any type can bring about a great power loss through friction.

How can one prevent too much oil in the two forward cylinders of a car? The crank case has a circulating pump that pumps the oil from the sump into the front end of the crank case where it flows back into the rest of the case.

This is caused by worn pistons. It is possible that new rings will help, but the chances are that new pistons are necessary.

My car will not fire regularly on the rear cylinder. I have had the valves ground, the carbon removed, new piston rings fitted, but still there is no compression on the rear cylinder. What is the matter?

The poor compression may be due to improperly adjusted or poorly timed valves. This is a common cause and very often after grinding the operator forgets to readjust the tappets. Cylinder leaks may be causing the trouble. Perhaps the leak is around the spark plug or the cylinder pin openings. A little paste stove blacking on the threads will prevent leaking at these places. Do not use too much of the paste but just enough to cover the threads lightly. The piston rings' ends may be in line and this causes the gas to escape in the lane made by the rings. The piston itself may be loose or the cylinder worn a little.

Sometimes while running in high speed the gear lever of my car suddenly jumps in the neutral position. What is the cause of this?

The jaws of the direct drive may be worn so that they slip out of mesh. Or any of the connections may be loose between the lever and the gear shaft.

A general tightening up of the gear shift control connections may relieve the trouble permanently.

What can I do to the lining of my brakes to make them hold when they are glazed, with the wire showing through the fabric?

Evidently your brake linings are badly worn out. The best thing to do is to have the brakes relined. There is practically nothing you can do to linings that are badly worn out except to replace them.

My car has had a knock in the front end of the motor for about a year. When the motor is in high gear on the road the knock resembles hitting a pan with a large wooden mallet, making a heavy thud, loud and regular with the exhaust of the motor. I have had a new front bushing put in the front bearing and had the crank shaft put in a lathe and smoothed up the front end and had a bushing made to fit it, also all main bearings adjusted tightly. When the crank shaft was put in the lathe we found it perfectly true, and after putting both new bushings in the front bearing it stopped this knocking for only about two or three weeks, when it was as bad as ever again. Can you tell me what to do about this?

The fact that you hear the knock less distinctly when the motor is idling leads to the conclusion that it is probably a bearing knock, as that would naturally become most pronounced under load. It may be that you adjusted the main bearings too tightly when you had the bushings renewed, and this has unduly worn them out, causing a return of the conditions that existed before you put in new bushings. They must be fitted snugly, but not so tightly as to bind or cause undue frictional wear.

It might be that you have a loose connecting rod bearing or even a worn wrist pin bearing. Either of these might

An Heirloom

It Once Served as a Hiding Place

By SADIE OLCOTT

"Flora, here is a letter from Chesley, your Uncle William's lawyer, and he has enclosed a copy of the will."

"To whom has uncle left his property?" asked Flora.

"I can only speak for that enormous mahogany bedstead by which he set so much store—the gargoyle bedstead."

"Did he leave it to me?"

"Of course he did. Don't be foolish, my dear. Listen."

"I, William Gray, being of sound mind, etc., do give and bequeath to my grand-daughter, Isabel Gray, her heirs and assigns forever, my mahogany bedstead and the sum of $2,000, to my grand-daughter, Flora Gray Winchester, her heirs and assigns, the mahogany bedstead which stands in my own chamber and which is known as the gargoyle bedstead, together with the sum of $1,000."

"Where shall we put it, Harry?" interrupted Mrs. Winchester breathlessly.

"Put it? You don't expect to get it into this flat?"

"We must have it here. I wouldn't examine it there with Isabel looking on. And, besides, it is such a journey down to Richmond. Anyway, you cannot spare the time to go down now, and we must examine it together. I want to get it here as soon as possible. Who knows but Isabel or some of the others might find the diary of Nancy Gray and learn the secret? My inheritance would be worthless!" Mrs. Winchester's voice trembled.

"Oh, all right!" said Winchester tranquilly. "But how the deuce you expect to get it in here I don't quite see. It's a very large piece of furniture, isn't it?"

"Now, Harry, dear," she cried, with one plump hand upon his lips, "that bed must be got into this flat somehow! First I will flush my letter to Mr. Chesley and let Nora post it at once. I can hardly wait to see the bedstead, Harry, and I don't dare dream of what will be ours when the secret of the bedstead is disclosed. Do you think, dear, I was wrong not to tell Uncle William about the diary of Nancy Gray I found in the garret?"

"Well, truthfully speaking, I'm afraid it wasn't treating the old gentleman quite on the square."

Two weeks afterward, while Mr. Winchester was engaged in a most important business transaction, he was summoned to the telephone.

"Yes, this is Winchester. What? Oh, the bedstead there! I can't possibly leave at present. I can't help it. Tell them to send it up tomorrow. I know it's important—the bedstead! No, I didn't speak. Yes, I will come home early. Goodbye."

When he reached the Etruscan apartments that evening, Winchester was fortified with a box of candy and a huge bunch of violets. He stepped to the elevator and pressed the button. A faint thud responded from some depth below.

Presently the janitor emerged from an obscure doorway and surveyed him with an undeviating eye.

"It ain't a rumble," he said gruffly. "Poor management," commented Winchester as he prepared to conquer the eight flights that barred him from home and dinner.

"Hub!" exploded the man. "What with the freight elevator out of order, and people breakin' windows movin' in big stuff, and them 'dumps a-tryin' to put the feet bound in my passenger car and a tearin' a lady's dress, and her the landlord's sis-in-law!" He glared wrathfully at the vanishing form of Winchester.

Opening the door of his apartment, rampant disorder met his eye. A huge, dark form almost covered the floor of the tiny parlor, which in its chaotic disturbance looked strangely unfamiliar to the master of the house.

In the library Flora reclined on a couch before the bright gas log, while sympathetic Nora applied wet cloths to her mistress' aching head. Wreckage from the barrier impeded progress at every step.

"My dear girl!" he uttered.

"She turned a woebegone face to him. "Such a time as they had trying to get it in the window! They were saucy because the window was too small, and one of them pulled it in with a jerk, and it struck the chandelier. The pieces of glass fell on my Wedgwood vase, and that is broken! I—I am quite discouraged!"

With a restless glance toward the parlor, where the gigantic bedstead lay like some dark shadow on his little home, and with an unpleasant recollection of the smothering janitor below stairs and of the generous tip it would require to reduce him to his enervating state of patronizing familiarity, Winchester endeavored to soothe his wife's shattered nerves, and together they obeyed Nora's summons to a belated dinner.

At table Mrs. Winchester drew a folded paper from her gown.

"This is the page I copied from the diary of Nancy Gray, Harry," she said, spreading it open before her. "I thought I would refresh my memory as to the exact location of the secret spring."

"Richmond, Va., April 21, 1864," read Mrs. Winchester in solemn accents. "I am greatly alarmed for the safety of Grandmother Blupah's diamonds, and have vainly tried to find a hiding place for them. The Yankees are digging up every inch of ground on the adjacent plantations searching for buried treasure, and I am quite at a loss to find a safe place for our belongings."

"April 22.—Such an excellent idea! I have just recollected that there is a secret hiding place in Grandmother Blupah's mahogany bedstead. I will conceal the jewels there, and will describe their hiding place so that in case anything happens to me one of our family may be able to recover them, even if the bedstead should be carried away."

"First, one must observe the row of hideously grinning faces—'gargoyles,' grandfather called them—that outline the top of the headboard; there are twenty-five of these gargoyles in all, and one must press the right eye of the thirteenth gargoyle from either end, when the face will swing outward, disclosing a cavity. Into this cavity I have dropped the leather bag containing the most precious—they are worth many thousands of dollars—and I hope to recover them when the war is over."

Armed with hammer and screw-driver, husband and wife repaired to the parlor and locked themselves within, greatly to the disgust of the interested Nora, who availed herself of the keyhole as the only salve to her wounded self respect.

"My dear girl, how do you think I'm going to handle this thing alone? It weighs a ton! Why wasn't it put in the guest room?"

"The instant I saw it in the wagon I knew it would never fit into that room, so I told them to put it in here. We can remove it to the cellar afterward—or store it."

"It fits in here," remarked Winchester.

"Let us rip off the covering—I believe I know just where to place my finger on the spring! This is the headboard, of course, and here are the gargoyles," cried Flora excitedly.

Winchester took out his knife and leisurely opened the blade. He lifted one corner of the bedstead, grunted and dropped it heavily.

There was a straining and snapping of cords as he applied his knife to the wrappings.

"Oh, Oh! I am just as nervous as I can be!" cried Flora, regardless of her husband's groan as he dragged aside the covering and disclosed the round, polished top outlined by a semicircle of hideously carved faces.

"Love, what a beauty!" ejaculated Winchester, yet with a note of restraint in his tone. "What a night-mare! Fancy wishing a guest 'pleasant dreams' and then introducing him to that count! When? Now, which face, Flora, love?"

Mrs. Winchester triumphantly produced the paper from her laces and read solemnly: "The thirteenth gargoyle from either end."

"The one in the middle, of course," announced Winchester.

"Press the right eye," quoth Mrs. Winchester breathlessly. "I shall have them set in a glorious pendant, Harry!" They hung expectantly over the bed.

"Now press," she whispered suddenly.

Winchester pressed.

"Nothing doing," he announced flatly. "Press harder," urged his wife. "The secret spring has probably rusted. They do rust sometimes, don't they?"

"I never heard of one doing so. The always yield easily, and the door will movelessly aside and leaves an opening," said Winchester grimly.

"We must get it to rest," cried his wife. "By some miracle, Harry!"

"But why try the others, my dear? It says the middle one."

"There is, there must be a spring," cried Mrs. Winchester. "Why don't you have put it in the bed?"

"I've got it up when you are here to explain the mystery of the bedstead," began Winchester, as he slowly tilted the head of the bedstead in turn without result.

Flora burst into tears.

"Don't cry my darling! Comforted her husband tenderly. "I'll find out the truth if I have to chop the bedstead thing into kindling!"

"I wish I understood the meaning of it any way," said Winchester, presently, when his wife had too had a display of tranquillity where she could not be suddenly apprehensive.

Again the tears flowed. "I might just as well have had mother there and dollars," wailed Flora.

Winchester's countenance grew pale from the effort to find the

"What is this?" he asked, picking it up.

"An express parcel that came this afternoon. I haven't had time to look at it."

He ripped off the covers and looked stupidly at a small leather volume in his hand.

"The Diary of Nancy Gray!" he exclaimed. A letter fell from the book, and he opened it eagerly.

"Read it!" commanded Flora impatiently. And he read as follows:

My Dear Mrs. Winchester—Your uncle, the late Mr. William Gray, has placed this little volume in my hands with instructions to turn it over to you after his death. Of course you are aware that your uncle wrote this fantastical little tale for his own amusement many years ago, but it was never published. You are probably in a position to recognize that your uncle's clever wit enabled him to take great liberties with your family history. As the present owner of the Gargoyle bedstead, this little book will prove to be of especial interest to you. Congratulations on the possession of such a valuable antique, and with kind regards, I am, very sincerely yours, JEREMIAH CHESLEY.

The long silence was broken at last by a suppressed chuckle from Mr. Winchester.

His wife buried her face in the sofa pillows. "Brute!" she sobbed bitterly. And Winchester is still wondering whom she meant.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

Owing to a slight accident at the electric lighting station Tuesday just before noon, the city was without current during a portion of the day, causing some inconvenience to those who depend upon electricity for power purposes.

Peter Statakhls of Sault Ste. Marie, who has been visiting his cousin George Glados for the past week left for his home Monday. He has just returned from ten months service overseas, where he was a radio operator in the 129th Field Artillery, 85th division.

Charlevoix's Jazz Trio and the thirty Charlevoix people who accompanied them report an exceedingly fine time at the East Jordan Junior Hop last Friday night. Those who attended were enthusiastic in their praise of the entertainment afforded by the Charlevoix musicians.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mason and son Perry left Tuesday for a motor trip to southern Michigan, expecting to be gone about two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Mason will attend the Resort Association convention in Grand Rapids and Perry will go on to Ann Arbor to be present at the annual May Festival.

HUNDREDS VISIT

WAR TROPHY TRAIN

War Relics and Tank Viewed With Interest

Hundreds of Charlevoix residents were at the Pere Marquette station Friday evening, awaiting the arrival of the Victory Loan War Trophy train, due to arrive at 6:30 p. m.

The train consisted of three flat cars and one baggage car filled with interesting specimens of death dealing devices used in the greatest war of history. The eight inch siege gun used by the Americans in the war was one of the most attractive parts of the exhibit.

Speakers accompanying the train gave talks which were appreciated by those fortunate enough to be able to hear them, especially the stirring talk given by a survivor of the famous Princess Patricia regiment of the first division of Canadian troops.

Starting With Sheep.

An important feature in starting the sheep business is to quickly work into a flock of around a hundred ewes or, as is recommended by the University of Illinois, a ewe for each two acres of the farm. The small flock which has heretofore been recommended for using weeds and waste feed and incidentally as a small source of profit is the flock that often is diseased and because of its insignificance in the farm business is certain to be neglected.

Warding Off Potato Diseases.

Experiments conducted in Minnesota for the control of potato diseases during 1914 and 1915 show that the average yield of potatoes per acre increased fifty-six bushels in sixteen fields under experiment by careful selection and disinfection of seed. Spraying experiments for seven years gave an average annual increase of sixty-three bushels per acre of early potatoes sprayed three times with bordeaux mixture or of late potatoes sprayed four times.

Soy Beans For Forage.

The soy bean may be grown throughout the humid and semihumid sections of the south and in the southern portion of the corn belt. It is a very valuable forage crop and promises to be very useful in many hot weevil regions as a catch crop and a source of oil seed for the oil mills.

QUIETLY MARRIED SUNDAY EVENING

Well Known Charlevoix People Surprise Their Friends

Mrs. Anna Gilbert and Clarence Withers were quietly married Sunday evening, May 4th, at the Congregational parsonage, Rev. C. E. Taggart performing the ceremony. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Taylor.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Withers are well known young people having lived in Charlevoix practically all of their lives. Mr. Withers has a position at Wood Brothers electrical shop, and for the past year Mrs. Withers has held a position in W. E. Hampton's office, which she will continue to hold for the summer.

The young people left Monday on a week's trip to Grand Rapids and other southern points.

SPECIAL MEETING OF SUPERVISORS

Called for Purpose of Settling Road Building Mix-up

The board of supervisors of Charlevoix county will convene in special session Thursday morning of this week, for the purpose of deciding what is the best method of settling the method of construction of the proposed five and seven-eighths miles of concrete road on the Charlevoix-Petoskey road.

The calling of the board in special session is due largely to excessive amount of bids submitted for the building of this stretch of road, and they may possibly empower the county road commissioners with authority to construct the road themselves. The decision in the matter will be covered next week.

ought to be paid in proportion to their education, experience and ability, and in proportion to the expense of living and the salaries paid to others in other lines of employment for like experience and ability.Here are a few things which we believe ought to be given serious consideration by every board of education whether in towns or country.1. Teachers' wages have always been too low.2. The same ability, education and successful experience has commanded larger wages or salaries in almost every other line of endeavor.3. Men and women without education except as they have picked up as they went along or acquired in four or five months' training engaged as reporters, compositors and linotypists on newspapers, as clerks, bookkeepers, stenographers, druggists, even many thousand of skilled laborers and many unskilled laborers in manufacturing establishments are today receiving far higher wages than are paid to school teachers.4. This accounts for the growing scarcity of teachers and the fact that fewer and fewer are seeking this profession as a life work or even as a temporary employment. Our state normal schools this year graduated 1500 less teachers than last year.5. It is a most serious mistake on the part of school boards to adopt a cheeseparing policy with their teachers. Manufacturers do little dickering these days. They increase the salaries as fast as their business will warrant it. They do not think for a moment of attempting to fix their standard of wages on the obsolete standards of five or twenty years ago. They know that the first requisite of efficiency is a satisfied workman who knows that his or her efforts are appreciated. Isn't this common sense? Shall we use less common sense in employing and retaining teachers, who deal not with dead matterial but with living minds and souls?6. Manufacturers retain efficient workmen year after year, NO GREATER CALAMITY COULD BE-FALL A MANUFACTURING PLANT THAN THE GENERAL
LOSS OF ITS OPERATING FORCE from superintendent to the humblest workman. They can replace one here or there as they are promoted, get better jobs elsewhere, drop out or are found inefficient, butSAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS
FROM THE LIVEREveryone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.To feel as fine as the proverbial fiddle, we must keep the liver washed clean, almost every morning, to prevent its sponge-like pores from clogging with indigestible material, sour bile and poisonous toxins, says a noted physician.If you get headaches, it's your liver.
If you catch cold easily, it's your liver.
If you wake up with a bad taste, furred tongue, nasty breath or stomach becomes rancid, it's your liver. Sallow skin, muddy complexion, watery eyes all denote liver uncleanness. Your liver is the most important, also the most abused and neglected organ of the body. Few know its function or how to release the dammed-up body waste, bile and toxins. Most folks resort to violent calomel, which is a dangerous, salivating chemical which can only be used occasionally because it accumulates in the tissues, also attacks the bones.Every man and woman, sick or well, should drink each morning before breakfast a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, to wash from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.Limestone phosphate does not activate the diet like calomel, because it can not salivate, for it is harmless and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIRBring Back Its Color and Lustre with Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients
a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.a general change brings enormous loss in material, machinery, output, prestige. Efficient men and women are retained at advancing wages as long as possible.7. Is it not JUST AS DISAS-TROUS to adopt such a policy in school matters as will necessitate a general change of teachers in a system of schools? Can we afford to experiment with a lot of unproven teachers in cases where the payment of such salaries as other schools are paying, teachers of proven efficiency can be retained. Should not the ordinary rules of business as illustrated in the factory and the office be applied to the schools?This is a matter in which the parents of every community are vitally interested. They know that there is something in this world of more importance than a few dollars. They most strenuously object to their children being experimented with except in cases where it is an absolute necessity.LICENSE FOR AUTOISTSReconsideration of the senate's action in tabling the house bill which would require every person in Michigan to obtain a license before operating or driving any motor vehicle in the state, resulted in the final passage of the measure at Lansing, 20 to 7. The bill now goes to Gov.
Sleeper for his signature.No person under 16 years old will be licensed to drive an automobile according to the measure. Every one handling a car will be required to make application for a license to do so, an submit to an examination as to his or her competency and record as a driver before the license is issued. In cities this examination and the license shall be issued by the chief of police, and in the rural districts by the sheriff or one of his deputies.It was pointed out by those supporting the measure, in reply to the charge that it would have no effect in decreasing reckless driving, that the teeth of the thing was the provision for revocation of the license when a person should be found guilty of liquor or drugs; recklessness which resulted in some serious damage, or personal injury.FRANKING PRIVILEGETo the citizen who buys his postage stamps of the man at the window the figures stated by a congressman speaking of the franking privilege are awe-inspiring. In one individual case, said he, the mail matter sent out by one single national legislator represented $300,000 worth of postage; and as a simple matter of everyday routine at least 500 clerks are employed by the United States government who do nothing but busily pack free literature into free envelopes to be sent through the mails free of expense for congressmen.
Such a speech, reported in the daily press, seems much like a scandal, but it apparently made no particular impression upon the listening congressmen, and goes unrecognized by the public as an unnecessary expense which the tax-payer has to pay.A Missouri man writes that he was arrested for sedition in the instance of a Son of the Confederacy for quoting from the Constitution, the Bible and the Declaration of Independence, and it cost him considerable money to get acquitted. If he had quoted from George Washington's farewell address the deserving Democrats of the locality would probably not have waited for a trial.We do not notice any mention of Mr. Bryan's proposed amendments to the covenant of the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ration of sixteen to one without awaiting the advice or consent of any other nation whatsoever. The trouble with a Democratic paramount issue is that it has to be buried afew days after a campaign is over because mortification has set in.We notice that the Republican who agrees with Mr. Wilson on the British league of nations covenant is a broad-minded statesman, worthy of all praise for his non-partisanship, while the Democratic senator who disagrees with him is a black-hearted traitor to the U. S. P.When the next war comes, if it ever does, the law should not be used against the conscientious political slackers. Just turn 'em over to the conscripted men who feel it to be their duty to go, for such disposition as they may deem proper.It was certainly a mean trick the voters played on the Democratic party in taking control of Congress away from it before it had put a majority of the voters on the public payroll and misad their wages on the eve of another election.If any land company is about to engage in selling swamp lands for building lots we call attention to the fact that the present national administration has a lot of twelve cylinder press agents who sooner or later will be disengaged.The head of General Blanquet was cut off and carried by the Mexican general who defeated and slew him.
It was a fortunate thing that we ended barbarism in Mexico by saving the cactus republic for socialism.Massachusetts Democratic leaders have wired Secretary Tumulty that Burleson is "wrecking the party."
The Democratic party is already wrecked and Burleson didn't do it.Maybe the reason some of those ancient British nobility have declared for a soviet rule is that they have heard the program includes a couple of husbands for every woman.General Grant and General Lee didn't sit under the Appomattox apple tree for six months. They signed up and sent the boys home in time for the spring plowing.Ex-king Ferdinand of Bulgaria has asked permission to reside in Switzerland. With all her cheese factories Switzerland probably has enough big smells to satisfy her.Daughters of the Revolution convention endorsed the British-Wilson covenant. Evidently some of the Daughters already regret the Revolution.Heard of a fellow once who resisted from church because the preacher was too partisan to say a word for the devil occasionally.The safety valve of popular dissatisfaction in a real republic like our own is the comforting thought that another election is coming.In 1916 the Democratic battle cry was "He kept us out of war." In 1920 it will not be; "He kept us out of debt," will it?The trouble with Mr. Wilson's plans for keeping us out of war is that they are only made to last over one election.Germany's war settlement is a big

IF KIDNEYS BOTHEREat less meat and take Salts for Back ache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like tumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.
When the kidneys of the body's wastes them flush of the body's wastes waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly.
At first you feel a dull aching in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach ache, sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.
Eat less meat, drink lots of water;
also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.RATIONS FOR HOGS.Breeding Animals Require Feeds Rich in Bone Making Elements.In order that losses by accident may be prevented and the period of usefulness of the sows for breeding purposes lengthened, breeders want hogs with strong, dense bones. Since cereal grains are low in mineral elements, they should be supplemented by feeds rich in these constituents.When confined in yards hogs are often fed largely or entirely on grain rations, so that their bones are soft and easily broken. Nutritional studies conducted at the Ohio experiment station proved that cereals alone will not produce normal growth of bone. Corn alone and corn with soy beans produced the least bone. Rations of corn supplemented by tankage and by skim-milk produced the most bone.Because of their high proteids and lime content alfalfa and clover hay may be fed to advantage to mature breeding hogs, and in the spring green leguminous crops may be used. For feeding in connection with grain to breeding hogs in confinement the experiment station also recommends lime, corn cob charcoal, bone flour and wood ashes. These may be fed in self feeders, preferably mixed with a small amount of salt.—Bulletin Ohio State.What about that Boyne City Site?

THE BIG BANK ON THE CORNER

JUSTICE FOR THE FOSTER PARENTS OF OUR CHILDREN

The Literary Digest of May 10

It is strange that the generous-hearted American people, who poured out their riches so prodigally in response to every patriotic, every charitable appeal, and who accorded such enthusiastic and liberal support to every measure and to every group that helped win the war, should have neglected to properly encourage and reward the services of one of the noblest professions in the field of human activities—a profession that in lofty ideals, in unselfish principles, in sacred responsibilities, stands side by side with the ministry of the Gospel itself.

We wish to bespeak, with whatever power and authority we may have and with such words as may be granted to us, some measure of consideration for the foster-fathers and mothers of our children—the school-teachers of the United States of America.

There is no class of workers of which we demand so much. We commit into their keeping the minds, the bodies, and the very souls of our children in the tender and formative years of their lives, and they, receiving these children can indeed be said to hold in the hollow of their hands the future of America. We expect these devoted men and women to watch over, and care for our sons and daughters as though they were their very own, to drill them in the arts and sciences, to train them for business and for citizenship, to instruct them in manners and in morals, to do for them those things which we would do had we the training and the leisure.

No class has assumed so heavy, so trying a burden and a responsibility with such willingness as these consecrated men and women. No class has performed their increasingly heavy tasks more devotedly, more conscientiously, and with less thought of self. No class served their country more wholeheartedly, more loyally, during the trying and tempestuous times of war, day by day pursuing their round of duty, day by day helping the young people, and through the children the parents, to see the struggle in its true light, thus securing the co-operation of the community in every measure undertaken by the government to win the war.

Truly they have made the nation their everlasting debtor. Truly had they not done their work so well this republic would not outlast the span of a generation.

What then have the teachers received at our hands in return? They have received little of honor and somewhat less of pay. Other classes have prospered; other classes through powerful organizations have secured generous wages. The teachers have no spokesman, however, to demand even the simple justice of a living wage, so to them we give their petty prevar pittance, so meager, so pitifully inadequate, that it places a burning brand of shame and disgrace upon this nation.

The men and women who are making the Americans of tomorrow are being treated with less consideration than the janitors who sweep out the buildings in which they are employed; they are earning on the average less than the wages given to the scrubwomen employed in the public buildings of the United States government. Normal school graduates receive less salary than street sweepers; high school principals and superintendents less than section foremen; country school teachers less for instructing the farmer's children than he pays his hired man to feed his hogs.

In a certain town in Illinois, for instance, the average wages of fifteen miners for one month was $217, while the average monthly salary of fifteen teachers in the same town was $55. In another town a miner, who, by the way, was an enemy alien, drew more than $2,700 last year, while the salary of the high school principal in the same town was $765. We welcome with all our hearts the long-belated recognition that is being given to the man who works with his hands. We believe that this same workingman will be the first to join with us in asking better pay for those who teach his children.

No wonder there are fifty thousand vacancies in the teaching forces of the schools. No wonder the ranks are being filled with weak men and with immature women who merely use the profession as a stepping-stone to something better. No wonder there are thirty thousand teachers in the United States who have had no schooling beyond the eighth-grade. Small wonder, indeed, that seven million of our school children are being trained by teachers, more boys and girls themselves, who have had no professional education whatever.

When we consider that the 740,000

teachers of America are paid an average salary of $630 a year; when, moreover, we consider the fact that living costs have actually advanced 103 per cent. since the beginning of the war, thereby cutting the buying power of these insignificant salaries in half, we can easily determine that only a fool or a martyr would choose teaching as a profession, or would long remain in it unless these terrible conditions were swiftly remedied.

What a crime is this! What an indictment! What an unpardonable sin as the doors of an enlightened people who now find themselves at the head and forefront of the democracies of the world! How can we better prepare for the great undertakings of reconstruction than by setting ourselves immediately to remedying this perilous condition. In these trying and chaotic times when the world is beset by unrest, by anarchy, by revolution, by the devil's brood of appalling evils that follow in the train of war, we must make sure that the foundations of our republic are set on a rock that it may stand against the flood.

The peace and security of the world of the future will be in the safe keeping of the generation now in our schools. These boys and girls must "weave up the raveled sleeve" of civilization. Their hands must minister to the wounds of the nations. Their minds must meet and solve the difficult and crucial problems that will be their inheritance. Their hearts must be so imbued with the horrors of war and with the poverty and anguish that inevitably follow in its wake that they in their time will enter upon it only as a last resort in national self-defense or in support of some great principle of humanity.

Never has there been a more urgent need for high-minded, great-hearted, splendidly trained, 100 per cent. American instructors to drive home the vital lessons that these times hold. Never has the future of the nation been so clearly committed into the hands of the teachers. And yet thousands of men and women of ability who would prefer to teach are reluctantly leaving their chosen calling, forced by the hard necessities of their very existence.

The teachers ask no ingress at the hands of fortune. They enter their profession for service, not riches. But they invest years and money in preparation for their life-work and the knowledge they gain is shared with others who themselves use it to their own profit. Teachers, then, by every right and in all justice expect a return that will permit them and their dependents to live decently and in comfort.

In every community reached by the Literary Digest there are readers of foresight, of vision, broad-minded men and thoughtful women who will see—nay, perhaps have long since seen—the critical and compelling importance of this problem. We are directing this appeal to them. We urge them to compare the salaries of their teachers with the wages of those who are doing work of equal value. There will be a challenge in the facts that will stir the community to action.

Let each community invest in schools so that it may thereby invest in a trained manhood and womanhood that can play their part in the great period of rebuilding and reconstruction that lies before us. Let each community set for its goal, as far as it is practicable, a minimum wage of at least $1,000 a year for the teachers of America. This would cost the nation perhaps as much as we spent so gloriously in but one week of the Great War.

We are not pleading merely for the welfare of some single profession; we are not pleading for a special class; we are pleading for America; for her larger, her brighter, her richer future, for the fulfillment of her glorious promise. We are pleading for a coming race of men and women who shall be qualified to make complete the work of our forefathers who founded this nation and dedicated it to liberty, and who will bring to full fruition the new victories that we have won in freedom's cause. We are pleading for a wider teaching of the principles, the purposes, and the ideals of this nation that all men shall know her meaning and shall have equal access to her opportunities; that the light of Americanism will so shine that it will flood every home, every heart, in our great land.

Republicans should, as usual, do about ninety per cent of the work and about seventy-five per cent of the investing in the Liberty Loan campaign. Investment in government securities is a sign of horse sense as well as patriotism, and the Republican party is long on both.

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION
CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES.

The Charlevoix county Lady Macabees association, including Central Lake, Eastport and Bellaire, of Antrim county, will hold its annual convention at East Jordan, May 23. Harriet Williamson, 2nd Member of Executive Committee of Grand Rapids, and Great Deputy Commander, Cora Rice of Petoskey, will be guests of honor.

Governor Sleeper has signed Senator Davis' bill which increases the rate for legal printing from 70 cents to $1.20 for the first folio and for all subsequent folios the rate is advanced from 35 to 60 cents. This is the first time the rate has been changed in more than 60 years. The bill was introduced by Senator Davis for Senator DeFoe of Charlotte. Senator DeFoe being a publisher, explained to the house and senate committees that an increase in the rate was necessary due to the advance in printing supplies.

Official figures announced last week by the secretary of state's office, show that the proposed constitutional amendment to legalize the sale of wine and beer in Michigan, was defeated at the election April 7 by a majority of 206,936. The vote for the amendment was 322,119; against 529,065. Three counties, Wayne (Detroit), Menominee and Dickinson returned wet majorities.

Clay Smith, of Petoskey, timber and land looker, who had been ill for many weeks, died at his home at about 8 o'clock Tuesday evening, April 29, from tumor on the brain. Mr. Smith came here in 1875 and was well known. Mr. Smith was born in Groton, Cayuga county, New York, April 12, 1862. He came to Petoskey in 1875 and in 1894 married Cora Campbell. Besides the widow he left two sons, Audley Smith of Petoskey, and Cyril Smith, with the American forces in Germany. His mother, Mrs. Charles Smith and a brother Ellis Smith, also survive him.

There has been considerable written in the last few weeks about Herbert F. Baker, state senator of the twenty-ninth district. He has been held up to the public gaze as a wretch who would starve and murder the unfortunate of the State Home at Lapeer. This statement was based upon the probable fact he was responsible for having the Lapeer Home appropriation referred to the State Affairs committee of the senate, over which he was alleged to have some control. Senator Baker was very insistent upon the terminal warehouse amendment going to the people in 1920, and it is probably well within the truth he did say the Lapeer Home appropriation was being held in the senate committee until the house committee would give the representatives a chance to reject or pass the warehouse proposition, which passed the senate weeks before. Upon second thought everyone knows no member of the legislature would vote to adjourn without providing for the care and maintenance of these mental unfortunates at Lapeer, still many people actually believed Senator Baker would do this thing. The facts are he wouldn't attempt such a program. First, because it couldn't be done and second, for the perfectly obvious reason Baker is one of the biggest-hearted, good-natured men in all Michigan. He is a fighter, and in a parliamentary battle has no superior, but far be it from the Cheboygan "bear cat" as he was affectionately dubbed by former Senator "Jim" Murtha in a speech before the senate early in the session, to harm a hair of one of these poor little state wards. You only need to hear Baker's contagious laugh to appreciate his real nature. He would fight, not literally, but actually for the rights and protection of every Lapeer Home child. Like the average human being Baker has his weaknesses, but no man's heart beats more in sympathy with the afflicted and the under dog than he. He has courage, of course, and a man who has his opponents in public life, but for a two-fisted, up-standing, rapid fire, hard-hitting man's man, "Herb" Baker is a type that compels the respect of everyone.—Charlevoix Republican.

POOR SEED BEING SOLD IN MICHIGAN

Public Warned Against Mail-Order Dealers in Nearby States

A warning that seed of a very low grade is being shipped into Michigan by three or four mail order dealers in nearby states is being sent out by the State Seed Laboratory at East Lansing. Complaints from all parts of the State indicate the sale of a large amount of this impure seed, much of which is in violation of the Michigan Seed Law. Clover and timothy seeds are those with which most of the trouble is being experienced.

More than thirty kinds of weed seeds, on an average, have been found in samples tested by Miss Bertha Hollister, State Seed Analyst. Noxious weeds, such as dodder and Canada thistle, have been found freely in the samples, making the situation especially serious. While the Michigan Seed Law can handle violations of the law which occur in the state, it has no power to take action against firms doing business outside the state.

The remedy for the present situation is for the farmer and the small dealers of the state to trade with Michigan dealers or with responsible firms outside the state. In every case where seed is purchased for sowing, the buyer should demand an analysis at the time of purchase or should send a sample to the State Seed Laboratory, East Lansing, so that a test can be made to determine the weed content.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONER'S
NOTES

County board of examiners meets Saturday to determine issuing of certificates. It is hoped that more will write the August test.

Georgia Serogic completed her term's work in North Bay and is finishing the term of school uncompleted by Mrs. Lila Skornia.

Bay township had all three schools represented in exhibit and program at North Bay school on Monday, the 28th. Program was fine. The judges, Mrs. Stevens and Mrs. Fletcher gave first place to Horton Bay, second to North Bay and third to Lakeside. The Horton Bay exhibit may be seen at the county fair next fall. The students from Bay township passing examinations in eighth grade work will receive their diplomas in joint commencement exercises with Haves township.

With the first round of visits nearly completed, the commissioner may pause to review the good things which have been so manifest. Is it the fever heat of the war or the new spirit of reconstruction, or is it merely the worth-whileness of the work all revealed anew that has shown the work this spring the best yet seen in the county—more teachers who are truly teaching; more pupils who really want to pass and who do not expect teacher to also do the "learning"—a clearer objective, and a fine sense of co-operation. These are the things that have stood out in Charlevoix county and cause us to feel that there is no finer corps of rural teachers in the state of Michigan.

State reports indicated that the Emmet county normal was doing things. That's what we want to do too, so accompanied by both of our county normal teachers, the commissioner went to Petoskey on the 24th and spent the day in the Emmet county normal. Many good suggestions were made by the Emmet county principal and the trip proved very much worth while.

THE FRIENDLY TOBACCO

THERE may be some things that pickin' a wife an' agein' a tobacco ain't amongst 'em.

Velvet Joe

We put away millions of pounds of fine Kentucky Burley tobacco every year, stored in wooden hogsheads. It ripens two years. When we take it out it's different—Nature has improved it, good as it was—made it friendlier, more fragrant, cool-smoking, long-burning.

Nature has given it a delicious quality of mildness and fragrance that no artificial means can ever equal.

It's just that extra touch of friendly goodness that is building up VELVET Tobacco into the favor and good will of thousands of pipe smokers who prefer to smoke tobacco cured in Nature's way.

You would notice the difference.

FISH SUPPER GREAT SUCCESS

ESTIMATED THAT OVER EIGHTY PEOPLE ENJOY EVENT

Team Captained by L. VanSkiver
Wins Over That of A. L. Ely—
Plenty of Eats

The sixth annual trout supper held at the Blue hall, Friday evening, May 2, was a decided success, both as to the trout consumed and the program which, according to the opinion of many of the guests was one of the best ever given.

About eighty people were present and all were well pleased with the way the affair was handled. The results proving that the committee in charge had worked hard to make the affair a success.

The team captained by L. VanSkiver won by having the larger number of trout to their credit, the losing side therefore being obliged to do the work.

E. R. Harris presided as toast master and his remarks were well received as were the short talks given by several local people, and musical program in charge of Mrs. D. E. Clow and Mrs. C. L. Taisey was thoroughly enjoyed.

MOTHERS' DAY PROCLAMATION

Governor Sleeper Sets Aside Sunday, May Eleventh

If ever there was a time to yield homage to the mothers of our land that time is now. The spirit of devotion and sacrifice and service they manifested during long months of cruel war is beyond all praise. With aching hearts they gave their sons to die, if need be, that our cherished liberties might be preserved, but they hid the ache and the pain and went bravely and calmly about their allotted tasks. This year then of all years, when peace has come to bless the world, we should thankfully observe the day that is specially marked in honor of the mothers of America, living and dead.

And let us rejoice with them that do rejoice and weep with those that weep. Many a Michigan mother's heart will sing with joy as our Michigan boys return from afar; and we joy with them in their joy. There will be many a mother too, alas, whose heart will bridge the seas and journey on to find a dear grave in Flanders or in France or in far off Archangel, there to place a wreath of loving remembrance for the boy who will not come back; and to these mourning mothers we tender our deepest sympathy, while we sorrow with them in their sorrow.

Therefore, that we may pay a special tribute of affection to the mothers who still live and honor the memory of those who have gone from us, I, Albert E. Sleeper, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby designate and set aside, Sunday, May Eleventh, next, as Mothers' Day and I call upon our people, both young and old, to gather in their several places of worship and take part in services appropriate to the day, and, by the wearing of a red flower for the living mother and a white for the dear departed, to symbolize their love and reverence for the mothers of the nation.

Let me suggest too that absent sons and daughters take this occasion to visit, if possible, the mother in the old home, or, where such a visit is impossible, that they send a message of cheer and greeting. By this may mothers know that in the rush of affairs they are not forgotten.

In accordance with a resolution of the Congress of the United States, I further request the people of Michigan on the day aforesaid to display the United States flag in their homes and in other suitable places, as a fitting expression of their desire to pay homage to American motherhood.

Many See War Special

While on his way to Ellsworth Saturday night, Allie Carr's buggy broke down and he was quite badly cut in the face and otherwise bruised. He was lucky to not have been hurt worse.

Mrs. Will Walker received word from Lansing Saturday to come at once as her daughter was to be operated on for appendicitis. But word came again Sunday that it was not necessary to come as she had stood the operation fine.

GLAD TO PAY COST OF PEACE

Millions of Lives Saved by Vast Military Preparation of Our Government.

FOE KNEW AND QUIT COLD

These Life-Saving Bills Must Be Paid and the Boys Brought Back to the Country They Love.

"The price of peace," of which the Victory loan is but a part, is large, but not nearly so large as it would have been had the war been fought to the annihilation of the German armies as our military leaders believed would be necessary. Had the war lasted as long as these leaders anticipated, hundreds of thousands of American youths and millions more of their allies would have been called upon to pay the supreme sacrifice.

That they were not forced to give their lives is in no small measure due to our government's preparations to crush the enemy completely. The industry as well as the man power of the nation was called into the government service, and a great war machine was created which the German general staff saw meant complete annihilation for their forces if they fought on, so they quit.

There were in France when the armistice was signed, 2,002,175 officers and men wearing the United States uniform. In the states there were more than 1,500,000 more in training or awaiting shipment overseas. This army had 1,500,000 rifles and 420,000,000 rounds of ammunition in France when the armistice was signed. There were 221,000,000 additional rounds on boats en route to France at this time. These figures do not deal in anything but infantry equipment.

Smokeless powder was being delivered at the rate of 4,800,000 pounds a week and high explosives at the rate of 6,900,000 pounds. We had on hand when the war closed, 419 tons of mustard gas, enough to load 419,000 shells; 654 tons of phosphorus, 511 tons of chlorophenol, 660 tons of white phosphorus for incendiary bombs, 303 tons of tannic tetrachloride, and 153 tons of titanium tetrachloride. We had enough gas to smother the German army. On the defensive side the government had developed the best gas mask known, and had produced 5,087,600 of them.

We had built 2,010 ten-ton caterpillar tractors and 1,586 15-ton machines for hauling great guns. There were 15,000 more of these under construction when the war ended. They had demonstrated their ability to drag the heaviest mortars, howitzers and rifles over any terrain, no matter how badly cut up or how wet.

Ten thousand Ford "boby" tanks equipped with two Ford engines, would have been on the front line by the time the Victory Liberty loan is to be floated. They would have been supported by thousands of the French "whippet" type tanks and the big 35-ton American tanks driven by Liberty motors.

We had in France and in use at the army at home, 57,607 trucks of two, three and five tons capacity, 11,470 ambulances, 18,375 motorcycles and 29,421 motorcycles.

Our merchant marine was growing at the rate of 400,000 tons dead weight per month when the war ended, and we were turning out about 10,000 airplane engines a week, with planes to carry them.

German spies found this out. German spies knew that the U-boat had failed because of the barrage of mines that the British and American navies had strung across the North sea. German spies sent word to the general staff that in spite of their best efforts to check the Americans at the home base, they were outgeneraled. So the German staff learned that the Americans had thrown their unlimited resources into the scales with the allies, and the German staff turned "yellow" and quit.

That mighty preparation of which the above is but a fragmentary tale, is the reason why the Victory Liberty loan is the last of the war loans. Had the war gone on there would have been a fifth, a sixth, a seventh, an eighth loan—loans until the German homes had been crushed and sent back into the heart of the fatherland. The need for these was eliminated by the united list of our great preparation, which supplemented the gigantic efforts put forth by our allies.

"Let us, then," as the secretary of the treasury has said, "with thanksgiving to God that we were spared any greater price, meet the honorable commitments of our government contracted in behalf of the freedom of the world."

JOB FOR ALL THE BOYS FROM OVERSEAS

Grand Rapids Men to See That All
Are Employed

Grand Rapids furniture factories have thrown open their doors to the returning soldier and sailor, and a "job for each" is the slogan. As the boys from overseas are demobilizing, they are invited to make Grand Rapids their home. They have been promised steady employment, 50 hours pay for 48 hours work, and every Saturday afternoon off the year round. A further inducement is that Grand Rapids is one of the best cities in the country in which to live, ideal working and living conditions, good schools and churches, a big home town with all the advantages of a big city and none of its disappointments. It is a city to make the returned soldier forget the horrors of war.

The furniture manufacturers have also determined to make these positions permanent. They intend to extend this condition to all their employees—those now holding jobs and such others as may be employed. To secure a position in a Grand Rapids furniture factory in the future will mean a life job—pending good conduct—the "transits" and "floaters" who migrate from city to city for a few days work in each, will be forced to give Grand Rapids a wide berth. There will be nothing for them in that city.

For the man or woman who wants a permanent job, however, there is a job waiting. They should apply for such positions right now, during the reconstruction of the factory policies. It is estimated that at least 3,000 workers can be absorbed in the different furniture factories. Men and women who get in on the reconstruction work, will have the best positions and be assured of permanent work.

Men and women who are out of employment, who are dissatisfied with their present work, or who want to come to the city—if they intend to remain in a permanent job, to become actual citizens of the city and assist in its upbuilding, will be welcome.

Verne H. Smiley has been appointed industrial secretary for the present to whom all inquiries should be addressed. He is located at room 208 Y. M. C. A. Building.

ALL STOCK SHOULD PAY INTEREST

Present Indications Point to a Most Successful Season

The officials of the Michigan Transit company explain that of the stock of the new boat line, $250,000 of it is seven per cent. (7 per cent.) guaranteed dividend, cumulative stock with voting power and the balance is common stock with voting power and entitled to all surplus earnings as dividends after 7 per cent. has been paid on the preferred each year.

This means that the preferred is assured of its 7 per cent. per annum before the common is paid anything, but if there is more than enough to pay 7 per cent. on the preferred, the common will be entitled to receive all the rest, even if it runs up to 10 per cent., 15 per cent., 20 per cent. or whatever it may be.

With any kind of a fair season they believe the common stock will receive much more than the preferred, although of course, the preferred is surer, and therefore they recommend that purchasers take part of each of the two classes of stock. If they are anywhere near right which they assure us are based on the books of the old Northern Michigan company, the common should earn a dividend of 12 per cent. to 15 per cent. for the season of 1919.

Three were drowned and two were saved of a party of five that left Cheboygan Monday to fish in Black River. The party consisted of Father DuQuois of Alpena, Mr. DuQuois a Bay City druggist, Father DuQuois of Bay City and Father Magnan of Cheboygan. The last two named were saved. The precise cause of the accident hasn't been determined, but it is the general opinion that it might have been a leaky boat. All of the bodies have been recovered.

WILL OBSERVE MOTHERS' DAY

Appropriate Services Sunday at the Methodist Church

Mothers' Day will be appropriately observed next Sunday morning at the Methodist Episcopal church. Mothers are requested to occupy reserved seats which will be set apart for them. It is earnestly hoped that every member of this church and congregation gather at this service that we may pay a tribute of affection to the mothers who are still with us and to honor the memory of those who have gone to be with God. A red flower is worn for the living mother and a white flower for the dear departed.

At 7:30 another one of the series of stereopticon lectures will be presented. The subject will be exceedingly interesting dealing with Korea.

The stereopticon lectures thus far have been highly praised by the large audiences attending them and next Sunday night promises to be no exception to the rule. No admission charge and everybody cordially welcome.

All members of the Charlevoix Methodist church are requested to remain home next Sunday afternoon from 2 o'clock to 5 o'clock.

Representatives of the local church expect to call at the homes of the members to present pledges for current expenses for the remainder of the conference year.

COUNTY FARM BUREAU NOTES

Answers to the circular letter recently mailed to all the farmers in the county, are coming in rapidly and we are getting some valuable information, especially in regard to supplies of home-grown seed and registered live stock.

Lime, inoculation, drainage, fertility and hardy seeds are the essentials for success with alfalfa.

The county agent and Prof. Don Whelan, the grasshopper man, will make a trip through Hudson, Chandler and Melrose townships Wednesday, May 14. Each farmer in these townships will be mailed a letter announcing a schedule of meetings for that date.

To all those interested in the treatment of seed potatoes, bulletins on same will be distributed throughout the county in the near future.

Special Bargains in Paint

The Devco & Reynolds Co., makers of the famous "Devco" lead and zinc paints, inform us that they have cut out the manufacture of certain colors of their paint which we have been carrying in stock, substituting others which they consider more pleasing colors. This leaves us with about fifteen colors which we cannot match and on which we must sacrifice the price in order to close out at once. Most of these colors we have enough to paint from one to three ordinary houses.

The Devco Paints have been known many years as being one of but very few strictly pure paints manufactured. They contain only the ingredients which any good painter would buy, were he to mix his own paint from lead, zinc, oil, turpentine and coloring pigments. A paint standing the highest chemical analysis by the North Dakota Agricultural College—to say more of their purity is unnecessary.

These paints we are offering at

$3.50 PER GALLON

a price for which you will not be able to buy a pure paint again for some time, possibly several years.

SUMMARY OF PEACE TREATY

HANDED TO GERMANS ON WEDNESDAY OF LAST WEEK

Longest Treaty Ever Drawn—Final Conclusions of Twenty-seven of Allied Powers

The treaty of peace between twenty-seven allied and associated powers on one hand and Germany on the other was handed to the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles May 7. It is the longest treaty ever drawn. It totals about 80,000 words, divided into fifteen main sections, and represents the combined product of over 1,000 experts working continually through a series of commissions for three and one-half months, since January 18. The treaty is printed in parallel pages of English and French which are recognized as having equal validity. It does not deal with questions affecting Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey, except insofar as binding Germany to accept any agreement reached with those of her former allies.

League Covenant in First Section
Following the preamble and deposition of the powers comes the covenant of the League of Nations as the first section of treaty. The frontiers of Germany in Europe are defined in the second section. European political classes are given in the third and fourth sections. Next are the military, naval and air terms as the fifth section, followed by a section on prisoners of war and military graves, and the seventh on responsibilities. Reparations, financial and economic terms are covered in sections 8 to 10. Then comes the aeronautic section, ports, waterways and railways; the section of the labor covenant; the section on guarantee and the final clauses.

Restores Alsace-Lorraine
Germany, by the terms of the treaty, restores Alsace-Lorraine to France; accepts internationalization of the Saar Basin temporarily and of Danzig permanently; agrees to territorial changes towards Belgium and Denmark, and in East Prussia cedes

STOP THE SPEED DEMON

The utter disregard of the traffic ordinance in the city on the part of many drivers of automobiles is causing no end of comment at the present time and has resulted in the arrest of several of the speed demons resulting in the passing of a more stringent ordinance governing the speed of cars by the council Monday evening.

That many serious accidents have not occurred, as a result of reckless and careless driving on the principal streets of the city, is a matter of sheer luck, and that the Courier has not had occasion to write the sad obituaries of a number of unfortunate victims who have been run down by local speed demons is almost miraculous.

The new ordinance permits a speed limit of ten miles an hour in the business portion of the city of Charlevoix, but a speed of thirty to thirty-five has been a common trait with a great many local drivers. These violations invariably follow a laxity on the part of officials to enforce the law, which, however, does not provide an excuse for the motorist, who not only takes on the less danger to his own life; but endangers the lives of others, principally children.

It has not been unusual recently for certain drivers to pull the throttle of their machines wide open on Dixon Avenue, State street and practically all side streets, and in the language of the automobile world, "hit it up for sixty miles," maintaining the speed for several blocks. No driver with an ounce of common sense would do it, but it is being done and the officials should not wait until a fatal accident occurs before putting a stop to it. We suggest that all auto drivers read the new ordinance and observe it.

most of Upper Silesia to Poland, and renounces all territorial and political rights outside of Europe as to her own or her allies' territories and especially to Morocco, Egypt, Siam, Liberia and Shantung. She also recognizes the total independence of German Austria, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Her army is to be reduced to 100,000 men, including officers. Conscription within her territories is abolished. All forts 50 kilometers east of the Rhine must be razed, and all importation, exportation and nearly all production of war material must be stopped.

Allied occupation of parts of Germany will continue till reparation is made, but will be reduced at the end of each three or five year periods if Germany is fulfilling her obligations. Any violation by Germany of the conditions as to the zone of 50 kilometers east of the Rhine will be regarded as an act of war.

Germany is to pay for shipping damage on a ton for ton basis by the cession of a large part of her merchant, coasting and river fleets and by new construction, and to devote her economic resources to the rebuilding of devastated regions.

TEACHERS MEET AT SHAPTON HOME

Reports Made by Members of Great Interest to All

A large company of officers and teachers from the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school gathered last Monday night at the beautiful country home of William Shapton. One new and interesting feature of the business session was a report from each class relative to its particular work.

The reports were full of interest and indicated that all the workers were faithfully and efficiently seeking to maintain the standard of excellence for which this school has been noted.

Arrangements are under way for the observance of Children's Day which comes on the last Sunday in June. A fine literary program is being prepared and plans are being formulated to receive members of the school who are well qualified into full church membership.

Following the business session a social hour was much enjoyed by all. Dainty refreshments were served. A very pleasant and profitable evening was brought to a close by the entire company gathering around the piano and singing the old tabernacle songs which the people of Charlevoix delighted to sing several years ago.

SURPRISE PARTY AND POT LUCK SUPPER

Friends Remind Mrs. McNally of Her Birthday

About fifty friends of Mrs. Wm. McNally of Hayes gathered at her residence last Saturday to remind her of her birthday. The autos filled with guests, including two cars from Charlevoix, began to arrive about eleven o'clock.

The ladies had planned a pot luck dinner and supper, but the hostess surprised her guests with a chicken dinner, which, with the dinner prepared by the ladies, made the tables fairly groan.

Birthday cakes, adorned with fifty-six candles numbered three, one being lighted for dinner and the other two at supper time. The guests sat until the hostess was some time extinguishing all the candles.

After a very happy day spent by both the hostess and guests, they departed at a late hour wishing Mrs. McNally many more birthdays.

INVESTIGATE CASE ATTEMPTED ARSON

State Fire Wardens From Lansing Digging Up Evidence

Deputy State Fire Wardens Albert Lane and Fred Armstrong of Lansing, were in the city last week investigating a case of attempted arson which their attention had been called to.

The incident took place in Boyne City and it is alleged that a certain business man approached at least two men and offered a certain amount of money if they would do his dirty work.

One of the men approached made a clean breast of the affair as did the other, and although neither admitted the crime, it does not appear to us that the man who made the suggestion should escape prosecution.

CANDIDATES ARE FENCE BUILDING

BOTH PARTIES REPRESENTED

Soldiers in Race for Michigan gubernatorial Honors in 1920—Two Mentioned

There are already five prospective candidates for governor in the 1920 battle of ballots, two being soldiers, while four are republicans and one a democrat.

Furthermore political prophets whisper there will be others in the field, raising the total above the half dozen. Besides this other state officials will not go begging for candidates, according to present indications.

The two soldiers mentioned as probable candidates for gubernatorial honors have made no formal announcements of their intentions but their friends in Michigan are working in their behalf, it is stated. The two are Col. Guy M. Wilson of Flint, who, it is said, may be the lone democrat seeking nomination and election next year, and Lieut. Col. Augustus H. Ganser of Bay City, republican.

Both are very widely known throughout the state, not only because of their work with the 32nd division in France but because of their long association in the old Michigan National Guard. They are also close friends. Both have been promoted and cited for deeds of valor on the battlefield and one, Col. Wilson, has been decorated for bravery.

It has been announced from Lansing that three candidates for the republican nomination have already commenced building their "political fences." These are Lt. Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, State Senator Herbert Baker of Bay City and speaker of the house, Thomas Read of Shelby.

State representative, Charles A. Weidenfeller of Kalamazoo and representative Lynn J. Lewis of Bangor are declared to be candidates for Lt. Governor on the republican side. Representative John W. Moore of Houghton county is also said to be a candidate for the office.

For the nomination for secretary of state republicans are mentioning Senator Charles J. Deland of Jackson, representative Merlin Wiley of Sault Ste. Marie, is suggested for attorney general, with Senator Charles B. Scully of Almont a candidate for auditor general.

It is announced here that probable candidates for congress next year will include State Senators Arthur E. Wood for congressman Doremus' togo; George M. Condon to succeed Congressman Nicholls and Walter J. Hayes to succeed Congressman Patrick J. Kelly, State Senator Bayard G. Davis of Paw Paw is said to be an aspirant for the seat of Congressman Hamilton in the fourth district with State representative Carl Young of Muskegon looking for nomination to succeed congressman McLaughlin in the ninth and representative Lemel G. DaFee a possible candidate to succeed the present congressman in the twelfth district.

INSTALL OFFICERS NEXT SUNDAY

Rev. Candler to Conduct Installation Service

Next Sunday night the recently elected officers of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church will be installed. Rev. Candler will conduct the installation service and will speak to the young people of the church on "Life's Service." All persons having numbers of the tabernacle song book are requested to bring them to this service and help sing the old songs.

The pastor and his committees are securing pledges for the centenary and are very much encouraged with the generous response accorded their efforts.

Only the larger gifts are now being solicited. After these are secured a canvass will be made which will include every member of the church.

DEATH CALLS MRS. O. S. PAYTON

AFTER ILLNESS COVERING PERIOD OF TWO YEARS

One of the Pioneer Residents of County Who Will be Sadly Missed by Relatives and Friends

Death claimed Mrs. D. S. Payton Saturday, May 10, at seven thirty-five a. m., following an illness of two years.

Minnie French, daughter of John and Sarah French, was born June 24, 1855 in Newport, Kentucky. She received her education in Cincinnati, Ohio. On August 10, 1882 she was united in marriage to D. S. Payton of Newport, Kentucky. To this union two children were born, Minnie of this city and Vernon of East Jordan.

She, with her husband, moved to Michigan a number of years ago and settled on a farm in Evelyn township, later moving to Charlevoix, living here for the past fifteen years.

Mrs. Payton's health began to fail about two years ago, medical advisers claiming high blood pressure and a weak heart, and from that time she received the best of care but to no avail. She was confined to her bed two months before her death.

Mrs. Payton will be missed by many beside the family, as everyone who came in contact with her admired her for her many sterling qualities.

She is survived by a husband, daughter Minnie of this city, son Vernon of East Jordan, sister, Mrs. Harry Horner of Enid, Oklahoma, and a brother, Calvin K. French of Chicago, Illinois.

Funeral services were held from the home on Clinton street, Monday at 10:00 a. m., Rev. Henry Candler of the Methodist church officiating. The order of Eastern Star, of which deceased was a member, attended informally. Members of the council and the Mayor acted as pall bearers. Interment in Brookside cemetery.

ESTABLISH SALE OF THROUGH TICKETS

Matter of Traffic Over All Railway Routes Adjusted

In seasons past, passengers with Charlevoix as their destination, traveling over the G. R. & I. Ry., have been compelled to purchase new tickets and have their baggage rechecked at Petoskey, thereby causing considerable inconvenience, especially to the aged and infirmed.

J. I. Disette, President of the Charlevoix Summer Home Association, has taken this matter up with the director-general of railroads at Washington, D. C., with the result that after June 10 all prohibited routes will be canceled and under a permanent order, the sale of through to destination tickets will be sold over all roads where like conditions as above mentioned exist.

Thus under this order, effective June 10, passengers over the G. R. & I. with Charlevoix as their destination will be sold through tickets doing away entirely with the trouble existing at the present time.

BUILD BEAUTIFUL SUMMER HOME

H. E. Schlesinger and Family of Detroit to Join Our Summer Colony

It took H. E. Schlesinger less than two days to decide that "Charlevoix the Beautiful" was the ideal resort of Northern Michigan, and during this short period of time he purchased a building site on the north side, and let the contract for the erection of a beautiful summer home.

Mr. Schlesinger is secretary and treasurer of the American Land Contract & Bond Co., of Detroit, and if he puts the same "pep" in his Detroit deals as he did in closing up matters at this end, he is a man that does things and knows what he wants the minute he sees it.

The lots purchased are a part of the Crouter Addition, facing Michigan avenue. The building plans cover the erection of a modern bungalow, to be ready for occupancy by July first. The contract was awarded to John Curtis. Charlevoix extends you the welcome hand. Mr. Schlesinger.

RINK OPENS WITH DANCING PARTY

Opening Night Set for Saturday, May 24—Other Attractions

The Charlevoix Roller Skating Rink will be conducted during the present season by its owner, Ed. Seaman, and his son, Vercial, both gentlemen arriving in the city the first of the week and are now busily engaged in placing the rink in readiness for the opening.

If Mr. Seaman carries out plans he has under consideration, the Charlevoix Roller Rink will be a place of considerable activity this season. Some leading attraction will be booked each week, including exhibitions of fancy skating, trick skating and races between experts in this line.

With him during the present season he will have Catherine Koslosky, champion woman skater of the world and his son, Vercial, acknowledged in the professional world as the fastest roller skater in the country. Contests between these two "champs" and such men as Ed. Davenport of Keyport, Pa., and Paul Drew of Chicago, will be staged, as well as races between professionals in other classes.

Not only will roller skating be included in his program of entertainment, but dancing parties at least once a week. The opening night has been set for Saturday evening, May 24, at which time a dance will be given, the Charlevoix Jazz Band furnishing the music. Boat excursions will be run from East Jordan and other points, and it is expected the rink will be filled to capacity.

Mr. Seaman and his son will be here during the summer, while Mrs. Seaman will remain in Bay City to look after the city market and their other interests there.

EASTER CANTATA CHOIR BANQUET

Supper and Musical Program Greatly Enjoyed

The members of the Easter cantata choir, their husbands and wives, were served to a very fine banquet last Friday night by the ladies of the Methodist Episcopal church. The dining room of the church was decorated for the occasion and the tables were very prettily arranged with potted plants and flowers.

The place cards were of unique design, each card containing a bar of the music and words of "Auld Lang Syne." Thirty persons sat down to the tables.

Following the feast, after dinner speeches were made and toasts given to all members of the choir. Ney Smith and Mrs. Archie Livingston rendered two beautiful solos and Mrs. S. S. Beers presided as toastmistress in a very pleasing and graceful manner.

Not only the members of the Methodist church but also the many hundreds who were so delightfully entertained Easter Sunday by the rendition of the beautiful cantata feel a sense of deep appreciation toward the members of this choir.

CONFERRED DEGREES ON THREE CANDIDATES

Members of Boyne City Encampment, I. O. O. F. Meet With Local Lodge

Members of Boyne City Encampment, I. O. O. F., also members from Horton Bay, to the number of thirty, notified the local lodge at a late hour Saturday last, that they would arrive in the city some time that evening to meet and have both a social and business session.

Cars began to arrive about nine-thirty, late, but nevertheless ready for an all night session, if necessary, to over-exercise the goat with the three candidates they brought with them.

The second and third degrees were conferred upon the three candidates, after which a substantial supper was served. It is useless to state a good time was the result of the meeting, for when the "camp bunch" meet, there is always something doing.

VOSBURGH-JOHNSON

Wedding Ceremony at M. E. Parsonage Thursday Afternoon

Charles H. Vosburgh, a prosperous farmer of near Charlevoix, and Miss Hilda Johnson, who came from Sweden eight years ago, were united in the bonds of holy matrimony at the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church last Thursday afternoon, May 10, by the Rev. Henry Candler.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ren Molet. The beautiful ring ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal church was used.

PLAN SHOULD WORK OUT WELL

COUNCIL SEPARATES LIGHT AND WATER DEPARTMENTS

Work of Each Department to be Kept Separate—Name New Superintendent

The council has selected a superintendent of the electric light and water plant, the appointment to hold for one year. This does not mean that Superintendent Hamilton will be dismissed, but it is thought that the new arrangement will enable the council to have the services of two good men.

Since acquiring the plant at Belaire the time of the superintendent is so divided that either the work at the plant, or the local distributing station is neglected, to a certain extent. It would seem that this plan ought to work out well.

"Colonel" Hamilton has been a faithful and hard working superintendent and is well liked by all. He will continue his work for the improvement of the system, and while he will not hold the title of superintendent, his position and real work will not be materially changed.

The council has started the complete separation, so far as possible, of the electric light and water plants, and will carry each system as a separate and distinct business. The purpose is to enable the council to fix rates for each commodity of light and water so that the consumer will be charged exactly what that commodity costs to manufacture. Each system is under the charge of a separate committee, one being the electric light committee, of which Ald. Wood is chairman, the other, the water works committee, of which Ald. Washburn is chairman. This looks like a good move.

The new superintendent, F. S. Benson came well recommended and has the appearance of being a good, live wire. He was formerly connected with the Traverse City plant and later was superintendent of the Leland plant. He with his family will move to Charlevoix immediately.

CEMENT PLANT SOON TO OPERATE

Work on Overhauling Machinery Has Commenced

A representative of the Newnygo Portland Cement Co., Mr. Wilson, has been in the city for several days, arranging for the opening of operations at the plant south of the city.

While the plans of the company are not as yet fully decided, we have been informed they intend to immediately start operations with the equipment already there, and withing a short time install additional machinery.

Ultimate plans will result within the next year or so of the construction of a 1,000 barrel cement plant, with possibly at a later date the addition of another of the same capacity.

It is safe to say that within the month the present plant will be in operation and a number of men on the pay roll for the company.

ACCIDENT RESULTS IN CRUSHED HAND

Engineer of S. S. Bruce Suffers Painful Injury

Barney Martin, of St. James, engineer on the S. S. Bruce, met with a painful accident Monday morning while on his way to St. James, which will cripple him for life.

Martin, as engineer, was oiling parts of the machinery, when the canvas glove he was wearing caught on a set screw of the drive bearing, drawing his hand into the machinery, tearing off the first and second fingers and badly crushing the back of his right hand.

The boat brought the injured engineer back to Charlevoix where his wounds were dressed by Dr. R. B. Armstrong.

Capt. Ava Smith left on Saturday last for Buffalo, N. Y., with the fish tug Margaret McCann of St. James, formerly owned by James McCann, which has been sold to Benj. L. Cowels of Buffalo. The tug will be used on the Hudson river, between Albany and New York, for towing.

J. Leahy, the Optometrist, will be in Charlevoix on Saturday, May 19, and at Ellsworth, May 21. 1919

COLDS AFFECT THE KIDNEYS.

Many Charlevoix People Have Found This to be True

Are you wretched in bad weather? Does every cold settle on your kidneys? Does your back ache and become weak? Are urinary passages irregular and distressing? These symptoms are cause to suspect kidney weakness.

Weakened kidneys need quick help. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for weakened kidneys.

Charlevoix people recommend them. Mrs. Albert Lemieux, 704 State St., Charlevoix, says: "A heavy cold settled on my kidneys, causing me much suffering. My back got so sore I could hardly get around. Spots appeared before my eyes, blurring my sight. I can never forget how badly I felt. I had dizzy spells, also, morning I felt more tired than upon retiring. On the advice of a druggist, I tried Doan's Kidney Pills, and three boxes removed the trouble." Price 60c, at all dealers. AIR STILL UNTAXED

No better example of the slipshod manner in which the last Democratic Congress handled the business of making laws, controlled as it was by the administration party, can be given, than the so-called "luxury taxes" which were tacked on the revenue bill of 1918 and which went into effect May 1st. Until the next Congress meets and takes action to repeal these taxes, it is clearly the duty of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to collect the taxes. That the next Congress will repeal these "luxury taxes" is almost an assured fact. The Democratic Congress which drew up the bill, including the sections taxing wearing apparel above a stated value, lighting fixtures, umbrellas, carpets, rugs, trunks, and articles of all kinds and so on indefinitely, claims that these sections would have been repealed during the closing days of the last session had it not been for the congestion of pending legislation. While this may have been true, it did not excuse the drawing up of taxes on articles which although termed "luxuries," are used by people in all walks of life and used because they are necessary to the modern mode of living, especially after the signing of the armistice and the war was practically at an end.

Certainly the articles included as "luxuries" are not luxuries at all. Is it a luxury to have carpet or rugs on the floors of your home? Section 904 of the revenue act says it is and taxes you 10 per cent on the amount in excess of $5 per square yard. If a man pays more than $5 for a hat or his wife more than $15, the tax is levied. If a man pays more than $2 for a necktie, the tax is right on the job. And when it comes to pajamas, night gowns or underwear for either sex, large or small, and the price is over $5, again the 10 per cent tax looms up in front of the purchaser. And if you, or your wife pay more than $10 for a pair of shoes the amount in excess is taxed. A man may be able to purchase a pair of shoes that will last a while for less than $10 but there are few stores selling women's shoes for less than the stipulated $10. And when it comes to perfumes, toilet waters, tooth pastes and the like the law is quite clear. The tax is one cent for every 25 cents or fraction thereof. Perfume may be a luxury but we are quite sure that tooth paste is NOT.

Then too the soda fountain, is hard hit. With most of the country already dry, and the rest of it going on July 1st, the soda fountain is the only thirst quenching establishment left. The tax is 10 per cent and there is no alternative. In other words a 10 cent drink or dish of ice cream will cost 11 cents and a 15 cent soda or plate of ice cream, 17 cents. In all of these cases the tax must be paid by the purchaser, to the retailer at the time of purchase and cannot be included in the retail price. All during the war the American people paid taxes, no matter what they were, quickly and without a word of protest. They watched the tremendous waste of money on all sides without a whimper because we were at war. But that times has passed, and the average American is the kind who will not protest at the expenditure of $100 when it is justified but will kick like a mad bull at paying one cent on the necessities of life especially when the necessity for the tax is gone. It is a cheerful thought to pay tax on an umbrella (that was our first experience with this thing, May 1st coming in with a pouring rain) in order that we may send more wheat to the gentle Bolsheviks or the defeated Germans.

The next Congress can do no greater thing for this country than to repeal these so-called "luxury taxes" at the first opportunity. We have no doubt but that they will.

GERMANS WANT PEACE

Germany will sign the peace terms and sign them probably with so little demur as will leave the world gaping. But why? Because Germany is anxious to get back into commercial life, and she has already made preparations on a bigger scale than is realized commonly. Being prepared, she chafes at the inaction and delay which prevents her making a little real money.

According to a news correspondent who has been visiting our boys on the Rhine, many provinces are making big displays of cutlery, farm implements and hardware. And it is asserted that in Coblenz knives have been put on sale in the stores which have been manufactured recently in Germany but bear the names of British firms, and according to one Ohio boy, the name of a well known Cleveland hardware firm decorates others.

The German ports are flooded with German salesmen ready to set sail at the first possible moment for foreign trade fields. They are said to be backed with plenty of goods to start a highly aggressive campaign. They also have been instructed to ignore slights and insults, but get business.

All of which goes to prove that America and the allied nations should prepare likewise. For while Germany will have a hard row to hoe industrially in spite of all her efforts to be ready, industry is a characteristic of her people, and she has never been overscrupulous about her selling methods.

THE EFFICIENCY OF ADVERTISING

What would be the business condition in a place where the merchants had never formed the habit of advertising, if such could be found?

The first characteristic of such a place, would be an absence of competitive spirit. The incentives to activity and hustle would be removed. If a merchant made a special effort, and as a result of his energy, forethought and enterprise, secured a lot of goods, representing exceptionally good values, he could not hope to sell them. Without advertising, the public would not know he had them.

Without advertising, the public would continue to buy of merchants where they had always bought before, regardless of the fact that in some other place they could take advantage of a specially favorable opportunity. The result of a community policy of non-advertising, therefore, is to discourage enterprise, and to encourage distributors to continue along in the same rut year after year.

Robert W. Wooley, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, says the railroads should not be turned back to private ownership until the Democratic party has had a chance to make a campaign issue of the matter. Mr. Wooley is the inventor of the Democratic party's 1910 campaign slogan: "Ho kept us out of war." Probably he has thought up something equally cute on government ownership for 1920.

The responsibility for war rests upon two classes: the bully who thinks he can scare other people into sacrificing their own rights and interests, and the pacifist whose pusillanimous conduct when threatened gives the bully the basis for this belief. The man who will not stand up for his own rights is just as contemptible as the bully who tramples on other people.

Whenever the Mexicans run out of anything else to do they kill another American. This is likely to remain the favorite Mexican outdoor sport until the various kinds ofistas run out of Americans or an administration comes into power at Washington which believes that Americans have some rights that foreigners are bound to respect.

An experienced subscription solicitor says they have at once disposed of the Liberty bonds without difficulty if they would offer with each bond a 98 cent alarm clock that will break in a week.

After settling the affairs of 1,000,000,000 people, it will be some comedown to Mr. Wilson to have to return and listen to the rival claimants for the postmastership of Lonesomehurst.

Some people complain that there was no enthusiasm in the last Liberty Loan drive, but it isn't regarded as necessary to raise anyone's enthusiasm to make him pay his debts.

Maybe for lack of something more agreeable to talk about the Democratic leaders intend to use the Flume question as a paramount issue in 1920.

The price of food can't come down because the price of labor stays up, and the price of labor can't come down because the price of food stays up.

If those pesky officials down to Washington don't get busy soon, the Congressional Record won't get here in time to lay under the hall carpet.

A bolshevik orator at Petrograd declares: "We have abolished God." Quite believable, but Satan is evidently still on the job in Russia, working three full shifts a day.

Way back in the year 1600 a sheep could be purchased for slightly more than a shilling—one shilling to be exact. But times have changed, and a sheep of the same size, same amount of wool, same number of parts—in fact, we are sometimes led to believe when eating mutton chops, the SAME sheep, today, brings twenty dollars.

However—the twenty dollars paid for a sheep today is earned in the same amount of time that the shilling, which bought that sheep 320 years ago, was earned.

Which goes to show that values have not increased.

GRANDMA NEVER LET HER HAIR GET GRAY

She Kept Her Locks Dark and Glossy, with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is easy and trouble-free. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, smooth, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Thompson for permanent Chairman. Carried.

Moved by William J. Gallagher, seconded by E. C. Chew, that we take a recess until one o'clock. Motion carried.

Your committee respectfully submits and recommends the adoption of a resolution as follows:

Whereas, this board has heretofore authorized the issue and sale of $40,000 of County Federal Aid Bonds, the proceeds of which are to be deposited with the State, to aid in the construction of the Federal Aid Road on the West Michigan Pike between Greensky Hill and the north limits of this county; and

WHEREAS, the State Highway Commissioner has advertised for bids for the construction of such road, and from such bids so received it appears that $17,000 additional will be required to be deposited by this county with the State for this county's share of the expense of the construction of said road; and

WHEREAS, sufficient moneys are on hand in the General Fund in the County Treasurer's hands to make the amount to be deposited with the State Highway Department as this county's share of the cost of said Federal Aid Road, at least until the next meeting of this board; therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, that the County Treasurer be and is hereby authorized and instructed to pay over to the State Highway Commissioner the proceeds of the $40,000 Federal Aid Bonds of this county heretofore sold as called for, and also to pay over from the General Fund such additional amount as shall be called for to make up the county's share of the cost of the construction of such Federal Aid Road.

RESOLVED FURTHER, that the amount so paid out of the General Fund as aforesaid be considered only as a loan, and that such amount be repaid to the said General Fund out of the Federal Aid Road bonds of this county now on hand, as soon as sale thereof is made.

Report of County Road Committee

To the Board of Supervisors of Charlevoix county:

Your road committee respectfully submits and recommends for adoption a resolution as follows:

WHEREAS, it appears that the State Highway Commissioner has advertised for bids for the construction of the Federal Aid Road on the West Michigan Pike between Greensky Hill and the north limits of this county; and that the bids received therefore are exorbitant and unreasonable in the judgment of the Board of County Road Commissioners of this county; and

WHEREAS, the Board of County Road Commissioners of this county have made it appear to this board that it would be advantageous and economical for this county to have said road constructed by and under the supervision of said road commissioners instead of letting the same to contractors; and have therefore asked for authority and permission to bid upon and, if accepted, to enter into a contract with the Highway Department of this state for the construction of said road; and

WHEREAS, it appears that a bid from the Road Commissioners of this county may be received and acted upon by the State Highway Commissioner for the construction of said road; therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, that the board of County Road Commissioners of the county of Charlevoix be, and it is hereby authorized and instructed to make and file with the State Highway Commissioner of this state, a bid for the construction of said Federal Aid Road on the West Michigan Pike between Greensky Hill and the north limits of this county of concrete, including the grading of said road and the construction of the necessary culverts, ditches, etc., but said bid shall not exceed $26,000 per mile nor be less than $20,000 per mile, and that if said bid is accepted by said State Highway Commissioner, that then said board of Road Commissioners be and is hereby authorized and instructed to enter into a contract for the construction of said road according to the rules and requirements of the State Highway Department.

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR KIDNEYS ACT BADLY

Take tablespoonful of Sals it Back burts or Bladder bothers—Drink lots of water.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to treat the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative wastes clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have aching pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in uric acid, and to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delicious drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally, to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Hot Water for Sick Headaches

Tells why everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it before breakfast.

Headache of any kind, is caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Livers and bowels poison called toxins, sucked into the blood, through the lymph ducts, excite the heart which pumps the blood so fast that it congests the smaller arteries and veins of the head producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, dependent, sick, feverish and miserable. You feel sour and almost nauseous. Then you resort to acetanilide, aspirin or the bromides which temporarily relieve but do not rid the blood of these irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drunk before breakfast for awhile, will not only wash these poisons from your system and cure you of headache but will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar, and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

If you aren't feeling your best, if tongue is coated or you wake up with bad taste, foul breath or have colds, indigestion, biliousness, constipation or sour, acid stomach, begin the phosphate hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons.

Results are quick and it is claimed that those who continue to flush out the stomach, liver and bowels every morning never have any headache or know a miserable moment.

most favored nation tariffs, without discrimination of any sort; to allow the allied and associated nationals freedom of transit through her territories, and to accept highly detailed provisions as to pre-war debts, unfair competition, internationalization of roads and rivers, and other economic and financial clauses. Germany also agrees to the trial of the ex-Kaiser by an international high court for the supreme offense against international morality, and of other nationals for violation of the laws and customs of war. Holland is to be asked to extradite the former Kaiser and Germany is to be responsible for delivering him.

A Regular Baby Fleet

The Germany navy is reduced to six battleships, six light cruisers and twelve torpedo boats, without submarines, and a personnel of not over 15,000. All other vessels must be surrendered or destroyed. Germany is forbidden to build forts controlling the Baltic sea; must demolish Heligoland; open the Kiel canal to all nations; and surrender her fourteen submarine cables. She may have no military or naval air forces, except 100 unarmed seaplanes, until October 1st, to detect mines, and may manufacture aviation material for six months.

Must Pay for All Damages

Germany accepts full responsibility for all damages caused to the allied and associated governments and nationals; agrees specifically to reimburse all civilian damages, beginning with an initial payment of 20 billion marks, subsequent payments to be secured by bonds to be issued at the discretion of a reparation commission.

The League of Nations is accepted by the allied and associated powers as operative and by Germany in principle, but without membership.

International Labor Body

Similarly an international labor body is brought into being with a permanent office and an annual convention. A great number of international bodies of different kinds and for different purposes are created, some under the League of Nations, some to execute the peace treaty, and among the former is a commission to govern the Saar Basin till a plebiscite is held fifteen years hence; high commissioner of Danzig, which is created into a free city under the league, and various commissions for a plebiscite in Malmody, Schleswig and East Prussia. Among these, to carry out the peace treaty are reparations, military, naval, air, financial, and economic commission, international high court and military tribunals to fix responsibilities, and a series of bodies for control of international rivers.

Certain problems are left for solution between the allied and associ-

Horse Sense About Tobacco

Good tobacco ought to be like a well-bred hoss—all th' kick taken out but all th' sperit left in.

You see, half the secret of makin' a good hoss is in the breedin' an' half in the breakin'. Selectin' tobacco that's grown right is only half of makin' Velvet. The agein' is the other half.

Thar's only one kind of agein' that gets th' right results—Nature's own. Nature's no clock watcher. She does a job right whether it takes two years or two thousand.

So when she gets through with the fine Kentucky
 Burley that we put away in wooden hogsheads for two years, it's just right.

It ain't been hurried none, or short-cutted. It's a Nature-done job.

All kinds of things are packed in tobacco tins, but your good neighbor will tell you "Velvet is the real pipe tobacco." Prove it for yourself.

Clyde Griffin Home From Overseas Service and is About to Enter Training School

Clyde Griffin reached Ellsworth last Friday night, having recently been discharged from the U. S. hospital at Camp Grant, Ill., and is now at his home near Phelps where he expects to remain for a short visit before he leaves to take up vocational training as provided by the government for wounded soldiers and sailors.

Clyde enlisted at Camp Custer, March 29, 1918, and reached France, June 14, 1918, as a member of the 114th Inf., 29th division. He went into action about September 7 in the Haute-Alsace sector, where on September 20, he was gassed badly enough to send him to the hospital for two weeks.

He returned to duty with his outfit just in time to get in on the Meuse-Argonne campaign and on October 12, in a trip over the top, he was wounded by machine gun fire, one bullet entering his left lung and one piercing his left arm. Clyde was just entering a shell hole when he was struck and says he immediately stopped walking and fell the rest of the way. He was just nicely settled when the Germans dropped a 77 inch shell with him which exploded, a piece of shrapnel burying itself in one leg. This was at about 7:30 on a Saturday and the shell hole was his home until some time Monday a. m. when he was picked up and taken to a first aid station where he was kept 24 hours before being sent back to base hospital No. 20.

He was transferred to base No. 208 at Bordeaux on January 16, where he remained until March 13, when he left for the states, arriving at New York twelve days later. He arrived at Camp Grant, Ill., April 6, and was discharged April 28, visiting a few days at Chicago and Grand Rapids before leaving for home.

His collar bone was fractured when he fell into the shell hole and this still troubles him some, but otherwise he is feeling and looking good.

Clyde says it was a dandy little war but they need not stage another on his account.

COUNTY WILL BUILD ITS CONCRETE ROADS

Road Commissioners Given Power to Assume the Responsibility

Charlevoix county supervisors, at their special meeting last Thursday and Friday, took action whereby the county road commissioners will be able to submit competitive bids on the building of the stretch of concrete road running north of Greensky Hill to the Emmet county line, said bid to be not more than $26,000 a mile, nor less than $20,000 a mile.

This step was taken largely to the fact that bids submitted by outside contractors for the construction of this piece of road were not only considered exorbitant, but exceeded the amount of money apportioned for their construction.

Additional funds to the amount of $17,000 was also provided to take care of the county's share of the construction of this road. Other matters along this line were transacted which give the county road commissioners permission to compete in the road building. It has been estimated that they can build this piece of road at a saving of not less than $4,000 per mile, which, if it proves true, means a great saving to the taxpayers of the county. On pages five and six will be found the entire proceedings of the board, which gives the matter in detail.

CITY AND COUNTY GO OVER THE TOP

Quota of $255,450 Raised Before Drive Is Over

Charlevoix, both city and county, went over the top in the Victory loan drive which ended at 10:00 on Saturday evening last. The county's quota was $255,450.00, and the Charlevoix district, comprising the City of Charlevoix, and Charlevoix, Marion, Norwood, Peaine and St. James townships, amounted to $76,950.00.

Up to Thursday noon, in the Charlevoix district, not over 40 per cent of the quota had been taken, and little enthusiasm was shown. With the help of several substantial outside subscriptions and the work of a few patriotic citizens, who at the last minute put their shoulder to the wheel with the determination that the district should not fall short on its quota, the full amount was raised.

Notice From Harbor Master

I wish to call the attention of the owners and occupants of property along the water front of the harbor to the condition of the docks, boat houses, and other buildings. It is the duty of every owner and occupant to be as particular in the care of this property as he would be with his property facing a street. Before any measures are taken to compel action, I prefer to ask all owners and occupants to proceed at once to improve the appearance of their water front. There are a number of tumbled down shanties and broken docks which are a disgrace and nuisance. These should be taken care of and must be taken care of shortly. If anyone has any doubt as to the effect on the general appearance of this city, caused by the presence of these useless docks and buildings, all he needs to do is to take a look at them from one of the large passenger boats passing through the harbor. I am going to give the owners and occupants two weeks time in which to start the work of improvement. After that time I intend to take whatever measures the law allows to force the improvements. As harbor master, I am responsible, and I get all the discredit. While you are fixing up the front of your property, go back in the rear and do an equal amount of work there. It should be brought home to everybody that all of this lake property has two fronts, and one is just as important as the other.

Sam Hamilton, Harbor Master.

ANOTHER BEAUTIFUL STORE WINDOW

Hardware Co. Makes Fine Display of Fishing Tackle

The show window of the Charlevoix Hardware Co. is attracting considerable attention these days, especially to those who fish and enjoy the out of door life.

The display represents the bubbling brook, the deep pool where the "big ones" are usually hiding, the mossy banks of a stream, with nature's other beautiful attractions. On the three partitions are displayed fishing tackle of every description, both for trout, inland lake, and deep water fishing.

A prize in fishing tackle amounting to some $18.00 in all, is offered the person who catches the largest rainbow or steel head trout in Pine or Round lakes, and places it on exhibition in the window.

The display is receiving many compliments and is well worth a minute of your time to gaze upon.

BUY HEAVILY IN VICTORY BONDS

Show Their Patriotism by Pushing Drive Over the Top

Two outside corporations, both represented in Charlevoix, showed their patriotism by subscribing liberally to the Victory drive which closed Saturday night.

The Booth Fisheries Co., through its local representative, Oluf Nordrum, bought bonds to the amount of $1,000, as did also the Agricultural Life Insurance Co., of Bay City, to the amount of $500.00, through its local representative, James B. Parsons.

The action of the institutions is highly commendable, and not only showed their loyalty to their country, but to the community where their interest lie. These contributions helped the local liberty loan committees go over the top in their quota, which was only put over on the last day of the drive.

MUSIC RECITAL AT CHARLEVOIX THEATRE

By Mrs. Madill and Her Pupils—Splendid Program

Musie lovers of Charlevoix have a treat in store for them at the Charlevoix Theatre, Friday evening, May 16, when Mrs. Madill and her pupils give a music recital.

The program contains some 30 numbers and will without doubt be one of the most interesting events of this nature the citizens of Charlevoix have had an opportunity to enjoy. All numbers will be given by home talent and the parents of these students will, before the evening is over, realize to a great extent the advancement that has been made.

COUNTY FARM BUREAU NOTES

The United States Secretary of Agriculture says, "We should not only have the best possible organization and co-operation of the Department of Agriculture, the Agricultural colleges, the State Department of Agriculture and the farmers associations, but we should especially strengthen the local farm bureaus, which support so effectively the extension forces and assist them in their activities."

Mr. J. W. Nicolson, State Extension specialist in farm crops, will be in our county May 20th. He is especially interested in seeing what we have in vetch, sweet clover and pedigreed grains. We would be very much pleased if those who have an acreage of these crops would notify the county agent before the above date.

The bookkeepers of the county will be pleased to know that the State Bookkeepers convention will be held in Boyne City, July 22 and 23.

Answers to the circular letter show that we have a good supply of home grown seed corn. If you are in need of seed corn please call the county agent's office and you can get a list of names of those who have seed corn for sale.

We have a call from Illinois for vetch seed. If you have any for sale, let us know the amount and the price you are asking for it.

From the inquiries we have received it looks as if the boys are certainly interested in the pure bred registered calf proposition. Let's make it "A pure bred calf for every pure bred boy."

W. C. T. U. Convention at Boyne City

The 28th annual convention of Charlevoix County Woman's Christian Temperance Union, will be held at Boyne City on Tuesday, May 20, beginning at 9:30 a. m., and closing with the afternoon session. A large delegation is planning to go from Charlevoix. Autos will carry anyone who wish to attend. As to arrangements, consult Mrs. S. J. Alcox.

WELCOME HOME SOLDIER BOYS

EAST JORDAN TO CELEBRATE THEIR RETURN

Committees Now at Work Planning Monster Celebration—To be a County Affair

Every returned soldier and sailor in Charlevoix county and adjoining territory is invited to become the guest of the city of East Jordan at a big welcome home celebration to be held in their honor in the near future. Citizens of East Jordan, with those of all parts of the county, wish to express, in a public way, their sincere appreciation for the work of the soldiers and sailors, and are putting forth every effort to make this occasion one long to be remembered.

A definite date cannot be announced at this time, but will be as soon as it can be ascertained when the boys in Headquarters Co., formerly Co. I, will be home. At the present time a part of them are at Camp Custer, where they are to be demobilized, and on Monday many other boys from different parts of the county arrived in New York, and as yet their arrival home is not known. But as soon as a definite time can be ascertained, the date will be set for the home-coming.

For the celebration two bands will be engaged to furnish music throughout the day and evening. Dinners will be served in the armory for at least one thousand of the boys and their immediate relatives, while buns and coffee will be served to the visitors from booths on the streets.

To give just a hint as to the preparations under way for their reception, 5,000 free cigars will be passed out and 10,000 cigarettes have been provided, besides the dinners and lunches. A free show will run all day at the Temple theatre and two blocks on Main street will be closed to traffic and the space devoted to merry-making.

Sometime during the day a monster parade will be formed, led by the returned soldiers and sailors and the welcome address given, with other features not as yet fully decided upon.

Mayor Dwight L. Wilson has been appointed as general manager, and he wishes it understood that this is not entirely an East Jordan affair, but concerns every soldier and sailor, their fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters and sweethearts in the entire county. He has expressed a desire that everyone in this region lay aside their work and business cares for one day, and do their part in making the home-coming event the success it should have.

Headquarters Co. has done its part in making the wonderful record of the 32nd division. Not a man hesitated when called upon and several made the supreme sacrifice and are now lying on the battle scarred field of northern France. Following are some of the things accomplished by the 32nd division, of which Headquarters Co. were a part:

Cited by General Pershing for effectiveness and bravery.

Similarly cited by General Petain of France.

Highly praised by Premier Clemenceau of France in personal message.

Divisional flags decorated by General Mangin of France, conferring French war cross on the colors.

Charlevoix won their first game Tuesday, when they defeated the Petoskey nine by the score of 18-7 in seven innings. In our first game with this same team, we outplayed them for seven innings out of the nine, but the other two were very disastrous, to say the least, and we came out on the short end by 23-18, so yesterday's game was needed to heal the wound.

Charlevoix was never behind except in the middle of the fourth inning, when Petoskey was one ahead. That was soon wiped out when it came our turn to bat, and our lead was substantially increased. In the following innings we piled them up at will, necessitating the removal of "Modesty" Degan, and the substitution of Ruggles.

See pitched nirtight ball except for one or two slight lapses, and had a real hot team behind him all the way. Jones made a wonderful spear of a hot liner, and Bugbee caught two twisting fouls which helped wonderfully. On the opposing team Benyas and Dudek were the stars. Dudek has a remarkable "peg" for a high school catcher, though Bugbee had a little hit on him when it came to catching them at second.

MEMORIAL DAY PROCLAMATION

By the Governor

Each year as Memorial Day comes round, we are glad to pay homage to the brave men, living and dead, who, by their splendid achievements nearly six decades ago, saved this nation from disruption. Their heroic deeds will never die. Their memories will be cherished while the Republic lasts; for in the hour of their country's need they left their homes and loved ones and went forth to do battle for the life of the Union. Our debt to them can never be paid, but it is our high privilege to hold these men and their achievements in lasting remembrance and honor.

Again, two years ago, our free institutions and our national ideals were menaced by a fierce and powerful foe. Our young men betook themselves in thousands to the training camps and later crossed the seas to uphold on foreign soil the honor of the flag. With a fortitude and valor befitting the sons and the grandsons of those patriots of an earlier day, they grandly bore their part in the struggle. Now they are coming back to us, but not all; and through our proud joy today, as we greet the returning hosts, there runs a note of sadness. We mourn with those who mourn for the noble fellows who will not come back to us. God help us all so to live, so to keep and guard our birth-right of true freedom, that we may be worthy of the great sacrifice they made for us.

Therefore, that we may pay a tribute of respect and esteem to the surviving veterans of the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and the recent World War, and honor the memory of the men who gave up their lives in all these wars, I, Albert E. Sleeper, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby issue this my proclamation and sincerely urge the observance of Friday, May 30th, 1919, as Memorial Day, and I earnestly appeal to the people of Michigan for hearty co-operation in plans for the observance of the day in their respective communities, and for special provision this year for the comfort and convenience of the old soldiers. Age is telling on them physically but the same undaunted spirit is there as of yore.

On that day flags should be displayed at half-staff until noon, and then hoisted to the top of the staff.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State this nineteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and of the Commonwealth the eighty third.

ALBERT E. SLEEPER, Governor.

By the Governor:

Coleman C. Vaughan,
Secretary of State.

FIRE DESTROYS SUMMER HOTEL

EAGLE ISLAND RESORT HOTEL IS BURNED

Pretty Place on Walloon Lake Was One of Oldest on the Inland Lakes

Eagle Island Hotel on Walloon lake, established in 1878, was completely destroyed by fire Sunday evening. Two cottages, two barns, and other buildings were also burned. The loss is between eight and ten thousand dollars, and there was practically no insurance. Mrs. Lois Davis, who has also operated the place, lost all her personal effects, legal papers, etc. The place was the oldest summer place on Northern Michigan inland lakes. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Mrs. Davis with her late husband homesteaded the land on which the hotel stood in 1875 and soon started a summer hotel. The ground is high land surrounded by a small stream and Walloon lake, making it an island. It was called Eagle Island.

Mrs. Davis spent the winter in Petoskey with her daughter, Mrs. Roy Winsor, and went to the hotel only last week Wednesday. She says she had a small fire in the kitchen range and a fire in a small heating stove. During the afternoon she had gone to the woods in the rear of the place for a walk and did not know of the fire until she emerged from the timberland into the clearing on her return trip. The place was then nearly destroyed.

Neighbors saved some of the bedding but this was piled too near one of the cottages and when this building burned it set fire to the bedding and destroyed that.

PUT ON THREE ACT COMEDY

C. H. S. ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION TO ENTERTAIN PUBLIC

"A Scrap of Paper" at Charlevoix Theatre Friday Evening—The Cast of Characters

The Athletic Association of the Charlevoix high school will present "A Scrap of Paper," a comedy, in three acts by Victorien Sardou, Friday, May 23rd, at the Charlevoix Theatre.

Sardou, a successful and well known French playwright, produced "A Scrap of Paper" in 1861. The plot was suggested to him by a short story which had appeared in America several years before, "The Purlin-End Letter" by Edgar Allen Poe.

Interest in the play centers about "the scrap of paper" from the time when Prosper Courmont, who has come to ask the hand of Baroness Glaciere's sister in marriage, and the Baroness discovers that a letter written by her and placed in a secret post box three years before when they were lovers, had never been found by Prosper.

Owing to the sensitive nature of the Baron it is necessary for the baroness to locate this letter quietly, but after repeated interruptions Prosper obtains it. Mademoiselle Suzanne, cousin to the baroness undertakes the task of getting the letter from Prosper, and after a long hunt, the use of "woman's wit" and the assuming of a previous attachment to Prosper, in order to disarm the suspicious baron, Suzanne succeeds, only to find that the parts they have been acting have become realities.

The comedy is exceptionally well constructed, for the minor characters are well drawn and the opportunity for good interpretation of parts is well distributed among the members of the cast.

Cast of Characters
Prosper Courmont...Robert Miles
Baron Glaciere...Lymah Brown
Brise, a naturalist...Gordan Palmer
Anatole, his ward...Martin Halverson
Baptiste, servant...Richard Paddock
Louise Glaciere...Marjorie Myers Mademoiselle Suzanne,
her cousin...Nellie Allen Mathilde, sister to Louise...Beulah Schweitzer Mademoiselle Zenobie, sister to Brise...Annabel Comfort Madam Dupont, housekeeper...Ethel Ingalls
Pauline, maid...Edith Hanshaw
Reserved seats will be on sale Thursday noon at Herman's Drug Store. Bring your tickets with you, when you get your reserved seat tickets. Tickets are 28 cents, reserved seats 10c extra.

People are requested to come on time, so that the play can start at 8:15, and not be interrupted.

NEW CONGRESS OPENED MONDAY

GREAT MASS OF LEGISLATION TO BE HANDLED

Railroad Puzzle and the Putting of the Army and Navy Back on Peace Basis to be Settled

Tasks faced by the 66th congress, meeting Monday in extraordinary session, threaten to match the tremendous duties the war congress faced. The war congress, in the case of most war measures, had a definite thing to do, and took the shortest cut to the goal.

The incoming congress, however, has problems of peace to solve as momentous as those of war, but without the urge of making every day count for victory, or the patriotic incentive to unity which the war furnished.

Here are the chief tasks before the new congress:

Adoption of an army and a navy program on a peace basis, and appropriation of the money necessary to carry them into effect.

Solution of the railroad puzzle by legislating for the future control of the lines.

Settlement of the amounts to be paid the telephone and telegraph companies for the use of their lines by the government during the emergency.

Decision as to the future of the merchant marine.

Legislation to aid business in getting back from a war to a peace basis.

Legislation to enforce national prohibition.

Legislation demanded by labor.

Legislation to curb bolshevism.

This list includes only those things which congress cannot escape considering. It does not include passage of many appropriation bills, which promises to be fruitful of much wrangling on the question of economy. Nor does it include self-imposed tasks of which there are many. Among the latter are revision of the internal revenue and tariff laws; revision of the court martial system; creation of a budget system (which however may be made an administration measure and take its place in the category of inevitable tasks); investigation of government officials and agencies blamed by republicans for war blunders; efforts to amend the constitution or pass laws to prevent, in future, the granting of broad blanket powers to the executive department, either in peace or war time.

In addition there will be efforts to repeal practically all the war measures passed by the last congress, and, according to indications, an unusual number of "freak" reconstruction and readjustment schemes, financial, social and economic.

Add to this the fact that the senate must consider and act on the peace treaty and league of nations covenant, and the further fact that intense political rivalry will be in evidence in both houses from start to finish, and it will be evident why Capitol Hill observers are predicting a long, hot session, a session which according to some of them, may last until the time for the national conventions roll around in the summer of 1920.

When the 66th congress opened for business Monday at noon Vice President Marshall of the senate and South Trimble of the house, called the first all-republican congress in eight years into session. Charges against the administration for the alleged pitting of politics against efficiency in the departments, and republican stand on the league of nations were among the developments pending as congress met Monday.

Four other French citations. Sixteen officers decorated with cross of Legion of Honor.

One hundred and thirty-four officers and men decorated with American distinguished medals.

Two hundred and seventy-seven officers and men decorated with British and French distinguished service crosses and medals.

Summary of Records

Following is a brief summary of the 32nd's record:

Sustained greatest casualties for length of time on firing line on the entire American Expeditionary Forces.

Fought on more fronts (five) and took part in more American major offensives (three out of four) than any other division.

Met and vanquished more German divisions (23) than any other American unit.

Lost fewer prisoners to Germans (43) than any other American combat division.

First American troops to set foot on German soil (Alsace) the 107th engineers taking the lead.

Gained 38 kilometers (24 miles) in four attacks.

Repulsed every counter attack of the enemy.

Never lost foot of ground gained. Only American unit in General Mangin's famous tenth army.

Only division used twice in Argonne-Meuse offensive, fighting continuously 20 days.

First division to penetrate Kriemhilde-Stellung line.

Captured 2,153 prisoners, 2,000 rifles, 200 machine guns, 100 pieces artillery and great quantities of ammunition of all kinds.

Put first pontoon bridge across Vesle river (under fire) and bridged Ourcq in record time—work of 107th engineers.

Marched with third army into Germany, guarding bridgehead at Coblentz.

Known as "Iron Jaw," "Savage" or "Unrelenting" and "Les Terribles" or the "Terrible Ones."

Canvass of the American army put 32nd division in first ranks of America's best fighting units.

Men Proud of Record

The men of the division are mighty proud of this record, the officers say, although the returning soldiers are seldom heard to brag about their accomplishments in the service.

Among the Michigan officers of the 32nd who gave their lives overseas were:

Col. Joseph B. Westledge of Kalamazoo.

Major Charles D. Matthews, Sault Ste. Marie.

Major Ira McLaughlin, Sault Ste. Marie.

Capt. James Cook, Pontiac.

Capt. Ira G. Pemberton, Calumet.

Capt. Edward W. Thompson, South Haven.

Capt. Charles A. Learned, Detroit.

Capt. Frederick W. Beaudry, Detroit.

Capt. Milburn H. Hawkes, Detroit.

Lieut. John A. Chapman, Detroit.

Lieut. Donald McMillan, Detroit.

Lieut. Dana C. Post, Benton Harbor.

Lieut. John F. Girard, Grand Rapids.

Lieut. Merritt Lamb, Houghton.

Lieut. Elmer B. Nelson, Pontiac.

Lieut. William J. Beal, Muskegon.

Capt. Falk, Menominee.

The 107th engineers from the copper and iron districts of Michigan, and from northern Wisconsin, showed their ingenuity in building a unique bridge at a strategic point across the Ourcq. The bridge was urgently needed but timbers and pontoons were hard to get. The 32nd engineers however, salvaged all the empty gasoline cans and barrels, lashed them together, carried them three miles and, under heavy fire, built with them a bridge across which an army marched. They carried the material through a heavy German barrage to reach the river and didn't lose a man. Another time the 107th under direct fire of hun artillery laid a bridge that would carry 80 tons and established a record for time that stands as "the record" in the American army.

The Jitney Still Jits

Recent articles on the war tax just levied on soft drinks, confections, etc., have given rise to some misunderstanding, and the Wm. Wrigley, Jr., Company, issues a statement to the effect that the 3 per cent tax on chewing gum does not affect the retail dealer or the consumer.

Mr. Wrigley explains that the manufacturers stand this tax, and there should be no change in the price charged you for your package of Wrigley's Spearmint, Doublemint or Juicy Fruit.

In other words the jitney still jits. Thanks, Mr. Wrigley.

Active Age Proves Real Quality

Like warriors grown gray in harness, and white-haired employees still on the job, a scuffed and scarred set of Silvertown Cords on an ancient car somehow best tells the story of the matchless service of these patrician tires.

The graceful, well-groomed elegance, with which they when new adorn, smart cars, may be shabby; their tough tread worn smooth; but their distinction remains.

Once a Silvertown, always a Silvertown. You know them, old or new, for aristocrats.

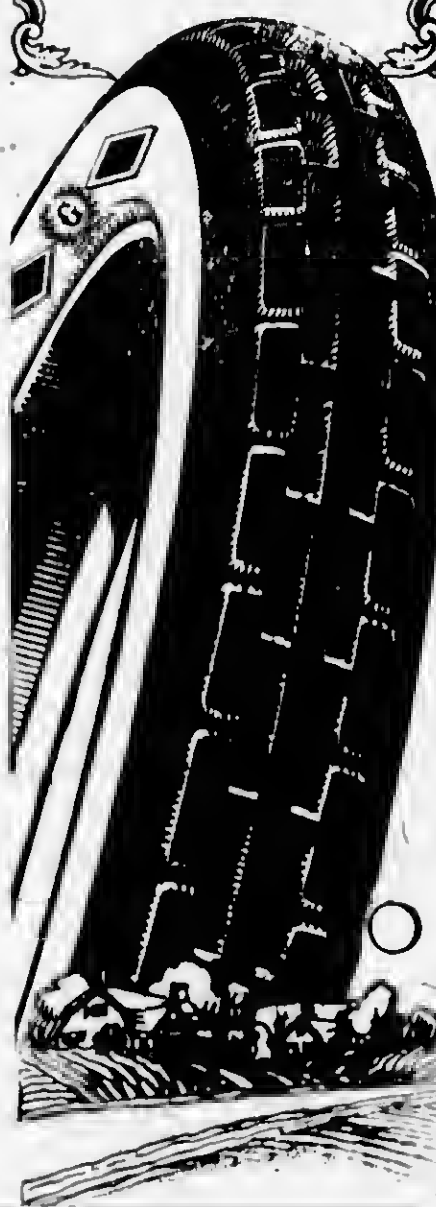

In their age, you read the history of their wonderful endurance; their useful career of miles and miles of road roughing.

You always get the long mileage of a ripe old age to round out the youthful beauty of the tires with the Twin Red Diamonds on the sidewall.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

I have recently noticed a jump in my car when I open the throttle with a load on the engine. It seems as though the clutch slips out and in again, grabbing suddenly and producing the jump. Can you advise me regarding this?

The diagnosis which you have made of your own case seems to fit the evidence you have given regarding the action of your car. The clutch does not slip out, however, but remains engaged when occurrences such as you have noted take place. What actually happens is that the surface of the clutch is in such a condition that the frictional resistance is not sufficient to hold the load. If you have a leather faced cone clutch the chances are that the leather has become dry and after allowing the clutch to slip for a length of time in this condition the face of the leather assumes a hard glaze, which prevents it from taking hold as it should. If this trouble has gone too far the only repair is to replace the leather facing. On the other hand, if it has just started to develop you may save the leather by thoroughly saturating it with neatfoot oil or castor oil. This will soften the leather and give it the easy engagement with the firm holding power that is the natural prerogative of cone clutches.

With some cone clutches there is a tendency on account of the thinness of the material or carelessness in placing it on the cone, for the copper heads of the rivets to project through the leather. The result is that the copper bears against the cast iron flywheel and causes a slipping action, since the coefficient of friction between copper and iron is not high enough to withstand the load of propulsion with only the pressure of the clutch spring to hold it engaged. Therefore, should your clutch be a cone, it would be well to examine the surface of the leather to see, first, if the rivets are properly countersunk; second, to see if the leather is not glazed and dry, and, third, to see that the leather is not worn out. If the latter is the case the only remedy is to replace it.

If the clutch is a disk design, intended to run in oil, the slipping may be due to the accumulation of grease between the plates. The remedy for this is naturally to employ some solvent or something which will cut the grease from between the plates. Kerosene is generally used for this purpose. The method of applying the kerosene will depend upon how the clutch is assembled and housed. If there is an accessible cover plate the kerosene can generally be poured down through this and the motor run awhile with the gears in neutral. This will cause the grease to be washed out. Afterward the kerosene is drained and the lubricant renewed.

A mistake very often made by owners of cars which have a disk clutch housed with the gear box is in placing heavy grease in the gears, forgetting that this will work its way between the plates of the clutch. When this is done the clutch very soon begins to slip.

The engine of my car runs well when it is working under a load, but when it is idle it only runs on two cylinders, Nos. 1 and 4. What can be the trouble? The car is a 1913 model.

The trouble undoubtedly lies in the fact that when idle the gas generated does not reach the far cylinders. This is probably due to the present low grade of gasoline for the handling of which provision was not made when your car was built. A new and modern carburetor equipped designed especially for low grade gas and this combined with a good hot air attachment to the air intake will give you a better running motor.

Of what value or merit are the tire saving jacks?

The value lies in their purpose. They are tire saving jacks, and they do save the tires. Where a tire is supporting the weight of a car it is under strain. You would not care to have a person stand on your feet for a time any longer than was absolutely necessary. So with tires. When it is not necessary that they bear the strain of the car the tire saver comes in and answers a good purpose in prolonging the life of this rather expensive equipment.

Will you please tell me the advantage of wire wheels?

Wire wheels give a car a snappy appearance. They are more resilient than wood wheels, effecting a saving on tires. They will stand greater strain than wood wheels in case of accident or severe driving. They are lighter than wood wheels, thus reducing the amount of unsprung weight.

What is a good flux for welding aluminum by the acetylene process?

It makes a great difference whether you are welding sheet aluminum or cast aluminum what flux you should use. Zinc chloride is used quite frequently, but the best satisfaction can be secured by purchasing from the large welding concerns the proper flux. These are secret formulas which have been worked out by the chemists of these concerns, and, while you will have to pay a little more for them, the better results justify their use.

Can you tell me the cause of a grinding noise occurring in the differential of my car, and how I can adjust it so that it will not have to buy new gears? This grinding noise may be due to foreign matter which has accumulated in the differential gear housing. Before doing anything else it would be well to flush this out with kerosene. The differential can then be packed with heavy grease, and unless the noise is due to considerable wear it should not bother you. The probabilities are that the wear occurs between the driving pinion and the crown gear. Any adjustments at this point should be made by a repair man.

My car has been run about 10,000 miles. One of the rear cylinders is weak, letting the compression back into the crank case. The valves, etc., are tight. What might the trouble be? Could it be a score?

Either the piston rings are broken and otherwise not performing their proper function or the cylinder is out. It is also possible, but not probable, that a sand hole in the piston casting is causing the trouble. To determine the trouble it will be necessary to remove the cylinder for inspection.

What final ratio is considered best on cars with 33 by 4 inch tires, and what speed should be obtained from this ratio?

The size of the tires is not the all important factor in determining the proper gear ratio, as there are many other points to be considered, such as the most efficient speed of the motor, the weight of the car, etc. These may so alter the proper gear ratio that the mere size of the tires becomes insignificant in determining the final reduction. With this in view, it is impossible to state that any given final reduction is best for a given tire size.

Is there any value in using chains on the front as well as the rear wheels of a car?

Chains on the front wheels facilitate steering only if used going. A chain on one front wheel will answer the purpose well under ordinary conditions to prevent the front wheels from skidding.

My car was badly overheated about a year ago, after which it developed a knock. Have had it taken up, but soon after it was as bad as before. I would like advice as to how I should proceed to take the motor out of the chassis as I wish to overhaul it myself, providing there is no machine work to do. Should a motor have a knock or metallic sound when warmed up running fifteen miles an hour with five passengers, a very little upgrade? Have driven 5,000 miles and the motor is free from carbon. Have always used a medium oil, winter and summer.

If you want to take the motor out of the chassis you can proceed as follows: First drain all water from the cooling system by opening the cock at the bottom of the radiator, then disconnect the hose connections between motor and radiator. There are two of these. Take off the radiator by unfastening the bolts which hold it to the frame. Disconnect the spark and throttle controls from the bottom of the steering gear. Loosen the connection between the end of the exhaust manifold and the pipe running to the muffler. Disconnect the gasoline feed pipe from the carburetor. If the car is fitted with electric cranking and lighting, then you will have to remove the wires from the electric motor and generator and also from the horn. Be sure to tag each wire so you will know where to replace it.

The next step is to disengage the engine unit from the drive shaft. There is a means of doing this back of the clutch. Take out the bolts that make the connection. Finally, remove the holding bolts which fasten the rear arms of the engine to the frame members and then disconnect the front support, and by the use of an overhead crane or block and pulley arrangement the engine should come out of the chassis.

My car has an annoying skip that I cannot account for. The liner is new. The skip seems to be a delaying firing, probably in the fourth cylinder, judged by the freer carbonizing. The sound does not appear when the car stands still, no matter how much I race the engine, but from fifteen miles upward it is practically continuous, and the engine does not now develop the power it should. Can it be due to a weak valve spring?

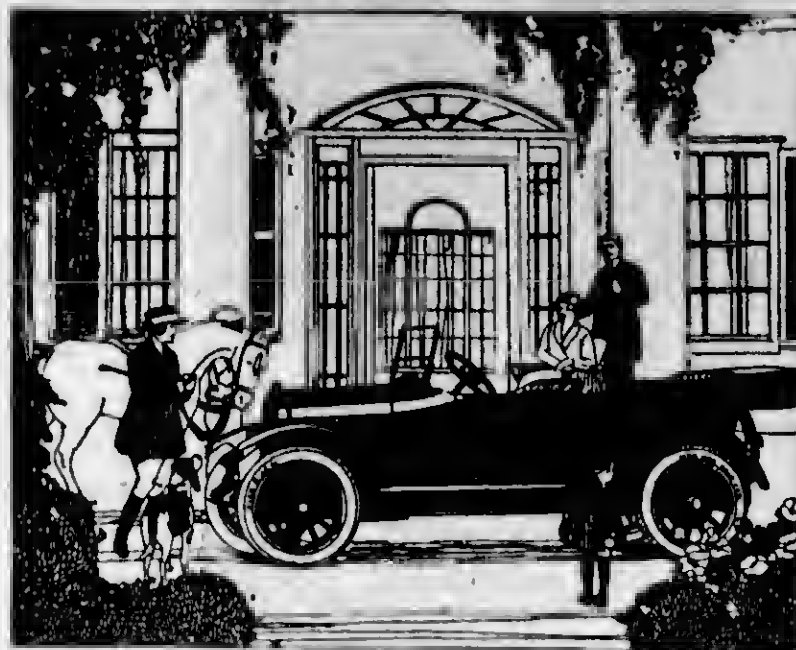

It is very probable that this skip is due to a compression leak. Look to this source. A weak valve spring might cause the trouble but it is not probable.

In casting cast iron crank cases is it possible to cast a certain amount of carbon with the iron so that the casting will make a good wearing surface for a bearing? Cast iron against the steel of cam shaft or crank shaft?

It is possible to cast carbon into iron. In fact, there is no iron that does not contain a considerable amount of carbon. However, if you have in mind attempting to cast carbon into iron yourself in a sand casting it is advised that this proposition is only a thing well worth a theoretical study for good results.

Scotland has the first drawbridge in the world in which all the work of opening and closing it and handling traffic over and through it is done by electricity.

COUNTY FARM BUREAU NOTES

Why not more and better live stock?

We believe that this county needs a system of permanent agriculture and live stock is the main drive shaft in such a system. Why not then make a county wide united effort to place Charlevoix county on the map as having the best live stock in the state? Is it not worth the effort of every citizen, farmer, banker and townsman?

When agriculture goes wrong all other industries go wrong.

Meetings were held at District No. 5 Hudson Township, Springvale and Clarion last Wednesday. The subject discussed was grasshopper control. Prof. Whelan from East Lansing assured us that crops can be saved from the pests by the use of poisoned bait. Chandler Township is to make a united effort and the town board has already placed an order for 500 pounds of poison. Wouldn't it be a good plan for the other townships, which were troubled with the pests last year to do likewise.

The Farm Bureau Crops committeeman, Frank Bird and the county agent were about the county Tuesday with J. W. Nicholson, State Crops Extension man.

Boys, we will soon have the pure bred registered calf club proposition ready to submit to you. The bankers are going to help and some of the prominent breeders of the county are offering very material assistance, and we believe that the boys should interest themselves in this project. Already a number of boys throughout the county have written or spoken to us about joining the club.

"A man may be down, but he's never out," the Salvation Army slogan furnished the theme for the official Home Service Fund Campaign poster designed by Frederick Dunham, the noted artist. From this he has evolved a striking artistic creation, typifying the hand of the Salvation Army reaching out to rescue those who are enshrouded in the clouds of poverty and vice. A Salvation Army lass is the principal figure, and the scarlet lining of her cloak, thrown back as she enfolds those who are calling out to her in distress, furnishes the poster with its one spot of brilliant color. The background is of blacks, grays and greens, indicative of the storm clouds of misery and want.

MISS BOOTH, IN RAGS, AIDED LONDON POOR

Salvation Army Commander, Disguised, Roamed Through Slums to Study Intimate Problems of East End Unfortunates.

the East End of London disguised in rags that she might help the unfortunate. When her father stood erect amid a storm of abuse and even physical violence she stood beside him.

She knows how the poor suffer because she has suffered with them. She knows there still remains in the wreck of a dissolute man a spark of nobility that will kindle a redeeming flame, because she has fanned many flickering sparks until her patient has regained his feet. She now heads the Salvation Army in the United States at the great moment of its career. The old time slurs and doubts have been banished. During the week of May 19-26 the Salvation Army will appeal to the people of the United States for thirteen million dollars to carry out its after-war program. Contribute to the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign, remember, to the Salvation Army "A Man May Be Down, but He's Never Out."

WILSON ENDORSES SALVATION ARMY.

President Wilson, burdened as he is, found time to cable his endorsement of the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign, which will be conducted during the week of May 19-26. The cablegram:

Commander Miss E. Booth, Personal, Salvation Army, 120 West Fourteenth street, New York:

I am very much interested to know that the Salvation Army is about to enter into a campaign for a sustaining fund. I feel that the Salvation Army needs no commendation from me. The love and gratitude it has elicited from the troops is a sufficient evidence of the work it has done, and I feel that I should not so much commend it as to congratulate it. Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

"OUT OF LOVE" CLUB UNIQUE ORGANIZATION

Members Are Girls Rescued by Salvation Army.

The "Out of Love" Club is one of the important club organizations maintained by the Salvation Army in this country. In every large city where there is a Salvation Army corps girls who have been helped back into the normal pace of a workaday world are proud of the membership in this club. Unhappy, loveless girls who do not forget kindnesses shown them in their hour of greatest need give out of love to help other girls receive the same friendliness. In a simple, quiet way, this unique idea has been maintained for over 20 years.

In every large city in the country there are girls who have needed the ministrations of the Salvation Army. After they have been helped and sent on their way again they become life members of this club if they so desire. Only girls are admitted who have given a good account of themselves for at least one month in the positions found for them by the Salvation Army after their release from a hospital or home. These girls pledge themselves to keep alive the spirit of friendliness and love which the Salvation Army has spread among them. The girls are expected to dress in a plain, simple way, and avoid in any sense of the word gaudy or immodest clothing.

Gossiping or idle loitering is tabooed. If members of the club transgress this rule they are liable to suspension for a month or longer. The "Out of Love Club" is one of the many activities that will result by the success of the Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign for $13,000,000 May 19-26.

REMAINS INTERRED AT BOYNE CITY

Funeral Services Held From Home of Mrs. John Macey

Ellen Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Perkins, was born April 11, 1840 in Floyd Corners, York state. In 1863 she was united in marriage to James Bogart of Salem, Michigan, making that city their home until about fifteen years ago when they moved to Boyne City.

About five years ago Mrs. Bogart suffered a general breakdown and shortly after came to Charlevoix to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. John Macey, continuing to make her home there until the time of her death. One year ago deceased was stricken with paralysis and since that time has been confined to her bed, death claiming her at 12:15 Sunday noon.

Mrs. Bogart leaves five children to mourn their loss, Mrs. E. N. Davy and Mrs. John Macey of this city, Mrs. Maud Osterheimer of Flint, Fred of Anaerotes, Washington and Henry of Alms.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 10:00 a. m. from the John Macey residence on Upright avenue, Rev. Henry Candler officiating. Remains were taken to Boyne City for interment.

BENEFIT DANCE GREAT SUCCESS

Net Receipts to be Donated to School Building Fund

The benefit dance at the D'Ooge barn on Wednesday evening of last week was a success in every detail, and a large crowd enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

Net receipts for the evening amounted to $60.75 and will be donated to the building fund of the county agricultural society to help in the expense incurred in the building of the new school exhibit building.

Charlevoix led in the sale of advance tickets, with East Jordan a close second, and both cities, including Boyne City, were well represented among the merry makers present at the dance.

Fleck's orchestra of Boyne City furnished the music, which we are informed is deserving of commendation. The bunch were out for a good time and not one was disappointed. The committee wishes to thank all who assisted in the arrangements, especially the refreshment committee, who were right on the job every minute. At a later date it is possible another dance for the same purpose will be given, announcement of which will be made.

COUNTY NORMAL NOTES

Monday afternoon and evening the normal class and Miss Bates attended the Eveline township school day for rural schools at the Ironton grange hall. In the afternoon the number and oratorical contests were held and the school exhibits were judged. Miss Bates and Mr. Stead, superintendent of the Boyne City schools, were the judges. The eighth grade commencement was held in the evening. Miss Stewart gave the commencement address and presented the diplomas to nineteen graduates. Miss Bates sang a solo in the evening. The exhibits from the schools in the township were well arranged and showed the results of much effort. The normal class enjoyed the trip and felt that they had received much inspiration and gained many ideas for the coming year. The congenial atmosphere was perhaps best shown in the bountiful township potluck.

Miss Groenink substituted in the first grade room Tuesday afternoon. Miss Cram visited the normal rooms Tuesday afternoon.

BONDS GOING UP

Liberty bonds of the various issues have been going up lately, little by little, jumpily rather than uniformly, but none the less surely.

This phenomenon is particularly impressive because it has accompanied the big Victory loan drive. Certainly people would not be paying more for the old war bonds just when a new issue of several billions was being put out if they did not have entire confidence in the United States treasury and in American business.

The fact that the Victory loan dragged rather badly for a while seemed to have no effect on bond values. They kept right on climbing, fraction by fraction, in the securities market.

There is entire agreement among financiers that they will climb much more rapidly when this new loan is out of the way, when the peace treaty is signed, when the uncertain reconstruction period is past and business of all kinds is free to go ahead and supply a clamorous world with the things it needs.

The actual, intrinsic value of all these war bonds has never been in question. They have paid, and will continue to pay, precisely the same rate of interest, with unfailing regularity, no matter how much they happen to be quoted at in the day's market reports. But the market value—what other people are willing to pay for them at any particular time—rises and falls with general business conditions.

Boom times will naturally bring boom prices for all the war issues. Then every citizen who has bought all the bonds he can afford to because it was his duty will feel more amply rewarded for his patriotic investments.

THE VICTORY LOAN

According to reports from Washington the Victory loan has been oversubscribed. This country has performed a financial feat that probably could not be duplicated in any other land at this moment. It has absorbed more than four and a half billions of dollars in bonds with scarcely a ripple of its economic waters. The tremendous financial power of the country has been demonstrated in an impressive fashion. The nation is justly pleased with itself, and perhaps a little surprised at itself.

For there is nothing to be gained by denying that in the beginning there was serious doubt about the ability of the United States to take up the Victory bond issue handily. The retirement of Mr. McAdoo from

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

But how much if kidneys feel like lead or bladder bothers you—Most forms uric acid

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications. A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

the treasury secretaryship was widely considered an indication of a desire to sidestep the tough job of trying to "put the issue over" and Carter Glass was rather pitifully considered a "goat" chosen so that his predecessor might retain untarnished his wartime record as an asset in future political ventures.

Happily all the fears and trepidations proved groundless. The Victory bond issue was not only oversubscribed; it was over-subscribed on an interest basis that must have made European financiers sit up in wonder. For though the government offered a more generous rate than it had offered on any of the Liberty bond issues, still Americans will get only a modest return for their money when we take into consideration the terms of the French, British and German war loans. The French loans averaged 6 per cent, the British 5 1/2 per cent, and the German bonds sold on a uniform 5 per cent rate at discount.

Victor L. Berger has issued an appeal to his colleagues in Congress to permit him to serve the term to which he was elected rather than the one to which he was appointed, and appends the editorials which brought him into collision with the courts. An interesting feature of these editorials is that they prove that Mr. Berger was able to write many pages of matter about the war full of denunciation of everything and everybody connected with it—except Germany.

In a speech at Philadelphia on Jefferson Day Attorney General Palmer warned his audience against "stand-pat Democrats." Stand-pat Democrats? Does Mr. Palmer imagine there is a Democrat in the country with nerve enough to stand pat on the record made by the party under the present national administration?

The "idealists" who made so much of refusing Italian Fiume to Italy preserve a loud silence on the question of handing Chinese Shantung to Japan. It's more fun being a Croat than a goat, however, and Summaris seem to be more numerous than Samaritans at the peace conference.

The first item in any sane labor program is to make it possible for productive enterprises to go ahead and do business so that there may be no unemployment, but this is the item that most of the big talkers about labor choose to overlook entirely.

The sickly, sloppy sentimentalists who live in a world of grandiloquent phrases are of about as much service in an era of reconstruction as an hysterical woman in a shipwreck; and they are fearfully and awfully numerous at present.

The Secretary of the Navy has not yet been knighted, as promised. We insist he must become a knight of the bath and dubbed Sir Jos. Raleigh, in honor, jointly, of another noted mariner and his own home town.

It's a good thing the Shantung decision came last or they might have turned Belgium over to England on Germany's title, with a promise to give it back to the Belgians some day.

Three thousand revenue officers will be appointed to enforce the prohibition law. Rain makes corn, corn makes whiskey and whiskey makes jobs for deserving Democrats. And it's a wet season.

We do not trust the rumor that when Mr. Wilson has saved the world for democracy, he is going to suggest to Carter Glass that a little of it be introduced on trial into the Virginia constitution.

METHODS FOR POTATO SEED TREATMENT

M. A. C. Urges Farmers to Plant Only Good Seed

To avoid diseases of the potato and insure a good crop, M. A. C. experts have tested the following formulas and urge all farmers to treat their seed before planting.

Corrosive Sublimato
(Deadly poison)
Dissolve 4 ounces of the crystals in a little hot water in a glass or earthen dish.

Pour this solution into 30 gallons of water in a barrel.

Soak uncut potatoes 30 minutes. It is dangerous to soak seed tubers longer than 1 1/2 to 2 hours.

The solution gets weaker with use. Add one ounce of crystals (dissolved) after each lot of tubers, is dipped.

Cut and plant at once.

If weather interferes, spread out to dry.

This treatment controls black leg, scab and black scurf.

Formaldehyde
(Irritating, not so poisonous)

Pour one pint of formaldehyde 40 per cent into 30 gallons of water.

Soak uncut potatoes 15 minutes. It is dangerous to soak tubers longer than 1 1/2 to 2 hours.

The solution does not get weaker with use. It can be used over and over.

Cut and plant at once.

If weather interferes, rinse in water, then spread out to dry.

This treatment controls black leg, and scab. Potatoes with black scurf must be sorted out.

The Comforts of the American Home

It is a well-known fact that, home for home, the American household has more comforts and conveniences than that of any other nation.

In foreign lands the modernized dwelling is found only in the better sections of the larger cities.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find the piano, the vacuum cleaners, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless electrical appliances.

There is a well-kept look about residence, store our outbuildings with an atmosphere of prosperity and content.

Did you ever stop to realize why this is so; how this condition was brought about?

It is largely due to advertising. And a big share of the credit belongs to newspaper advertising.

Stop and think how many of the foods you eat, the things you wear and other articles entering into your everyday life, you first heard of through newspaper advertisements.

You will then realize what a part they do play, or should play, in your daily life.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly, if you are not already doing so. They mean more to you than you can tell.

Charlevoix CourierSaving The Small Sums

It is surprising how readily a large amount of money when kept near at hand can disappear.

It is equally surprising how quickly small sums carefully banked can accumulate into a comfortable reserve.

Our officers invite you to open a Savings Account in this institution and deposit therein those small sums that are so apt to "slip through the fingers."

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of leftover waste, toxins and ptomaine-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, uneasy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

I was there to make a sketch of her. Luncheon was just over, and she was talking to a little knot of women. The first words I heard, as I slid quietly into a nearby seat, were "National Biscuit," recalling pleasantly my own tasty Uneda lunch. I liked her, and I spoke again, my pen and paper in hand. "Daylight," she said, "these are days when we had ice cream and Nahuco, and those were our party days."

A winter wheat crop of 900,000,000 bushels in round numbers is estimated by the department of agriculture in its report for May. The crop thus estimated sets a new record, and its total yield is within 17,000,000 bushels of the total winter and spring wheat crops of last year. With an estimate of 350,000,000 bushels of spring wheat, part of which has not been seeded, a total wheat crop of 1,250,000,000 bushels is possible for the United States. This is enough to allow for 600,000,000 bushels for bread and seed requirements, and 650,000,000 bushels for export, which is within 75,000,000 bushels of the outside estimate of European requirements and exceeds many of the numerous forecasts as to the amounts that will be needed. Based on $2.26 per bushel, the government guaranteed price, the wheat crop is valued at $2,834,000,000.

The experimental farm conducted for twenty-five years by the Michigan Agricultural college at Grayling has been turned over by the public domain commission to the Eastern Michigan Development bureau which will make experiments in development of the pine lands of eastern Michigan.

Game wardens from Traverse City and Charlevoix, searching a tug from Charlevoix that was bringing a cargo of fish to Traverse City for the Chicago markets from Beaver Island, found about two tons of immature perch, valued at $500, early last week. The fish were confiscated and the majority of them sent to Lansing for public sale, while the guilty parties will be prosecuted. During an idle half day the wardens patrolled two streams there and nabbed five fishermen having in their possession undersized trout.

IMPORTANCE OF HEALTHY KIDNEYS

Charlevoix Readers Should Learn to Keep the Kidneys Well

The kidneys have a big work to do. All the blood in the body is coursing through the kidneys constantly to be freed of poisonous matter. It is a heavy enough task when the kidneys are well, but a cold, chill, fever, or some thoughtless exposure is likely to irritate, inflame and congest the kidneys and interrupt the purifying work.

Then the aching frequently begins and is often accompanied by some irregularity of the urine—too frequent passages, sediment or retention. Thousands testify to the wonderful merit of Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy for the kidneys only, that has been used in kidney troubles for 50 years. You will make no mistake in following this Charlevoix citizen's advice.

John McCall, 905 Bridge St., says: "My back was so lame I could just about move. My kidneys were weak and acted irregularly. Dizzy spells bothered me and I would often have to grasp something to keep from falling. I was in awful shape when a friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. I tried them and they completely and permanently cured me."

One of the Greenville potato dealers has just accepted an order for twenty carloads of potatoes for July 1 delivery. The present indications are that there will be a shortage of this year's crop of Michigan potatoes. The small quantities left the farmers and dealers compared with other years and the fact that the new crop of southern potatoes is small due to weather conditions, causes belief that the city market will be active before another regular crop. The fact that big markets are buying large quantities for July 1 delivery shows, it is said, that buyers are expecting a big advance in price and a scarcity of potatoes at the finish of this season.

Governor Sleeper proclaims June 3 as the date of the extraordinary session of the legislature. Provision for the issuance and expenditure of the $50,000,000 issue of good roads bonds authorized at the recent election is the most urgent business awaiting the lawmakers. Representatives Charles Weidenfeller of Holly, Petter of Lansing, Spenser Thomas Reed of the house and Senators Forester, Watkins and Wilcox were at Lansing for the final adjournment of the regular session of the 1919 legislature. Governor Sleeper vetoed the Hicks bill requiring the newly created utilities commission to use the actual, efficient, applied capital invested as a basis for the determination of telephone rates.

News from the State Highway Department advising the decision of the State Highway Commissioner on the Walloon Lake road was received by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. The letter brings the glad tidings that the trunk line state awarded road will follow the so called valley route and will be built on such location and in accordance with plans and specifications which will hereafter be prepared by the State Highway Department. In rendering his decision in this matter, Mr. Rogers, our State Highway Commissioner, has done so only after the most complete investigation and minute inspection of the various proposed routes. Three surveys have been made and the results have proven beyond doubt that the valley route was the only feasible route to follow from an engineering standpoint. Inasmuch as the valley route has been used for 30 years as a winter road over which thousands of feet of logs and thousands of cords of wood have moved to our factories indicates the fact it can be kept open during the winter very easily. Again there are no hills to speak of on this route as compared to the present state road route. The decision of the department head of Michigan roads gives us a branch trunk line highway, over a comparatively level route to the beautiful lake of Walloon which will take its shores about a mile nearer Boyne City than does the present road. Mr. Rogers stipulates in his decision that the pioneers living on the state road must be provided a possible and improved highway. Immediate plans will be undertaken by our county road commissioners to commence the work as quickly as the right of way has been secured and the plans and specifications provided. This marks the end of a struggle which has covered a period of years dating back to the early pioneer days but only in more recent years has an concerted effort been made to provide a level route to the shores of Walloon Lake.—Boyer Citizen.

During the time that Mrs. M. P. Wood of Bellaire was attending the evening services at the M. E. church Sunday night, the store was broken into and about thirty-five dollars in money and a quantity of candy taken. The fact is evident that the job was done by persons that were very familiar with the place as the money was obtained from several different parts of the building. This fact is further substantiated in that the time Mrs. Wood was absent was very short. The store was entered at least three times while Mrs. Wood was in the store but on these previous occasions the loss was not so great from the fact that the store was closed and practically no cash in the till. During the winter several other places were broken into and, while the loss was small, and the articles taken were of no great value, the fact remains that there has been systematic burglary, either by individuals or a gang, and up to the present case, more for the sake of breking in than for what was or might have been stolen.

DECISION JULY 1 IN LIQUOR FIGHT

IS ONE OF THE MOST BITTERLY CONTESTED ISSUES

First Society Organized in 1789 But Real Fight Did Not Start Until
 One Hundred Years Later

Discontinuance of the liquor business in the United States, set for July 1, will mark the decision in America of one of the world's oldest and most bitterly contested issues.

Use of alcoholic beverages probably antedates all recorded history. And, although the first temperance society was not organized until 1789, advocacy of abstinence is little less ancient than use of intoxicants.

Mahomed was among the original advocates of prohibition.

Use of distilled liquors did not become prevalent in Europe till toward the close of the seventeenth century.

Inception of the temperance movement came one hundred years later, but its development during nearly two centuries was very slow.

Liquors used in ancient times were fermented beverages.

Discovery of the process of distillation is attributed to the Chinese, who imparted the knowledge to the Arabs. Spaniards got the secret—for it was kept a secret for a time—from the Moors and in turn gave it to other European countries. Use of distilled liquors in the old world became general and drunkenness common.

Hard drinking in England came to be regarded as a grave national danger. In 1735 a London grand jury held the traffic responsible for a great crime wave, and regulation of the liquor business by law was instituted. Similar experiments were in the meantime being made in America.

The battle of the country against use and abuse of liquor began in a mild way as a protest in pulpits against drunkenness. A New England society went so far as to bind its members not to get drunk except on the Fourth of July and general training days.

Advocates of moderation gave way to those who felt that only total abstinence was the remedy. Then the battle began.

East Hampton, L. I., in 1651, forbade the sale of more than two drams of distilled liquor for immediate drinking.

The constitution of Virginia, 1676, prohibited sales of wines and ardent spirits, except in Jamestown.

In 1760, Quakers abolished the habit of drinking at funerals. The first congress of 1777 recommended that laws be passed stopping the distilling of grain.

Churches took a definite stand against the use of intoxicants.

In 1789 the first temperance society was organized by two hundred Connecticut farmers.

The first recorded demand for prohibition was made by John Chalmers, of Nassau, N. H., in 1795. It attracted little attention.

In 1827 it was announced that two hundred temperance societies had been formed in sixteen states and that 30,000 men pledged abstinence.

In 1833 it was estimated that five thousand temperance societies had 1,250,000 members.

State legislatures commenced to pass laws in an effort to limit the traffic. The Illinois legislature enacted a "local option" law.

The first large temperance society was founded in Washington in 1840. Many others soon sprang into being.

Next a "sign-the-pledge" wave swept the country. This movement was given its impetus by churches in America and Great Britain.

By this time the liquor question had become a great national issue in politics. Maine took a revolutionary step when it adopted state-wide prohibition in 1840. Other states swung into line.

But seventy-two years elapsed from the time the first state voted liquor outside its borders before national prohibition was ratified by thirty-six states.

When congress passed the national prohibition amendment, November, 1918, there were thirty-three "dry" states. Several others were partially dry, with local option laws in effect.

SALVATION ARMY VALIANT IN WAR

Having Served Gloriously in the Trenches, Is Coming Back
 From Overseas for Peace Time Activities.

ASKS HOME SERVICE FUND.

National Campaign to Replenish Resources Depleted by Long and Direct Contact Services With Our Boys Scheduled for May 19-26.

New York (Special).—Like the 2,000,000 American boys whom it served so gloriously in the trenches of France, the Salvation Army is coming back from overseas, ready to put aside its khaki uniform of war service, don again the "Civvies" and embark once more on its normal peace time activities.

And, just like those doughboys, the Salvation Army has come out of the war victorious and with citations for bravery, decorations for gallantry under fire and golden chevrons indicative of honorably won wounds on its arm. The victory which the Salvation Army has won is a victory over the obstacles that lay before it in its purpose of efficient service of the fighters of Pershing's army. Its citations are the thanks, cheers and prayers of 2,000,000 doughboys. Its wound stripes are richly golden of hue, for they typify the unselfish way in which the Army threw all its resources—financial, spiritual and moral—into the effort to help the American soldiers in France.

Now the Army is asking the people of America to give it concrete evidence of the gratitude which has been so fondly, and so willingly expressed.

From May 19 to 26 the Salvation Army will conduct in the United States an campaign to raise $12,000,000 for its Home Service Fund. The money is needed both to recompense the fortunes of the Army, shattered by its long service of the soldier and to permit it to carry on the work it has always done on the larger scale which the public now demands. Raising the money by this means, the Salvation Army explains, will eliminate, perhaps permanently, the necessity for the ceaseless solicitation of funds which has been a bugbear to the Army and the public alike. It will permit the workers of the Army, who, forced to devote more than half their time to gathering money, were in consequence only half efficient in their essential and social service work, to devote all their time in future to the duties for which they have been trained.

The amount of the fund has been determined exactly and tactfully by workers of the Salvation Army in all parts of the United States.

Already headquarters for the campaign have been established in New York City. A ready response in encouragement and cheering wishes for success has been heard from all parts of the country. Men and women prominent in all walks of life have volunteered their services as active participants in the drive. The Army's 2,000,000 loyal readers—the boys who went overseas in khaki—are all lined up ready to help. The Army not only helped them over there, but it found jobs for many of them after they had been mustered out of service, helped them get the civilian clothing that was necessary if they wanted to take those jobs, fed many of them, gave them shelter and furnished them with transportation to their homes.

For the war service of the Salvation Army is still under way. Its workers are still, many of them, in France, and its huts, clubhouses and hotels for the reception of the boys returning from abroad are in full swing here.

Neither, the Salvation Army asserts, will its war work be abandoned until the last boy is out of the khaki of the army or the blue of the navy. The larger activities which necessitated the coming campaign will exist and be financed independently of the service of the fighters from abroad.

 TOBACCO

"Friendly" is a very good word to describe the positively pleasing quality that sets VELVET tobacco apart.

There is that indescribable something about VELVET that is associated in men's minds with the thought of a friend.

It is a satisfying smoke—never harsh; without a bite. Like a friend it "agrees" with you no matter how much you use it.

Long, patient ageing—in wooden hogsheads—does it. Friendship must ripen slowly. Good tobacco the same way. An army of men have learned this through VELVET.

Today is a good time to get a lot of comfort out of a pipeful of friendly VELVET.

CARDINAL GIBBONS ENDORSES S. A. DRIVE

Venerable Churchman Expresses Hope That $13,000,000 Will Be Raised.

The following letter was addressed to former Governor Whitman of New York state by Cardinal Gibbons:

"Honorable and Dear Sir—I have been asked by the local Commander of the Salvation Army to address a word to you as National Chairman of the Campaign about to be launched in behalf of the above named organization. This I am happy to do, and for the reason that along with my fellow American citizens I rejoice in the splendid service which the Salvation Army rendered our soldier and sailor boys during the war. Every returning trooper is a willing witness to the efficient and generous work of the Salvation Army both at the front and in the camps at home. I am also the more happy to commend this organization because it is free from sectarian bias. The man in need of help is the object of their effort, with never a question of his creed or color.

"I trust, therefore, your efforts to raise $13,000,000 for the Salvation Army will meet with a hearty response from our generous people. Faithfully yours,
 "J. CARD. GIBBONS."

Thackeray Always Late.

An external stimulus sometimes is necessary to bring a writer's ideas to a focus. It was the custom with Thackeray never to do today what could be put off until tomorrow. He was, therefore, frequently behind with his copy and it was no uncommon thing for him to keep the messenger from his publisher waiting at the door while he wrote the last pages of the book.

Willfulness and Will.

Do not mistake willfulness for will. Very often the girl who is most determined to get her own way in everything, lacks will power. Will is conducive to self-control, willfulness to a lack of it. The difficulty a girl's proper guardian, her parents and her teachers, encounter in bringing her to do what is expected of her is not the measure of her will, but of her willfulness.—Pennsylvania Girl.

Anyway Gene Debs has the consolation of knowing that he won't have to help pay the war debt.

TWO DANGEROUS WHEAT DISEASES

Farmers Urged to Look Carefully at Fields for Signs

A disease called "take-all" and "flag smut" are the names of these new ones and any wheat grower who finds his fields with the symptoms of these diseases should report same to their county agent, as there is an active campaign to eliminate these in Michigan wherever found.

There are two counties in Indiana and one in Illinois where they have found them and we are fearful that there may be some in Michigan.

"Take-All" is a fungus root disease or rot, which until now had not been known in the United States. It is extremely prevalent in Australia and is undoubtedly their worst wheat disease. It causes the plant to remain stunted, the diseased stools sprouting on the ground and looking like quack grass. Instead of producing a normal head, the shoots are replaced by wiry, spindling cut-groths which never amount to anything. The diseased parts are discolored and rotted of a mahogany brown color. Not all stunted wheat can be called "Take-All," but where the farmer has stunted wheat that is not caused by waterlogged ground or winter killing, it should be looked into.

Flag smut is readily recognized by the black streaks on the leaves.

These diseases not only destroy the crop this year, but all crops for years to come. It will eventually take the rye, oats and barley as well as wheat if it cannot be checked.

Farmers look carefully at your fields and if these conditions exist, call the county agent and he will get a plant disease specialist from Lansing to look into these cases if unusual.

SCHOOL YEAR A SUCCESSFUL ONE

Patrons of District Well Pleased With Work Accomplished

It has been definitely decided that two of this years teachers will be with us for next year, Mrs. Tajsey and Mrs. Patterson having signed and returned their next year's contracts.

This will be good news to the patrons of the school, the only regrets being that Miss Lowr, primary teacher for the past two years, could not be induced to remain for another year. She however has accepted a school at Antrim City near Mancelona. It has not been decided who her successor will be, but the board has several applications and no doubt a choice will soon be made.

This year has been one of the best if not the best in the history of the Ellsworth schools and with the same teachers re-engaged for the higher grades we can look forward to another banner year.

The best wishes for continued success in her work go with Miss Lowr to her new school and one and all the teachers and pupils are wished a happy vacation time.

WAGES OF MALES AND FEMALES

BILL PASSED TO PROHIBIT DISCRIMINATION IN PAY

Fitzgerald Bill Makes Sabotage Crime to be Punished by Fine and Imprisonment

Michigan took two advanced steps in industrial legislation at the recent session in the passage of the Miles bill "to prohibit discrimination as between sex in the payment of wages of males and females engaged in the manufacture or production of any article" and the Fitzgerald bill defining the crime of criminal syndicalism. The Miles bill grants to women, by legislation, what the male voters granted them through the medium of the ballot box, viz., wage equality with men for equal service.

Origin of Sabotage

The Fitzgerald bill initiates new matter into the Michigan statutes, in fact one word is put into law for the first time in the history of the State. The word is "sabotage" and is of French origin, and means the wilful injury or destruction of machinery or materials by workmen through apparent accidental means. Tradition has it that a French workman in a rage one day threw his wooden shoes (Sabots) into some machinery crippling the equipment and handicapping production. Others, seeing the result, adopted similar means and from this incident comes the word sabotage.

What Fitzgerald Bill Does

In addition to making sabotage a crime the Fitzgerald bill also provides that any person who by word of mouth or writing, advocates or teaches the duty, necessity or propriety of crime, violence or other unlawful methods of terrorism as a means of accomplishing industrial or political reform, or prints, publishes, edits, issues or knowingly circulates, sells, distributes, or publicly displays any book, paper, document, or written matter in any form, containing or advocating, advising or teaching the doctrine that industrial or political reform should be brought about by crime, violence or other unlawful methods of terrorism, or openly wilfully and deliberately justifies by word of mouth or writing, the commission or the attempt to commit crime, violence or other unlawful methods of terrorism with intent to exemplify, spread or advocate the propriety of the doctrines of criminal syndicalism; or organizes or helps to organize, or becomes a member of or voluntarily assembles with any society, group or assemblage of persons formed to teach or advocate the doctrines of criminal syndicalism is guilty of a felony and punishable by imprisonment in the state prison for not less than ten years or by a fine of not less than $5000 or both at the discretion of the court.

Miles Bill Equalizes Wages Between Sexes

Both of these bills while initiating new subject matter into law for the first time had little if any opposition. The Miles bill to prohibit discrimination between sexes was amended in the Senate to exempt agriculture and the further provision was added:

"That no female shall be given any task disproportionate to her strength, nor shall she be employed in any place detrimental to her morals, her health, or her potential capacity for motherhood" and with these changes, designed to strengthen the law, the bill was passed. Under this bill which becomes effective August 15th, it will be against the law for any employer "to discriminate in any way in the payment of wages as between sex or to pay any female engaged in the manufacture, or production of any article of like value, workmanship and production a less wage, by time or piece work, than is being paid to males similarly employed in such manufacture, production or in any employment formerly performed by males."

MICHIGAN TRANSIT COMPANY OFFICIALS

To Have Control of Docks and Warehouses of Old N. M. T. Co.

The new steamboat line, Michigan Transit Company, in addition to acquiring the well known steamships, Manitou and Missouri, will also acquire all of the docks and warehouses of the old Northern Michigan line, located at Ludington, Manistee, Onekama, Frankfort, Petoskey and Harbor Springs. It already owns the dock properties at Traverse City and Suttons Bay.

The new line plans to put these docks in good repair and before another season comes around, expects to equip them with comfortable waiting rooms and passenger facilities.

The management has adopted a policy of "service" believing that this policy means more dollars to the company in the long run than does the policy "the public be damned." This should appeal particularly to the people of Charlevoix.

The officials of the new line are as follows: Robert W. Dunn, president; George E. Johnson, vice president in charge of operations; J. C. Conley, treasurer and general manager; E. C. Thompson, secretary; Charles A. Donlin, general freight agent; B. J. Kennedy, general passenger agent, all of Chicago. This paper wishes the new line success.

ANNUAL MEETING MEGUZEE ASSN.

HELD AT EAST JORDAN TWO DAYS LAST WEEK

Address of Welcome Given by East Jordan Member—Officers Elected for Ensuing Year

The fifteenth annual meeting of the Meguzee Association, Order Eastern Star, met at East Jordan Wednesday and Thursday, May fourteenth and fifteenth. Wednesday forenoon was given to greeting of guests and work of committees and at two, thirty Wednesday afternoon the president, Miss Irene Getty, Grand Associate Conductress of Kalkaska opened the regular meeting.

There were delegates from each of the fourteen chapters except one, afternoon attendance numbering over two hundred. After the address of welcome which was so cordially given by Paul Sloan of East Jordan could feel it was a welcome extended not by the address alone, but by the greeting of the East Jordan people, the decorations and in every way they could welcome us. A greeting extended to us as soon as we reached the city, by colors and emblems shown from the store windows and kind words everywhere. This was responded to by Mr. Wright of Harbor Springs.

After the president's address and the reports from the chapters as to the work of the year the meeting closed to be called again at seven-thirty. We were now escorted to the fine, large Red Cross rooms where the Methodist ladies served a most excellent dinner for the Stars.

At the evening meeting as many had driven in later, the number was over three hundred and though a large crowd it was well taken care of as the use of the armory had been secured. East Jordan Chapter opened the work and then the initiation work was given by a team composed of representatives from each chapter and was a credit to them. Charlevoix chapter gave the memorial work and Mancelona chapter the floral work, all very well given and showed the spirit and attention of the work so well taken in each chapter.

A list of Star members and near relatives who were in the service was read and those names where gold stars show the sacrifice, were read and Mr. Gill of Central Lake gave the honor service. This closed the work of the evening and after light refreshments many returned to their homes. Those who remained were entertained by the East Jordan people and homes were opened with a cordial welcome.

Thursday morning the work was a business session for election of officers and any work of the association there was to finish after which the meeting closed to meet in 1920 with Central Lake.

The ladies again served a fine dinner and all departed for their homes voting East Jordan royal entertainers as is well shown in two other lodge associations meet there this month and they all entertain the soldiers.

The following officers were elected: President—Effie Marshall, Charlevoix.

First Vice President—Mrs. McNeil, Boyne City.

Second Vice President—E. B. Gill, Central Lake.

Secretary—Esther Frank, Hellmire.

Treasurer—Emma Hohler, Pellston.

BIG EVENT OF LIFE HAS PASSED

PAUL COLDEN TELLS OF FIRST CAMPAIGN IN HAITI

Goes With Detachment to Interior of Island—No Good Road Advocates There

The following letter from Corp. John P. Colden, with U. S. M. C., Headquarters Detachment, 2nd Regiment, 1st Brigade, now at Cape Haitien, is one, if not the most interesting the Courier has had the privilege of printing. Corp. Colden is a son of J. W. Colden of Chariton. The young man will be remembered as having been at the Inn for several seasons past. The letter follows:

Cape Haitien, Republic of Haiti, May 6, 1919.

"Dear Folks—I have been on my first 'campaign' in Haiti—and probably my last, so I shall try to tell you something about it. It really amounted to little but it was a big event in my little life and one that I enjoyed immensely.

"Good Friday morning, April 18, I started out for St. Michel at about five o'clock. There were two trucks leaving with provisions for the men in the hills and six of us were to go along as guards. In addition there were two officers, Captain McLean, the regimental Adjutant (my former company commander) and Lieutenant Truitt, the regimental Chaplain. For the first few hours we passed over good roads which were on fairly level ground. In spite of the loads, the trucks made good time. We met hundreds of people, mostly market women, who were coming in to Cape Haitien. In the little towns of Haut-du-Cap and Cognette the people were already up and at work. In the former town the marines and sailors had their last real fight with the natives in 1915 when Uncle Sam took possession of the island. It is said that the natives fired upon the Americans from ambush and that our men immediately dropped to the ground. The natives thought they had killed the invaders and came to inspect their job. The Americans then opened fire on them and killed a great many Haitians. But that is all of the past and now the inhabitants of Haut-du-Cap are probably as loyal as any of the Haitians are to the occupation.

The trip was a pleasant one and I spent a good deal of time enjoying the scenery, for we would not enter hostile territory until about eleven o'clock. The hills with their blue haze were so pretty and yet so elusive of description that they awakened many thoughts and memories. The large rocks along the hillside were many-colored reminding me somewhat of a cubist painting. The vegetation was ever a source of interest and enjoyment. Flowers of every description grew in abundance. Some resembled sweet peas; others had the shade of color like tiger lilies only lacked the brown spots; always there were the large red, fragrant flowers that grow on immense trees, the name of which I have never learned. Then there were many flowers which reminded me of our Easter lilies. These recalled the memories of the Easter season and drove my thoughts back to Michigan and home. But these are strange thoughts for a soldier and so again I thought of my mission and tried to confine myself to thoughts of the situation in hand.

Within an hour or so we were climbing steadily upward, at first very gradually but by eight o'clock we were encountering large hills. The roads were dry so the trucks had little difficulty. Then we reached Le Limbe where we found a small detachment of marines stationed. They were there to guard the town and keep the telephone line in repair. From then on the hill-climbing was a serious business. The hills were so steep that in many places the roads were mere shelves which zig-zagged along the hillside. In the valleys were always little streams. Often the bridges broke and we were forced to lay planks over the holes to let the second truck get across. At times we were less fortunate. Then the trucks would have to "swim." That is, the water came up to the hubs and I thought we might all have to swim before we got out of it. Mud-holes now became numerous and frequently the trucks would get stuck. At one time the leading truck was buried in clay to the hubs. We tried to fill the holes with stones but finally the truck was extricated by the rear truck pushing it out. Oh, those Nash Quads can do wonders. "Finally, after climbing for hours, we reached the little village of Plaisance. I don't know just what the name means but if it is like it sounds, the town is rightly named. The houses were scattered along the road for nearly a mile; each was neatly white-washed and the whole town had the appearance of a prosperous self-conscious community. Probably there was no Women's Federation of Clubs there to keep up the park but even that luxury was to be enjoyed by the inhabitants. Here we stopped long enough to eat some fruit and take aboard the magistrat who was to go on the carpet before Colonel Hooker. We left Plaisance at about eleven o'clock and then struck the steepest climb. Frequently it was necessary to walk behind the trucks and block the wheels at intervals. The turns were so sharp that considerable maneuvering was necessary. Had the brakes failed to work properly or had the driver lost control of his machine (Continued on page three)

CONDUCTED HIMSELF WITH HONOR

CORP. ALLARD COMMENDED FOR DUTY PERFORMED

Received Letter From Commanding Officer Who Speaks of Associations for Past Two Years

The satisfaction of having performed their duty, has been characteristic with "our boys" who went overseas. They overcame any obstacle that confronted them—and did it without a murmur. They, themselves, knew what their duty was and did it. Compliments as to their conduct have at various times been received and they are entitled to them—more by far than mere words can express.

Band Corporal Lee Allard, with the 125th Inf. Band recently returned from overseas has just received the following letter from his commanding officer, and he is quite deserving of it. Every man or boy who "did his bit" over there is deserving of words of praise. Give them the glad hand when they arrive at home. They have it coming a hundred times more than words or hand shakes can express.

The following letter speaks well of Corp. Allard and we congratulate him on the record he has made:

125th U. S. Infantry, Camp Custer, Michigan, May 21, 1919.

Band Corp. Lee Allard, 125th Infantry.

"My Dear Corporal: I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for the services you have rendered while in the band. You have at all times shown a devotion to duty, a willingness and loyalty to the band which is commendable. The efficiency of the band has been due, in a great measure, to your efforts.

"On the battle line you conducted yourself with honor, and your work as a non-commissioned officer has been above criticism.

"Our pleasant associations of the past two years have been interrupted by the breaking up of the band, but I hope you will never forget the pleasure and somewhat arduous duties you have performed.

"With best wishes for your future success and happiness,"

Sincerely yours, Alfred J. Schmidt, 2nd Lieut., 125th Inf., Commanding.

WORK COMMENCED ON CONCRETE ROAD

Road Commissioner Hammond Starts Operations Near Burgess

Work of constructing the stretch of road lying between Greensky Hill and the Emmet county line, on the Charlevoix Petoskey road, started Monday morning when commissioner O. D. Hammond placed a number of men at work opening up a gravel pit and moving machinery and equipment to the ground.

Work on the road will start at the west end and be carried through north to Burgess. During the construction of the road, what is known as the flat road, or that running past the Waller farm will be put into condition for traffic.

Within a short time a big force of men will be working and it is the intention of the commissioner to rush the road to completion at the earliest date possible.

That Salvation Army Smile

Several thousand veterans of the Argonne Forest recently entered New York harbor. Among them were several badly wounded Marines. One man, easily distinguished because of a coat sleeve that dangled empty at his side and a Croix de guerre, was making his way slowly to the waiting ambulance when a Salvation Army girl approached him and offered doughnuts and coffee. "Now I know I am home," he said. "Those doughnuts helped a whole lot 'over there' and, first crack out of the box when we land, we find more waiting for us. The best thing about the Salvation Army work out near the front line was the smile that accompanied the gift. Those girls had a knack of wrapping up every doughnut and every cup of coffee in a smile. The doughnuts were fine, but the smile—that took the place of powdered sugar." The Salvation Army Home Service Fund Campaign for $13,000,000 opens May 10, to last one week.

"UNCLE" GEORGE AND CONCRETE ROADS

Will Forever Maintain They Are the Kind to Build

"Uncle" George H. VanPelt and his daughter, Mrs. C. B. Garney, after a week in the city looking after business interests, left Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Garney for her home in Joliet, Illinois, and "Uncle" George for a few days visit with friends in Boyne City, Boyne Falls and Cadillac, before going to the home of his daughter.

"Uncle" George says he did not make this trip to Charlevoix with the intentions of boosting concrete roads, because anyone and everyone knows, unless they are grossly ignorant or willfully prejudiced, that they are the only roads to build, being more economical in the long run than any other.

He says that at the present time he has turned his attention to the building of fire-proof hotels, not like the old Elston, even if it has burned out three times, but a real, genuine, fire-proof hotel, with a bathroom in every room. And we hope he will succeed and begin operations right here in Charlevoix.

He is also giving a goodly portion of his time working on his "America for Americans" plan, which will ultimately compel every alien to become naturalized or be deported. Also not to allow any immigrants to enter the United States for a period of at least five years.

We have quoted him just as he spoke. His fire-proof hotel plan is good, but the "America for Americans" is still better. Go to it, Uncle George, you will have the support of every red-blooded American in the country.

BIG STORE AT PELLSTON BURNS

Loss Estimated at More Than Two Hundred Thousand Dollars

The big department store of Jackson & Tindle at Pellston was destroyed by fire early Monday forenoon, taking with it the company's Pellston offices, warehouses, etc., causing a loss estimated to be more than $200,000. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it spread rapidly and soon the entire structure was a mass of flames. Hard work on the part of the firemen confined the flames to the main building and warehouse. The opera house, close by, was saved. The loss to the company's stock of goods is estimated at $125,000, while on the building is placed between $70,000 and $90,000. Loss on the offices and other buildings is not estimated.

The Jackson & Tindle department store was a modern brick structure erected about ten years ago.

HOW FAR WILL IT REACH?

MAKE COUNTY INVESTIGATION WHILE WORK IS ON

If Booze is Being Brought in Charlevoix County or Cities Put Immediate Stop to It

From the Boyne Citizen, issue of Friday, May 23: "Several influential citizens from the county seat of our county were summoned over to our city Tuesday of last week and were made to testify before a local justice of the peace concerning their knowledge as to various violations of the liquor law in this county.

"It seems that the county officers and we mean by that our sheriff and prosecuting attorney, were wise to the fact that booze was being toled in and passed around among some of the elect in our neighboring city, and taking advantage of the new grand jury law, several gentlemen were ordered to appear and under oath were compelled to disclose to the officials their knowledge of liquor violations. "We suspect that it was rather embarrassing and somewhat humiliating for these gentlemen to have to disclose their own connection with the matters brought up, but there is no escape from it.

"We also learn that warrants for at least two offenders in connection with the booze question have been issued since then.

"Our officials are entitled to the backing of everyone on their efforts to stamp out the illegal trafficking in intoxicants in our county." If our memory does not fail us, we recall hearing of this incident several days ago. But as far as we can learn, no one has been seriously hurt or embarrassed so far. That some booze has been brought into the city, we have no doubt. Few towns can boast otherwise. But as far as several of "our influential" citizens being involved in the deal, we have serious doubts—at least we have failed to observe many of them headed Boyne City way.

If there are violations of the liquor law in Charlevoix, it is the duty of the officers to apprehend the violators and put a stop to it. If a stiff fine or jail sentence is necessary to make the guilty parties, if found guilty, realize that the law must be strictly lived up to, impose one or both upon them.

But, while making the investigation, do not confine it to Charlevoix alone—there are many other places in the county that will not bear close inspection.

GRAND RAPIDS AND WHAT MAKES IT ATTRACTIVE

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 15, 1919.—Grand Rapids is growing in population and wealth. During the last five years it has taken on many of the attributes of a metropolitan city. The main streets are changing from the old one-story brick structures of granite, marble and steel and there are signs to believe this change will continue until most of the old has been replaced by modern buildings.

Grand Rapids is famous as the Furniture City, and for its freedom from labor unions. It is a city where the workers are a contented happy lot of men and women whose loyalty to their employers can not be equaled in any other city in the world. There is a reason. The employers consider the employees as a part of a big family, and all are treated accordingly. Any grievance which could cause a disruption in labor relations is soon disposed of and the employer and the employee meet. Their differences are adjusted and each goes on his home.

Grand Rapids is a good place in which to live because of its unexcelled school system, its low death rate, its excellent medical centers, its out-of-home life, the fact that to work near child labor means a job to work, if he wants to. The employers are ready to employ steady workers, give them good pay, good working conditions, and he is not after that are attracted to this wonderful city.

On the nineteenth of May in the year nineteen hundred and nineteen, nineteen eighth grade graduates of Eveline township received their diplomas. This is the largest class in the rural schools of Charlevoix county. There were nine from Ironton, one of Walker, four from Three Bells, three from Advance and two from the Star district. Miss Stewart gave a fine talk to the class which we hope they will all profit by. During the afternoon, previous to this, the arithmetic and oratorical contests were given. The Mountain school came out first and Ironton second in the number drills. Ann Jardine, a sixth grader of the Mountain school, received first prize in the oratorical contest in her grade, and Doan Ogden of Ironton received second place. Marjory Brown, a seventh grader of Ironton, received first place in the seventh grade. Mildred Wageman of Three Bells received first place of the eighth graders and Margaret Hammond of Ironton second. The wall exhibits were well worth seeing. Ironton won first place, Mountain school second and Three Bells third. Upon totaling up the scores the judges, Miss Bates and Mr. Stead, found that Ironton received first place, Mountain school second and Three Bells third. A pot luck supper was served at the evening meal to about a hundred and fifty people.

MAPLE GROVE SCHOOL NOTES

All the pupils passed their grades this year.

Mrs. Willis closed a successful term of school Friday.

Friday morning was spent in taking pictures of the school.

Ruth Stroud of the Undine school visited our school a couple days last week.

Mrs. Willis and five of the pupils are planning on attending the Undine school Tuesday.

The last week of school was spent in mental arithmetic and practicing for the entertainment.

Tony Brnic, Neva Webster, Ethel Monty and Cora Howe were absent from school one day last week.

Roll of honor for the week: Hilda Wightman, Ruby and Lottie Webster, Mabel and Custer Howe, William Ferris, Floris Minier and Ruth and Ella Pant.

The entertainment that was given Friday evening was a success in all ways. The proceeds which were $15.12 will be spent for curtains for the school house and some will be given for the building at the fair grounds.

If the Boyne City Silo is made in Charlevoix county, it must be a good one. Better investigate, Mr. Farmer, before you buy.

EVELINE

Lance Kemp is working at Eveline orchards for a few days.

Bees seem to have come through the winter in good shape and are now busy like most of the rest of us.

The school contest at Ironton held on May 19 was quite largely attended from this neighborhood and was enjoyed by all.

Fruit trees are now coming into bloom. Cherries and plums promise a very full crop, but apples are not going to bloom so heavily.

The next meeting of the Eveline Farmers' Club will occur on Friday night, June 6. It will be a good meeting and everyone should plan to attend. One of the speakers is to be Major Dicken of East Jordan, who has just returned from overseas and his talk alone will be well worth going to hear.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dye and Mrs. Thayer and family of Traverse City motored over and spent Sunday with their brother, F. E. Richardson and family.

There will be no school on Friday as it is Memorial Day. Nature has been decorating, making cherry, apricot and plum trees "borders of beauty" just now.

All the eighth graders of Norwood passed and will receive their diplomas at Hilton school on Monday, June 2nd. (Note Miss Jensen's pleased smile.) Everyone is invited to attend.

Norwood was twice saddened last week by the hand of death. The people of this community take this means of expressing their sympathy to the families of Alden Stafford and Joe Sprick in their hour of sorrow.

Ed. Sprick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sprick, died at the home of his parents here Wednesday morning. His body was shipped to Chicago for burial Thursday.

Report was received from Miss Stewart Monday, that Russell Spear stood first in the county in the State Fair Test and for that reason has been chosen county representative to the state fair at Detroit in August. This means he will receive a railroad ticket to Detroit and return and that his expenses will be paid there for a week and every opportunity given him to see the fair and listen to the free lectures on agriculture. Wesley Gingrich, another eighth grader of Norwood won second. Our boys have put forth a big effort this year and we are glad to know they are winning.

The township contest of school will be held at Hilton school house Monday, June 2nd. A fine program has been arranged and a large crowd is expected so please, everybody, let's not disappoint the pupils and teachers. At 10:30 in the morning arithmetic contests between the first and second, third and fourth, and fifth and sixth grades of all four schools will begin the program, followed by exhibits by all grades in several branches of study from all four schools. These will be judged by judges from Charlevoix, who can be relied upon to mete justice to all contestants. Dinner will be served by the L. A. S. of the four contesting districts, after which oration contests between the 6th, 7th and 8th grades of all four schools will take place. Then follows commencement exercises for the eighth graders with valedictory by the winning contestant in the township, baccalaureate address and presentation of diplomas by the county commissioner.

Her Bitter Experience

She could not imagine what was the matter with her baking.

Her pans were always perfectly clean. She used a famous brand of flour, good butter, fresh eggs—and yet her baking had a bitter taste.

Finally, her husband asked what kind of baking powder she used. When she told him what she was trying, he said:

"There's the whole trouble. If you read the label you will find it contains alum, and that's what leaves the peculiar taste."

Now she has gone back to ROYAL BAKING POWDER and her bitter experience is forgotten.

The Heel of Achilles in Tires

The weak spot in a tire is where tread stops and sidewall begins.

On any road but smooth, flat pavement, the spears of the road—stones and broken rock—are constantly jabbing at this Heel of Achilles. And the sides of wagon tracks, when you ride ruts, grind wickedly at vulnerable flanks.

Your eyesight tells you that. Now look at the SAFETY TREAD of Goodrich Tires. See how it spreads the Goodrich interlocking safety bars beyond the ball of the tire, and lays extra tread rubber along the sidewall.

Notice further, how the extra wide tread carries on up the sides of the tire, extending beneath the side strips.

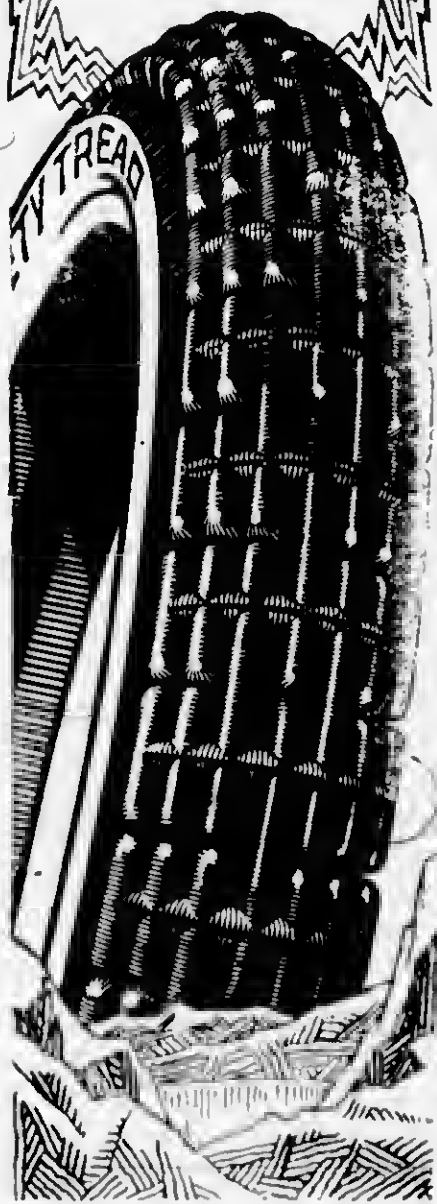

Thus an extra thickness of tough tread rubber fortifies Goodrich Tires at the Heel of Achilles.

Remember, that is one of the many reasons why Goodrich Tires lead in mileage over all roads, rough or smooth.

DRIVERS SOON TO BE LICENSED

Will Cost You 50 Cents to Run An Automobile in Michigan

Governor Sleeper has signed the James Bill, requiring every person in Michigan who drives an automobile, or other motor vehicle, to obtain from the secretary of state a license to do so.

The bill requires that every person desiring to drive a motor vehicle must submit to an examination before the chief of police, the sheriff or one of his deputies. The examination will cover the physical capabilities of the driver as well as other matters.

The license will list among other things, the name, age, place of residence, postoffice address, a distinguishing number by the state department and a brief description of the license for the purpose of identification, and such other things as may be required by the secretary of state.

The license will have to be countersigned by the licensee and carried at all times when he is operating a motor vehicle. The fee will be fifty cents.

The law provides that the license of any person may be suspended for thirty days or revoked by the secretary of state for cause such as driving a car while under the influence of liquor or drugs; causing damage to property or personal injury by recklessness and failing to stop and give name and address in case of accident.

Another part of the law provides that no license shall be issued to persons under sixteen years of age. Non-residents of Michigan who have complied with all requirements of the state from which they come are not affected by the bill.

CROWS CAN BE KEPT OUT OF CORN FIELDS

Treatment of Seed Will Stop Destruction by Birds and Rodents

A great deal of the loss suffered annually because of destruction of newly planted corn by crows and burrowing animals can be avoided if proper methods are used, according to Prof. J. F. Cox of the farm crops department at M. A. C. While Professor Cox believes that the crow comes in for more than his share of blame for corn "pulling," he recommends treatment of the seed as protection.

That some crows are worse corn destroyers than others has been proved. Certain of the birds seem to pull out corn for the love of the work, long after their appetite has been satisfied, while the majority do really very little damage. For these occasional marauders Professor Cox recommends the use of a reliable shot gun.

Scare crows and other devices to frighten the birds away are all effective in a measure. Hanging dead crows around the field is one of the best methods. Treatment of the seed to make it unpalatable is the most effective measure known, however, the following being recommended as a good practice:

Put the seed corn in a tight vessel; moisten it with warm water, and stir in about 2 tablespoonsful of coal tar to each bushel of seed. After draining the tarred corn thoroughly to remove any water remaining free, add ashes, land plaster, road dust, or any similar material to absorb surplus tar and prevent the seed from being sticky; or better, after draining spread the corn on a barn floor or similar surface and let it remain two or three days, when a little or no dust will be required. The thinner the tar, the better. Crows rarely pull more than a few kernels of the tarred corn.

The Girl Next Door

A Sketch of Juvenile Love

By F. A. MITCHEL

Spring is the season of flowers and love, as has been remarked before, it seems, to the present writer. He does not claim originality for the remark. But it is as true now as it was when first made, some centuries ago, and all English and American poets from Chaucer to the present poet laureate have enlarged on the theme.

Why not use it, therefore, to introduce a little tale, or sketch, rather, of a very young man and a very young maid and flowers and love?

Billy Atherton was nearing sixteen—that is, he was at an age when two things monopolized the limited space there was in his undeveloped brain, the first being his clothes, the second a girl. It may seem absurd to put the clothes before the girl, but such is the proper relation. There are a great many girls, but only one wardrobe, for a young man, and he requires that wardrobe to be exactly in vogue.

The first sign Billy showed of approaching manhood was when he was fourteen. Then he displayed marked concern about his neckwear. Later a new complication developed; then the period for long trousers came on. The color of his neckwear must match the color of his socks. Nothing would induce him to wear socks that were not checked. His favorite shade for his scarf and socks was a brilliant yellow, and was betide the tailor who produced a pair of trousers for him that were not short enough to display seven-eighths of his hosiery!

When Billy was invited to his first formal dance he was confronted with the most important question thus far of his life. Should he wear a swallowtail or a tuxedo? If a tuxedo, should he wear a white or black vest, a white or black tie? In Billy's time boys of his age were supposed to pass upward and onward to full dress through a tuxedo. So, notwithstanding that he was invited to a formal dance, he must wear a tuxedo.

Consultation with half a dozen other boys of his age soon cleared the way through the vest and tie problems. They were to be both black. But Billy struck a snag on the collar. There was unfortunately a division of opinion. Some of the boys ruled for a standing, some for a turndown collar. During the afternoon before the dance Billy was in a fever of suspense whether it should be standing or turndown. Finally the matter was settled by a telephone message from his lumberduster, who, after consulting a periodical giving such fashions, assured Billy that if he wore anything except a turndown collar the bottom would drop out of the universe. That settled the final momentous question as to how Billy should be arrayed on going to his first formal dance.

Since Billy was to enter upon his first love affair during the evening of this dance one would suppose that the apparel of the girl he was to fall in love with should be also described. Betty Hunsdale, aged fourteen and ten months, was as much concerned about her party get up as was Billy about his apparel. A dress had been especially prepared for the occasion. But if her costume were to be as minutely described as Billy's has been it would require a woman to do the job. This would involve two persons to write the story. Hence I can only say that when Betty was paraded before her father in her party dress he immediately ordered it lengthened at both ends. This is all the information I can give on the subject.

The apparel of these two young persons being the most important part of this story has necessitated its being introduced in the beginning. It is now necessary to mention a certain spring day when Billy had put on his baseball suit and was in his back yard sunning himself, occasionally throwing a ball against the brick wall of his home.

Billy was standing within a few feet of the house examining a tear in the ball he had been tossing when he was surprised at a fine powder settling all over him. He brushed it off, but more settled in his place. He looked up to see whence it came. All he saw was that it had emanated from a window in the house next door.

Billy was puzzled. Nevertheless he suspected that some one was showering him. Bending his head over his ball for awhile, he raised his eyes suddenly and saw the laughing face of a girl at a window. It was drawn in with astonishing rapidity. Billy waited and watched for some time, but there was no reappearance of either the girl or the flour that had whitened him.

He remembered that this was springtime. One morning when Billy was getting himself late for breakfast by a painful huddling as to which cravat out of more than twenty he should wear he cast his eyes aside from the mirror before him—it was very close to a window and saw a girl playing seeds or roots in the yard next door. He at once divined that she was the maid who had flourished him, and he wished for something with which to return the compliment. In the window was a box of plants and the plants were budding. Billy began to throw the buds at the girl, who was pretty.

A man would have been surprised at seeing a flower drop near him and would have looked to see where it came from. Not so this young lady. She was conscious of the fact that a young man lived next door. She remembered to have dropped flour on his shoulders and was on the lookout for a response. In fact, she had seen Billy at his window amid a rainbow of cravats. Given a girl in a back yard, a young man at a window, and it is to be supposed that the girl will expect something.

Billy tossed sprigs and flowers, which fell to the girl's right, to her left, before her, behind her, but she paid no attention to them. Then he went to the bathroom, filled a tumbler with water and, returning to his window, sent the contents in a spray on the flower planter. There was just enough of a sprinkling to cause her to fear a douche. She arose from her work and marched into the house. On her way she cast a glance up at Billy and made a "face" at him. Billy in return threw her a kiss from the tips of his fingers.

This time Billy saw enough of the girl to be sure that she was pretty. What else she was he did not know and did not care to know. He had attracted her attention, though he had been obliged to sprinkle her to do so. She had brought the sprinkling on herself by giving him a stage snow-storm, and as for the face she had made at him he did not mind that a bit.

The next day when Billy was going up the steps, getting out his latchkey, who should come out of the front door of the next house but the girl. She passed him with her nose in the air, but she had scarcely reached the sidewalk when Billy heard a giggle. He turned and tried to get up his courage to follow and join her, but he had not been introduced to her, and should she scorn him he would never recover from the blow. She had floured him and he had floured her, but this did not constitute an introduction. He would no more dare speak to her without the formal introduction required in social life than he would return to his knickerbockers.

Such was the condition between these two next door neighbors when Billy was invited to his first formal dance. He began to array himself at 4 o'clock for a function that was supposed to begin at half past 8. Much time was required. He put three sets of studs in his shirt before he was satisfied with a set of tiny mosaics. He had inserted gold links in his cuffs, and this necessitated a further chance, for had he worn mosaic studs with gold sleeve buttons he would expect to be ordered out of the house by the host. The tying of his neckwear was another delay requiring some twenty-five minutes. He succeeded in placing it above the collar button, but was in terror lest it slip down.

He was informed by his mother, who stood by him nobly in this critical period of his life, that he would surely be late, and at last he put the finishing touches to his makeup and, going downstairs and out, entered a limousine that had been summoned to transport him to the scene of hoped-for conquests. As he was driving away a car stopped next door. He wondered if the girl who lived there was going anywhere.

Billy on reaching his destination spent half an hour in the dressing room. Whether it was for further arrangement of his apparel or a stage fright at appearing at his first function there is no record. Nevertheless he held on to the lambskin on his way down. He made his bow to the hostess and was at once taken off by a member of the family to be presented to some of the young ladies he did not know.

Those invited were all supposed to be between fifteen and seventeen, though some of the girls had barely turned fourteen. Billy was introduced to several girls in succession and was burdened for a similar purpose before another when he stood stock still. She was the girl next door.

"Miss Betty Hunsdale, this is Mr. Atherton."

Why all the retiring qualities are attributed to the softer sex it is difficult to explain. Billy, as he expressed it afterward, was taken "flat aback." Miss Hunsdale was as cool as a cucumber. Billy stammered something like "pleasure of a dance," whereupon she threw back her head with all the air of a society belle, at the same time thrusting out a dance card with not a vacancy on it. But Billy soon caught up with her. He erased several names and boldly wrote his own name in their place.

Minute counts of love affairs may be pleasantly realistic, but they require much space. But it doesn't require much time for a boy of sixteen to fall in love. Billy did the falling like a house painter from a scaffold, very suddenly. But he was a dead man, so far as his heart was concerned, long before the evening was over. He had not only been made acquainted with the girl next door, but had fallen madly in love with her.

The dancing, the flowering and the sprinkling, and all that, were over and another phase of the affair was begun.

But that phase has been so often portrayed that we will leave these youngsters at the end of the beginning of their affair by merely stating that the love spots were so numerous one would suppose that they were latter century instead of lovers. Billy was at one moment in the clouds, the next in a state of despair. This up and down condition lasted till he went to bed, when he succeeded in getting acquainted with the university baseball team and from this moment he forgot the girl next door. But it is only fair to her to say that before she married she had been engaged six times.

for the merest fraction of time, we would all have dropped a few hundred feet down the hillside. On one of the long, zig-zag roads we had engine trouble and were forced to halt for over half an hour. Meanwhile a Lieutenant-Colonel Smith, U. S. A., who was on his way from Santo Domingo to Port au Prince, came up behind us and had to wait patiently (?) for some time. Later we got started and came without further mishap to a little niche in the mountain side where a sign gave us this information: "Bakersville, elevation 3,000 feet." Here we stopped for a while. Bakersville is the highest point in Haiti, the next highest place being the mountain where the castle is located, which is 2,700 feet above sea level. I think this is as high in the world as I have ever been. To Ruth and Grace it doesn't mean much, but to a plain liver like myself, it meant a good deal. I felt quite flighty. In spite of these emotions, I was able to eat a hearty meal—the only one I was destined to eat that day. (In the morning I had a cup of coffee and one piece of bread.) For dinner we had Vienna sausages (I forget what Herb Hoover calls them), jam, bread, hardtack and "gold-fish" (salmon). This was a regular feast. We did not wait for an after-dinner talk before starting out again.

"From the dizzy heights we dashed to the dismal depths. Does that sound like Hairbreath Harry? The road was of lime rock—hard, but so white that we could see it miles away. We coasted for miles. The smoke from the brake-linings reminded me of a steam engine. Except for one sharp curve where it was necessary to block the wheels and for the trucks to be backed up several times in order to make the turn. We made no stops. It was a wild ride down old Pillsbury mountain—almost as exciting as a Coney Island loop-the-loop. I do not know how many miles we traveled thus or how far below the valley was. Finally, however, at about four o'clock we pulled into Ennery. Here we stopped for half an hour. Usually it is necessary to stay all night at this place but we had made such good time we decided to go on to Saint Michel that evening. We stopped long enough to fill our canteens and talk for a few minutes with the marines stationed there and then we set out on the last part of the journey. Our worst luck was ahead of us though. Hardly had we gone an hour out of Ennery when it began to rain. 'Rain' doesn't express it but I cannot think of a stronger word. We could not progress five minutes in it. The trucks slipped from one side of the road to the other and almost landed in the ditch. We put on the skid chains but soon discovered that we could progress no further. All of the roads in that section are of clay and you know how a rain can wreck clay roads. Van Pelt hasn't come to Haiti yet to advocate good roads.

Shortly before this we had our only excitement. We saw a caco running through a plantain grove and we all started after him. Two of the men fired several shots but, I think, without effect. When I finally stopped I saw that the chaplain was beside me with pistol in hand. I asked him what he intended to do and he replied that he meant business too.

"When we reached the conclusion that the men must spend the night with the trucks, Captain McLenn decided that he would take the Chaplain and one man with him and walk to St. Michel, a distance of about nine miles. Meanwhile, I had asked permission to remain in the hills until the trucks would come out on their next trip about a week later. The Adjutant gave me permission so I was delegated to go with him on foot. The plans were that he would send out a pack train at about midnight and pack the provisions in. We started out in darkness which soon got so thick that a knife would not cut it. We could barely see the outline of the telephone poles along the road and these were our only guides. Frequently we heard suspicious sounds and waited breathlessly for an opportunity to shoot, but none came. Only once we met a man and he had a guaranty from the District Commander and so we let him pass. We could see camp fires of cacos some distance away but did not dare to shoot unless necessary. We did not want to draw danger for the pack train. We started to walk at about six or six thirty but our progress was slow. I never saw deeper clay and it stuck in huge hunks to our feet. It was raining a little and we frequently had to wade streams. It was not infrequently that one of us would fall down. Both officers offered to carry my rifle but I refused their good offices for, had not I come out in the jungle to do a little real duty?

"I do not know how long it took us to walk the nine miles and probably I would not care to say if I knew. At the end of an almost interminable time we reached St. Michel. It was laughable for Captain McLenn kept saying, 'Don't you see a light ahead?' and the chaplain and I both being truthful men, had to reply that we did not. Several times the Captain repeated the question but always we decided that he was 'seeing things.' When we did finally reach St. Michel we saw no lights whatever. We were half way through the town when a sentry called, 'Halt! qui va la?' (Or about that in Haitian lingo.) The Captain replied 'officier Americain.' We advanced and found that it was a marine who had halted us. Tired as I was I took time to have a good laugh on the Captain. We then went to the quarters of Lieutenant Polan of the Gendarmerie and here we rested for a while until horses could be procured and then we rode on to the plantation, three miles away.

"It seems mighty good to be home again." This seems to be the most common expression used by the men just back from the fighting front. "Home," in fact, has a new meaning to these men, whose experience in camp and trench, or in moving from place to place, has taught them to place a new estimate on their own homes and their own home city. Home looks "mighty good" to them, and they say it in a way that leaves no doubt as to their sincerity. In fact words fail to express their real appreciation of home, although they try to make it plain that they have learned to regard their homes as the dearest, sweetest and most sacred spot in the whole world.

And each and all of us should make a personal application of this same lesson, thereby to gain a better appreciation of the true value of a home. Often the home is not appreciated, or is neglected, until it is too late. Too often those who should help to keep the home fires burning are prone to neglect this duty, but spend their time in quest of selfish pleasure and amusement. To these and others who lightly value their homes, there is a worth-while lesson in the fervent declaration of these fighting men that "it seems mighty good to be home again." For we all would feel the same way if we had been through the same experience to teach us the real value of "home," and of the loved ones and friends who make up the true home. An everlasting truth that furnishes a text for a thousand sermons is contained in the familiar verse that reminds us: "Be it ever so humble there's no place like home."

"THE HEART OF THE WORLD"

The Republican Publicity Association, through its president, Hon. Jonathan Boorne, Jr., today gave out the following statement from its Washington headquarters.

"President Wilson in a recent Paris speech, done in English, is reported to have said: 'The heart of the world is under very plain jackets. The heart of the world is at very simple firesides. The heart of the world is in very simple circumstances; and unless you know the pressure of life of the humbler classes, you know nothing of life whatever.'"

"The heart of Mr. Wilson is under a frock coat, and his brain is under a high silk hat. The heart of Mr. Wilson, for the past six months at least, has been in the firesides of royalty and in the beds of princes of the blood. The heart of Mr. Wilson has pulsed with joy at gold plate dinners and in enjoying a homage greater than that of kings. The 'simple circumstances' of his first trip to

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURTTake a glass of Salts to flush kidneys
If bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney troubles in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

France were followed by the presentation of a bill to Congress of $5,000,000 to defray the expenses, and what the second trip will cost is not yet known, but the $1,000,000 said to have been expended in renovating the Hotel Crillon—the Paris White House—will be an item.

"Mr. Wilson's boyhood days, so it is stated in his official biography, were spent in the south 'where he prepared for college with private tutors.' He entered Davidson College at 18 years of age, and from 1874 to 1902 with the exception of two years unsuccessful practice of law in Atlanta, Ga., he idealized in the sequestered environs of exclusive universities—Princeton, Virginia, John Hopkins, Bryn Mawr, Wesleyan, and back to Princeton. In 1885 he married the daughter of a distinguished family of Savannah, Ga., who died in 1914. In 1915 he married a wealthy resident of Washington, who claims the more or less blue blood of Pocahontas. His chief recreation is golf; his chief diversion, note-writing. When did Mr. Wilson ever come into direct contact with 'the heart of the world?'"

"Yet he has been often classed by his flatterers with Honest Abe, the Illinois rail splitter. The classification is inaccurate. Lincoln sprang from the loins of the people. While engaged in the hewing of wood and the drawing of water he educated himself. His language was couched in terms which every man understood, yet it was majestic in its flow. His whole life was an example of modesty and unostentation. Lincoln knew the heart of the people because Lincoln was of the core of that heart."

DO AMERICANS WANT MORE WAR?

The hour is approaching when the American people will carefully and deliberately scrutinize the engagements to which their representatives at Paris seek to commit them. The making of peace with a beaten enemy has been changed from a simple and unentangling process into a mass of entangling undertakings, express and implied, open and secret, written and verbal, the whole extent and nature of which have not yet been disclosed to the people. The country has never had a similar experience. The people were never before called upon to pass judgment upon such complex and vitally important agreements with other nations. It is a new world of responsibilities and unknown consequences which the United States is asked to enter. Every conscientious American is in duty bound to study the questions for himself and to decide for himself what is wise. He cannot afford to take any man's word for the results, as no man in any position is sufficiently wise to foresee the end.

The argument is made that the United States will never have to go to war, since all nations will mutually pledge the safety of all, and no nation will be called upon to do more than its share. But this is a fallacy. The United States should not trust any such arrangement. Any American who knows his country's history can destroy this argument by merely pointing to the sad experience of George Washington and the Continental Congress. Every state was pledged to do its share and furnish its quota of men and money to fight the Revolution, but everybody knows that some states failed and refused to do their share. The burden fell upon those states which refused to make the Articles of Confederation a scrap of paper, and which were able to furnish men and money.

If the United States should join the league of nations it would do so in good faith, and would keep its pledged word. As it is the richest and most resourceful of all nations, it would be called upon first of all and would be expected to furnish more men, more money, and more material than any other. Its very earnestness and promptitude would act as an incentive to slacker nations to skulk out of their obligations. "Let the United States do it" would be the secret thought of many nations.

This proposed arrangement is not necessary to protect liberty. It is not the safe or wise way to protect France. It is an unnecessary commitment and on almost certain means of forcing the United States into needless and remote wars. It is based solely upon a fantastic and false assumption that all nations will always be inspired by the motives of angels. The slightest admission that nations would probably behave as they have always behaved is an admission that the league of nations will entangle them in war instead of keeping them out of war.—Washington Post.

By the first of January, 1920, the loss in railway operations by the government, with railway passenger and freight rates up an average of 30 per cent beyond those obtaining under private ownership, will aggregate a billion dollars. No one who wants to make government ownership a campaign issue in 1920, in the face of that record can be accused of political cowardice, anyway, though the courage displayed will be the variety that causes fools to rush in where angels fear to tread.

Vice President Marshall during the campaign of 1916 had a very pathetic speech in which he showed how many widows and orphans we would have if we didn't have Mr. Wilson to keep us out of war. Now he wants to send an army to conquer Russia. Give some of these mild-mannered fellows a taste of blood and they get worse than Jack the Giant Killer's ogre.

Who is to select the representatives of the United States in the proposed world legislature? The representatives of France have been selected, it is announced, by whom, is not stated. Presumably it is intended that the executive authority shall choose these legislative representatives. What's the constitution among us Democrats?

The dispatches say that the speculating and importing interests of Wall street are in favor of the ratification of the Versailles treaty as it stands, covenant and all. The lion and the lamb have not yet lain down together, but Colonel Bryan and Lombard street are snuggling under the same quilt.

The people would like to see the senate begin at the beginning by making inquiry as to the authority under which President Wilson proceeded in undertaking to form a world constitution without this country having either assented to such a constitution or delegated him to write it.

Since reading the peace treaty one cannot be sure whether we fought the war to vindicate President Wilson's fourteen points, which are not there, or to receive from the Han the skulls of a number of African chiefs which really are mentioned.

Henry Ford's weekly says it's a pity that at such a time as this "there is no commanding voice of leadership among the peoples." Why, Henry, have you begun to doubt the voice since it didn't make you senator from Michigan?

There are those who have the suspicion that running this country is about as big a job as the American people want to tackle, and a bigger job than the present national administration knows how to handle.

In dividing the spoils of war Great Britain gets a billion square miles of

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowadays by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. After another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The Comforts of the American Home

It is a well-known fact that, home for home, the American household has more comforts and conveniences than that of any other nation.

In foreign lands the modernized dwelling is found only in the better sections of the larger cities.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find the piano, the vacuum cleaners, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless electrical appliances.

There is a well-kept look about residence, store our outbuildings with an atmosphere of prosperity and content.

Did you ever stop to realize why this is so; how this condition was brought about?

It is largely due to advertising. And a big share of the credit belongs to newspaper advertising.

Stop and think how many of the foods you eat, the things you wear and other articles entering into your everyday life, you first heard of through newspaper advertisements.

You will then realize what a part they do play, or should play, in your daily life.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly, if you are not already doing so. They mean more to you than you can tell.

new territory and we get enough additional phrases to justify a new edition of the New Freedom in time for the holiday trade.

The proper punishment for any bolshevik is to sentence him to live in Russia, where the bolsheviks are running things. Why not keep Russia as she is, as a kind of socialist nest house?

It is impossible, apparently, to make the fights in Republican caucuses come up to the expectations aroused by the advance notices put out by the administration press agents.

Who do the most harm in the world—the reactionaries who look backward without looking forward, or the visionaries who look forward without looking backward?

When Mr. Bryan goes to market days he must marvel at his conservatism in having advanced a dollar worth as much as fifty cents in Republican money.

Speaking of governmental extravagance, we need a budget system of course, but most of all we need a stop-it system.

Memorial Day

There is a new significance to all our days since the A. E. F. recruited from every State, went forth to fight in a common cause.

East, West, North, South—everywhere—our veterans of the world war now join the thinned ranks of the veterans of other wars on May 30th in commemoration of their comrades who have made the supreme sacrifice for peace.

An Inside Bath Makes You Look and Feel Fresh

Says a glass of hot water with phosphates before breakfast keeps illness away.

This excellent, common-sense health measure being adopted by millions.

Physicians the world over recommend the inside bath, claiming this is of vastly more importance than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing ill health, while the pores in the ten yards of bowels do. Men and women are urged to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of helping to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, poisons, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Just as soap and hot water cleanse and freshen the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the eliminative organs.

Those who wake up with bad breath, coated tongue, easily taste or have a dull, aching head, sallow complexion, acid stomach; others who are subject to bilious attacks or constipation, should obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to demonstrate the value of inside bathing. Those who continue ill each morning are assured of pronounced results, both in regard to health and appearance.

and butterfat. What it will do: 1.
Show the value of the individual cow.
2. Give a basis for building up a dairy herd. 3. Increase the value of cows and young stock at least 20 per cent. 4. Promote interest in dairying. 5. Test out the herd sire.
6. Aid members to feed more economically. 7. Promote community life. 8. Interest the boys in the farm. What it will cost: The usual charge to each member is about $3.00 per month. About 350 cows should be represented in the Association.
Wouldn't such an association be a good thing for Charlevoix county? If you think so let the county agent know it.

Prof. Norton from M. A. C. was in the county Thursday to secure demonstrations to test out the value of sunflowers for silage. Charles Carson and Frank Bird are going to co-operate with the state in putting on these demonstrations and will be able to furnish us some valuable information next fall and winter.

Boys, the thinkers of the county are all with you in the calf club idea.
That's fine.

We have been asked by the State Plant Pathologist to notify the wheat raisers of the county of the appearance of two new wheat diseases "Take All" and "Flag Smut." These diseases are very prevalent in Australia and are undoubtedly the worst wheat enemies in that country. Take All is a fungus root rot which causes the plants to remain stunted, the diseased stools sprawling on the ground and look like quack grass. Instead of producing normal heads the shoots are replaced by wiry, spindling outgrowths which never amount to anything. A mahogany brown color is characteristic. Prof. Coons says he has never seen a more destructive disease than "Take All." While in all probability we are entirely free of the disease in this section, let's be on the watch out.

Let's not let anything of that kind get a start in our county.

WRIGHT DISTRICT

It looks as if summer had finally arrived.

Harm Sitzema had a real sick horse
a few days last week.

Miss Nina Preston of Charlevoix is visiting a few days at the home of John McElroy.

A car load of people motored to Bay Shore last week, where they attended a dance.

John McElroy and family and Miss Nina Preston spent Sunday at the Manuel Wilson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Herrington spent Sunday with his brother and family in this district.

Marion Best and Miss Ethel Smith spent Wednesday evening at the directors home. Some rain that night, too.

Mrs. Joseph McElroy and son
Bruce spent Sunday at the Meggison home somewhere outside of this district.

Leonard Herrington, recently discharged from army service, returned home Monday evening of this week, after spending a few days with relatives in Grand Rapids.

Jacob Sitzema was taken suddenly ill last Sunday afternoon on his arrival home from attending church services. Dr. Parks of East Jordan was called and pronounced the trouble a severe attack of acute indigestion. He is slowly recovering at present.

CREAMERY MAN UNDER ARREST

Charged With Defrauding Customers on Cream Weight

The following article was taken from the Grand Rapids Herald of May 22: "An extensive investigation conducted by H. D. Wendt, chief of the dairy division of the State Food and Drug department, under the direction of Fred L. Woodworth, culminated Tuesday in the arrest of C. I. Force of the Blue Valley Creamery company on a warrant charging him with defrauding Thomas Duddles of Ashton, Mich., in the representation of butter fat percentages.

The specific charge is that the creamery company defrauded Duddles out of $2.88 representing the volume of 4.8 pounds of butter fat.

According to Mr. Wendt, evidence in possession of the food department shows that the concern has defrauded other Western Michigan farmers out of approximately 10 per cent of the amount due them. This is said to have been done by cutting the test of the amount of the butter fat in the cream shipped to the firm's plant in Grand Rapids.

Wendt estimates that the practice, if general, would cost approximately $75,000 a year to the Western Michigan farmers, and he says that similar proceedings will be instituted at the Detroit branch.

He was a member of the Holland Reformed church and by his everyday life showed his faith in his church and his God and died contented and satisfied with his chances in the life beyond the grave.

FOR WELCOME HOME CELEBRATION AT EAST JORDAN

Charlevoix and Antrim Counties Will Pay Homage to Returned Soldiers on June 3

The Welcome Home celebration to all returned soldiers and sailors of Charlevoix and Antrim counties and surrounding territory will be held Tuesday, June 3rd, at East Jordan.

All soldiers and sailors, their relatives and immediate friends, are especially invited to be present on that day as honorary guests.

The various committees have the details well in hand. Citizens of the entire territory are enthusiastic and are putting forth every effort through Red Cross auxiliaries, the Grange, the Gleaners and other organizations to make the event the greatest and most successful of its kind ever planned for this region. This grand event will be unique in that the success of the celebration of such magnitude is already guaranteed by the voluntary support, cheerfully given by all our loyal citizens as an outward expression of their gratitude to the heroic defenders of our national faith and honor. Everything possible will be done to make this occasion a pleasant and memorable one to the thousands who are here-by invited to attend.

WHY NOT PATRONIZE HOME CONCERN?

Concrete Contract Causing Considerable Comment

Considerable criticism is being made regarding the placing of the contract for cement to be used in the construction of the new concrete road between Greensky Hill and the Emmet county line.

We have been informed that the contract was awarded to the cement company at Alpena and amounted to some 10,000 barrels. Also that the contract was let some 20 days ago, before the county road commissioners had signed up their contract with the state for the construction of the road.

The criticism is founded on the point that the contract should have gone to the Newaygo Portland Cement Co., the company about to start operations here, and not to an outside concern, if there was no difference in the price quoted for the amount required.

An industry is about to be started in Charlevoix that has been the dream of the city and its inhabitants for years. Every encouragement should be given it. Charlevoix needs this industry which will eventually give steady employment to many men, and it is hard for us to understand why a contract involving this amount of money should be awarded to a concern not at all, outside of the business it may be given, interested financially or otherwise in Charlevoix.

Congregational Church

The usual service will be held at the Congregational church on Sunday morning, followed by children's Day exercises. The Sunday school makes a special offering for the Sunday school work of the state on this occasion. Monday evening a friendly supper and business meeting will be conducted by the Christian Endeavor Society.

ENDORSED BY BUSINESS MEN

Citizens Urged to Take Stock in Michigan Transit Company

The committee of the Charlevoix Business Men's Association, after carefully considering the proposition submitted by the officials of the Michigan Transit Company, issued the following letter of endorsement of the new boat line:

"The Charlevoix Business Men's Association, at a regular meeting held on the 25th ultimo, adopted a resolution unanimously endorsing a plan as outlined by the officials of the Michigan Transit Company for the restoration of service at this port of the steamships Manitou, Missouri and Kansas.

The undersigned were appointed as a committee to give the matter attention in behalf of the association, realizing the necessity and advantages of an up-to-date boat line for our city. We earnestly request the citizens of Charlevoix to lend their assistance to this company in a financial way. Donations are not asked but it is expected that the sum of $25,000.00 shall be subscribed to be evidenced in stock of the company. This represents the share to be taken care of by the citizens of Charlevoix. The committee stands ready to furnish any further details of the proposition that may be wanted. A. A. Swinton, chairman, A. D. Crimmins, Martin Block, Harry Nicholls, S. M. Rose, Olaf Nordrum.

They say the Boyne City Silo is the best on the market today. Have you seen it.

EVERY PART WAS WELL PLAYED

Capacity House Greets Athletic Association Play

Last Friday evening the high school put on a very successful little play for the benefit of the athletic association, "A Scrap of Paper," by Victorien Sardou.

Every part was well played, but in an all star cast, those of the first magnitude were Mademoiselle Suzanne, and the naturalist Brise, played by Nellie Allen and Gordon Palmer, Mademoiselle Zenobie (Annabel Comfort) ruled Brise and his ward Anatole (Martin Halverson) with a rod of iron until Anatole broke away from her despotism and laid himself at the feet of dimpling Mathilde (Beulah Schweitzer). Prosper Couramont (Robert Miles) the sophisticated traveler out for the hand of Mathilde in order to get his uncle's money, is ensnared unwittingly by Mademoiselle Suzanne. The scrap of paper which causes all the trouble, and at the same time all the romance, is at last found, the Baron's (Lyman Brown) suspicions against his wife (Marjorie Myers) are proved groundless, the French maid has been kissed, and everyone is happy except Brise, who still has Zenobie on his hands.

The athletic association wishes to express its appreciation to all who supported the enterprise in any way, especially to Mrs. See, Baker and Paddock and others who lent the furniture, Miss Phila Armstrong, who entertained the audience with two delightful interpretative dances after the second act, the jazz trio, which gave us such excellent music, and most of all to Miss Carrel, who has given all of her spare time, and worked into the wee sma' hours of the morning to make the show a success. To her is due the lion's share of the credit.

LANSING LETTER

With the utilities nominations out of the way and other appointments created by new legislation practically settled upon, Governor Sleeper will shortly turn his attention to the personnel of new commissions authorized by the legislature. The most important of the lot is the Michigan Industrial Relations Commission consisting of five members. The bill was introduced by Representative Carl Young of Muskegon, but is known as the Jensen-J. W. Smith-Young bill, the three house members introducing similar proposals. The Jensen-Smith bills were held in the house committee on labor, the Young bill being a composite of the others. The bill carries an appropriation of $10,000 for expenses although the members receive no compensation for their services but will be entitled to their actual and necessary expenses in connection with the work. Two of the members, the bill provides, "shall be representatives of employers of labor and two shall be representatives of labor." The profession of the fifth member is for the governor to decide. The commission will select a chairman and secretary from its own membership.

The Objects of the Commission The purpose of the commission is best told in paragraph three of the law which follows:

"It shall be the duty of said commission to investigate and make inquiry into the industrial conditions in the state with special reference to the questions of unemployment, housing, the safety and health of workers engaged in industrial pursuits, the stabilizing of employment, the employment of women and children, vocational education, hours of labor, old age pensions, and in general the promotion of the industrial welfare

CLASS OF 1919

Graduation Sermon at M. E. Church
June 8—Commencement Exercises
Wednesday, June 11

The seniors are now on the home stretch. Their examinations take place this week, and then the final week of joyful sadness.

Rev. Candler has been invited to give the graduation sermon, and it will be given at the Methodist church Sunday the 8th, at 7:30 p. m.

This will be followed by the Class Day exercises in the form of a play, "The Scarecrow," Tuesday evening, June 10th, at the Charlevoix theatre, commencing at 8:30. The commencement exercises, the last appearance of the class as seniors, will be held on Wednesday evening, June 11, at the Charlevoix theatre, at 8:30. The address will be given by Lloyd C. Douglas of Ann Arbor.

"The Scarecrow" is a tragedy of the ludicrous, by Percy MacKaye. MacKaye, an American, and one of our chief contemporary dramatists, has taken for the theme of "The Scarecrow" the belief in witchcraft held by our early New England forefathers, and has practically dramatized Hawthorne's story, "Feathertop, a Moralized Legend."

The man who gives the commencement address, Lloyd C. Douglas, is well known not only in Ann Arbor, but throughout several states, through the medium of the students who have heard him at the University of Michigan. There is no question but that the address this year will be one containing much for the seniors, and also, for those of us who will never be seniors again. It will be one of the best addresses in years.

The senior roll is as follows:
George C. Beeman, president.
Vernard L. Miller, vice-president.
Irene Auld, secretary.
Leone G. MacNeill, treasurer.
Alice R. Schweitzer.
Madge A. Kibbe.
Mary Groenink.
Walker A. Miles.
Justin B. Hanahew.
Will E. Hampton, Jr.
Olive Mae Nixon.
Clair Cartier, who finishes his work next mid-year, will also participate in the exercises this week.

The class motto is "Trifles Make Perfection, but Perfection is no Trifle."

The class colors are blue and white.

The class flower is the lily of the valley.

The honors of the class go to Will Hampton, Jr., valedictorian, with an average standing throughout his high school course of 88.96. Salutatorian goes to Alice Schweitzer, with an average of 86.24. Vernard Miller deserves mention here, for he had an average of 86.34, but due to his having spent part of his time in Petoskey, is not eligible to this honor.

A somewhat different plan will be followed this year in the exercises. Reserved seats are given to the immediate family of the graduates, to board members, and the faculty. The remainder of the opera house will be open to the public. No children will be allowed unless accompanied by their parents. This plan will be followed in both the Class Day and graduation exercises. As both of them start at 8:30, it will be greatly appreciated if those who desire to hear will come so that there will not be the usual confusion and the consequent inability to hear after the play or address starts.

J. Leahy the Optometrist will be here again next Monday, June 9. As he will not be here again until August, all who wish to consult him should remember the date. Office at Hotel Charlevoix.—Adv. 2311.

APPRECIATES WORK OF FIRE FIGHTERS

Beach Hotel Management Rewards
Boys for Work

To show their appreciation for the prompt and efficient work of the members of Charlevoix's fire department, the management of the Charlevoix Beach Hotel presented the fire laddies with a $25.00 check last week, a gift quite acceptable to that organization.

Accompanying the check was a letter lauding the work of the fire boys, which has been framed and will be found in a prominent place in the fire hall. Citizens of Charlevoix can well be proud of their fire department, a volunteer organization that has an excellent record.

DISCHARGED FROM HOSPITAL

Harold W. Usher, son of the editor of the Courier, who was a member of Headquarters Co., 32nd Division, formerly Co. I, of East Jordan, received his discharge last week and is now in Racine, Wisconsin, in the employ of the I. C. Case Tractor Co. Harold was gassed in the Chateau-Thierry drive in July of last year, and since that time has been in one hospital or another receiving his discharge from U. S. General Hospital No. 9, Lakewood, N. J.

STRUCK DEAD BY LIGHTNING BOLT

DEATH COMES ALMOST INSTANTANEOUS
TANEOUS TO WM. THIER

Was Standing in Door of Harry Widdifield Barn During Heavy Rain and Electrical Storm

Death came almost instantaneous and without warning to William Thier about five o'clock Tuesday afternoon during the heavy rain storm and electrical disturbance.

Thier, who had but commenced work for Widdifield that morning was standing in the door of the barn during the storm. About five o'clock, a moment after a heavy crash of thunder, he toppled over dead, killed by a bolt of lightning which entered the doorway in which he stood. Mr. Widdifield, who stood within a few feet of him, was not affected in the least by the effect of the lightning bolt that snuffed out the life of Thier.

Medical assistance was at once summoned, but to no avail, the lightning having completed its deadly work the instant it struck the unfortunate man.

William Thier leaves a wife and seven children in straightened circumstances. Previous to his entering the employ of Mr. Widdifield, he worked for Charles Jeffries, and did small jobs around the neighborhood. He was 45 years of age. The body was taken to See's undertaking rooms and prepared for burial. At the time we go to press arrangements for the funeral have not been fully completed.

SMALL BLAZE AT COOPER HOME

Kerosene Stove Causes Early Morning Excitement

A kerosene oil stove went on a rampage at the home of J. R. Cooper, on Antrim street, early Saturday morning, and cheated the members of the household out of their final morning sleep.

James Simons, son-in-law of Mr. Cooper, lit two burners of the stove and then went across the street to open the implement store. Happening to glance towards the home he noticed a cloud of smoke issuing from the kitchen door, and hurrying back, found the stove enveloped in a mass of flames which had spread to the curtain on the windows and other parts of the room.

He grabbed a piece of carpet, covered the stove and dragged it out of doors, probably by his timely arrival preventing a serious fire. The stove is a total loss, besides the destruction of several curtains and a badly smoked up room.

Miscellaneous Shower

A miscellaneous shower was given Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Pontious for Miss Jessie Barkley. A very enjoyable evening was spent at the close of which dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Miss Barkley received many beautiful as well as useful presents.

MADE WELCOME BY CITIZENS

COUNTY TURNS OUT EN MASSE TO GREET SOLDIER BOYS

East Jordan Filled With Frenzied Crowd and City Rocks With Joy and Clamors With Welcome

Our boys have come home and have been made welcome by the citizens of not only East Jordan, but Charlevoix, Boyne City and the entire county. They were tendered a home-coming that was heartfelt, such welcome as perhaps no other military organization in the country ever received. Headquarters Co. boys are now known as veterans of the 32nd division and the fullest measure of honor is due them.

Today we can turn our eyes from the pictures of their hardships, their grappling with Death and their agony of soul and body, borne gallantly in a far land, and open our hearts to our boys. The departure of the old regiment was pitifully obscure. To Grayling, to the Mexican border, to France the division moved, and far-aways were strained, fugitive and clouded by uncertainty. No one knew the day or the hour of going. They slipped away without music, without speeches, without parade.

And the worst of war than can be conceived was the lot of these soldiers. They were early arrivals at the front, they were cold at times, and hungry, and letters did not come, they suffered, outside the actual shock of battle, as no civilian can understand. And we never forgot them.

Yesterday was Red Arrow Day. The streets of our neighboring city that rang with jubilation yesterday and groaned with frenzied crowds are back to normal. The tumult and the shouting is over. The city gave their boys—our boys—the soldier boys of the county a welcome such as will never be forgotten. The little city was packed full—overflowing—never before in its history and probably never again has it taken care of so large a number of people. And it was done well. Nothing for the comfort of the boys, their fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers was overlooked. Thousands were fed, entertained and told to come again. Free eats, free drinks, free smokes, free movies, free dances—who could not have had a good time under such conditions. Three bands furnished music throughout the day. They played as they never played before. The people enjoyed it and were not afraid to admit it. It was a great day—when the people of the county forgot business, forgot the long, aching months of fear and waiting and took to their arms the Boys.

While we honor these men that have returned and have come through the awful hell of death over there let us pause just a minute in our cheering and think of those who are sleeping in France. The men who gave their all, to their very life, even as did the Master on the cross, that man and humanity might live, and civilization exist, and in the words of Lincoln "from these honored dead, let us take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave their last measure of devotion."

U. S. SUB-CHASERS STOP IN HARBOR

S. C. 410 and 411 on Way to Great Lakes Training Station

Submarine chasers Nos. 410 and 411, built at Clayton, New York, and completed about the time the armistice was signed, stopped at this port over night on Thursday of last week, bound for the Great Lakes Training Station near Chicago.

The boats were 110 feet long, 16 foot beam, triple-screw and driven by three 320 h. p. gasoline engines, average speed 21 knots per hour. They were but a part of the many boats of this kind built in the United States for the navy and are usually termed "sea hornets." What armament they had was removed before they left the east.

The two boats were never used in the great war on account of the intensity of their completion, being ready for service just as the war closed. Twenty-three hundred gallons of gasoline was taken aboard here, not their full capacity, but enough to keep them running until they reached another supply station.

BIG EVENT OF LIFE HAS PASSED

PAUL GOLDEN TELLS OF FIRST CAMPAIGN IN HAITI

Goes With Detachment to Interior of Island—No Good Road Advocates There

"Here we were halted by a marine who, instead of telling the stranger to dismount and advance to be recognized, permitted all three of us to ride up to where he was standing. This made Captain McLean pretty much peeved. He bawled the sentry out and told him to call the corporal of the guard. He should have said 'corporal of the guard, post No. 1,' but being a man of few words said, 'Hey, Red, come here!' McLean said 'is that the way you call the corporal of the guard?' Then the sentry, who was pretty much 'fussed' by this time called, 'Hey, Naylor, come here.' Captain McLean then rode right into the building and wanted to know why the corporal didn't move quicker. Finally, after putting the sentry on report, normal conditions were restored and we went to bed. It was now midnight. We had rode 61 miles by truck, walked nine and rode horseback three miles. In passing, it might be added that although I had had no supper I wanted none.

The Captain had given me permission to go to Hineche with him to regimental headquarters and there report to my old company or to either of two other companies stationed there, or remain at the plantation and report to the 64th company. As Captain Burks of the 64th had seemed to run into the most fighting, I told Captain McLean I would remain at St. Michel. Saturday I lay around the barracks and did little or nothing. Sunday Captain Burks returned from a trip and I reported to him. He said, 'if you want to see action, stick around a little while and we will show you a good time.' My Easter dinner consisted of cowpeas, stewed apricots and Haitian bread. In the afternoon I saw (horrors of horrors!) a cock fight. They had the best cockpit there I have ever seen. There was more enthusiasm there than you often see at a football game. With the return of the detachment in the afternoon, my old friend Schultz and I got together. He had no blankets but mine had arrived so we bunked together in a little room with fourteen others—all on the floor, of course.

"Monday the bunch rested up and used the pick and shovel a while. Not wishing to stand on my privilege as a non-com, I handled a pick for a while, rather creditably, too, I think. Of course there were some fine little blisters on my hands but 'What cares I?' says our dauntless hero.

"I cannot say enough for the hospitality of the men at the plantation. A number of the men I knew quite well but many were strangers. Yet they went out of their way to show favors and all the time I felt as though I were on a vacation. I never was detailed for duty but it was understood I could go on what hikes or working parties I wanted to. As a matter of fact, I went on everything there was while I was there. I was taken out to feeds, fellows lent me clothes and nowhere was my money any good. I had foolishly come away without a change of clothing or a toilet kit, as I expected to be gone but two days. I brought mess kit, blanket roll and toothbrush but lost the last named valuable article on the truck coming out. So I had to borrow a razor every three or four days and spruce up. I soon fell into the habit of getting my clothes washed while I was in swimming and then wait on a big rock for them to dry. (We always had to take our rifles with us when we went to the river for a bath.)

The plantation of which I have spoken, contains 36,000 acres and is owned by a corporation the manager of which is a Mr. Lisle. He is an American but of course recognizes only Americans who wear leather leggings. The land is very fertile and occupies an immense plateau, hemmed in by mountains. The overseer, a New Orleansian, told us that they were trying to raise sea island cotton there. I think their crop consists largely of castor beans, also, and coffee. There are over three hundred negroes employed there. The plantation is well supplied with machinery, there being a fine tractor, several engines of the 'threshing machine' variety, plows galore, etc. Mr.

Lisle's house is lighted by Delco electric lights and piped with water which is pumped from the river a half mile away. There are many fine mules on the farm, brought, I think, from the States. Most of the employees live on or near the plantation so there is a small town just of these people. And they are 'different.' The plantation negroes are in a higher caste than their less fortunate brethren and they do not fail to remind the said L. F. B. of the fact. A small house was built for the marines as it was expected that they would protect the interests of our capitalist friends. However, there are so many marines at the plantation that other buildings have been pressed into the service and even now men are packed like sardines. (By the way, a government movie man took our pictures one rainy day.)

"With this lengthy introduction, I am now down to the story. Of course what I had wanted from the time the trouble first started was to get into it. I saw no way possible until I got permission to go out as a guard and then, when I found that the Adjutant was going on the same truck, I asked permission to stay. So I waited impatiently until Tuesday before a hike was planned. The officers wait for the magistrates or other.

JUDGES HAD A HARD TASK

MAKING AWARDS AT TOWNSHIP SCHOOL CONTEST

Much Credit Due to Teachers of Township for Training Given Children of District

School at Norwood closed Monday with the Township school contest held at the Hilton school, which was well attended, there being but small standing room left. The exhibits were certainly fine, showing that much interest had been taken to produce such good work and giving the judges a hard task in placing tags.

The arithmetic contests were something to put many older people to shame and happily surprised the parents of the little tot.

The hardest part of the work for the judges came with the oratorical contest. The orations were fine and delivered in a manner that should give much credit to the teachers who have worked so hard to train our boys and girls. The excellent talk by Miss Stewart was much enjoyed as her talks always are. The commencement exercises were last but not least, a class of six receiving their eighth grade diplomas.

The dinner was excellent and as we heard one man remark, "we would not have missed the day for ten dollars."

Marie Klusak also gave a beautiful rendition of "My Own United States." The pennants were awarded, first to Norwood, second to Hilton and third to McGeagh. The teachers and pupils deserve much credit for the success of the contest. We also wish to commend our yell master Roscoe Smith for his good work in training the school for the yells and the spirit of good fellowship shown in invariably yelling for the other school first. Here let us add that Norwood is a "booster." We also have the best and most progressive county commissioner yet. If you don't believe it come on over, and we'll show you.—Contributed.

ADAM PFISTER'S POP CORN WAGON

Equipment a Delight to Both Young and Old

"Fresh, buttered popcorn," piping hot and as tender and crisp as can be produced. Such is the product of Adam Pfister's new corn popping and peanut roasting outfit.

Adam and his new equipment made their appearance on the street for the first time last week, and it was a source of wonderment and delight to both young and old.

It is one of the most complete of its kind and as good as can be found in northern Michigan. Completely housed in, all glass windows, mounted on a Ford chassis, thus enabling the owner to move about from place to place as he sees fit, it will undoubtedly prove a money-maker as well as furnish the public with hot corn and peanuts of the "taste like more" kind.

Honol of Review of Marion Township will meet June 3, 9 and 10. Wm. Withers, Township Clerk.

STORM RAISES HAVOC IN CITY

PROPERTY LOSS AS YET UN-DETERMINED

Rain Falls in Torrents for Nearly an Hour, Flooding Streets, Alleys and Basements

Charlevoix was hit by one of the hardest downpours of rain between the hours of 4:30 and 5:30 Tuesday afternoon that ever struck this portion of the state. The storm came up suddenly from the southwest and struck the city with all fierceness. It was undoubtedly the result of the hot weather of the past week, the hottest here in years, the thermometer registering anywhere from 92 to 98 in the shade during the early hours of the afternoon.

The rain fell in torrents for nearly an hour. Every street and alley in the city was turned into a raging, roaring stream. Cellars were flooded within a few moments. The force of the wind and rain at times was such that it was blown through the window casements and doorways. In several instances shingles on the roofs of houses were lifted and the water ruined many ceilings. Lawns were flooded and when the water subsided were covered with dirt and rubbish.

Terrific rolls of thunder terrified the inhabitants and the display of lightning was the worst in years. Damage about the city will amount to a considerable sum. Following are noted many of the most severe losses:

The basement of the house of County Clerk Lewis on Clinton street was filled within an inch of the floor. Across the street, at the Bergeon home, the cellar was badly flooded. At this point the water covered the sidewalk to a depth estimated at five inches.

At the home of Allen Campbell and several business houses on Bridge street, the cellars were flooded, doing considerable damage.

Lightning struck the Barnheise house, on the south terrace, knocking the plaster off the walls, tearing a bed to pieces and badly damaging a mantelpiece.

A bolt of lightning struck the telephone wire at the home of Charles Jefferies, burning out the protector, tearing the wall and scattering pieces of wood and splinters about the house. The same bolt split in two a large tree in front of the house.

An oak tree in front of the Goldberg home on Park Avenue was struck, knocking the bark off two sides of the tree.

The rush of water down Bridge street tore a hole about 10 feet deep near the bridge abutment on the Wilbur property, endangering the concrete walk leading to the bridge.

Water rushing under the new theatre building washed out the wall of the furnace room and otherwise damaged the foundation of the building.

The rush of water at the foot of Clinton, Mason and Antrim streets dug deep holes in the street and severe washouts are reported in other places about the city.

Manager Solomon of the Michigan State Telephone company reports not less than 50 per cent. of the telephones in the city out of order.

Affirmed Opinion of Lower Court

The case of Cora E. Biossat, which has been pending in the supreme court for some time, was affirmed in an opinion file by the supreme court, May 29. The question of admissibility of her confession, which was strongly contested in the trial in the circuit court, was decided in the supreme court against the contention of the respondents, the court holding that all her rights were properly safeguarded by the charge of the trial court, and that it was purely a question of facts for the jury, whether the confession was voluntarily made.

A. L. Fitch handled the case in the supreme court for the people as special prosecuting attorney, having been appointed to this office at the time Prosecuting Attorney R. L. Lewis entered military service. This decision means that Mrs. Biossat is remanded to the circuit court for sentence, which will be heard later.

SUMMING UP THE EVIDENCE

Many Charlevoix People Have Been Called as Witnesses

Week after week has been published the testimony of Charlevoix people—kidney sufferers—backache victims—people who have endured many forms of kidney, bladder or urinary disorders. These witnesses have used Doan's Kidney Pills. All have given their enthusiastic approval. It's the same everywhere. 50,000 American men and women are publicly recommending Doan's—always in the home papers. Isn't it a wonderful, convincing mass of proof? If you are a sufferer your verdict must be "Try Doan's first."

Here's one more Charlevoix case. Rome Pappia, 117 E. Garfield Ave., says: "About three years ago I got wet while watching a fire and about a week later was on my back suffering from rheumatic pains. For eight weeks I was in such bad shape I could hardly move. My kidneys were weak and acted irregularly and the secretions were highly colored and unnatural. Dizzy spells came over me and spots floated before my eyes. Doan's Kidney Pills straightened me up in a short time, curing all the trouble."

CUSTOMERS LETTER LITERARY CURIOSITY

Pump Fails to Work Properly Without the Handle

As a result of the irritation induced by the freight blockade of the past winter with its many inconveniences to shippers and their customers, many interesting communications couched in terms anything but mild are on file in railroad and manufacturers' offices. The following is a letter of complaint received by a Cleveland firm from one of its customers:

Red Mill, O., Feb. 10, 1918.

Gentlemen—I get the pump with I by from you, but why you doan send me no handle, wats the use a pump when she doan have no handle. I loose to me my customer. Sure thing you doan treat me rite. Doan send me the handle pretty quick I send her back and I goan order some pump from another companie.

Boobydo.

Yours truly,

ANTONIO DUTRA.

Since I rite I fine the dam handle in the box, excuse to me.

Antonio's letter is being shown around among manufacturers as a "literary" curiosity.

John T. Thompson, former city treasurer of Cadillac, was found guilty of embezzlement at Cadillac after the jury had deliberated for four hours and been polled at the request of the defense after the foreman announced the verdict. This was the first time in eleven years that a jury has been polled in the Wexford circuit court. Not a flicker of emotion crossed the countenance of Thompson when the verdict was announced. He sat in the same stolid, expressionless manner which he has carried during the whole trial. For the first time since he has been on trial his mother was not present when the verdict was announced. The verdict is considered an exoneration for the other city officials, George Johnston, city manager, and H. Lee Worden, city clerk, whose names were dragged into the case.

Expert Advice For the Automobile Owner

Queries and Replies Covering Matters of Importance to the Man Who Runs a Car

Will you please explain what is meant by back firing?

Back firing usually implies that ignition takes place in the cylinder before the piston reaches the dead center of the compression stroke, thereby causing the crank shaft to reverse. If this occurs when the operator is holding the crank it produces a back kick which is liable to dislocate the shoulder or otherwise injure the arm.

The term back firing is also applied to an explosion occurring in the cylinder during the inlet stroke of the piston. This would ignite the gas in the intake manifold and mixing chamber of the carburetor. Should gasoline be near the carburetor it may cause a serious fire.

Will you please explain why valves are ground by alternating rotary motion in view of the fact that valve tappets are arranged to give the valves a slightly continuous rotary motion in service? Also, what are the objections to the continuous rotary motion in grinding?

Valves are ground by an alternating rotary motion to avoid scoring the seats or the valves themselves. You know that if you were sandpapering a finely finished piece of wood, such as an automobile body, preparatory to painting it you would not draw the sandpaper around in a continuous path, for that would leave ridges or scratches. The same applies to grinding in valves.

Can you tell me the best method of cleaning leather upholstery?

The best thing to apply to the upholstery if you would preserve its softness and keep it from cracking is a good leather dressing preparation. There are a number of good ones on the market. Water in which there is a little ammonia is also a good leather cleaner, and after using it a soft cloth should be employed to rub the surface of the leather dry.

What causes gasoline to drip from my carburetor for a few seconds after stopping the motor?

Probably the float is not adjusted properly.

Do oversized pistons tend to make a motor heat?

Yes, if they are so tight that they are stiff and create too high compression. If they allow the proper clearance they do not overheat the motor.

When removing a storage battery, if the generator wires were connected, why would not that prevent the windings from burning out?

Because if the generator is passing current through itself without any outlet the voltage builds up rapidly and at high speeds it can reach the point where the windings will be burned.

If I change a one and one-fourth inch carburetor to a one and one-half will it increase speed without making the intake manifold larger?

This depends entirely on how well the present size of carburetor and size and design of manifold are adapted to the engine in question. Ordinarily when the carburetor for touring is replaced by one of larger size more speed results.

Why is the distance between the front wheels of a car greater at the top than at the bottom?

The reason for this is to make steering easier. The object of tipping the wheels in this manner is to bring the point of contact between the wheels and the ground in a vertical line below the axis of the steering knuckle. When the line of the center of the steering knuckle protrudes is coincident with the contact of the tire and the ground there is no tendency for the wheel to be thrown out of line when an obstruction is met on the road. On the other hand, were this point to be somewhat inside of the point of contact of the wheel and the ground there would be a tendency for the wheel to be turned about the steering knuckle whenever an obstruction was met, with the result that there would be an interference with the steering.

How can I tell whether my motor is timed correctly? When cranking the motor slowly with the spark advanced it kicks back. Does this show that it is properly timed?

Your motor is probably timed correctly. If you wish to check up on the timing set the spark at full retard and the piston of No. 1 cylinder at top dead center. Then examine the breaker box mechanism. If the points for No. 1 cylinder are just ready to break the timing is correct.

Should there be any up and down play in an oil pump drive shaft and would this play cause a knock audible every revolution of the cam shaft?

The oil pump drive shaft should be tight, and if it is loose it might cause a knock.

Can the axle shafts in a semifloating axle be taken out without disassembling the axle? If so, how is this done?

In a semifloating axle the shafts cannot be removed without going to the trouble of removing the shaft bearings which are housed in retainers. The latter are in most cases screwed into the housing.

It is to make sure that the wheel bearings are properly adjusted. They should be just tight enough so that there is no side play in the wheels; but, on the other hand, they should not be so tight that the wheels bind and do not turn freely. This done, take a long stick or rod that will reach from the inner edge of one rim across to the inner edge of the other. Then measure the distance between the rim edges horizontally back of the center of the wheel. Mark this distance on the stick and then try it on the rims horizontally in front of the wheel centers. The front distance should be one-fourth inch to three-eighths inch less than the distance across the backs of the hubs. If you find these distances are not correct you can get the proper adjustment by taking up or letting out on the steering cross rod, which parallels the axle and runs across just back of it. First loosen the lock nut at one of the ends, then take out the pin that goes through the steering arm and yoke and screw the yoke out or in, as the case requires. Then check the wheel alignment again and tighten the lock nut.

What is the object of a clutch brake?

A clutch brake is a device to check the momentum of the clutch while changing speeds. Usually when the clutch is thrown out or disengaged it tends to spin for some time, due to the momentum it received from the engine. The clutch brake rubs on the clutch or clutch shaft in such a manner as to slow it up so as to make gear shifting without having to wait for the gears intended to be meshed to assume approximately the same speed.

When taking down my car I put the cylinders into a solution of caustic soda to remove the old paint and have found that the solution acts as an excellent carbon remover. It soaks the carbon right off and leaves the surface cleaner than after scraping. Could you tell me if it would harm the motor to inject it into the cylinders and let it stand for a day or two, then start up the motor to blow the carbon out through the exhaust? If some of it went by the pistons would it have any effect on the lubrication? Does it attack iron?

Your suggestion regarding removal of carbon is very interesting, and it should cause no difficulty provided care is taken, but otherwise great havoc may result.

Caustic soda, caustic potash or sodium or potassium hydroxide will not injure iron, if left in contact with it for only a day or so, but all these solutions quickly dissolve aluminum and eat bronze and brass; consequently it is imperative that none of the solution you use come in contact with these substances.

In other words, it is perfectly safe to clean the carbon out by this method, provided you have the cylinders off, but it is doubtful if you will find it safe with the motor assembled unless it happens that your pistons and crank case are iron or steel.

A particularly violent action might be set up if the pistons are aluminum, the aluminum and cast iron forming a battery, and rapid corrosion would result.

It is dangerous to use this solution when the crank case is aluminum, as some of the liquid might leak down and attack it. This applies to motors with crank case bottoms of aluminum. If the upper half of the crank case is aluminum and the bottom is of steel there is small cause for worry.

Any of the solutions mentioned will not attack lubricating oil or any mineral oil, but vegetable oils will be turned into soap.

What is the difference between direct current and alternating current?

In direct current the electrical current is in one direction at all times; in alternating current the electrical current varies its direction intermittently. To make this clear suppose you put a straw into water and drew with a steady suction with the mouth at the other end of the straw. The water would pass up the straw in even flow in one direction. The electric current does the same thing in all direct circuits. Now, suppose you suck and blow on the straw, alternating the efforts evenly. The water will pass rapidly up and down the straw. This corresponds to the way the electric current acts in an alternating circuit, although the alternations are of course tremendously fast. As an example of the speed of the alternations a lamp bulb in an alternating current gives a steady light without flicker.

Have you ever tussled in vain to withdraw a rusty screw? Just apply a very hot iron to the head of the screw and use the screwdriver while the head is still hot, and the screw will come out easily.

By WARREN MILLER

No one could understand why it was that Helen Ayer, the wife of an excellent man and the mother of a lovely boy six years old, fell under the influence of Schuyler Quigley, who nothing except swaggar and cheek to recommend him. When Quigley first began to pay attention to Mrs. Ayer her husband did not appear to notice it. The truth is he saw that his wife was drifting away from him and he dared not oppose her, fearing that by his very opposition he might bring about a catastrophe. If he permitted the matter to work itself out perhaps the wife and mother would in time tire of her new fancy and realize the danger to herself, her husband and her son.

Ayer had no faith in the effectiveness of opposition in such a case. He preferred to rely on some appeal to the heart such as he was not in a position to make himself and which could only come to his wife unbidden. He hoped that some incident, some evidence thrust before her suddenly, might sweep the dust from before her eyes and she would see her position in its true light. He had perfect confidence in her purity. If Quigley succeeded in taking her away from him he must do it legitimately. She must be divorced from the one and married to the other.

With this idea in view he made up complaint to Helen, leaving her perfect freedom to do as she liked. He never objected to Quigley coming to the house, nor did he oppose Helen's going out with him. He endeavored in every possible way to show his faith in her. Had Quigley taken himself away for awhile possibly the spell that bound her to him might have been broken, or at least it might have been breakable.

But Quigley was so aggressive, so persistent, that Helen never got away from a certain dominating force there was about him long enough to recover herself. Finally Ayer decided to take action. Since they all belonged to the same set, he had frequent opportunity to meet the man who was undermining his home. Their first meeting was at the house of a mutual friend, where a number of men were accustomed to play poker. Ayer's object was to begin a series of attempts to force a quarrel upon Quigley, concealing the true cause. The better to cover his motive at the poker party he met Quigley cordially. But during the game he suddenly arose from the table, declaring that he would not play with a cheat, making it plain that Quigley was the man referred to.

Quigley, who was perfectly innocent of the charge, retorted. High words followed, and Ayer struck him. Quigley was prevented from returning the blow by the others, who protested against the men fighting under the host's roof about a matter of cheating at cards, thereby bringing a scandal upon the house and the party.

This left Quigley not only under a disgraceful charge, but as having received a blow from Ayer that he had not returned. Under the old regime of a century or more ago he would have been obliged to challenge Ayer or be cut by his friends. Living in the twentieth century, he was not obliged to do anything. He let the matter drop. He did not call at Ayer's house any more, but he met Mrs. Ayer when she went out on the street and at the houses of mutual friends. All he said to her about his troubles with her husband was that Ayer had accused him of cheating at cards and that every member of the party except him ex-operated him of the charge. And so it was that Russell Ayer by trying to get rid of the man who was really his wife's worst enemy, and at the same time protect her good name, only made himself appear to her a very unjust and ignoble person. She thought that she was taking care of her reputation by never being with Quigley, except when others were present. But she found it difficult to live with one man as his wife and have a love affair though devoid of criminality with another.

Ayer followed up his first attack on Quigley by telling a number of Quigley's friends that he (Ayer) had struck him and Quigley had not had the manliness to resent the blow. The situation was not pleasing to any one of the three persons involved. Quigley represented to Mrs. Ayer that he was refraining from resenting her husband's insults on her account and begged her to vindicate him by securing a divorce and marrying him. She was distressed, feeling that this was due Quigley, but dreading to take a step that would separate her from her husband and her child.

One day Ayer met Quigley on the street. Each was walking with a friend. As they passed Ayer said loud enough for Quigley and his companion to hear: "There goes a coward I am trying to make fight."

This was too much for Quigley, who turned and said, "Well, we'll have it out now."

"Very well," replied Ayer, "draw."

Taking a revolver from his pocket, he raised it, cocking it at the same time. But since Quigley was unarmed there was no fight.

"You can't escape me with a bloody nose," said Ayer. "It's life or death between us."

And he walked on. Quigley began to feel that he could no longer brook these insults. Some of his friends were telling him that Ayer was determined in the matter and it might better be settled sooner than later. They advised him to challenge Ayer and have it over with. All supposed that the origin of the matter was at the card table. Indeed, few if any knew that Ayer was trying to force his enemy to withdraw his influence from Mrs. Ayer. Quigley blustered for awhile, but took no action. But finally noticing a difference in the cordiality with which his friends greeted him he gave in and sent Ayer a challenge.

Ayer accepted, naming revolvers at ten paces, every chamber to be emptied before the firing ceased.

This staggered Quigley, for it meant death probably to both of the parties. He sent a message to Ayer asking what he could do to avert the issue. Ayer replied in a sealed note telling him that he must neither speak nor write to Mrs. Ayer again. Quigley replied that Mrs. Ayer had applied for a divorce and had consented to marry him as soon as it was obtained. To this Ayer replied that on his part the affair would be dropped. But he did not do this till he had looked into the court records and found that his wife had the day before applied for a separation.

When Ayer went home that evening he found his wife gone. His little boy asked him what was the matter with mamma. She had cried and kissed him all the morning, then had gone out and hadn't come back. Wouldn't papa go and bring her back?

But day after day, week after week, month after month, passed and mamma did not return. She was residing in a city where divorce is made easy. The child was obliged to content himself with his nurse during the day, but whenever his father was not at his office he supplied so far as possible the place of the mother. Quigley still lived in the city, but there was not as much swaggar in him as formerly. Somehow no one seemed to think he had come out of his affair with Ayer with credit, and his friends were dropping off.

While it was known to the Ayers' intimate friends that Helen was suing for a divorce, it was not known that she was doing so in order to marry Quigley. Divorces usually make it appear that great wrongs are committed by one or both parties. The are hard-ned at tales of cruelty, desertion, all kinds of inhumanities. While reading of them we would suppose that after such suffering neither party will ever again consent to wear the chains of wedlock. But once the bond is broken up by a man or a woman hitherto unknown in the proceedings, and the divorce is scarcely granted before the wedding bells are ringing.

Helen Ayer had secured her divorce, had returned, and it was supposed by her friends, except an intimate few, that she would remain after the charges against Ayer her lawyer had drawn up for her—an unmarried woman. While this was the supposition, a marriage license was being taken out permitting Helen Ayer and Schuyler Quigley to wed. They were to be privately married at 8 o'clock in the evening and take a 7 o'clock train for their wedding trip.

During the afternoon the bride to be was seized with an irresistible desire to see her boy once more before taking the irrevocable step. She knew that her husband was usually at his office at the time and she would not meet him. Throwing caution to the winds, she called a carriage, alighted near her former home, entered and ran upstairs to find her son.

She came upon a melancholy sight. Her boy was lying on a bed, pale and wan, while his father was bending over him.

"Oh, why didn't you tell me? Why didn't you send for me?" she wailed. And without waiting for a reply she bent down, passionately encircled the child with her arms and hugged him to her breast. Then, flinging her hat and coat aside, she knelt beside the bed.

"Oh, mamma," cried the child, "how glad I am that you have come back!" Then, raising his arms, he placed them about her shoulders. "And you're never, never going away again, are you?"

And the woman for whom a bridegroom was waiting said:

"Never, so help me heaven!"

Russell Ayer was walking away when his wife seized his hand and held him. She attempted to speak to him, but not finding words turned again to the boy. Then Russell knelt beside her, and, resting his hand on her waist, the two turned the chilling life back.

An hour later Schuyler Quigley, as he was about to enter a carriage to take him to a church where he was to meet his bride, was startled by a message:

"I cannot go. I will never see you again."

One of those singular and unaccountable infatuations under which a woman will leave home, husband and children, wrecking them and most of all herself, had come to a sudden end, as it were, on the brink of the precipice over which she was about to plunge. Her husband could manage the man who was enticing her, but he could not manage her. What neither of these men could do was accomplished by a sick child.

After the boy came out of danger Russell Ayer told his wife of his attempts to save her. He gave the reason for his accusing Quigley of cheating at cards, the blow, the subsequent insults, the forcing his enemy into an unwilling challenge. Then when he had finished by telling her that he had dropped the matter on learning of her intended separation she shuddered.

"My God! How could I have done it?"

And as soon as possible they were remarried quietly.

S. A. Lassie Doesn't Know a Thing Really—On Firing Line a Year

"Really I don't know a THING! You see I've just come back from France where I'd been doing canteen work on the firing line for more than a year!"

That's the answer pretty Lieutenant Maude Stella Carmickle, aged 19, laughingly gives to all inquiries as to her sojourn in the war zone. She's been one of the few Salvation Army lassies who had baked doughnuts and pies under German shell fire and was smiling the cheery Salvation Army's lassie smile all the while.

Miss Carmickle has been telling her story throughout the Salvation Army province of Michigan-Indiana during the nation-wide drive for $13,000,000 for the National Home Service Fund. Her story is of particular interest in Michigan and Indiana folks too, not only because she has served doughnuts and pies and coffee to so many of Michigan and Indiana boys overseas, but because she is a native Indiana girl, having been born in Tell City, Ind., but a Bay City, Mich. Salvation Army corps lassie.

War Veterans of World Battles Guests of S. A. At Memorial Observance

Veterans of all the wars are to be guests of honor at the special memorial services to be held in all cities throughout Indiana and Michigan by the Salvation Army Corps Officers, Sunday, May 25.

The veteran organizations will include the survivors of the Civil War, the Spanish American, and the veterans of foreign wars. Prominent in the line up, however, will be the youngest of American veterans, the Michigan and Indiana doughboys who have carried the flag across the Rhine.

The gathering of the veterans of all wars with their "Ally" the Salvation Army has been planned as a fitting wind-up to the National Home Service Fund Campaign for $13,000,000 of which the lower peninsula of Michigan and Indiana had been apportioned a quota of close to $1,000,000.

What Doughboy's Mother Thinks of Lassies of Salvation Army Overseas

What the American doughboy, the overseas soldier, thinks of the lassies of the Salvation Army and its work in the war zone is an oft-told tale, wherever American young men get together. But here is what a Yank's mother thinks of the "Army" and its splendid overseas record and in writing of it she quotes from letters received from her son in France. She's a typical Michigan mother is Mrs. William Hoffman, 101 Stewart avenue, Jackson, although her story is typical of the same expressions that have come from Indiana mothers, especially since the announcement of the Salvation Army Home Service Fund drive for $13,000,000 during this week. Mrs. Hoffman's letter is quoted from the Jackson, Mich. "News" as follows:

"To the Salvation Army and whom else this may concern—which should be all humanity: I just want to express my heartfelt thanks to the Salvation Army. Although I am not a member of any religious organization it is my duty as a mother who has a son in the war to tell you what he has said to me in several of his letters. In one, written since the signing of the armistice, he says:

"Ma, last evening I listened to a sermon by a Salvation Army man who had just been away from the good old U. S. A. nineteen days. It sure was good. He told me what the folks back home were doing and it sure does make a fellow feel good. Guess I grew a foot listening to him."

"In one of the papers I noticed that the Salvation Army is trying to raise a fund of $13,000,000 to finance itself for home service. If ever there was a deserving organization, it's this one. In our last big drive the Salvation Army lassies were with us, scarcely taking time to eat and if their canteens were with or without supplies there was always that ever welcome smile and that ever needed thread and needle."

Literally.

BE AMERICAN OR GET OUT!

All over the country foreigners today gather in dozens and scores and hundreds.

They gather in foreign clubs, where foreign songs are sung, where foreign speeches are made, where customs and habits and traditions of nations that we recently were in death grapple with, are uplifted and lauded.

We don't blame these folks, that's silly.

But we do insist that the sooner it is made obligatory on every American citizen to speak English, and teach English, and preach English, and editorialize in English the better.

Those who have been making their daily bread, with a large piece of cake besides, in this country for forty years have had time enough to learn the 300 words needed to speak business and social English.

Play no favorite, give no loophole for excuses, this is the United States of America for American citizens, English speaking citizens without any Hobbs or St. Senors or We We Beebe monkey business.

And those who can't be Americans, who must hang on to fatherland customs and traditions and language, while they glean American dollars, let them go back home where their hearts are, and give real Americans a chance.

Whether you are German, Dutch,
Pole, Roumanian, Greek, Chinese, Hottentot or from nowhere in particular. If you are going to accept the opportunities of this country, its protection, its freedom and its prosperity, you must become an English speaking, American thinking citizen without backward look, or "home" yearning.

And those who won't come clean, throw 'em out.

SOME THINGS HE OVERLOOKED

The president forgot to suggest to congress:

An investigation of Mr. McAdoo's achievements as railroad administrator.

An investigation of Dr. Garfield's accomplishments as fuel administrator.

An investigation of Mr. Burleson's conduct of the postoffice department.

An investigation of Mr. Burleson's management of the telegraph, telephone and cable lines.

An investigation of Mr. Baker's administration of the war department, including an inquiry into the wreck of the aircraft division and an inquiry into the conditions of the Brest and St. Agnais camps.

An investigation of Mr. Daniels conduct of the navy department.

An audit of the general financial accounts of the war.

An audit of the accounts of the bureau of public information.

An audit of the chief executive's special war slush fund.

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast
washes out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom to your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, to fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless incoarsener of washlog from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully vigilant. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better to every way.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Drink lots of water and stop eating meat for a while if your bladder troubles you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority.
Most forms of acid which overwork the kidneys to their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, also you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act free. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effortescent lithia-water drink.

But perhaps Mr. Wilson felt that such recommendations would be superfluous and would merely increase the cable tolls on his message.

BRING ON THE NEXT ONE!

The navy did it—the American navy.

Nor was it a fluke that won for the American flag the honor of first crossing the Atlantic by airplane.
Planned deliberately and with scientific exactness down to the minutest of countless details, the effort was made as efforts of the American navy always have been made—with confidence in an EARNED victory.

The English and the French tried, with picturesque and commendable gallantry.

The Americans DID—not by luck,
but by algebra.

When Commander Read and his crew stepped out of the NC-4 upon the mainland of Europe they wrote the last line of a lesson to the world that began with the entrance of the United States into the war. And that was this: That the American people, despite their apparent carelessness, are a blue-steel, calculating, clear-headed lot when there is a real job to be done.

Bring on the next tough one and watch us eat it up.

What has become of the old-fashioned blatherskite who used to argue that if the government owned the railroads the earnings would pay the whole cost of running the nation and we could dispense with taxes, with passenger fares and freight rates about half what they were under private ownership? He is busy proving that the league of nations will keep us out of war.

"I can see the league of nations with the flag of Christ unfurled," sings one of the poets in a church paper. People with less vision and more eyesight can see the flag of Japan floating over Shantung and the American people, under the Versailles covenant pledged to coerce China into letting it stay there as long as Japan wants to keep it up.

Mr. Taft says he is surprised by the friendly message President Wilson sent to the women pacifists in session at Berne, after they had denounced the peace treaty in their resolutions.
What is there surprising about that, coming from the statesman who "kept us out of war" in 1916? The only surprising thing is that anybody says he is surprised.

The price of dreadnoughts as revealed by recent bids, has gone up 100 per cent. Proving two things; first, we have been kept out of war;
second, the high cost of commodities has been eliminated by the repeal of the damnable Payne-Aldrich law.
Thus are Democratic platform pledges abundantly fulfilled.

The Atlanta Georgian says: "The Democratic party will fall if it ceases to be radical." Worse than that, it has failed before it ceased to be radical. That is radical in some things. It has never been exactly what you might call radical about letting the people rule in Georgia, for instance.

"Can the senate be bought?" cries the New York World, in discussing the Michigan senatorial case. What worryes the World is that the new senate can neither be bought nor bullied.

Attorney General Palmer says that if President Wilson wishes it he can be nominated and elected to a third term. Mr. Palmer may be half right.

LANSING LETTER

The voters of Michigan will pass upon a constitutional amendment at the fall election of 1920 that merely involves the question of whether or not a single word shall be added to the present fundamental law of the state. That word is "men." Section 28 of Article Five of the Constitution of Michigan at present reads:

"The legislature shall have power to enact laws relative to the hours and conditions under which women and children may be employed."

If the people adopt the proposed amendment the word "men" will follow, following the lapse of the required thirty days, appear before the word women in the above section.
The revised constitution of 1907-08 gave the legislature power to enact laws relative "to the hours and conditions under which women and children may be employed," but House enrolled joint resolution No. 1, officially known in the records as the "Dunn-Kappler joint resolution," proposes to now include the male workers of the state.

Grows Out of Eight Hour Defeat

The joint authors of the proposal,
Mr. Dunn of Highland Park and Mr.
Kappler of Houghton, favored in part at least, the so-called Holland eight hour bill, until it became so loaded up with amendments, eliminating various classes of labor, as to make its passage ridiculous. Aside from the perspective constitutional objections, which this amendment is aimed to cover, a large house majority believed any bill fixing hours of labor should come from the federal congress as any attempt by the state to fix working hours could very easily prove a serious handicap to Michigan industry.

In the first place agriculture could not exist under an eight hour day for farm help which fact immediately won the emphatic opposition of farmer legislators, who objected to the idea itself for the perfectly obvious reason that such a law, if passed, could only add to the growing shortage of farm labor by legally making other employment more attractive through shorter hours.

Amendment Unique in Its Brevity

Never before in the history of the state has an amendment been proposed that involves the change of a single word. Since the last constitutional convention, summoned in October, 1907, legislatures have enacted numerous laws dealing with male labor questions without any question as to their legality. That past legislatures have acted within their constituted authority in these matters is clearly shown by the explanatory note in the address to the people submitting the 1907-08 revision. Commenting on Section 29, Article V, as quoted above, the committee on submission, headed by Victor M. Gore of Benton Harbor, said:

"This foregoing section is a new one, and is inserted in the revision for the reason that doubt was expressed as to the power of the legislature in the premises without such a provision.

Now after these dozen years, or since the women and children labor proviso was adopted, the people must decide whether or not they want the word "men" inserted in this section to safeguard the interest of the worker. Some people will claim the suggested change means more advanced labor legislation, but boiled down this lone word, in this case, carries no significance as Michigan's labor laws are today in the fore front of any state in the union.

Velvet—The Friendly Tobacco Home Again

Velvet tobacco in its jolly red tin is again a feature of cigar stores, big

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens
So Naturally that Nobody can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyn's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved
by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyn's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The Comforts of the American Home

It is a well-known fact that, home for home, the American household has more comforts and conveniences than that of any other nation.

In foreign lands the modernized dwelling is found only in the better sections of the larger cities.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find the piano, the vacuum cleaners, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless electrical appliances.

There is a well-kept look about residence, store our outbuildings with an atmosphere of prosperity and content.

Did you ever stop to realize why this is so; how this condition was brought about?

It is largely due to advertising. And a big share of the credit belongs to newspaper advertising.

Stop and think how many of the foods you eat, the things you wear and other articles entering into your everyday life, you first heard of through newspaper advertisements.

You will then realize what a part they do play, or should play, in your daily life.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly, if you are not already doing so. They mean more to you than you can tell.

Home Grown Seed Makes Its First Appearance in State

Michigan grown alfalfa seed is appearing on the market for the first time since the introduction of the crop into the state, according to Prof. J. F. Cox, head of the farm crops department at M. A. C. Heretofore all Michigan alfalfa has been raised from seed imported from other states. The local seed is particularly valuable because of the fact that it has been produced by plants which are winter-hardy under Michigan conditions.

Michigan growers of alfalfa must be careful not to plant alfalfa seed which has been grown in the south, as southern seed will not be dependable in Michigan. Turkestan seed, for instance, will not stand Michigan winters, while Peruvian seed and seed grown in the southwestern states is also dangerous.

Only northern grown seed from the Dakotas, Montana and Minnesota, or native alfalfa from the central and western states should be grown in Michigan. The Grimm, Baltic and Cossack are particular hardy strains.

When Michigan growers are producing a large amount of seed the production of alfalfa in the state will be on a much more dependable basis, and it has been demonstrated that the seed can be grown profitably in the state.

AIM OF MICHIGAN TRANSIT COMPANY

Want Citizens of All Ports as Stockholders in Company

We have tried to set forth in these columns, the hopes, aims and aspirations of the Michigan Transit Company, the new boat line, as they have been disclosed to us by our inquiries and by the statements of the line's officials. As we gather it their proposition to Charlevoix might be stated as follows:

They propose to increase their capital stock sufficiently to enable them to add to their line the steamships Missouri and Manitou.

They desire to place a portion of the stock in each of the cities and towns along the routes which are served by these boats, the Manitou, Missouri and Kansas, in order that the public being served, may be financially interested in the line serving them, and may have a voice in that service. In a sense this means co-operative ownership and operation, which is an excellent substitute for government ownership and operation as we have come to know it.

They do not propose to allow the desire to make large profits interfere with the idea that the duty of a public carrier is to render service to the traveling and shipping public. Yet, they propose, by eliminating large salaries and excessive overhead expense, to make the largest return on the money invested, consistent with good service and fair rates and fares.

They intend to operate both early and late in the year, not just during the summer, and they are equipped to do this successfully by the type and makeup of their fleet.

They insure to the investor, in preferred stock of their company a 7 per cent. return on his investment, and to the investor in common stock, a probably much larger return.

They ask Charlevoix to take a quota of $25,000 of their stock or near that amount as possible, not all immediately, but a substantial portion of it now, if we want this excellent boat service.

The question is, how much does Charlevoix want good boat service? If it means nothing to our city, then let us forget it. If it means as much to us as this paper thinks it does, then let us each do his bit according to his ability, in spite of the other many urgent demands upon our pocket books, and give these gentlemen the financial help which they so richly deserve for bringing to us so fair a proposition. For never again in our judgment will the people of Charlevoix have an opportunity to help themselves on such favorable terms, to the kind of water transportation to which our city is entitled.

The New York Times says that in urging the Republicans of the senate to swallow the British-Wilson covenant whole, it is "moved only by consideration of the welfare of the nation." But it doesn't mention which nation.

DEVOE The Guaranteed Lead and Zinc Paint
Fewer Gallons—Wears Longer

It contains no whitening, silica, china clay or other such stuff. It is made of the same pure ingredients that the old-time painter used: Pure White Lead, Pure White Zinc, Pure Linseed Oil, and nothing else. Devoe is mixed by machinery, 1000 gallons at a time. That makes it absolutely uniform in strength, color and covering capacity—always takes fewer gallons, too.

Let us show you the real economy of painting Devoe paint. Will be glad to send you copy of the practical booklet—"Keep Appearances Up and Expenses Down."

Now is the time to plan the vegetable garden. Corn for a home garden may be started in doors to paper pots. When frosts are over plant the pot and all outdoors.

Don't plant more than enough apples to supply home use unless they can be well taken care of.

They are not a profitable crop on the average farm unless some attention is given them.

A few hives, hydrangeas, esp. racas, honeysuckles or Japanese roses add much to the attractiveness of the home grounds.

More than a score of farmers in Minnesota are breeding corn on scientific principles. The results in the grains are as noticeable as the results in scientific breeding of the stock.

FEEDING BROOD SOWS.

Care Should Be Taken Not to Have Them Fat at Farrowing Time.

The feed allowed brood sows just prior to farrowing is of vital importance. Sows should not be overfat at farrowing time. If too fat they will be feverish and constipated and may farrow all the pigs dead.

A suitable grain ration recommended by the Pennsylvania state college school of agriculture and experiment station for sows prior to farrowing is one consisting of corn, 400 parts; middlings, 300 parts; tankage, 100 parts, and bran, 50 parts. Oatmeal may be substituted for tankage and the amount increased to 150 parts to the mixture.

A week or ten days prior to farrowing the sow should be removed to a farrowing pen, which should be dry, comfortable and roomy. Farrowing pens in a centralized hoghouse eight feet square, with lots opening outside, make the best quarters.

The day before farrowing the sow should receive only a light feed of bran, fed wet. For the first thirty-six hours after farrowing the sow should be fed very lightly. Heavy feeding at this time will produce heavy milk flow, which in turn is apt to cause scouring in pigs.

At the expiration of the thirty-six hour period the sow may be started gradually on a ration of cornmeal, seven parts; tankage, one part, and sweet skim milk in the proportion of one pound of grain mixture to one pound of milk. If sweet skim milk is not available a grain mixture of cornmeal, 400 parts; wheat middlings, 300 parts; tankage, 100 parts, and of oatmeal, 50 parts, may be used.

Garrison Flag.

The garrison flag of the United States army is made of bunting, with 36 feet fly and 20 feet hoist, 13 stripes, and in the upper quarter next the staff is the field or "union" of stars, equal to the number of states, on blue field, over one-third length of flag, extending to the lower edge of the fourth red stripe from the top.

SPECIAL SESSION OPENED TUESDAY

IMPORTANT MATTERS BEFORE SOLONS

Twenty Day Pay Limit on Members But They May Stay Longer Without Compensation

For the first time since 1912, when Chase S. Osborn called two special sessions in an effort to put through an immediate effect presidential primary law, the legislature convened in Lansing Tuesday afternoon in extraordinary session for the purpose of enacting highway legislation and considering such other matters as Gov. Sleeper may direct in special messages.

The governor will recommend a law providing for the sale of the state highway bonds and the creation of a board of state officers to handle the money. He will recommend a budget bill for the state highway department, a state reward bill based on 25 per cent. for non-trunk line roads and 50 per cent. for trunk line roads. He will ask the legislature to amend the Aldrich bill passed during the last regular session reducing by 50 per cent. the amount which counties will be required to pay.

The governor also will reopen the discussion on trailers. The last legislature put through a one-trailer bill but there is a general feeling that with proper safeguards the state should permit the use of two trailers.

Would License Autoists

While the governor will not recommend it in his first message to the legislature Tuesday afternoon, it is not unlikely that before the adjournment there will be an attempt made to obtain some legislation whereby trucks doing an intracity business will be placed under the control of the public utilities commission and be required to pay a state license.

In addition to the highway legislation the governor also will recommend an amendment to the bill requiring the licensing of all automobile drivers so that the secretary of state will have authority to employ additional clerks to administer the law. This bill practically doubles the work of the automobile division of the state department and no provision was made whereby the secretary could employ additional help. Under the budget bill he is limited to a certain number of clerks.

For some time the governor has been interested in legislation which will give state recognition to practical nurses. He has contended that there are thousands of families in the state unable to pay the fee demanded by a registered nurse, and insists that in many instances practical nurses could be of real service at far less expense. He does not discredit the trained nurses and does not feel that they are being overpaid for their services, but he contends that there should be a class of nurses available for people in poorer circumstances who are unable to pay $35 per week.

May Ratify Suffrage

He will also urge the legislature to consider an amendment to the constitution relative to the condemnation of more land and property, than is needed for acquiring, opening and widening of parks, public streets and alleys by municipalities within and beyond their boundaries. This is known as the excess condemnation proceedings and is strongly indorsed by Mayor Couzens and the council of Detroit.

Should the senate of the United States ratify the proposed amendment providing for equal suffrage, Gov. Sleeper will send in a special message to the Michigan legislature urging its ratification. If the legislature is still in session when favorable action is taken in the United States senate, Michigan will be among the first states to ratify the federal suffrage amendment. During the last session a concurrent resolution was unanimously adopted calling upon congress to pass the suffrage amendment.

While the governor intends to limit the scope of operations it is not unlikely that several other matters of considerable importance will be brought up before the final adjournment. Legislators are limited to twenty days pay for a special session. They receive $5 per day and mileage at the rate of 10 cents per mile to and from their homes.

The "get Trotsky" expedition seems to have turned out, at the finish, a good deal like the "get-Villa" foray. Now that the Siberian expedition has been abandoned, someone ought to get up and tell us for what reason American soldiers were asked to risk their lives in it.

PRINCE BATTLES ALLIES WITH BEER

CONGRESSMAN SCOTT ON OLD BATTLEFIELD

Says German "Lead" Army in Bomb-proof Dugout Which is Well Supplied With Wet Goods

That the ex-crown prince of Germany was safely ensconced in a bombproof sub-basement of a camouflaged French chateau at the time he was supposed to be "leading" the armies against the allies, is the assertion of Congressman Frank D. Scott, who recently returned from abroad. This "brave" young prince observed the movements of his armies through a periscope and was about as safe from danger as the good people of Alpena, Mich. Congressman Scott came back loaded down with souvenirs, including a German machine gun which two American generals tried to "swipe" from him on the way over.

"That crown prince, like his brothers, was certainly a brave fellow," said Scott. "The chateau in which he lived is located about twenty miles northeast of Verdun. We were within a stone's throw of it before we could see that it was a house, owing to the fact that it was camouflaged by a mass of green boughs on the roof and sandbags piled to the eaves, which made the house fade into the landscape.

"To get into the house, which was of stone, we descended a ladder stairway down a funnel-shaped hole in the ground. Then we walked quite a distance underground until we came to a basement. Descending through another funnel-shaped hole we came into a sub-basement located far below the surface of the ground. At one end of this sub-basement was a vaulted room with very thick cement walls, reinforced by a shell of steel about as thick as battleship armor. This vault was the abode of the brave commander of the German armies. He had a periscope leading up out of the roof of the house which enabled him to see what was going on in the outer world. It was a very safe way to see the war and at the same time preserve his precious hide for the 'triumphal march into Paris.'

"I found a decanter in this place from which the prince used to refresh himself with German beer after the hard battles. I also had the pleasure of picking up an American cartridge belt within a short distance of the house, showing that the prince had good reason to flee back toward the Rhine."

DRIVE OVER THE LOWER ROAD

Charlevoix-Petoskey Road is Closed to Traffic

County Road Commissioner O. D. Hammond has requested the Courier to announce through its columns that the Petoskey-Charlevoix road, between Greensky Hill and Burgess, is closed to traffic on account of the construction of a bridge at the outlet of Susan Lake.

At this point there is a large fill to be made besides the construction of the concrete bridge, and on account of the swampy lands it is impossible to provide a temporary road.

Take the road running east past the Waller farm if you desire to go to Petoskey or points north or east.

of Greensky Hill. This road has been placed in a passable condition and during the period of road construction of the concrete highway east of Greensky Hill to Burgess will be utilized.

BROKE ANKLE IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT

Hayes Township Farmer Injured in Serious Manner

Floyd Bartholomew, a well known farmer of Hayes Township, met with an accident on Thursday of last week that will keep him from his farm work for some time.

He was engaged in planting potatoes, and had driven his team and wagon loaded with the seed to the field. He spoke to the horses to move up and from then on things are not just as clear to him as they might be. Anyway, the team started to run, and Bartholomew tried to stop them, and in the tangle the rear wheel of the wagon ran over his ankle, badly crushing it.

The accident is a most painful one, also unfortunate in happening right in the rush of farm work. But Bartholomew will be able to travel only with the aid of crutches for some time.

RESTOCK LAKES WITH GAME FISH

Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club Continues Its Good Work

The state fish ear "Walverine" left thirty cans of wall-eyed pike fry at the Pere Marquette station Monday, consigned to members of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, which were planted in Susan, Adams and West Twin lakes.

This is but a small consignment of the amount expected to be received here, as applications have been filed with the state fish commission for fry for practically every lake and stream in the eastern part of the county.

Local fishermen report splendid catches of brook trout, a direct result of restocking the streams. Large consignments of large and small mouth black bass will soon arrive. It is the intention of the club to restock the lakes and streams every year, and the co-operation of the public is asked.

BIG BOAT DEAL IS COMPLETED

MANITOU AND MISSOURI SOLD TO NEW COMPANY

Michigan Transit Company to Give Northern Resorts Good Service
This Season

Manistee officials of the new Michigan Transit company have authorized the announcement of the purchase from the Northern Michigan Transportation company of the large passenger steamer Manitou and Missouri, with the dock properties at Petoskey, Ludington, Manistee, Portage Point, Traverse City, Frankfort and various northern points.

The deal involved a consideration in the neighborhood of $850,000.

Owing to the war last year the Northern Michigan line was compelled to discontinue operation. The government purchased outright the steamer Minnesota for coast service and commandeered the Missouri leaving the Manitou here subject to immediate passage.

The Missouri was recently released by the government after being used as a training ship and arrived in Manistee to fit out for the summer. It will go into commission about June 10.

The Minnesota, Missouri and Manitou are among the most palatial steamers on the Great Lakes where they were used mainly for summer resort runs and excursions.

The Missouri will be operated between Chicago, Charlevoix and the other northern summer resorts, while the Manitou which is now being fitted out at her winter quarters in Manistee for departure June 20, will ply between Chicago and the Charlevoix resort ports. The acquisition of these steamers gives the Michigan Transit company a fleet of three big steamers. The Kansas has been running since early in the year.

BARBERS RAISE PRICE OF SERVICES

Shaves Now Twenty Cents and Hair
Cuts Forty Cents

Even if the war is over and Bill Hohenzollern is on the mat and down and out, the high cost of living has again hit Charlevoix and the man who frequents the barber shop must pay the shot.

All realize the barber must live and charge for his services in proportion to the expense under which he operates. What's the difference, anyway, it amounts to only the price of a cigar a day.

TRAINING DISABLED SOLDIERS

COL. ARTHUR WOODS IS MAN IN CHARGE

Re-establishing the Disabled in Civil Life After Their Discharge From Army

In his work throughout the country in behalf of discharged service men Col. Arthur Woods, Assistant to the Secretary of War in charge of finding employment for demobilized soldiers, sailors and marines, has learned that in many sections people generally do not know just what the government is doing to enable men disabled in the line of duty to re-establish themselves in civil life.

Inasmuch as the government took these men out of civil life and placed them in camps and in the trenches where their disabilities were incurred, the obligation upon the government to re-establish them in civil life is clear. And it should be understood that those injured in France are not the only ones entitled to assistance, for all disabled service men, whether injured in the United States or abroad, are provided for equally.

For re-establishing the disabled in civil life, the authorized agency of the government is the federal board for vocational education which is charged by congress with the "vocational training of disabled soldiers and the placement of rehabilitated persons in suitable and gainful occupations," after their discharge from the army.

The government, it will be noted, not only trains the disabled men, thus enabling them to assume again with unimpaired efficiency, the responsibilities of civil life, but also assists them in securing employment at the end of his period of training.

In some large cities crippled men in uniform are seen on the street engaged in "penhanding" kindly disposed persons. It has been found that in nearly every case these men are just plain ordinary fakirs in the guise of soldiers, who took this method of enlisting unmerited sympathy from the public. There is no excuse for these fakirs. No man disabled in the service need engage in any sort of holdup game on the streets nor need he engage in any occupation whatever which is not becoming to him. Anyone seeing men in uniform so engaged should inform them of provision made for their training and placement by the government. If any man after being informed what his opportunities are continues his game, a favor will be done the great body of self-respecting disabled men who are trying to make something of themselves, if every case of this character is reported to the nearest branch office of the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

If any disabled man who is considered by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance to be as much as 10 percent disabled, will get in touch with the Federal Board for Vocational Education, Washington, or with its Michigan district at 1600 The Westminster, 110 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., the Federal Board will place them in educational institutions when education is necessary and feasible, where suitable trades or occupations will be taught them according to their individual experience, capacities and preferences. A disabled man so incapacitated that he cannot take up his old occupation will be allowed to choose any occupation or trade which he thinks he would like to follow, subject, of course, to approval by the Federal Board, which is interested only to be assured that the man is fitted to pursue the occupation or trade elected.

While in training a man receives an amount equal at least to the base pay received during his last month's service in the army, navy or marine corps, but in no case does he receive less than $65 per month if a single man, or less than $75 per month if living with his dependents, or less than $65 per month for himself if living apart from his dependents—in addition to allowances to his dependents if married and living apart from his wife during the period of training. In all cases the wife receives $15, and each minor child $10 per month. These payments are made to enable the man to support himself while in training, and in lieu of subsistence, etc.

Under the arrangement first mentioned, if a man who served as a private at $30 per month, wishes to take training, waiving claim to subsistence, clothing, etc., he will if single or living apart from his dependents during training, be allowed an additional $35 per month by the federal board, thus bringing his income up to the minimum of $65 per month. On the other hand, should the man have been a noncommissioned officer during his last month's service, and have received, as high as $81 per month, he will then continue to receive such pay and it will, of course, not be necessary in this case for the federal board to allow him anything additional. In the case of officers, it will be apparent, no allowance will be forthcoming from the federal board. Men who have been blinded in battle or who have lost both arms or both legs, or who as a result of injuries incurred are permanently and totally disabled, it may be noted, come under a special provision which allows them $100 per month additional.

Many crippled soldiers were discharged without being informed of the provisions made for them through the agency of the federal board, because they were released from service before the machinery for reaching them was in effect. Any person coming in contact with such disabled men will be doing a patriotic duty by directing them either to write to the Federal Board at Washington or to the Michigan branch at Chicago, or better yet, to appear in person at one of these offices if they can.

It is very important that the disabled men shall be made to realize (Continued on page nine)

BODY COMES TO SURFACE

FOUND IN ROUND LAKE ON THURSDAY MORNING LAST

Remains of Mrs. George Ross Laid to Rest in Brookside Cemetery Thursday Afternoon

The body of Mrs. George Ross, whose drowning took place the evening of May 4, when the auto in which she was riding plunged into the open draw on Bridge street, was discovered floating in the waters of Round Lake between the hours of five and six last Thursday morning by John Nordrum.

When first seen it was about half way between the site of the Booth Fisheries Co. and the swing bridge, just a short distance from the piling on the north side of Round Lake, and had been in the lake thirty-two days.

The remains were in a badly decomposed condition and were taken to See's undertaking rooms and prepared for burial, funeral services being held in the afternoon at Brookside cemetery, under the auspices of the Rebekah lodge, of which she was a member.

Thus comes to end one of the saddest and most unfortunate accidents that has taken place in the history of the city. Four children are left motherless, a home saddened by the death of wife and mother. It should be a lesson ever to be remembered by those who for but a moment are not cautious in driving an automobile, or conveyance of any kind.

SHOULD ENFORCE DIMMER LAW

Autoists Complain of Those Who Do Not Observe Road Courtesy

Many autoists are complaining about other autoists who do not use their dimmers when meeting and passing other cars, as is required by the state law.

There is nothing more annoying than to meet an auto with strong lights. Furthermore, it is simply impossible to see the road and the driver of the car who meets a car of this kind stands in fine chance of landing in the ditch. Quite a number of drivers are careful and observe the law covering the use of dimmers, while others pay no heed to it whatever.

Ford cars, without dimmers when purchased, and not equipped with later, are among the leading violators. If your Ford is not equipped with a dimmer, slow down, keep on your side of the road, thus by the speed of the engine, reducing your lights.

The law should be observed, not only this, but rigidly lived up to, and if complaints keep coming in as they have of late, Sheriff Weaver is likely to start a campaign against those who have the idea that the roadway is intended for themselves only.

DIXIE HIGHWAY TO BE WELL SURFACED

GOVERNORS OF TEN STATES TO PARTICIPATE IN PROGRAM

Eastern Division Between Cincinnati and Chattanooga to be Ready By June 1, 1920

The eastern division of the Dixie Highway between Cincinnati and Chattanooga will be a well surfaced highway which can be traveled every day in the year and under all weather conditions by June 1, 1920. It will probably be open for through travel under favorable weather conditions by the winter tourist season of this year. The reports of financial provisions definitely made were so conservative that the Dixie Highway Association at the annual meeting of the board of directors in Chattanooga has officially designated June 14, 1920 as the date of the inspection and dedication of this great highway through the Cumberland mountains of Kentucky and Tennessee, which will rival in scenic beauty any similar mileage in the United States. Governors of the ten Dixie Highway states, representatives of civic bodies from the cities and towns along the highway and prominent citizens interested in good roads will be invited to participate making the dedication the biggest of its kind ever attempted.

There is approximately thirteen miles of grading to be done, the cost of which has been financed and work is now going on along three of the four sections, while bids were opened May 29, on the last seven miles. There remains sixty-three miles of surfacing in four counties. Work is now under way in three of the counties. There is available for surfacing and grading $347,000. This does not take into consideration the surfacing of twenty miles for which the state highway department has agreed to provide three fourths of the cost of the federal and state aid fund. The directors had before them reports on every mile of the highway between Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, to which point a surfaced road is now provided from Cincinnati, and LaFollette, Tenn., from which point into Chattanooga a surfaced road is now travelable all the year round.

While the preparations are not sufficiently definite on which to base a prediction, it is believed that the western division between Nashville and Chattanooga will also be opened for all year round travel within twelve months. While the dedication could not include the entire trip to Florida on account of the time required, the board of directors received definite assurance from the preparations already made, that the highway from Waycross to Jacksonville would be in good travelable condition for all year round travel in time for the winter tourist season. Within two years a large part of the highway will be permanently improved, based on the reports from Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Georgia and Florida. The counties in Georgia have voted $11,000,000 for permanent roads and every few days adds other counties to the list. The state will also vote on the issuance of $40,000,000 in bonds in July. Michigan and Illinois have voted their bond issue. Within two years, practically, a boulevard will be encountered from the Soo to Miami, so extensive are the preparations for road construction along the Dixie Highway as reviewed by the directors at their annual meeting.

STR. ODD FELLOW ON BOYNE CITY RUN

Started on New Running Schedule on Monday of This Week

The steamer Odd Fellow commenced daily runs between this city and Boyne City on Monday of this week, leaving Boyne City for Charlevoix at 12:30, making the return trip at 4:00 in the afternoon. This schedule will be continued until the rush of summer business is on, when possibly two round trips will be made each week day.

The staunch little craft will form a connecting link between the two cities, carrying both freight and passengers. Captain F. C. Sears will sail the boat and expects to make special runs during the summer, such as Sunday excursions and special trips for resorters.

OF INTEREST TO DISCHARGED MEN

HELPFUL DIRECTORY GIVEN OUT BY GOVERNMENT

Different Departments the Soldier Should Write When Seeking Information

Many thousands of discharged soldiers are considerably worried since they left the service over the way they should take up unfinished business with the government. They have no first sergeant or captain to attend to this for them now and they are often at a loss to know what officer they should write to at Washington or to whom they should go for advice.

Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Powers received word Saturday through a friend from the casualty department at Washington that their son, Joe, who was reported as wounded in action on October 16, was in a base hospital in France on November 5. They are greatly encouraged over this report and are at the present time in communication with the different departments at Washington.

MARION TOWNSHIP SCHOOL CONTEST

Rev. H. Candler and Supt. H. A. France Act as Judges

The Marion township contest was held at Bernard on Wednesday, June 4, with a fine crowd in attendance. The schoolhouse walls were covered with the splendid exhibit work brought from Phelps, Johnson and Bernard. The judges, Rev. Candler and Mr. Craig awarded first place in exhibit work to Johnson, second to Phelps and third to Bernard. The Bernard ladies had arranged for a fine dinner in the church parlors and this arrangement was deeply appreciated by all guests.

The number contests were conducted in the church parlors and were combined with an interesting program prepared by the schools in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Tony Clark of Norwood, who were keeping time found that Johnson and Bernard were practically tied for first place, both schools making unusual records.

The final score showed the Johnson school winner of first place pennant, Bernard second and Phelps third. All schools did splendid work and gave evidence of hustling, wide-awake teachers.

Eighth grade diplomas were presented to a fine township class by the county school commissioner who spoke mainly on the future of the rural boys and girls and their need for further education.—Contributed.

SENTENCED ONE TO TEN YEARS

JUDGE MAYNE DISPOSES OF FAMOUS KISER CASE

Closing Chapter of One of Most Sickening and Disgusting Cases Heard in Court

Myrtle Kiser, the Boyne City woman found guilty as an accessory to a statutory offense involving a thirteen year old girl, and whose evidence was brought into court more or less in trials that followed later along the same line, was sentenced by Circuit Court Judge F. W. Mayne on Thursday afternoon of last week to serve from one to ten years in the house of correction at Detroit. She was taken there the following day.

This is the woman, also the case, referred to by the Courier in its issue of February 19, 1919, at which time we severely criticized a certain branch (or official) of the American Red Cross for using Red Cross funds to finance the case, and who later made a lame attempt in denial of the charges preferred, and also who in his denial attempted to divert the minds of the public from the real cause of our remarks, by statements intended to turn the issue into a personal attack upon himself.

The true facts, however, remain as stated in the Courier, and are, in our opinion, about as rotten as the Kiser case itself.

MARRIED SATURDAY AT EIGHT THIRTY

Wedding Ceremony Took Place at Home of Groom's Parents

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Wm. Shaw of Marion township last Saturday evening when their son, John Wm., was united in marriage to Miss Jessie Barkley. Promptly at eight thirty o'clock the bridal party took their place in front of a beautiful bank of flowers to the strains of a wedding march played by Miss Eileen Fairchild, where Elder A. G. Pontius conducted the simple yet solemn ceremony which made the young people husband and wife.

The bride and groom were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Willis of Boyne City. Immediately after the ceremony the guests, thirty-five in number, were invited into the dining room where a dainty, yet bountiful supper was served.

The out of town guests were Mrs. Maggie Barkley and daughter of East Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Shaw and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holley and family and Mrs. Alton Bowlers of Boyne City. The young couple have the best wishes of their many friends for a long and happy life. They will be at home after June 10th at 207 Clinton street.

PEACE IMPROBABLE WITH LEAGUE

CALLED PET PERSONAL HOBBY OF PRES. WILSON

Powers Would be Quick to Repudiate It If Rejected by the U. S. Senate

The Republiken Publicity Association through its president, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., today gave out the following statement from its Washington headquarters:

"The friends of the league of nations take the position that the defeat of the league covenant, or any amendment to it or other parts of the treaty, would constitute a new treaty, requiring the signatures of all the nations that subscribed to the original document. They claim a deadlock would prevail meanwhile, and peace would be impossible until the assent of the thirty-two states to the new treaty could be obtained. Senator Hitchcock, former chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, states his contention as follows:

"Such amended treaty is a 'new treaty, whether it strikes out the league of nations provision or whether it amends the league of nations provision. It could not possibly go into effect until all of the nations party to the treaty accepted the amendment. If one refused to accept it that would produce a deadlock and make peace impossible. For all to accept any senate amendments, even if it were possible, would require a long period of time and that would greatly delay the advent of peace."

"Of course, so far as the treaty itself is concerned, the allied nations are free to make such terms of peace with Germany as each may see fit, unless they are bound by undertakings among themselves not to conclude a separate peace. The United States, for instance, can conclude peace with Germany on any basis she may adopt, quite regardless of the actions of the allies or any one of them. The treaty is only between ourselves and the Germans."

"The inclusion of the league covenant in the treaty presents a complication that involves all of the allied belligerents. If that covenant is amended it is probably true, as Mr. Hitchcock asserts, that before it would have any binding force the changes would have to receive the endorsement of the other parties to the undertaking. Amendment of the covenant therefore, might be attended with prolonged delays in the final consummation of peace. But no such difficulties are in the way of the defeat of the undertaking."

"The league of nations is the pet personal hobby of Mr. Wilson and is so regarded by the delegates of the other powers in Paris. They care little for it, and will be quick to repudiate it once it has been rejected by the United States senate. It is said by those in touch with the situation in Paris that the defeat of the league by the senate is anticipated by the other nations, and that their course of action in that event is already mapped out. With the peace treaty relieved of the encumbrance of the league it will be a simple matter to achieve peace; in fact, there is not the slightest doubt that the league's defeat would bring peace to the world months before it would come were the covenant to be amended."

"The essentials of the treaty itself have already been determined upon. In his desperate attempt to tie the league and treaty together Mr. Wilson referred some of the details of the treaty to the league's council for determination. But it would be a simple matter to provide another instrumentality for such determination in fact, it is probable that the changes that the league's defeat would necessitate in the treaty are now resposing in the files of the peace conference, ready for insertion the moment the senate has decreed the death of the covenant. Each allied nation, including the United States, could make those alterations at once, and present the practically identical treaties to Germany for signature, each supported in its demands by all the others. The process is a perfectly simple one, and the reconvening of the peace congress is not required at all."

Last Wednesday was a red letter day for the schools of Marion township. The exhibit, dinner, program and yells were much enjoyed by all.

The Johnson school carried off the first place pennant, with Barnard running close second. The number contests showed that both teachers and pupils have been working this year. We are proud to note that Annie Gornell, a fifth grader, did the multiplication drill in 15 1-2 seconds which Miss Stewart says is the best in the county to date. Four eighth graders were presented their diplomas, making a fitting ending to a great day. We, too, think Miss Stewart is to be commended on so successfully carrying out this plan of township school days.

If the Boyne City Silo is made in Charlevoix county, it must be a good one. Better investigate, Mr. Farmer, before you buy.

Flour? Sugar? Milk?
Butter? Eggs? Baking Powder?

How much does it cost to make a good cake? Very little if the cake is good. But if the cake is a failure because of inferior baking powder, the cost is lost.

It is true economy to use

ROYAL Baking Powder

More Mileage Adjustment on Goodrich Tires

Fabrics - 6,000 Miles Cords -- 8,000 Miles

TO automobile owners and drivers—to Goodrich Dealers—the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company herewith declares a more-mileage adjustment on Goodrich Tires—6,000 miles for SAFETY TREADS, and 8,000 miles for SILVERTOWN CORDS.

Fix these new Goodrich Adjustment figures firmly in your mind—6,000 miles for SAFETY TREADS—8,000 miles for SILVERTOWNS—instead of the 3,500 and 5,000 miles respectively heretofore in force.

This new adjustment stands back of all Goodrich Tires, including Tires already purchased in the hands of user or dealer.

Goodrich Tires in actual usage are today unfolding such matchless mileage, regularly in excess of adjustment basis, that Goodrich knows it has the strongest, most durable tires the rubber industry has produced.

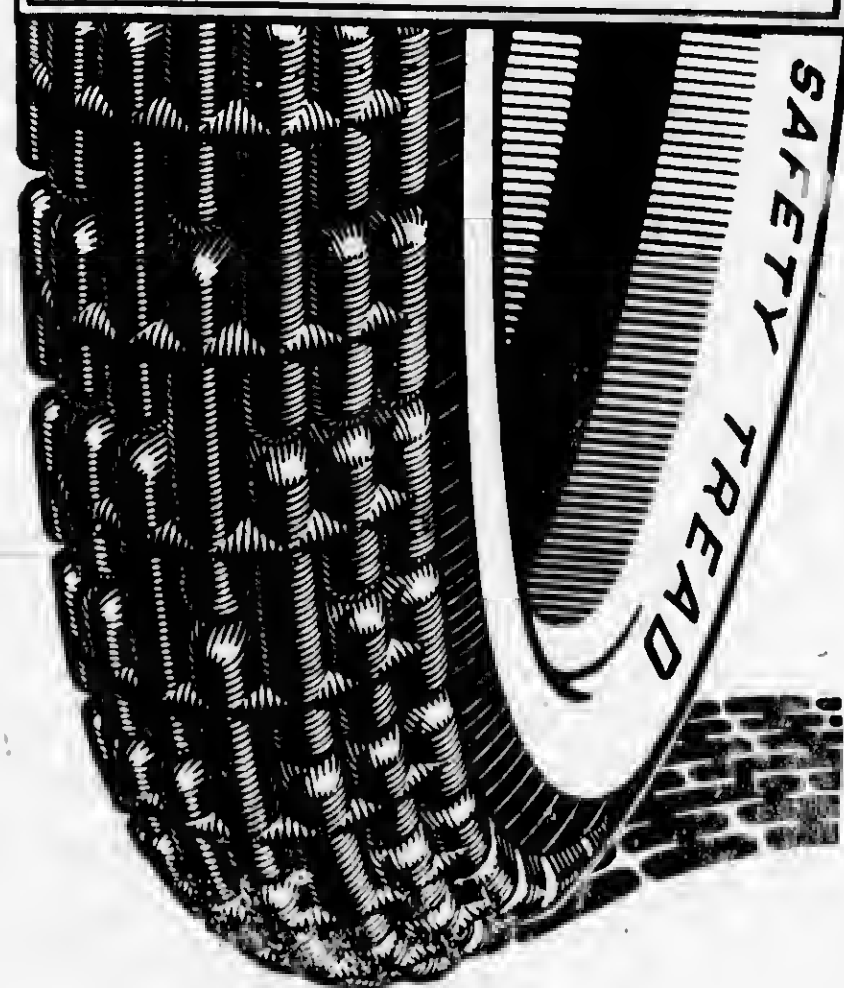

The Goodrich adjustment mileage is increased because Goodrich knows the mileage in its tires, and it wants to give every motorist a share in their economy.

Go to a Goodrich Dealer, and buy a Goodrich Tire, sure that with fair and square usage a Safety Tread will render you at least 6,000 miles; and a Silvertown Cord at least 8,000.

SANATORIUM BUILDING IS NECESSARY

Tuberculosis Reaps Harvest During January to July

Roughly speaking, it is the first half of the year that tuberculosis reaps its greatest harvest in Michigan. It is during the first six months from January to July, that the white plague gets in its hardest blows.

This statement is based on the recently tabulated statistics of the tuberculosis death rate by months for the past two years, namely, 1917 and 1918.

Although the total for the first half of the average year is considerably larger than the total for the last half, tuberculosis does not work by the calendar. The reason is that the first half contains more "indoor months" than the last half.

Here are the figures for 1918 of deaths of pulmonary tuberculosis by months: January, 215, February 262, March 300, April 333, May 280, June 234, July 222, August 204, September 174, October 250, November 194, December 252. That gives a total of 1,624 for the first half of the year and of only 1,296 for the second half or 328 more during the six months from January to July than during the six months from July to December.

It will be noted however, the Michigan Anti-tuberculosis association points out, that there is no sharp line between the two halves of the year, December rather ranging itself with the early months of the year.

The figures vary of course from year to year, and there are years when there is a sudden sharp increase in midsummer, but on an average it is the "indoor months" that show the largest figures in the tuberculosis death rate.

The chief reason for this is, the Michigan association points out, that the people make the winter months too much "indoor months." There is only one way to overcome this, so far as the tuberculosis population of the state is concerned, and that is through the erection of a sufficient number of sanatoria. In a sanatorium little distinction is made between winter and summer in the matter of air. The patient gets about as much pure air in December as in July.

It is possible for Michigan to cut the tuberculosis death rate of the cold months down to the lowest average of the warm months by giving its attention to sanatorium building.

When a man visits his old home town after an absence of years he cannot understand why all his friends look so old while he is as young as ever.

M. E. Church Members Hustling to Raise Funds

The Methodist Episcopal churches of Charlevoix and Barnard have been granted until June 15th, in which to raise their quota of the Centenary Fund, their apportionment being $16,945.00.

The sum raised up to Tuesday morning of this week is $11,195.00. This is to be paid within the next five years. Charlevoix is credited with $9,905.00 of this amount and Barnard $1,290.00.

Every member of the church and congregation is asked to contribute something however small the amount may be.

The final result of the whole Centenary movement will be ready for publication in a short time.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

In examining a wonderful stand of self sown rye and vetch on the farm of B. E. Waterman, recently we found the vetch roots full of nodules, which indicates its value as a nitrogen gatherer and a soil builder. Mr. Waterman is highly pleased with his experience with vetch and believes it to be an excellent crop for our soils.

All beekeepers should note that warning has been given that the law passed by the legislature in 1917, requiring all bees to be kept in movable frame hives free from cross combs, will be vigorously enforced on and after July first. If you have bees in illegal hives, they can be transferred to lawful ones. The county agent can send you directions for doing the work and might be able to assist you personally.

Roosters not needed for breeding should be put into the same class as flies when it comes to swatting. Produce infertile eggs, they are worth more, as they keep better and cost less to produce as there are no roosters to feed. It is estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that $15,000,000 worth of eggs spoil yearly because they are fertile.

Michigan grown alfalfa seed is appearing on the market for the first time since the introduction of the crop into the state. Heretofore all Michigan alfalfa has been raised from seed imported from other states. The local seed is particularly valuable because of the fact that it has been produced by plants which are winter hardy under Michigan conditions. It has been demonstrated that seed can be grown profitably in the state.

Companionship, good times and a chance to make money are the three things a country boy or girl look forward to finding in the city. Club work provides them in the city.

A SOLDIER'S VIEWPOINT

"There will be no bolshevik running this country when the American soldiers come back from Europe."

This statement was made by a returning private soldier on the occasion of a little celebration given in his honor by the community of which he was a part. He went on to say:

"You people don't know how much more a country means to a fellow after he has fought for it. You don't know how much different a man is after he has had on a uniform. We soldiers can't see, for instance, how you people can let the flag go by without taking off your hats. We are as different from the day we enlisted as the sun differs from the moon. When we were civilians we were moon patriots. Some of us enlisted because we thought it was the thing to do, others for the sport of it and still others because they wanted to see the world."

"All that is gone now. We are a part of the country from now on, as much a part of it as the stars are a part of our flag. I don't know how you look at it, but to me any enemy of America is my enemy, it makes no difference if he is a workingman, or a business man, or whether he is a citizen or an alien. Any man who wants to destroy what we've got here is trampling upon the graves of our pals, and I don't think the fellows will stand for it."

"We don't cry so much over the graves of our fellows as you do here because we know they went the way they wanted to go. We did our crying when we saw them buried, when we lost them in the fight. You can't expect we are going to let any other enemies go free around America before the flowers have bloomed on their graves."

"Before I got into the army I didn't care much about what went on in the country just so long as I was comfortable and no one interfered with my rights. I can't see it that way now. If the country is worth anything it's worth sticking up for, and we have just learned to do that in the army. Somehow, we just naturally felt that we were responsible for our country and for the flag and for our good name. We will carry that responsibility as long as we live. We will never be the same as we were. We will never let the flag go by without recognizing it. We will never let anyone speak ill about the country or the American people. We are more proud of being Americans and of belonging to this

EAT LESS AND TAKE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts before breakfast if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you.

The American man and woman must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of J&J Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

J&J Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

country. We are more proud of our flag and we understand better what it represents.

"Now we have other enemies to fight and we're going to fight them. We are going to fight the anarchists and the bolsheviks and all those who want to tear down our country. They are more dangerous than the boche because we are too lenient with them. There is only one way to treat an enemy. In time of war we kill them and in time of peace they are either imprisoned or deported. That is what we must do with those who are using America as a battlefield for their private griefs and personal philosophies. They are our enemies and must be treated as such."

There is a lot of homely truth in this soldier's viewpoint. More learned men would perhaps, have expressed the same ideas in different words, but they could not have made themselves more thoroughly understood. We must all learn to know that the enemies of the country are our personal enemies.

"If a country is worth anything, it's worth sticking up for."

What a thoroughly American thought is expressed in those words!

WILSON AND THE THIRD TERM

Quite a long while ago President Wilson paraphrased the "circumstances alter cases" axiom by asserting his right to change his mind to fit new conditions. Bearing this in view there may be much or little significance in his remark at the Paris banquet given President-elect Pessoa, of Brazil: "It is very delightful for one thing, if I may say so, to know that my presidency is not ahead of me and that his presidency is ahead of him."

With the presidential campaign of 1920 drawing on apace the political planning of the Democrats is very closely tied up with the intentions of their chief. If Mr. Wilson decides to seek a third term he has only to so state and his subservient lieutenants will say "Aye, aye, sir." But if he is not going to seek further presidential honors his party would like to know it in order that they may get the machinery greased up in behalf of some other candidate. It is rather pathetic to read the announcement that Democratic National Chairman Cummings is about to start on a tour of the country to "organize work preliminary to the real campaign."

But what will Mr. Cummings organize? Third term clubs or some other sort of clubs? Poor Mr. Cummings hasn't even the ghost of an idea. Some of the braver of the party lieutenants are thinking about putting the question up to the president on his return from abroad. If it isn't going to be Wilson, then the party leader may be McAdoo, Governor Cox, of Ohio, Attorney-General Palmer, Champ Clark or even Bryan, who appears to be "nigling" on the basis of being the pioneer supporter of suffrage and prohibition.

President Wilson has given several intimations since coming into the White House that he "wanted" no more than had been voted him." In view of the "one term" plank in the Baltimore platform of 1912 and its observance in the breach, however, it is plain that Mr. Wilson does not feel bound either by "planks" or his own intimations. And the Paris remark may mean nothing. It may all depend on circumstances. If the League of Nations does not offer a pompous exit from the United States political arena via the highly honorary Presidency of the World, Mr. Wilson may face the necessity of announcing he's through or else taking chances of defeat. The latter fate would be more disastrous financially to the sale of historical books, he contemplates writing than voluntary retirement.

Coincidentally with this Democratic situation, the president's own state of New Jersey, through its Republicans, gives strong endorsement of General Wood for the Republican nomination. At a conference of seventeen county chairmen and two state senators, two expressed preference for Senator Harding, one for former President Taft and sixteen for Wood. New Jersey, it is thought is anxious to enter one or the other of her two United States senators, Frelinghuysen or Edge, as a favorite son candidate for vice-president.

A TIP FROM ENGLAND

The Fourth Estate is much exercised because of a British policy which is becoming well-defined, namely, to adopt what in effect is a prohibitive import policy in the guise of a licensing system. The Fourth Estate has been awakened to the importance of this subterfuge by the prohibition of imports of paper into the British Empire, unless a license has been previously secured, and the conditions are named as follows: "Import licenses will only be issued for quantities or descriptions falling within this category (writing or printing paper) provided that the board of trade is satisfied that such quantities or descriptions of British manufacture cannot be obtained in sufficient quantities within the British Empire, or that the prices demanded for such quantities or descriptions are unreasonable." Other classes of paper have other restrictions, nearly all of them well-nigh prohibitive dating from April 30th last.

The Republican party is cognizant of these facts. Only recently British prohibitions of soap imports have disrupted our export trade in soaps, and a large number of similar instances might be cited. Britain has for some years had the same aversion to the word protection that is to be found in our southern states. Protection under any other name would smell far sweeter, so the British camouflaged protectionists ask for a licensing system, and the south asks for greater customs revenues. But when Great Britain speaks of the "British Empire" she means also Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, South Africa. Each of these countries has a vote in the proposed league of nations. That league proposes to put a stop to discriminations between different members, but has no suggestion to make with respect to discriminations between these six voting members of the British Empire.

All of which goes to show that when it comes to diplomacy England is running rings around Mr. Wilson and the sewing circle he took to Paris, and that while the Republican party in this country is handicapped by the Old Man of the Sea in the person of a Democratic administration, the English act as a unit in standing for "England first." We can only admire British sturdiness and sigh for 1921 when absolutism and internationalism, and "America last" will have run its course.

"I, I, I."

The dictionary tells us that a peroration is a "final summing up and enforcement of an argument." The final summing up of President Wilson's Memorial Day address contained 11 capital "I's" and they were compressed within the space of 13 lines. Summed up, his argument is "I, I, I, I, I, I, I, I, I, I, I, I, I."

Two things than all others are more pitiful. One is the desperation with which a bald man clings to the last few remnants of his hair and the other the determination with which a woman goes about to cruse the first wrinkle.

As one of the reasons for the discharge of the Director of the Bureau

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She mixed Sulphur with it to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrous.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The Comforts of the American Home

It is a well-known fact that, home for home, the American household has more comforts and conveniences than that of any other nation.

In foreign lands the modernized dwelling is found only in the better sections of the larger cities.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find the piano, the vacuum cleaners, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless electrical appliances.

There is a well-kept look about residence, store our outbuildings with an atmosphere of prosperity and content.

Did you ever stop to realize why this is so; how this condition was brought about?

It is largely due to advertising. And a big share of the credit belongs to newspaper advertising.

Stop and think how many of the foods you eat, the things you wear and other articles entering into your everyday life, you first heard of through newspaper advertisements.

You will then realize what a part they do play, or should play, in your daily life.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly, if you are not already doing so. They mean more to you than you can tell.

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water

Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice inside-bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms poisonous-like poisons which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.

A WELL LAID PLAN

But One Element In It Had Not Been Provided For

By F. A. MITCHEL

When I entered the detective business I was very young. I had not grown a beard and had a peachlike complexion. My voice was of a medium pitch for a man; but, having once taken a girl's part on the stage, I had learned to speak in falsetto, very like a woman.

One day I was handed a newspaper in which there was a personal that read as follows:

If Annette Thurber will communicate with H. L. B. she will hear something to her advantage.

It was explained to me that Annette Thurber was a niece of one Nicholas Bradford, who had recently died, leaving a large estate. Miss Thurber had kept house for him and nursed him during his last illness. He had told her that he had made a will leaving all his property to her and she would find it in a certain box in which he kept his papers, the box being on a shelf in the closet of his home office. After his death she had looked in the box and had not found the document.

No will forthcoming, the property would be divided between the testator's nephew, Henry Lathrop Bradford, the son of an older brother, and Annette Thurber, the daughter of his sister. This Henry Bradford was a scamp. His uncle had befriended him and tried to make a man of him, had failed and had disowned him. Miss Thurber believed that he had stolen the will from the tin box in order that he might under the law obtain half the estate. The personal had undoubtedly been inserted by him with a view to some arrangement with her. What that intended arrangement was she did not know.

A reply was made by Miss Thurber stating that she would receive Henry Bradford at her home any day he chose to call between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. No attention was paid to this, and the case having been placed by Miss Thurber in the hands of detectives, a new note was dispatched in her name saying that she would meet Bradford at any time or place he might appoint. Miss Thurber then received a bit of paper on which was written, "Lincoln park, 6, 25, 9 p. m."

It was evident that Bradford did not propose to give Miss Thurber any evidence against him. He might deny that the personal had been inserted by him or that he had sent this bit of paper, his object being to meet her without witnesses for some personal purpose. The opinion of the chief was that Bradford had stolen the will, that he feared to be accused of the theft and wished to make a compromise by which he might receive his share of his uncle's estate.

Miss Thurber and I were brought together, and it was observed that we were about the same height and build. Having secured all the information that was to be had on the matter, I was arrayed in one of her costumes, and at 9 o'clock in the evening on the 25th of June (the sixth month) I tripped daintily into Lincoln park. I had been shown a photograph of Bradford and Miss Thurber was known to him, so, since Lincoln park was simply a block set apart for a breathing space, there was no difficulty in meeting and recognizing each other.

It was not long after my entry into the park that a well dressed man stepped up to me and remarked that it was a fine evening.

"Are you Mr. Bradford?" I asked.

"Yes."

"What is the meaning of all this secrecy?"

"Come this way," was his reply, "and I will tell you."

He led the way to a bench. I sat down, and he sat beside me.

"I wish to see you," he began "about Uncle Nick's will. It has been intimated to me that a certain person knows that a will exists bequeathing all the estate to you. This person will produce the will for a consideration."

"How much does he want?" I asked, coming at once to the point.

"The estate is worth $300,000. The will will be surrendered for a third of the value of the property. You give a note for the amount to be taken up three months after receiving the property."

"No," I said, after feigning to think the matter over. "If a will exists I would rather take my chance of its coming out. And if it does," I here assumed a threatening tone, "I shall send the person who stole it to the penitentiary for a long term of years."

There was silence for a few minutes, at the end of which he asked me how much I would consent to pay. I told him that I would not bid myself to pay anything until I had seen the will and was convinced that the property was left to me and the document was genuine. If so convinced I would give a note for $10,000. He keyed me up to $50,000, which closed the bargain. I had no object in dickering with him, except to induce him to believe that I was making a real deal.

I asked him when and where the exchange of the note for the will should take place, and he replied that he had made arrangements for that. The transaction could be executed at once. He had a cab in waiting, and we would drive to a house where I could sign a note and receive the will. I was rather taken aback by this, for I had expected to report to the chief what I had done and receive his instructions as to my next step. I protested against such hasty, but my objection tended to convince the man that I was making a bona fide transaction.

"I need time to think this over," I said.

"And to make arrangements to trap me. Suppose we meet a few days hence what is to prevent your having a force so hard to take the will without giving me the note? No; this matter must go through, if it does go through, between you and me alone and immediately. When it is finished there will be no proof that you signed the note under duress."

"A note," I said, "must be in payment for something."

"I have drawn it to read, 'For and in consideration of his relinquishing all claims on the Bradford estate.'"

"But the will being produced you have no claim on the Bradford estate."

"The will will not have been produced when the note is signed."

"You should have demanded cash."

"You have no cash. Besides, this matter must be settled secretly and at once. Delay would be fatal to me."

"Suppose after I have received the estate I decline to pay the note on the ground that the transaction is criminal?"

"In that case you will not long enjoy your property."

I had been inclined to think his case very weak; but, considering that he was, or supposed he was, dealing with a girl who would not care to live in terror of her life, I changed my opinion.

"But why," I asked, interested more and more to his plan, "would it not be wiser for you to destroy the will and inherit half the estate as heir-at-law?"

"That question I decline to answer. There may be a number of reasons. I may know of another will that I cannot control and which is sure to be produced. My uncle did not trust me and might have put a duplicate will in some one's hand to be used in case I captured or disputed the one he had made. I have no knowledge of such a will. I simply state the case to you hypothetically."

There was no doubt the rascal had thought it all out and had provided for every possible contingency. What was I to do? Delay would be as dangerous to Miss Thurber as to me. I resolved to go with him and take advantage of any favorable circumstance that might arise. So long as he thought I was Miss Thurber I had a great advantage of him. I had a thick veil on my hat, but in the park did not put it over my face. Later, if obliged to face the light it might avail me.

I accompanied my man to a car waiting without the park. We entered it, and he drove away. Presently he stopped and told me he must blindfold me. After objecting I consented, and after that I did not know where we went. When we reached our destination he helped me out of the car and guided me up a few steps into a house. We were standing in a furnished room. It was dimly lighted, but I put my hands to my eyes to cover my face, pretending that the transition from darkness to light was painful. Nevertheless I caught a glimpse of a table with writing materials on it in the center of the room.

When I took my hands from my eyes I turned my face from the light. I did not know how well the man knew Miss Thurber, but I did not wish him to see my features until I could no longer avoid giving him an opportunity to discover his mistake. Meanwhile he had unlocked a drawer in a bureau and taken out a document, which I surmised to be the will. What appeared to be a note lay on the table. He was unfolding the document, and I surmised intended to hold it up for me to inspect. In another moment he would doubtless call on me to do so and would see my features.

While his eyes were bent on the document I caught sight of the letters, "Last will and testament," printed on it. This was enough for me. I determined to risk it being what I wanted. When he turned from the paper to me he looked into the muzzle of my revolver within an inch of his nose.

Of course he was armed. But what use is a weapon which costs a man his life if he makes a motion to use it?

"Drop that document on the table," I said in my own husky voice.

Surprise, irritation, horror, were written on his face. He dare not disobey. He tossed the will on the table, and I never taking my eyes from his for a instant, picked it up, taking the unsigned note at the same time. Then I began to back out of the room. I backed into a hall and out through a door, he following me, alert to take advantage of my changing my glance for an instant to draw a weapon. I was obliged to back into the unknown; but, having come over the ground even though blindfolded, I had some idea of it and got safely down the steps, on to the sidewalk and kept on till I backed up against an automobile.

The problem was now to get into it and start it without giving him an opportunity to draw and shoot me. I thought it necessary to order him to throw up his hands, enforcing the order by putting a bullet close to his ear. He obeyed readily, and, though I was encumbered with my skirts, I tumbled into the car behind the wheel. What I could not do with my feet in starting I did with my right hand, holding the wheel with my left. In this way I got off, but the moment after I turned my face from my enemy a bullet whistled close to my ear. I ducked, and before another came I was not clearly distinguishable in the darkness.

When I returned to the office with the will, for which I had paid nothing, great was the surprise of all concerned. Miss Thurber brought the unsigned note of me for $10,000, signaling it in payment. I afterward set myself up in business with the funds.

You may be as good as anybody else but if that's all you have to brag about, you're a lame duck.

BIG STRIDES ARE BEING MADE

In Athletic Competition Among Industrial Workers

That big healthy strides are being made in athletic competition among industrial workers was forcibly demonstrated in the track and field meet held in Akron, Ohio, on Memorial day between the factory teams of that city.

Over 10,000 enthusiastic people packed the grandstands of a factory recreation field, which more than stacks up favorably with the average college sport stadium, and watched athletes of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., triumph over the Goodyear, Firestone and Miller Rubber Company track men. The score was: Goodrich 59, Goodyear 45, Firestone 40 and Miller 9.

All the participants in the meet were bone-fide members of the concerns they represented and the entry list totaled over 180 men. Sport followers who have been inclined to scoff at the efforts of factories to interest their workers in athletics, with the same degree of enthusiasm which prevails in the big colleges today, are showing surprise at "shop" progress.

It is interesting to compare the records made in the Akron meet with the marks chalked up in the 1910 dual meets of Yale and Harvard and Illinois and Wisconsin. O'Connell of Harvard negotiated the 880 yard run in 2:06 3-4 while Herold of Goodrich ran this distance in 2:07. Prescott, Illinois ran the 220 yard dash in :24 2-5 while Leffler, Goodrich, made the same distance in :23 3-5.

In the discus throws and shot puts Wilson, Illinois made marks of 118 feet, 6 1-2 inches and 39 feet 4 1-2 inches respectively. The records of Fortmeyer of Goodyear for these events were shot 121 feet 1 1-2 inches and discus, 41 feet 5 inches. In the broad jump Bomer, Goodrich equaled the leap of Kenny, Illinois, 20 feet 2 inches.

Records made by these industrial athletes are considered remarkable in view of the fact that factory men must do their training after a hard days work at the lathe, bench or desk, while college men have unlimited time to devote to their conditioning paces. Many of the athletes in the Akron meet had never donned a spiked shoe before entering local meets and they were developed by factory coaches, many of whom are nationally known as sport mentors.

Government Issues Warning to Holders Against Illegal Sale

Postmaster Clow wishes to warn the public in regard to dishonest traffic in War Savings Stamps. The treasury has been greatly concerned by the receipt of reports of dishonest traffic in War Savings certificates and stamps. These securities were not intended to be negotiable.

The government needs the money and hopes the holders of war savings certificates will retain them. Postmasters have been instructed not to pay any war savings stamps or certificates presented by persons or firms known to be buying, or publicly offering to buy, war savings stamps or certificates from the owners, unless positive evidence is submitted that the certificates were originally issued to the person or firm presenting them for payment.

The department urges all patriotic holders of war savings stamps to hold their certificates if they can as the need of the government for money is very great.

fully the advantage of taking training to insure his future welfare. At the present time there are many patriotic employers of labor who are willing to take on disabled men whether they are really capable of performing their duties or not. But don't forget that in a few years the work of the really efficient man will tell and he will be the one who will get ahead.

For this reason the Federal Board is doing everything in its power to train and equip the disabled men immediately upon his discharge, so that he will be a thoroughly competent man in whatever line he elects to follow.

In the event courses commenced prove for any reason unsatisfactory or not suited for the particular disability of the person undergoing training, another course will be offered, for the work of the government never ceases until the disabled man is permanently placed in a suitable and remunerative position.

It should also be understood by all men who have lost a limb in the service in the line of duty, that it is the duty of the government, through the agencies of the War Department and the War Risk Insurance Bureau to supply them with artificial limbs and appliances. When a man is discharged from the hospital he is given a limb which is a temporary affair only, and later on he is furnished with a permanent first-class artificial limb. To make this provision is not a charity but an obligation on the part of the government toward this class of disabled.

EXPRESS THANKS TO CITIZENS OF COUNTY

Co-operation of Community Made Success of Home-Coming

The citizens of East Jordan, through their mayor, Dwight L. Wilson, have asked the press of the county to publish the following letter, in which they express their appreciation of the hearty co-operation of the entire citizenship of Charlevoix county in making the home-coming welcome to the soldier boys a success:

East Jordan, Mich.,
June 4, 1919.

Charlevoix Courier, Charlevoix, Mich.,
Gentlemen:

The City of East Jordan desires at this time to thank your paper for the great help which it gave in making our home coming welcome the success that it was.

It also wishes to express its appreciation to the business men of Charlevoix and its citizens for their hearty co-operation.

We believe that the spirit shown in Charlevoix county in this matter will tend to make conditions in the county much better and will help make Charlevoix county the very best county in the State of Michigan.

I ask you to kindly convey to your citizens East Jordan's thanks and appreciation.

Very truly yours,
Dwight L. Wilson, Mayor.

VISITS CHARLEVOIX Former State Representative Spends Day Here With Friends

H. I. McMillan, now located at Conklin, Michigan, formerly of East Jordan, where he had charge of the Argo Milling Co.'s interests, was in the city Sunday a guest of Dr. A. A. Swinton. "Mae," as we all call him, is following his former occupation as miller at Conklin, where he is interested financially. He admits that business is good in southern Michigan, but the only place for a man to live and really enjoy himself is in northern Michigan, in close proximity to Charlevoix.

Mr. McMillan represented Charlevoix county two terms in the state legislature, and was one of the "live wires" from northern Michigan in the house at that time. He moved to Conklin four years ago this summer.

Scaffold Gives Away and E. E. Allen Sustains Injury

As the result of the scaffold upon which he was working giving away, E. E. Allen sustained injuries of a nature that will lay him up for some time.

Allen was decorating the interior of Carter's restaurant when the accident took place. When the scaffold gave away, he fell about eight feet to the floor, fracturing his left arm just above the wrist, severely spraining his right wrist, and also received a bad cut over the right eye.

One unfortunate feature of the accident is that it took place during the busiest part of the season and will cause a serious financial loss to Mr. Allen, besides the suffering he will naturally be subject to.

HAYES TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DAY

On Tuesday, May 27th, the six schools of Hayes Township met at the Undine school to celebrate School Day. Although this is something new in this county, the entire affair was a success and teachers, pupils and patrons felt fully repaid for every effort they put forth in preparation. Forenoon and afternoon sessions were planned, but owing to a misunderstanding the entire program was put on in the afternoon. The features were number contests, oratorical contests, eighth grade commencement and presentation of a standard plate to Undine school.

The board of judges consisted of Rev. Sheehan of Petoskey, Supt. Stead of Boyne City and Misses Eva Latham and Olive Underhill of Boyne City. The wall exhibits showed some very good work from each of the six schools. The drawing and paintings from Burgess were evidence of both talent and training. Some very good specimens of handwork were shown by both Bay Shore and Hopyard. Excellent maps, essays, spelling booklets, arithmetic papers, penmanship drills, etc. were exhibited by Murray, Hopyard and Maple Grove schools.

All schools except Maple Grove were represented in the number contests. There were four contestants in first and second grade contest: Norma Dyer, 1st grade and Leslie Burns 2nd grade, both from Hopyard, Ashael Tillotson, 1st grade from Murray and Georgia White, 2nd grade, from Bay Shore. According to judges decision first place tag was awarded to Georgia White, second place tag to Leslie Burns and third place to Ashael Tillotson. Only one pupil, Ruth Spring of Bay Shore, took part in the third-fourth grade contest. In the fifth-sixth grade contest five sixth graders competed. They were: Wilma Fairchild, Hopyard, who won first prize; Hilda Ford, Murray, who won second prize; Harry Hunt, Undine, who won third prize; Donald Bailey, Bay Shore and Edith Chew from Burgess.

All present were delighted with the four minute speeches. The sixth grade orations were especially commendable. The first prize tag was awarded to Hilda Ford of Murray, second prize to Floyd Jupp of Undine and third to Edith Chew of Burgess. Two orations were given by seventh graders, Clara Winnick of Hopyard winning first place and Alice Worth of Bay Shore second. Three eighth graders spoke on "Why I Want to go to High School." Monica Smith of Hopyard received first prize, Eva Ostrum of Burgess, second and Edith Compton of Murray, third.

Four musical numbers were interspersed which were greatly enjoyed. An instrumental trio and an instrumental solo were rendered by pupils of Hopyard school. Edith Compton and Ruth Spring sang solos. Recitations were given by Lottie and Neva Webster from Maple Grove.

Ten students from Hayes and seven from Bay township received eighth grade diplomas. Edith Struthers gave an excellent valedictory. The subject of her speech was "Onward is Our Aim." Wm. Skornia, who had the highest average in Bay, read "Columbus." Supt. A. G. Stead delivered the commencement address. It was both pleasing and inspiring.

The chairman of the board of judges, Miss Eva Latham, read the final score and presented first, second and third place pennants to the winning school. The score by points was as follows:
District No. 2, Hopyard, 483; District No. 1, Murray, 463; Dist. No. 5, Bay Shore, 184; Dist. No. 6, Burgess, 174; Dist. No. 3, Undine, 70; Dist. No. 4, Maple Grove, 39.

MARION TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DAY

The school meet for Marion township was held Wednesday, June 4th, at Barnard. The exhibits of the different schools were placed in the schoolhouse and the program was given in the church. The attendance was very large considering the fact that this is a busy time for the farmer. A picnic dinner was served in the dining room of the church and all who partook of the bounteous repast were loud in their praise of the hospitality of the Barnard ladies.

Chairman Dewey had arranged an excellent program for the afternoon.

The Reliable Home Furnishers

One of the pleasing features was the music by the Phelps school. The boys and girls of the Barnard school lived things up with their hearty yells. How they could yell! And always for the other school first. The wall exhibits were judged in the morning and showed an unusually high quality of work.

The arithmetic contests were enjoyed by all. Both teachers and pupils deserved much credit for the excellent showing made by each child.

Miss Stewart gave one of her usual up-to-the-minute talks to the eighth grade graduates. She then presented Miss Maddnugh of the Johnson school with first place banner, that school having received the highest score in the arithmetic contests and first place on the wall exhibits of the general school work. Mrs. Flagg of Barnard received a second place banner and Mr. Dewey of Phelps one awarding that school third place.

KAISER MAY ESCAPE TRAIL

BECAUSE OF DISSENTING VIEWS OF PEACE DELEGATES

Guilty or Accessory to Thirty-Two Crimes of Criminal Nature, Yet
May Go Free

One by one the skeletons in the closet of the peace conference stalk forth. The complete report of the commission on the responsibility of the authors of the war, which have never been published, is now in the possession of correspondents.

It establishes practically without doubt that the former Emperor of Germany will never be brought to trial, chiefly because of the dissenting views taken by the representatives of the American and Japanese peace delegations.

The American members of the commission, Secretary of State, Lansing and James Brown Scott, a New York lawyer, say there were only two classes of responsibilities—those of a legal nature and of a moral nature. The crimes of the ex-Kaiser were listed in the latter category and the American delegates refused to consent to the creation of an international tribunal to try him. A similar view was expressed by the Japanese.

Germany and her allies are directly charged with the commission of thirty-two crimes and a summary of examples is set forth in the report. One of its odd features is the fact that the United States is not listed as a sufferer because of German crimes.

As a prelude to the list of offenses the commission has this to say:

"As has already been stated in the report, this tabular analysis (of crimes) does not by any means purport to be exhaustive or complete. The object is simply to give a number of typical examples. The crimes imputable to the central empires and their allies run into the thousands. The list under each of the heads given below could be very greatly extended.

Here follows the list:

- 1—Murders and massacres; systematic terrorism.
- 2—Putting hostages to death.
- 3—Torture of civilians.
- 4—Deliberate starvation of civilians.
- 5—Rape.
- 6—Abduction of girls and women for the purpose of enforced prostitution.
- 7—Deportation of civilians.
- 8—Internment of civilians under inhuman conditions.
- 9—Forced labor of civilians in connection with the military operations of the enemy and otherwise.
- 10—Usurpation of sovereignty during military occupation.
- 11—Compulsory enlistment of soldiers among the inhabitants of occupied territory.
- 12—Attempts to denationalize the inhabitants of occupied territory.
- 13—Pillage.
- 14—Confiscation of property.
- 15—Exaction of illegitimate or of exorbitant contributions and requisitions.
- 16—Debasement of currency and issue of spurious currency.
- 17—Imposition of collective penalties.
- 18—Wanton devastation and destruction of property.
- 19—Deliberate bombardment of undefended places.
- 20—Wanton destruction of religious, charitable, educational and historic buildings and monuments.
- 21—Destruction of merchant ships and passenger vessels without warning and without provision for the safety of passengers and crew.
- 22—Destruction of fishing boats and relief ships.
- 23—Deliberate bombardment of hospitals.
- 24—Attacks on and destruction of hospitals.
- 25—Breach of other rules relating to the Red Cross.
- 26—Use of deleterious and asphyxiating gases.
- 27—Use of explosive and expanding bullets and other inhuman appliances.
- 28—Direction to give no quarter.
- 29—Ill treatment of prisoners of war.
- 30—Employment of prisoners of war on unauthorized works.
- 31—Misuse of flags of truce.
- 32—Poisoning of wells.

W. T. Driggett, Standard Oil Man, Loses Valuable Horse

One of the big teams of black horses owned by W. T. Driggett and driven on the Standard oil wagon, was killed in a runaway accident last Friday afternoon.

The team was standing hitched to a wagon near the barn at the Driggett home on Antrim street, and became frightened when their driver was moving an oil barrel. They started to run and after leaving the yard on Mason street, struck a tree in front of the house owned by Mayor S. M. Rose, corner Grant and Mason, breaking the tongue of the wagon into three pieces, one of the pieces penetrating the left side of the horse just back of the fore leg, piercing his heart, killing him almost instantly.

The dead horse was valued at $250.00 and was but six years old. The team was one of the largest in this section and it will be some time before Mr. Driggett will be able to replace the one killed.

Make Record Breaking Trip From Gravel Pit

A team of horses owned by E. B. Ward, made a record breaking trip from the gravel pit, just off south Antrim street, to the foot of Park Avenue, Monday afternoon, frightening pedestrians and causing considerable excitement.

The team were hitched to a wagon, waiting their turn to be loaded with gravel at the pit. From what we have been told, the curiosity of a woman was the cause of the quick getaway. Possibly attracted by the noise of the teams and men at work, a woman with a parasol appeared suddenly at the top of the gravel bank, directly over the heads of the horses. In a flash they were gone and continued on their mad flight north on Grant street to Park avenue, and were stopped in front of the Majestic theatre. No damage reported to team or pedestrians.

The team was standing hitched to a wagon near the barn at the Driggett home on Antrim street, and became frightened when their driver was moving an oil barrel. They started to run and after leaving the yard on Mason street, struck a tree in front of the house owned by Mayor S. M. Rose, corner Grant and Mason, breaking the tongue of the wagon into three pieces, one of the pieces penetrating the left side of the horse just back of the fore leg, piercing his heart, killing him almost instantly.

The dead horse was valued at $250.00 and was but six years old. The team was one of the largest in this section and it will be some time before Mr. Driggett will be able to replace the one killed.

URGES ALL TO BUY THEIR COAL

SERIOUS SHORTAGE PREDICTED
BY WINTER

Production of Bituminous Coal Now Estimated at 50,000,000 Tons
Behind Output of Last Year

Present indications point toward a coal shortage equal if not worse than during the winters of 1917-18. Bituminous coal is rapidly advancing in price and hard coal is almost impossible to be obtained at any price. Local coal dealers urge the citizens of Charlevoix to lay in their winter's supply of coal before the fall months, or stand a fine chance of going without it during the winter. One local dealer sold a car of hard coal the other day, and after closing the deal has been unable to get the coal from the mines. Such is the situation, and it is up to the people right now to protect themselves.

The following letter from one of the leading coal dealers in the country explains the situation fully:

"In order to prevent any chance of criticism by our customers later in the year, we wish to acquaint you with some facts having an important bearing on the coal situation.

"The general secretary of the National Coal Association, in a letter from Washington, dated May 27, calls attention to the U. S. Geological Survey report, showing that from Jan. 1st, to May 15th, the production of bituminous coal was 50,000,000 tons behind the output of last year. To date, this year, coal has been produced at the rate of about 420,000,000 tons, which is less than the production of 1910. Industrial and domestic demand for coal in 1919 will not be satisfied with the production of 1910.

"Figures collected by the National Coal Association, indicate that at least 40,000 mining employees are returning to Europe. Thousands of them have already gone. Approximately 100,000 additional employees who went into the military and naval service during the war, will not return to the mines. They are seeking work elsewhere. There is no influx of immigration to furnish new employees. We are, therefore, subject to a labor shortage which may be expected to grow worse, rather than better.

"The country is raising the largest grain crop in its history. It is the policy of the government, definitely announced, to move all possible food supplies to Europe with the utmost dispatch. This means that our transportation system will shortly be burdened with this traffic. We must, therefore, expect ear shortage to interfere with the production and movement of coal.

"Industrial activity is on the increase. In a few weeks, industrial concerns and retail dealers who have been out of the market will all be wanting coal. Unsatisfied demand for tonnage and all the unhappy consequences of another coal shortage during the coming winter are squeezed in front of us."

ONE OF COUNTY'S OLDEST PIONEERS

Henry N. Hammond Passes Away at Home Near Ironton

Henry N. Hammond, one of Charlevoix county's oldest pioneers passed away at his home in Ironton, June 13, death resulting from a complication of diseases.

Mr. Hammond was born in Orange county, York state, August 20, 1842. At the age of four he moved with his parents to Hillsdale county, where he resided until 22 years of age. May 1, 1864 he was united in marriage to Julia A. Lewis. Four years later they moved to Charlevoix county and took up a homestead in Eveline township, where they have resided practically all their lives.

In 1874 Mr. Hammond became a member of the Methodist church. He was the father of ten children, four of whom, also and adopted daughter and grandchild which was raised by Mr. and Mrs. Hammond, are living. Mrs. C. Huggard of Manistique, Mrs. Clifton Bowen of Detroit, Mrs. Elwyn Johnson of Charlevoix, Grant of Ironton, Fred R. of Hillsdale and O. H. Hammond of Portland, Oregon, besides a wife and mother.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 Sunday from the residence. Rev. Taggart of the Congregational church officiating.

PHONE RATES GIVEN BOOST

INCREASED FROM 50 TO 75 PER CENT

New Rates to Continue Ninety Days or Longer, Depending on the Action of Congress

Commencing with Thursday of last week local phone rates have been advanced considerably. This action follows the deciding of the phone rate issue in the Supreme court, the court having held that the wire administration has authority to boost rates.

If your telephone in your home heretofore cost you $1.50 per month it will now cost you $1.75. At your place of business the rate will be $2.75 per month. If on a farm line within six miles of town your rate will be $1.50, but if you reside more than six miles out it will cost an added 25 cents.

This increase is the result of the government under Burleson taking over the telephones as a war measure after the war was over. Second of the United States Supreme Court approving the legal aspect of this unwarranted exercise of authority. Third by Burleson using his authority to unsettle conditions on all wire lines in every conceivable way, cut down the service, enormously increase expense of operation, and create chaos and dissatisfaction as to cause the menace of a strike of all the telegraph and telephone operators in the United States.

Before government operation, we were getting reasonable service at fair rates with little kicking on the part of the operators. Now we are getting abominable service, at enormously increased rates and operators and patrons are all kicking. If the bill now before the U. S. senate passes, the government will at once turn all lines back fully to their owners and the present (that is the new advanced rate), will continue, for ninety days.

There is general dissatisfaction with the new rates which are regarded as unreasonably high.

NEW POTATOES HIT MICHIGAN

Price Offered for 1918 Crop Makes Sudden Decline

Michigan potato growers failed to reap their expected harvest for the tag end of last year's crop and are closing out the few cars they have left at around 50 cents per cwt., says a Cadillac dispatch.

The price opened at Greenville last week at $1 and declined all week, closing at between 50 and 75 cents. The Michigan Potato Growers' exchange marketed 80 cars during the week and the entire state unloaded something like 250 cars.

While the southern crop is light this year it came early and that fact hurt the Michigan growers, as it prevented them from getting top prices for their surplus. "Maine, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Colorado, Idaho and Michigan growers all knew there was a light southern crop," said G. E. Prester, "but we did not know it was coming so early. We all figured on June 20 as the beginning of steady shipments, while they started about June 5 and by June 10 the east Virginia shore was shipping 150 cars a day.

"But the buyers were lacking in reliable information, as were the growers and shippers. They bought heavily in the last weeks of May to catch the high market they expected before the southern crop came in."

FERTILIZER PRICES SAID COMING DOWN

Farmers Advised to Delay Purchase of Stocks for Fall Delivery

Commercial fertilizer prices are coming down greatly for fall delivery, according to Dr. M. M. McCool, soils specialist at M. A. C. The prediction is based upon information gathered from fertilizer men and farmers all over the country.

"In most cases farmers who intend to buy fertilizer stocks now for fall delivery will do well to withhold their orders until the present high level of prices becomes adjusted," says Professor McCool. "Prices are certain to come down, and those who delay purchase will save the difference."

Mixed fertilizers will be appreciably lower in the fall, while prices of acid phosphate will show less change. All indicators, however, point to a sure fall in the prices of all commercial fertilizers, and in plenty of time for the fall deliveries.

The beautiful steamer Manitou of the new Michigan Transit company is to be put on the Chicago, Charlevoix, Mackinac Island run starting the 27th of June. This fine passenger ship will add much to the tourist travel northward and comfort and speed in returning home again at the end of the season.

The boat will make six calls each week at Charlevoix and an equal number at her other ports of call, remaining over night each Saturday at Mackinac Island. The sailings from Chicago will be on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and arrival at Charlevoix will be each Tuesday at 6:00 a. m., each Thursday at 8:00 a. m. and each Saturday afternoon at 12:15 o'clock.

On the down trip to Chicago the boat will call at this port each Tuesday at 7:45 p. m., each Thursday at 10:15 p. m. and each Sunday at 3:15 p. m.

The steamer Missouri opened her season today. Her first call here was 3:30 o. m. Wednesday. Her next sailing will be next Monday out of Chicago, leaving that city at 7 p. m. Her summer season schedule is being made up this week and will be published within a few days.

The steamer Kansas also goes on summer schedule and is booked for one trip a week to Lake Michigan ports. This boat will make local stops at all ports carrying freight and passengers. She sailed from Chicago June 17th on the first of her regular weekly trips. Her schedule of arrival in Charlevoix has not yet been decided upon and will also be made public later.

Local excursions on all these boats to various nearby points and especially to Mackinac Island are now being mapped out and will be advertised in a few days.

They had conducted their business place but a short time before Lynn was called into the service and after his departure his father continued the business until early last fall, when it was closed up.

For the present they will handle only automobile accessories and oils and gas.

DRIVERS MUST HAVE LICENSE

NEW LAW COVERS EVERY PERSON
16 YEARS OR OVER

Men and Women Equally Eligible—Licensed Chauffeurs Are Exempt
—License Fee 50 Cents

It is estimated by the state department that within a year from August 14, when the law requires every person who drives an automobile to secure an operator's license, there will be approximately a million such licenses issued. Application blanks will be ready for local officials by July first.

Application forms may be obtained from the chiefs of police in cities, or from the sheriff or county clerk. Many inquiries are being received by the state department daily about the requirements of this law. One of the most common questions is: "Do owners of cars have to obtain operators' licenses for driving their own automobiles?" and the prompt reply is given that every person, regardless of ownership, who drives an automobile, must have a license to do so after August 14.

Another common query is about the age restriction. Some put it this way: "I have a boy 16 years old who is a good driver. Can't you make an exception in his case?" The secretary of state, in following the law can only reply that there are no exceptions made and no child under 16 years of age can obtain an operators license and legally drive after the law becomes effective.

Another misapprehension seems to be that only men will be licensed. No distinction is made in the law, the women being eligible the same as the men.

There are now 74,189 motor vehicles registered in the state department from Detroit and Wayne county. The total number for the state is 262,125. It is estimated that there will probably be 600,000 licenses issued at the start more than one-fourth of which, on the basis of the number of cars, must be handled through the Detroit office.

New departments will have to be created in the secretary of state's office to take care of this new license requirement. This will be comparatively small, however, as more efficiency and the greatest economy will be inaugurated. The state department thinks the initial licenses will net the state about $250,000, after payment of all expenses, including the added force, for one year.

The applicant must first secure an application blank and fill it out completely, signing it before a notary public. It is then presented to the chief of police in cities and to the sheriff or one of his deputies in rural communities.

That officer examines the applicant and if he "passes" the application is approved in writing.

The applicant then forwards it with the fee of 50 cents to the state department and he will promptly receive the license by return mail. These licenses are good as long as they are not revoked for violations of the law.

The application blanks provide for a personal description of the applicant for identification purposes and require a direct answer to a few questions relative to the driver's past record and experience in operating a car.

Persons registered as chauffeurs are not required to have an operator's license and cannot drive for hire under one. They will continue to be licensed as heretofore.

Persons having physical defects may be licensed to drive certain cars with which they are familiar and can handle with safety, that limitation to appear on the application and license issued under it.

No Trace of Missing Man
No trace has been found of Ralph A. Anderson, prominent Traverse City business man, who disappeared on a trip to Chicago. His belongings were found on a lake boat when it reached Muskegon and the supposition was that he had jumped overboard. His wife, however, refuses to accept this theory. He had considerable money and she fears he may have met foul play. Traverse City people are now in Chicago searching for him.

There will be a dance at the Iron-Grange Hall, Friday evening, June 20. Everybody come. 24tf

$200,000 FOR GOOD ROADS

ARENAC COUNTY READY TO DO BOOSTING

State and Nation to Aid in Putting This Project Across for Eastsiders

Arenac is one of the counties in northeastern Michigan where people believe in the gospel of good roads and are backing up their belief with their dollars. The Dixie Highway runs through this county, from north to south, and in addition to putting this route in better condition the county is going to spend many thousand dollars in connecting up its various villages and giving to every section some of the advantages of modern highways.

Under the heading "Good Roads Banner Year" the Arenac Independent of recent date, gives the following outline of the work which is laid out for this year:

Nineteen nineteen promises to be the greatest road building year in the history of Arenac county. The county road commissioners, E. G. Cole, W. M. Staebler and N. B. Weaver, have made plans to start construction on about sixty miles of road under the Covert act. The road projects are as follows: From Turner east six miles; from Standish west to the cheese factory; from Standish east to Pine river; from Au Gres to Deland church; from Au Gres to Santiago and thence west to connect with stone road running east of Twining. The estimated cost of these roads is about $200,000. This would be lessened by the state award. Road bonds covering the assessment district running for probably ten years will likely be the way these roads will be financed.

In addition to the above proposed roads, which would be built under the Covert act, under supervision of the county road commissioners, the state has promised that it will endeavor to complete the trunk lines running north and south through Arenac county. On the east trunk line there is the gap from Omer to Twining and the west trunk line from Standish to Ogemaw county line by the way of Sterling, Melita and Maple Ridge.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

There is always a "best" farmer in any community. If you are the best in your community, isn't it because you are the most progressive, the most willing to learn from the experience of others, and the most willing to give of your experience to others?

Warning has been issued that federal grades call for a heavy discount for wheat in which rye is mixed. If you want the government price for your wheat, cut the rye out of it.

During the week just passed the following owners of registered pure bred livestock have been visited: Fred Wagner, Henry Korthase and Terry S. Barber, all owners of registered Shorthorn sires, John Leist, owner of a registered Holstein sire and Frank Bird a Holstein sire and registered Berkshire hogs; James Hart a splendid Guernsey sire, Coulter Brothers with registered Duroc hogs and a herd of Jerseys that for added development and capacity can't be bent in this part of the state and the Loeh farm with its magnificent Holsteins and Belgian horses.

Big race between Petoskey skaters and Charlevoix skaters Friday night at the roller rink.

LATE CORN CROP BRINGS FROST DANGER

Seed Supply for Next Year May be Injured by Fall Freezes

That the corn crop is late in many sections of the state as a result of the backward spring and that as a result there is danger of fall frost injuring the seed supply for next year, is the opinion of J. F. Cow, farm crops man at M. A. C.

As a measure to combat this threatened condition Professor Cox suggests that in many cases it will be practicable for farmers to hasten the maturity of a seed plot, in order to be sure of getting seed before early frosts. The application of fertilizer to a small section of the field, an acre or so in most cases, would be a practicable way of hurrying along the seed crop. Fertilizers high in phosphate are those recommended for this purpose.

Except for the lateness of the crop, the corn of the state is in good condition generally. The long dry spell of early June brought about ideal conditions for weed control, with the result that most fields are clean. The danger of soft corn in the fall at the time of early frosts is the chief worry of the corn grower, and any steps possible should be taken to secure early maturing.

If the Boyne City Silo is made in Charlevoix county, it must be a good one. Better investigate, Mr. Farmer, before you buy.

PAINT DEVOE PAINT

My Burglary

It Had Farreaching Results

By ELINOR MARSH

I am of an artistic temperament. From my earliest girlhood I had loved beautiful scenes. I took to drawing pictures early and in time became a water color sketcher. In summer time I drove around in a vehicle called a rockaway, drawn by an old horse that had been in my family a long while and in whom I had every confidence.

At night I would sometimes stop at a hotel, sometimes at a farmhouse, and occasionally would place my blankets on grassy ground and spend the night in bivouac.

One evening when I was some miles from a town, which I expected to reach before dark, Bob went lame. Looking about for shelter—for I could not get on with a lame horse—I espied a short distance ahead of me, perched on a ledge, a cottage. It was as artistic a piece of architecture as I ever saw, with its grounds and vines growing over it. Indeed, the tout ensemble constituted a thing of beauty. If I could only be permitted to spend the night there I would be delighted.

I managed to get Bob to the gateway of the place and up a short winding road leading to the house. I was disappointed in not seeing any one about, and as I drew near it occurred to me that the place was unoccupied. The blinds were not closed and there was nothing to indicate that the house was empty. What was it that told me that the place was deserted?

Leaving Bob standing in the roadway, I went to the house and rapped on the front door with a brass knocker. It did not seem to me, if there had been any one within, that those knocks would have sounded so hollow. I listened, but there was no indication of any one stirring. Going around to the rear I failed to see any indication of a living being. There were no chickens, no dog, not even a lonely cat. Only a few flowers in beds near the house that I judged grew without being cultivated. There was a woodshed and some wood in it, but plenty of room for Bob in case I should have to leave him there.

Looking in at a window, I saw a library with a fine broad fireplace and among the furniture a large lounge. The sash was locked, and I went to other windows, but found them locked also. A trellis led to an upper window. It looked easy to climb, and I went up it and found the sash unlocked. I went into a bedroom and down a staircase. The front door was locked and no key, but I opened a side door by turning the latch.

I could understand the fascination of burglary so interested was I in appropriating the premises to my use for the night. There was a zest in temporarily owning this place, so beautiful and yet so desolate, which was enhanced by my having to break into it and learn what there was suited to my necessities.

The next thing was to unbar Bob and give him his supper. Then I went into the house with my lunch box, in which I always kept something and in which I now fortunately had enough to satisfy my appetite. There were cupboards in which eatables might be stored, but they were locked. After eating I lighted a lamp in the library and looked over the books. It was evident that whoever had filled these shelves was a well educated and intelligent person. I have never before come upon a library in which every book had a value. And what surprised me most was that some of the books were up to date. I read till quite late, then, throwing myself on the lounge, put out the lamp and went to sleep.

On awakening in the morning I was astonished to detect the odor of coffee. What did it mean? Was the house, after all, occupied? Had the occupants returned late? I arose and went into the dining room. The table was set for breakfast, but for only one person. Hurrying out, I entered the kitchen. On the range a kettle was shimmering, and there was a coffee pot that emitted the odor. A toast rack stood on the range, filled, and a couple of eggs were ready for boiling.

I started to find whoever had come in, to apologize for my burglary, and, not finding any one on the ground floor, went cautiously upstairs. The bedroom doors were open as I had left them the night before, but no one was in any of them. The house was as free from any person except myself as it was when I broke into it.

I went downstairs again, looked about me and listened. There was no sound save the shimmering kettle in the kitchen.

Was I in my right mind? Was I asleep and dreaming? Was I enacting a play for a movie show?

The Goodrich More Mileage Message

Goodrich is making the burliest, sturdiest, most lasting tires the rubber industry has ever seen; and Goodrich knows it.

In every test of road-roughing to which tires can be put, Goodrich Tires have unfolded an endurance, an ability to take punishment, which has run into phenomenal mileage.

Confident in this knowledge and belief, Goodrich desires that all tire users share in the confidence of Goodrich, and the big mileage Goodrich Tires assure.

Therefore, Goodrich announces to present and future owners of its pneumatic tires—an adjustment basis of 6,000 miles for SAFETY TREADS, and 8,000 miles for SILVERTOWN CORDS, instead of the 3,500 and 5,000 miles respectively, heretofore in force.

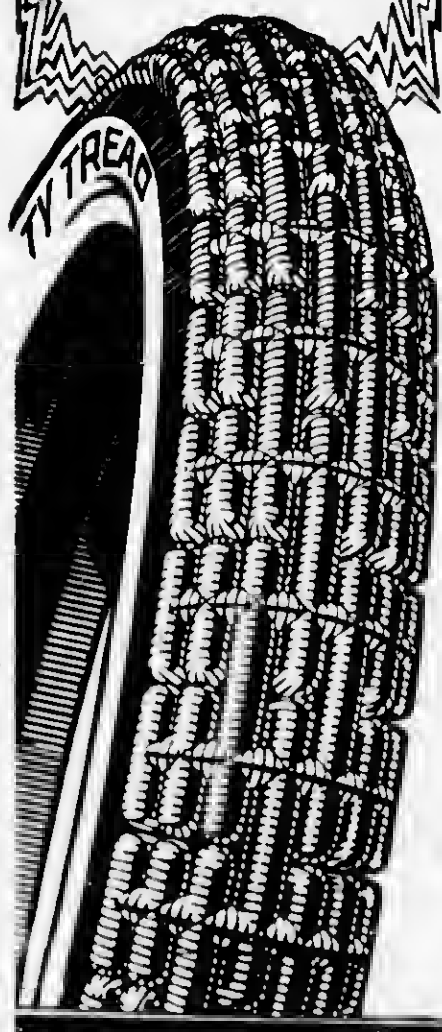

Remember that a Goodrich adjustment is a fair one. Goodrich knows the mileage is in its tires, and more; and to make you realize you lose money in being without Goodrich Tires, the new Goodrich adjustment is proclaimed broadcast.

The Reliable Home Furnishers

I listened to this recital with a sympathy that I did not try to conceal. I understood perfectly the change I had wrought. I appreciated the motive—his seeing a living woman in his home—that had led him to prepare a breakfast for her. For years he had had no one upon whom to lavish a single kindly act. Suddenly a woman appeared, and he took advantage of it. Indeed, he told me that the preparation of that meal, his watchful eye on it, which he had done surreptitiously, was the happiest moment that came to him in years.

Upon examining Bob we found him still lame, but my new friend found the cause and removed it. He insisted on harnessing the horse to the vehicle, and when I left him he said to me: "This will be the first day that I have ever spent here free from melancholy." My forcible entrance to another person's property occurred several years ago. The next time I entered it was as the bride of the owner. Since the place was perfect when it was finished there is nothing to do with it but enjoy it. But if I should see the slightest chance for improvement I would not mention it to my husband. We go there in May and remain through the summer. I have not yet exhausted the attractive landscapes in the vicinity as subjects for sketches.

Owl's Digestive Apparatus.

Owls have a peculiar method of eating. They eat everything they want, whenever they find it, and swallow the "whole work"—whole. The idea would be the same if you sat down to dinner and consumed the beefsteak, plates, napkins, tablecloth, knives, forks and spoons. After the owl has had this conglomerate in his department of the interior for some time, and it has been digested for all the nutrition there is in it, his organism inside permits him to drop the refuse out through his mouth in the form of a hard, round pellet.—Omaha World-Herald.

Munich in History.

With the history of Munich the name Louis is inseparable. It was Louis the Severe who, in the thirteenth century, gave the city a start by living there, and Emperor Louis, the Bavarian, next in succession, who built the first city wall. The city owes its beginning to Duke Henry the Lion, who established a mint there in 1158 and built a bridge across the Isar so he might levy toll on the salt from springs of Heichenhull and neighboring villages. The city occupies the site of the ancient monastery Tegernsee, hence its name (Munichen, the monk).

Cause of Improvement.
A dispensary official had returned from a night's holiday, and called to see an Irish patient "who was generally as cross as two sticks." After a few preliminary remarks the patient congratulated the doctor on his improved appearance. "Faith, doctur, the holiday has done yez good—yer as brown as a berry and yez light as fat as a rag-man!" "I can return the compliment, Mick; you seem to be greatly improved," said the doctor. "Och, sorr," replied Mick, "O'v'e mendid ivry hour since the holiday whint away!"

Fourteenth Century Love Token.
The Lincolnshire (Eng.) Architectural and Archaeological society has presented to the Lincoln City and County museum a charming little thimble of the time of Edward III or Richard II. The thimble is circular in shape and about half-an-inch across, and it was originally embellished with six emeralds. One of the emeralds is missing, but with this exception the specimen is perfect. An inscription on the back shows it to be a fourteenth century love token.

I sent my small daughter into the front room to do some dusting. Not hearing her around, I stepped quietly into the room and found her sitting idly by the window with her work unfinished. OWNERS OF ANTIQUES REAP RICH HARVEST

Attributed to Seekers Who Acquired Wealth During War

The enormous fortunes made in England during the war are responsible for record breaking prices which sellers of antiques of every kind are realizing in London auction rooms, in the opinion of men who have long been close to the trade. The whole country is being searched for treasures of all kinds which find ready sale at prices which hitherto have only been paid by foreigners.

A mysterious portrait which recently appeared in one auction room and was said by some one to have been by Franz Hals quickly brought $60,000 although its authenticity has even now not been established. A Reynolds portrait which to the present had not attracted much attention was easily sold for $70,000 and pictures by much lesser lights brought phenomenal prices.

Artistic furniture is in even more demand. Six Chippendale Gothic chairs recently sold at a country sale for $5,125 in spite of the fact that modern artists are copying this particular design with marked success and only the trained expert can detect the difference. At another country sale two Chippendale tables brought $1,600 and a Chippendale cabinet $6,250.

Sheraton furniture is not so popular excellent tables going as low as $100. An old harpsichord in a William and Mary case for $2,500 and a grandfather's clock gave its fortunate owner $600 in spite of the fact that the clock had probably ceased to tick more than a hundred years ago.

Illuminated manuscripts also are in demand, and as in the case of furniture, record prices are being obtained. Letters of David Garrick, and a few by his wife, to noted persons of their time, caused spirited bidding, but were withdrawn and will be offered again.

Efforts to trace the purchasers of some of the choicest offerings have revealed the presence in the market of persons who accumulated large fortunes during the war, and now that they have acquired fine houses have set out with the aid of experts to give them the ancient touch required by good taste.

PRESERVE THIS

We are a peculiar lot of reformers after all. After knocking the living daylight out of the light wine and beer gag we are advised by no less an authority than the Michigan Drug and Food Monthly that several of our best known family remedies are liberally linctured with old hodge. For example, the beer of the ancients contained a bare four and a half per cent of alcohol, while our sweet old friend "Liddy" Pinkham put fifteen per cent. alcohol in her tonic. The real kick, however, is to be had in Hostetter's Bitters, which is only one-quarter alcohol. There is a comfortable shot in the arm in "Ole John" Tanlac, or by way of comparison, four times more alcoholic stimulant is to be had in Tanlac than in the beer we have just kicked down the back stairs. For the personal information of a few congenial spirits who occasionally complain about the new order of things we cheerfully submit the appended ray of light with the suggestion you paste the list, showing these alcoholic comparisons, on the inside cover of the medicine cabinet; then in your delirium or distress, or both, you can personally select your "medicine" with some degree of intelligence and scientific accuracy. We would further suggest you get a "full" set of these "family" medicines so you can run the gamut from Swamp Root to Hostetter's Bitters until you find something to relieve your ailment, unless, of course, you die before the doctor arrives. Here is the dope sheet—preserve it in alcohol:

THE HANDY MAN

Here's to the handy man around the house—the hubby who answers with glad yelps of pleasure when there is a leak in the plumbing, who rushes with seraphic joy to the aid of his spouse when the kitchen range goes out and who is always rigging

DRINK A GLASS OF REAL HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its baffling research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, mild stomach-ach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the toxic organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic affections, others who have sallow skin, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crack on the subject of internal sanitation.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage. Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

up this, that or the other thing to be of alleged assistance and constant help to the best little wife in the world.

Here's to the handy man, long may he wave his hammers and saws soft, and "fix" the shelves in the pantry while wifey, in great perturbation, awaits the sound of broken glass and listens for his fall from the step ladder. Long may he do things to the wiring of such a mysterious nature that even the best electricians in the city scratch their heads in dumb amazement when they are called upon to set the place right again. Long may he potter about the cellar, spending weeks in contriving arrangements which will save an hour a year in getting the coal into the bin or in removing the ashes from the furnace.

What is home without a handy husband? Imagine how gloomy the dining room would look without his tools scattered here and there on the table and chairs. How sad the kitchen utensils would appear without his bits of soldering holding them together. How lonesome the whole home would seem without his quaint appliances stiring one in the face in unexpected places. Here's to the handy man around the house—he's a snare and a delusion and a pest and a nuisance as a general rule, but he is good for one thing—he gives his wife something definite to brag about to those other wives whose husbands always spend their evenings at the club instead of in the bosom of their own homes being handy around the house.

CHEAPER POSTAGE SOON

A small but gratifying rift in the cloud of high prices is found in the formal announcement that commencing with July there will be a restoration of the pre-war postage rates, meaning a cut of one cent for letters and post cards. When these rates were advanced it was done purely as a war measure and now that the exigency has passed the government authorities are ready to restore the old rates and give the public the benefit of the reduction. And although this reduction is small in each particular instance, in the aggregate it means the saving of a large sum. To many large business concerns, in fact, it will mean an annual saving of thousands of dollars. And indirectly of course, the general public will share in this economy in the cost of doing business.

It is worthy of remark that when the postage rates were advanced, at the time this nation entered the great war, not a word of complaint or protest was uttered by the American people, simply because they recognized the necessity which impelled the government to seek a large revenue from every available source. At any other time this increase in rates would have caused much resentment, but the public was willing to do its part in this way, the same as in many other forms of patriotic service and sacrifice. Nevertheless, the return of the old rates will be widely welcomed, not only because it affords a real economy at a time when economies are in order, but also because it affords a reminder that the war really is over and eventually all the other forms of war taxes will come to an end.

ON THE MEXICAN BORDER

Though the United States has 20,000 soldiers more or less on the Mexican frontier, the governor of the Texas has wired to Washington for more protective troops. He says the border situation is critical and menaces lives and property. Undoubtedly the governor has excellent ground for his anxiety. For though Mr. Baker maintains an air of skepticism, his department has already recognized in a concrete way the presence of a condition of menace along our southern border, and is now preparing to erect thirty army posts in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, apparently with a view to the establishment of a permanent frontier guard of some magnitude.

Here we have a tangible outcome of the meddling of the present Washington administration with the affairs of another country. For the first time in our history we must definitely fortify a frontier against a neighbor state. While our president is in Paris talking about universal, permanent peace his administration at home is making plans to guard against a condition of chronic border war. We are resorting to the safety devices which exist in Europe and to which we have always felt ourselves superior.

Such are the results of "idealism" and "watchful waiting" adulterated with imperialism and invasion. Such is the result of the workings of the new autocracy in Washington.

Perhaps the Germans are sending those photographic copies of the peace treaties to the members of the American congress because they know the sad consequences of living under an autocratic censorship.

It isn't the fact that you've made a fool of yourself that counts, for everybody has done that, but whether you keep on making a fool of yourself in the same old way.

When you get around to the fact that the prices of necessities are so high because you are willing to pay the prices that are asked, you'll be on the right track to lower them.

If you'll just reconcile yourself to the idea that the other fellow has all the soft snugs, you may find one and if you don't it will be no more than you expected.

DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS, USE SALTS

If your Back is aching or Bladder bothers, drink lots of water and eat less meat.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salt which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 600 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from every plum about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to cleanse and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

The Comforts of the American Home

It is a well-known fact that, home for home, the American household has more comforts and conveniences than that of any other nation.

In foreign lands the modernized dwelling is found only in the better sections of the larger cities.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find the piano, the vacuum cleaners, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless electrical appliances.

There is a well-kept look about residence, store our outbuildings with an atmosphere of prosperity and content.

Did you ever stop to realize why this is so; how this condition was brought about?

It is largely due to advertising. And a big share of the credit belongs to newspaper advertising.

Stop and think how many of the foods you eat, the things you wear and other articles entering into your everyday life, you first heard of through newspaper advertisements.

You will then realize what a part they do play, or should play, in your daily life.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly, if you are not already doing so. They mean more to you than you can tell.

City of Antiquity.
 Founded before 2000 years which furnished many centuries ago and which have long since ceased to exist, such as Babylon and Nineveh, Tyre and Sidon and Sodom and Gomorrah, and older than any of the cities of its region or of Persia, Egypt, Greece, India and the Mongolian nations, Damascus undoubtedly is the oldest city in the world. The founding of Damascus is vouched by the haze of the remotest antiquity, but investigators of the subject have declared that Shem, eldest son of Noah, was the founder.

Distinguished by Wig.

Thus James Stewart in his inimitable "Hiccupus, or the Whole Art of Hairdressing," first published in London in 1782, tells how the wig gradually came to "declare the man." He speaks of "the huge top or pompadour of the hour of law," of the "long hair or nutty scratch" of the tradesman and the "flaming peruke of the country gentleman," while "the merchant men of business and of letters were distinguished by the grave fall bottom, or more moderate the neatly curled."

Chas. S. Smith sheared an Oxford Down lamb Monday, the clip weighing seventy-six and three-quarters pounds. Can you beat it? This lamb when seven months old weighed 170 pounds.—Hellelire Independent. Some sheep story. Surely all wool and a yard wide, warranted fast colors.

Robert Sumner, the Lansing man who was killed when his car turned over on the Lansing road a few nights ago, was a victim of the wicked use of the spotlight. The driver who turned the light in his face and contributed to the fatality is guilty of plain murder and it is a pity he will not be arrested and a charge of murder made against him. TIME IS THE TEST

The Testimony of Charlevoix People Stands the Test

The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.

Charlevoix people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? Below is testimony such as the sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.

Mrs. John Cook, 307 Mason St., Charlevoix, gave the following statement in October, 1911: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills on different occasions for kidney disorder and backache and they have always given me splendid results."

FIVE YEARS LATER Mrs. Cook added: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble and I have had no occasion to use a kidney medicine since. I am always ready to say a good word for Doan's."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Cook had. Foster-McBirney Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Cadillac city balance sheet shows a shortage of $4,160.93 charged to John Thompson, former Cadillac city treasurer convicted of embezzlement. His attorney has until June 23 to file a bill of exceptions.

Two Russians are in jail at Mt. Pleasant charged with receiving money under false pretenses in connection with the agitation of labor disorders among beet field workers in Isabella county. With the season at hand for weeding and blocking beets many of the workers have quit, some claiming their lives were threatened unless they join an alleged bolshevist strike for $3 an acre increase. Nick Schmell and Andrew Halkaty, the men under arrest are alleged to have been the leaders. The two are charged with accepting advance pay and refusing to go to work, according to a Mt. Pleasant news item.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONER'S NOTES

Township commencement exercises and contests completed. The parents have voted them the best thing yet and ask "what can we do next year along similar lines?"

Through default in township organization the local officers failed to report outcome of contests in Boyne Valley, Melrose, Evangeline, South Arm and Eveline. The contests were none the less successful and we were regret that more could not have joined the large crowds in attendance.

The schools of the county now holding first place are Boyne Falls, Curfew, Wildwood, Springvale, Horton Bay, Hopyard, Norwood, John-son, Ironton, Rock Elm, Knop and McKinley.

Eighty-three names of children entitled to free tickets to fair have been reported to commissioner of schools. Will all teachers having omitted this report care for this at once in order that all promises made to boys and girls may be fulfilled in September.

Murray, Bay Shore, Maple Grove, Burgess, Johnson, Marion Center, Ironton and all of Boyne Valley, Melrose and Evangeline have contributed to the new educational hall fund. St. James expects to send to secretary Wilson the proceeds from the school play of June 15th.

Rural school teachers will attend summer school as follows: Julia Jacobs and Loretta O'Donnell in Kalamazoo; Mrs. Fred Willis in Ferris Institute; Emily Meggison, Eva Latham, Mabel Thayer, Orthella Porter in Mt. Pleasant; Thelma Spees, Glen Lake, Gilda Jensen, Sylvia Jensen, Lillian McNeill in Ypsilanti. The commissioner will attend the university for a six weeks term.

House enrolled Act 43 just received from Representative Chew adds to the list of days on which the schools must have appropriate exercises the following: Oct. 27, Roosevelt's birthday; Sept. 17th, Adoption of Federal constitution; Nov. 11th, Armistice or Liberty Day; Oct. 21, Will Carleton's birthday. The house bill concludes with the following words as introduced by Rep. Chew: "Any teacher neglecting to perform the duty hereby imposed shall be liable to have his or her certificate revoked by the county commissioner of schools or by the Superintendent of Public Instruction."

Standard school plates were presented during the past month to Undine and Wildwood, making a total of nine state approved schools in this county. The adjoining county of Cheboygan is still ahead of us. There are five or six schools contemplating changes during the summer months and much rivalry is displayed in seeing which can be first acknowledged as a good school, 100 per cent. in health requirements. These with the two new buildings being erected will possibly place us even with our northern neighbors.

The shortage of teachers still threatens to force us to have some of the smaller schools close and transport their children to neighboring districts. Perhaps after all this is only a blessing in disguise. Seventeen school directors have as yet received not even one application. A recent visit with the commissioner of Wexford county in Cadillac discovered the amazing fact that only twenty teachers have contracts as yet in that county. That leaves a shortage of eighty in that county. Most of the districts are endeavoring to consolidate with the hope of good service in spite of the times. We understand that this is with the entire approval of the state department.

Splendid boys' and girls' club has been organized in Norwood with an enrollment of twenty-two. This was organized by Miss Golda Jensen who cared for this in addition to preparing a large school for every possible entry in the school contest. They will work for the summer months under the leadership of Roscoe Smith, who is greatly interested in the work.

We say three cheers for Norwood—with a fine club, with the valdorian, with one of the five first shelves in the county, with a first place in all school work totals, and with a spirit that will carry you right off your feet. (And the school building lacks but one item in the standard school requirements.) We say three cheers for Miss Jensen. She has been on the job.

Will the parents who have been in touch with the school work for the past year remember the teachers whose schools have first place, remember that the other schools all have first place in something if entered in contest as almost every one was, and think of their exceeding interest in their work which prompted them to the tasks before them and render them a heartfelt thank you. And the chairman of the school day work, published in a previous issue. Everyone did double work to make the year a true success in spite of hardships and they have succeeded. To them the boys and girls should also turn in gratitude.

There will be no more notes during June and July, possibly during the first two weeks of August, although items sent in will be saved for future publication. The commissioner will be studying in Ann Arbor. All correspondence will be cared for as usual through the East Jordan office.

May we wish our readers a pleasant, a joyous summer, with health and success, whether that success means aims accomplished or needed rest.

New Telephone Toll Rates

Effective June 13th, 1919

By order of the Postmaster General, new schedules of rates for telephone toll calls became effective 12:01 a. m., June 13th, 1919.

Under these new schedules the "station to station" rate is the base rate upon which all rates for the various classes of service offered, are computed. This rate is determined by the air line distance between toll points and is computed, for the initial period, on the basis of 5c for each 6 miles up to 24 miles and 5c for each 8 miles beyond that distance.

For toll calls where the calling party does not specify a particular person to be reached at the called telephone, the "station to station" rate is charged. This method provides the cheapest and quickest form of telephone toll service.

"Station to station" calls should be made as far as possible by giving the telephone number of the called telephone. Where the number is not known and telephone directory information is not available, the name and address under which the telephone is listed together with the information that it is a "station to station" call should be given to the toll operator.

For toll calls where the calling party specifies a particular person to be reached at the called telephone and the connection is established and conversation held with that person, the "person to person" rate is charged. As this service requires a greater amount of operating effort, the rate for such calls is about one-fourth greater than the "station to station" rate. (Minimum "person to person" rate 15c).

For toll calls on a "person to person" basis, where the calling party, in placing the call, designates a definite time at which he will talk and the conversation is held, the "appointment" rate is charged. As this service involves the making of the appointment in addition to the operating effort necessary for a "person to person" call, the "appointment" rate is about one-half greater than the "station to station" rate. (Minimum "appointment" rate 20c).

For toll calls made on a "person to person" basis where messenger service is required to secure attendance of the designated person at the called telephone the "messenger call" rate applies. This rate is the same as the "appointment" rate, plus any necessary charge for messenger service.

In connection with all toll calls other than those made on a "station to station" basis where the connection is established but the conversation is not held, because of any reason beyond the control of the telephone company a "report charge" is made equivalent to about one-fourth of the "station to station" rate. (Minimum "report charge" 5c, maximum $2.00).

Reduced rates, applying only to calls made on a "station to station" basis are quoted for toll service between the hours of 8:30 p. m. and 4:30 a. m. The rate between 8:30 p. m. and 12 midnight ("evening rate") is about one-half the "station to station" day rate, and between 12 midnight and 4:30 a. m. ("night rate") about one-fourth the "station to station" day rate. The minimum night rate is 25c. Where the "station to station" day rate is 25c or less no reduction is made for evening or night service.

The time at which connection is established at originating point governs the rate determining whether the day, evening or night charge applies on "station to station" service.

Day rates apply on all calls other than those made on a "station to station" basis, whether they are made during the day, evening or night.

"Collect Calls" or calls for which the charges are reversed (that is, collected from the subscriber at the called station) are allowed only in connection with "person to person" calls.

BOOST "OX BOW" RESORT

ONE OF MOST BEAUTIFUL BUILDING SPOTS

Located on the Shores of St. Clair Lake—Wonderful Building Site and Beach

Ellsworth, far famed as the fishing resort par excellence of this or any other state, has at last made a real start towards reaping the benefits of its natural environments.

This start was made last week when a few of the business men of the village purchased a tract of about eight acres of land on St. Clair lake running from the red bridge north to the lake and taking in the beautiful wooded point on the lake known as the "Ox Bow," a name given it by the earliest settlers in this region.

The property has a sand beach which is at present being cleaned up and will when docks and boat houses are erected, afford the finest fishing, boating and bathing facilities on the intermediate chain of lakes. Cottage building sites are also ideal. There are enough thrifty young trees to afford ample shade and all spots on the location get an refreshing breeze which may be stirring.

It is the intention of the owners of this site to plat it into building lots knowing that anyone looking for a cottage site away from the hurry and heat of the show places of style, will find here their heart's desire.

Several inquiries have already been made by prospective buyers and builders and it is thought probable that the first building may be done this summer.

Information regarding locations and prices may be secured by writing or phoning G. C. Townsend at the Citizens Bank at Ellsworth. Let's all boost for the "Ox-Bow" resort property and by so doing make Ellsworth what nature intended it to be, the finest fishing resort in Michigan.

GRAIN MIXTURES FOR CALVES

Wheat Bran is Relished by Young Animals and Corn Has Excellent Physiological Effect.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When the calf is in its second week it should begin to receive grain, and when one month old it should eat about half a pound a day. After this time the quantity of grain may be gradually increased, feeding all that the calf will eat until three pounds a day is reached, probably during the third month. Grain fed to supplement separated milk should never be mixed with the milk. It is questionable whether the preparation of grain in any way, such as soaking or bolting, is advisable under most circumstances.

Wheat bran is eaten readily by young calves. Corn has an excellent physiological effect and to a great extent may take the place of fat removed from skim or separated milk. Experiments tend to show that corn fed to calves should be cracked rather than finely ground. Ground oats are good in grain mixtures when available, but in many cases cost much more per unit of feed than corn and bran. The following grain mixtures are recommended by dairy specialists of the United States department of agriculture:

1. Three parts cracked corn and one part wheat bran.

2. Three parts cracked corn, one part wheat bran and one part ground oats.

3. Three parts cracked corn, one part wheat bran, one part ground oats, and one part linseed meal.

4. Five parts cracked corn, one part wheat bran, one part ground oats, and one part blood meal.

5. Oats, ground.

Clover hay, alfalfa hay, or the most palatable roughage available should be given the calf after the second week. Alfalfa is likely to cause scours, and should be fed sparingly at first and increased only after the calf gets accustomed to it. At first hay should be furnished only in handful at a time, and be placed so that it cannot be soiled.

For the first six months, at least, the calf should receive all the roughage of good quality that it will eat up clean. When the calf has access to good pasture during the first six months it need not receive other roughage. It is not advisable, however, to have the calf under two months of age on pasture in the early spring.

KILL THE BUGS

Don't let them destroy the crop you have worked so hard to prepare the ground for and plant. If they get the start of you, one day will mean a great loss. Fight them. Watch them. Use

PARIS GREEN
ARSENATE OF LEAD
BUG DOPE

We have it in large quantities—every kind of poison that will kill these crop destroyers. The hot weather this spring has caused insects and bugs of this kind to thrive, and the farmer who does not watch his crops will wake up some morning and find them eaten up. Watch your crops—use one of these preparations and your crops are safe.

PROBERS MAKE ASYLUM REPORT

WOULD FIRE ONE ON CRUELTY CHARGE

Would Close General Hospital Used by Public of Traverse City—Recommendations

Recommending that one employee be discharged and that the general hospital be discontinued the Traverse City state hospital committee made its report to the legislature on its investigation of the asylum Tuesday. The surprise comes in the recommendation to close the general hospital which was created by a special act of the legislature. This hospital is run by the state for profit but no insane persons are given treatment there. It serves Grand Traverse county the same as any of the three Grand Rapids hospitals serve that city and it has been making money, the management states. Traverse City will have to build itself a hospital if the governor and legislature act on the committee's recommendation.

The employee which the committee considers should be discharged is Steve Covay, head of the receiving ward, an employee of the institution for years. He is charged with cruelty toward patients and the committee reports that some of the charges against him were true.

In the main the report discredits nearly every charge made by Dr. A. A. Patterson, of Mecosta county, whose charges brought about the investigation. The committee believes these charges were the result of illusions. The report also absolves the hospital management of any blame. It praises the management for giving movie shows for inmates and recommends that the shows be given oftener.

The committee finds that it is true that restraint is being used on the more violent patients who are placed in straight jackets, tied to beds or chairs or locked in rooms. This is due to lack of help and the committee asks it be remedied. The report says such restraint retards cure.

Muskegon in 1917 sent many drunks to the hospital to be cured of the liquor habit. These were released in a few days by the institution without being cured. The committee recommends that this law be repealed and drunks be kept in county jails.

Reports of two persons dying from injuries received by rough treatment and one starving to death at the hospital are termed false by the report of the committee which states these three persons died from other causes. Charges that sane persons are being kept in the institution for profit or because persons interested are paying hospital attaches to keep relatives there were likewise branded unfounded.

Charges that attendants have stolen from the hospital at various times were found to be true, but whenever the management learned of such cases the attendants were discharged.

The committee finds that mail is held up at the institution and censored, but agrees that this is necessary because some of the patients write letters that are indecent. The committee says that many patients are treated more kindly at the hospital than they would be at home or in private institutions because they occasionally make attacks upon their keepers.

The committee makes ten recommendations as follows:

The repeal of Act 94 of the public acts of 1913 providing for the commitment of habitual drunkards.

That a rule be established by the board of control prohibiting the use of mechanical restraints upon patients except upon the signed order of a member of the medical staff.

That the institution be equipped to furnish continuous baths to disturbed patients in both the male and female wards.

That Steve Covay be released from the service of the institution.

That the institution keep a record of the result of the doctors' examination of all injuries received by patients together with a statement under oath of any witnesses to the incident of the injury. A copy of this record to be furnished in all cases to the legal representative of the patient if any and where there is no legal representative then to the probate judge of the court upon whose order the patient was committed.

That when any patient approaches a critical physical condition notice thereof be furnished to any relative or friend who may be in correspondence with the institution and a record of such notice having been sent be kept on file at the institution. That the institution equip and maintain a dental office and employ a regularly registered dentist to care for the patients in the institution.

That the medical staff of the institution be increased to include one dentist, one X-ray man and nine regular members, a total of eleven.

That the general hospital department be discontinued, the equipment to be used in the receiving ward of the institution and the funds in the hands of the treasurer of the institution to the credit of said department be turned over to the state treasurer and to this end we recommend the repeal of Act 33 of the public acts of 1915 as amended.

That a copy of this report be transferred to Gov. Albert E. Sleeper and that he be requested to submit to this legislature the question of repealing said act.

BEAUTIFUL FURNITURE ON EXHIBITION

Manufactured on North Manitou Island Out of Native Timber

Beautiful center tables and small dressing cabinets, made out of cherry and maple burl, are on exhibit at the curio store of W. C. Bellinger.

The products were made by John Frieland of North Manitou Island, and are well worth your time inspecting them. They are of unique pattern, inlaid effect, parts of the table surface being of cherry burl and to effect a contract, the maple burl as well as natural maple has been used.

When looking at these tables, keep in mind that maple burl is very uncommon the average being one out of ten thousand. The cherry burl is beautifully colored and natural figures representing valleys and mountains are produced. The exhibition is well worth your time to inspect.

MANY PICKNICKERS IN PARK SUNDAY

Outsiders Spend Day on Beach Bathing and Resting

Sunday witnessed the first influx of picknickers and people seeking a cool place to spend the day, when the city park along the bluff overlooking the lake was visited by hundreds, many having traveled a considerable distance from inland towns.

The weather has been hot right here at Charlevoix, and imagine if you can what it has been inland where no cool lake breeze relieves the intense heat for both old and young.

Sunday's crowd is but an advance guard. Each Sunday the number will be increased, and Charlevoix during the present season will be visited by more people than during many seasons past.

The easiest marks never seem to know it.

GREATEST GRAFT IN HISTORY ON

General Rush From all Quarters to Get All that the Traffic Will Stand—No Relief in Sight

The greatest graft in history is now on. It is the graft of high prices, the rush from all quarters to get all that the traffic will stand. From the maker of the $10,000 automobile to the huckster who cries his wares along the streets there is a concerted effort to press the consumer, for all he is worth and for all that he can possibly pay.

There is reason for high prices but there is no reason for the outrageous speed with which they are being advanced. Food was never more plentiful, at least in America, and the prospects for more food have never been better. Yet food prices are soaring to a point where even the best paid workman finds trouble in making both ends meet.

Here is the story of a few dozen of eggs:

A city family were driving through the country one evening in search of a place where butter and eggs might be obtained at a reasonable price. Fresh eggs were selling in the city at from 48 to 50 cents per dozen. At one farmhouse two dozen eggs were purchased at 43 cents per dozen. The city man made the mistake, however, of permitting his 50-horsepower automobile to stand in the road outside of the farm house. At another farm house three dozen eggs were purchased at 38 cents per dozen and at still another dozen eggs were sold at 35 cents per dozen.

At the country store where these farmers usually disposed of their eggs, the retail price was 45 cents per dozen. On that day and the day following eggs were selling in Grand Rapids at 48 cents per dozen, in Flint at 52 cents, in Saginaw 50 cents in Kalamazoo 52 cents and in Detroit from 60 to 65 cents. In Chicago eggs of rare antiquity are selling at retail from 65 to 80 cents per dozen.

We are taking this instance as an example because eggs are a staple food and because the cost of their production can be figured all the way down the line. There is reason why eggs should cost more than they did five years ago because everything going into farm production has increased in price. Farm labor is high and scarce. Feed is higher by 25 percent than it was three years ago. To be sure the hens do not charge more nor have the roosters gone on a strike, but if you will turn to the produce reports of the summer of 1915 you will find that the farmers were selling their eggs at between 28 and 34 cents per dozen. Today the same farmers do not get much above 38 cents, and many do not get that.

MOTHERLY HEN CHANGES INTO ROOSTER

William H. Cates, professor of zoology in the Louisiana state university, sends an account of a hen that seemed to be turning into a rooster. She was a White Wyandotte, hatched on March 24, of good stock. She proved to be an extra good layer. Twice in the season of 1914 and three times in 1915 she went to setting.

In all ways she was a nice ladylike, motherly hen, never guilty of the slightest impertinence. The moult of 1915 came, and the whole character of the hen changed with it. She lost all her feminine characteristics and assumed those of the opposite sex. Her comb and wattles grew to the size of those of average fancy stock roosters; both the hackles and saddle feathers took on the narrow pointed style affected by Wyandotte roosters. She started crowing, and in a short time, developed a full, prolonged crow, which she used regularly every morning for an hour or so before daylight. When given grain she called the other hens with the clatter characteristic of a rooster, summoning his harem to eat with him.

But look you here. The retail price of eggs during the same summer ranged in the cities above mentioned from 40 to 55 cents per dozen. Today the same price runs from 50 to 80 cents per dozen.

Somewhere in the journey of these eggs between the farm and the consumer's breakfast table there is graft. Somewhere somebody is saying: "Everything is so high and costs so much to produce that we simply have to charge these high prices to stay in business." Somewhere along the line there is a tendency to raise the price of eggs because "everything else is going up" and the people are swallowing it along with their high priced hen fruit.

But where is it going to lead? The Commonwealth believes that unless concerted effort is made to put a stop to the graft it will lead to disaster. After all, much of the price inflation which exists today is graft pure and simple. It is a graft that is affecting industry and production. It is a graft that is causing the workman and the manufacturer to be blamed for troublesome times. What's the workman going to do who has to pay 80 cents a dozen for eggs; from 14 to 20 cents per quart for milk; from $8 to $12 for a pair of shoes? And what is the employer going to do who must pay the increases demanded by his men or quit business?

Food prices have soared upward with the increasing cost of the manufactured necessities of life, but out of all proportion to what is charged (Continued on page eight)

GOLF BEGINS AT CHARLEVOIX

LOCAL EQUIPMENT MORE COMPLETE THAN EVER

Wm. Watson of Los Angeles, California, in Charge as Teacher and Instructor—Grounds Fine

The Charlevoix golf club is again drawing to itself the votaries of the great Scotch game. James Gaskins, Sr., the greenskeeper, has brought the course into that usual excellent condition which has come to mark the Charlevoix course as one of the finest in the north country. The number of players is increasing daily now, and the prospects for the season is indeed promising.

Wm. Watson, who enjoys a national reputation in the golf profession as teacher and instructor, with headquarters in Los Angeles, California, is again in general charge, this being his sixth successive season in that capacity. Many of the Charlevoix players have known Mr. Watson for some time as the professional in charge at the Huntington (California) course in the winter season.

Burkley West, who served as clubmaker here during the season of 1914, and who has since then been the professional on the course at Altadena, California, is back as clubmaker and assistant professional. Frank Rickaby begins his seventh season in charge of the caddies.

Altogether the Charlevoix golf course is fully equipped to give the players excellent service in every way. Mr. Watson carries a complete line of standard golf paraphernalia. The students of the game have at their call the very best of instruction at reasonable rates. The management has arranged in every way for the convenience and pleasure of the patrons of the course.

SLOT MACHINES AND PUNCH BOARDS

County Officials Place Ban on All Games of Chance

Penny slot machines, punch boards of all kinds, and all games of chance have been ordered removed from all places in Charlevoix by county officials, by July 1.

No more buying "copper stock" as the boys call it, and playing the penny machines for the cigars. The order is a sweeping one and takes the joy out of everything in the line of taking a chance to win or lose. Everyone will have pennies now. We are in doubt even if we have the right, legally, to slip a copper in the weighing machine or to get a box of matches. But such is the order and without doubt all penny slot machines will be removed and relegated to the storage room by the date named.

ATTEND CENTENARY CELEBRATION

M. E. PASTOR GRANTED LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Celebration to be Held at Columbus, Ohio—Leaves Some Time Next Week

The official board of the Methodist Episcopal church, at its regular monthly meeting last Monday, voted to grant the pastor, Rev. Henry Candler, leave of absence for one Sunday to attend the Centenary Celebration which is now on at Columbus, Ohio.

The railroad administration grants a special fare of one and one third rate for the round trip.

Next to a trip around the world nothing will so fully show the great world wide work of the Methodist Episcopal church as will a visit to this wonderful exhibition.

The celebration is being held in the exposition grounds covering 100 acres of ground which it has cost the city of Columbus millions of dollars to develop.

There is an immense oval, in front of which is an amphitheatre seating 50,000 people, the coliseum with a seating capacity of 8,000, and eight exhibit buildings with a floor space of 200,000 square feet.

The aim of the celebration is to represent actual conditions that exist in all countries of the world. As an illustration, devastated France and Belgium are realistically represented in the European section, under the direction of Dr. E. M. Tipton, who has recently returned from abroad. The reproduction of a ruined French cathedral which seats 500 people will be used for lectures and motion picture views. Through the shell shattered walls are seen the plains of Lombardy and ravaged Belgium. A miniature Ganges river actually flows through the India building. Here are found Hindu temple, Mohammedan mosque and sacred monkey temple, filled with chattering monkeys.

Here, too, the sacred pigeons are fed every day amid much ceremony, and a fakir on his bed of spikes proves the less stoical observers that his soul is above the trivial sufferings of this world. Natives from all over the world have been brought to Columbus to take part in the celebration in order to make it as real as possible. If Rev. Candler goes to Columbus he will start some day next week.

REMAINS BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL

W. H. Morgan Spent Boyhood Days in Charlevoix

The remains of William H. Morgan, who died in Minneapolis, Minnesota, Wednesday, June 19, reached this city on Saturday, June 21, accompanied by Mrs. J. M. Clark, attendant nurse during his final illness, and were buried in Brookside cemetery on the afternoon of the day of arrival.

Deceased was 57 years of age, unmarried, and left Charlevoix about 35 years ago. His father, W. H. Morgan, Sr., during the pioneer days of Charlevoix, conducted a general store in the building now located at the corner of Mason and State streets, just south of the Baptist church. He spent his boyhood days here and attended the public schools.

Short funeral services were conducted at the grave by Rev. H. Candler, pastor of the M. E. church.

HIGH PRICES DURING CIVIL WAR

Some Difference in Cost Today Than Existed in 1867

American fighters come back today with a $60 bonus and increased salary in view. After the Civil war, money was as scarce as jewels and during the war itself conditions were not much better. Ladies of the Confederacy claimed they carried their money to market in hankies and then brought their purchases home in their pocketbook. Washington artillerymen paid $125 (Confederate money) for boots and $450 for coats. A bill of fare from a famous restaurant of those days lists soup at $1.50 a plate, coffee at $3 a cup, fried oysters $5, bread and butter $1.50 and a boiled egg $2. Champagne cost $50 a bottle and rye whiskey $2 a drink.

DRIVERS MUST HAVE LICENSE

NEW LAW BECOMES EFFECTIVE
ON AUGUST 14

Every Person, Man, Woman or Youngster Sixteen Years of Age Covered Under New Law

Applications for operator's license, under the new law which becomes effective August 14, are now in the hands of Chief of Police, W. J. Weikel, Sheriff George Weaver, or any of his deputies, also at the garages of Benj. Brown and Henry Wood.

Every driver of a car of either sex will be required to obtain this license. If you drive a car, whether its own car or owned by someone else, you must have a license. The age requirement, either sex, is sixteen years or over.

In filling out the application you will be required to answer a number of questions, concerning your age, height, color, sex, color of hair, eyes and your weight. If you have ever been pinched for speeding or any other cause, you must so state in your application. If you have any physical defect which might affect your operation of a car, you must answer, and when you have answered all the questions, you must go before a notary public and make sworn affidavit as to the truth of your answers.

After you have complied with the requirements mentioned above, your application will be forwarded to the secretary of state at Lansing, passed upon, and license granted or denied. The law will be strictly enforced in all parts of the state, and drivers of cars are requested to file their applications before the closing days, to avoid the mad rush and the disappointment of not having your license reach you before August 14.

Sections 3 and 8 of the Act read as follows: Section 3. The application for the license herein provided for shall be first presented for approval, if the applicant be a resident of a city to the chief of the police department of such city, or if a resident of a village or township to the sheriff or one of his deputies of the county in which such village or township is located. It shall by (be) the duty of each chief of police or sheriff, or deputy sheriff, as the case may be, to whom such application is presented, to personally examine such applicant, either by an oral examination or by practical demonstration to ascertain such person's ability to properly operate a motor vehicle and such examination shall also include questions touching upon such applicant's knowledge of the motor vehicle laws of the state. If such applicant shall demonstrate to the satisfaction of the examiner that he or she is qualified to operate a motor vehicle, the examiner shall approve such application and such application may then be filed with the Secretary of State, as above provided. No license shall be granted by the Secretary of State without such approval by the local examiner: Provided, however, that any applicant shall have the right to an appeal to the Secretary of State from the decision of any local examiner.

Section 8. The Secretary of State may suspend for not more than one year, any license issued to any person under the provisions of this act if such person shall have been convicted of reckless driving, of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors or drugs, or after causing injury to any person or damage to any property of leaving the scene of the accident without giving his name and address. The Secretary of State may also, after a hearing, order a license of any holder thereof to be delivered to him whenever it is established to his satisfaction that the holder thereof, by reason of physical or mental defects or incapacity, is an improper person to operate a motor vehicle, and such license shall not be delivered to such holder unless, upon petition of such holder and after investigation, the Secretary of State finds that such person is physically and mentally competent to properly operate a motor vehicle: Provided, That the Secretary of State shall suspend no license except after a hearing and, where the licensee is a resident of a city, except upon the written complaint of the chief of police, approved by the mayor of such city, and where the licensee is a resident of a township or village, except upon the written complaint of the sheriff or his chief deputy of the county where such licensee resides approved by the supervisor of the township where such licensee resides, which complaint shall be addressed to the Secretary of State and shall set forth such licensee has been convicted of reckless driving, of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors or drugs, or after causing injury to any person or damage to any property while operating a motor vehicle of leaving the scene of the accident without having given his name, and address to the person who was injured or whose property was damaged: Provided, That reckless driving, as referred to in this act, is defined as the operation of a motor vehicle on the public highways of this state in such a manner as to endanger the life and limb of any person or the safety of any property.

Jake William White and Hazel Irene Cross were united in marriage last Wednesday afternoon. The beautiful ring service of the Methodist Episcopal church was used by Rev. The Epworth League will hold its devotional service in the auditorium of the church at 8:30. This young people's service is already being generously patronized by the attendance of many summer visitors.

The Sunday school hour is from 12 to 1 o'clock. The men's class has been recently organized and expects to increase in membership and interest during the summer months. All men are cordially invited.

The topic for consideration at the Thursday evening prayer and praise service, which convenes at 7:30, is "Our Work for Christ." Scripture: Mark 13:34. Test our welcome to all these services.

SPRINKLING HOURS ARE CUT DOWN

City Up Against a Serious Proposition for Short Time

Charlevoix, right at the present time, is facing a serious water famine on account of the big motor that drives the pump burning out a couple of evenings ago. The motor, which has given trouble before, is out of business entirely, and water is being pumped by steam until the burned out motor can be replaced.

At Monday evening's session of the council the hours for sprinkling lawns and gardens were cut down to two hours in twenty-four. Sprinkling hours until repairs are made will be between six and seven a. m. and seven and eight p. m.

While the inconvenience may seem to some as uncalled for, the situation remains the same, and unless you care to have your water cut off entirely, we strongly advise you to strictly observe the hours as set by the council.

COUNTY SOLONS HARD AT WORK

OPENED ANNUAL JUNE SESSION
MONDAY LAST

Special Committee Report Favorably on Erection of New County Jail and Tubercular Hospital

The June session of the county board of supervisors is now being held at the court house and practically every supervisor answers the daily roll call.

The chief business that came before the board at this session was that of equalization, besides matters pertaining to the solving of the county jail problem and other matters of equal importance.

Among the committee reports already made those of the special county jail committee and the one of the matter of taking care of tubercular patients are of the most importance to our readers, and we publish them verbatim. Following is the report of the committee on county jail:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of the County of Charlevoix:

Your committee to whom was referred the matter of preparing and submitting plans for a jail for this county, respectfully submit that they have investigated the matter and obtained estimates of costs and have had engineer Sloan report to this board a plan of a jail such as is recommended by this committee;

Your committee further recommends that this committee be continued with the addition of two members to consist of the sheriff and Judge of Probate of this county and that said committee be authorized and instructed to procure suitable plans and specifications for a jail for this county as outlined to this board by engineer Sloan, the said jail to cost when completed and equipped, not to exceed $30,000 and that said plans be submitted for approval to the proper state board when so approved that said committee be authorized and instructed to begin the construction of such building either by contract or days labor as it may see fit, but no obligation be incurred in excess of $20,000 without further action by this board of supervisors. Your committee further recommends that this committee be instructed to make a report to this board at its October 1919 session of its doing to date and obtain further instructions for the future.

Respectfully submitted, H. L. Bedford, W. J. Gallagher, E. C. Chew, Committee.

The committee to which was referred the matter of taking care of tubercular patients reported as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors: Your committee to whom was referred the matter of investigating the matter of caring for tubercular indigent patients in this county, beg leave to report that they have made such investigation and advise that a suitable building be erected and provided on the county farm in which such patients can be isolated and cared for as recommended and required by the state board of health.

We believe that a suitable building could be provided at no great expense, and could be heated from the heating plant in the county home, and the inmates could be fed from the county house, and in that way considerable expense for heating and cooking plants can be saved.

We therefore recommend that the Ways and Means committee, or some other suitable committee be directed to procure plans and specifications and estimates of cost of such a building and report to this board at its October session.

Respectfully submitted, E. S. Brintnall, R. C. Leavenworth, Wm. F. Bashaw, Committee.

The work of the board will undoubtedly be completed some time on Thursday.

Pere Marquette Changes Time

The Pere Marquette railroad changed its summer schedule Sunday. The summer daily resort train has started and will arrive in Charlevoix at 6:55 a. m. from the south and leaving again for southern points at 7:10 p. m. The regular local service time has not been changed. It is understood that the suburban service between Charlevoix and Petoskey will go into operation about July 3.

Electrical Currents.

Different methods are in use for keeping the supply of electricity steady in spite of the varying demands made on it. In some systems of distribution, instead of the two main conductors being one "positive" and the other negative, each is positive and negative alternately, the reversals taking place some hundreds of times a second. The current is then said to be alternating. When such reversals do not take place, the currents are said to be direct.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Experts predict a serious shortage of clover seed for the coming year and indications are that prices will be high next spring. Farmers of our county should raise as much seed as possible. Early cutting of the first crop will increase seed production in the second.

Chandler township is setting an example in the way its township board, under the leadership of supervisor Benjamin, is organizing to meet the grasshopper situation. An order for 500 pounds of poison has been placed and plans have already been made to mix and distribute the bait. All the road sides and breeding places in the uncultivated lands as well as the cultivated farms will be taken care of. Work will be begun just as soon as the poison arrives. Slow freight services from Detroit is holding up the work.

Users of commercial fertilizers should take note that the U. S. Department of Agriculture has issued a statement that all fertilizers for fall use should be purchased for at least 30 per cent less than spring prices.

We are more than pleased with the interest shown in the campaign to secure better live stock for Charlevoix county. There are already a number who wish to purchase pure bred cows and heifers, but as there are none for sale in this and neighboring counties, it would seem that we must have enough co-operation to be able to ship them in by the carload from points further away. We find few who do not realize that the day of scrub cattle has passed. With higher priced land, feed, labor and fences, we must have better live stock.

DAIRY FACTS

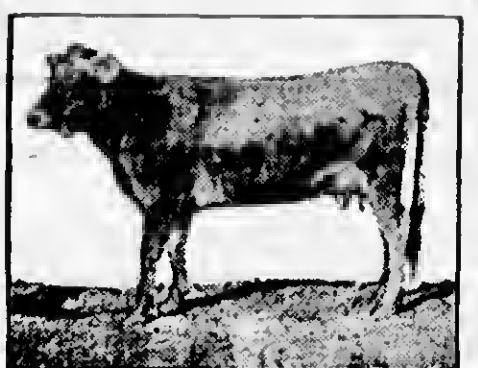

NEW PURE-BRED CALF CLUBS

Distinction of Having Largest Organization in United States Claimed by Wisconsin.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Wisconsin claims the distinction of having the largest boys and girls' calf club in the United States. The Wlancago County Calf club, organized by this county agent, already has 100 members.

It is being backed by the banks, the county superintendent of schools, the county agent, the secretaries of the breeders' associations, the officials of the County Fair association and the state leaders of young people's clubs. Any boy or girl can become a member of the club by owning and caring for a pure-bred or high-grade heifer calf or a pure-bred bull calf. The banks are furnishing credit in any of the juniors who need funds with which to purchase their calves.

The new calf club project is being promoted in conjunction with the purebred sire campaign. The 100 calves now being fed by the boys and girls were secured from Wlancago county breeders.

DEMAND FOR DAIRY PRODUCE

Bureau of Markets Will Furnish Plans for Stimulating Greater Consumption.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The bureau of markets of the department of agriculture announces that it is prepared to furnish local organizations complete plans for campaigns to stimulate the consumption of dairy products in cities. A campaign at Se-dalla, Mo., was conducted in February through the co-operation of the chamber of commerce, the women's division of the council of national defense, the state college of agriculture and other local organizations. Last year campaigns conducted by the department to encourage the use of dairy products were held in Boston, Detroit, Des Moines, Minneapolis and St. Paul. At Des Moines after a week's campaign the demand for milk became greater than dealers were able to meet. At another city a dealer who was marketing about 850 pounds of cottage cheese each week increased his sales to 850 a day, and in other cases much skimmed milk that had been going to waste was converted into cottage cheese and found a ready market.

INDIGESTION CAUSES SCOURS

Calf Affected Has Been Overfed, Been Given Milk That Was Sour, or Pails Were Dirty.

When the calf gets scours it is an indication that something is wrong with the feeding. It has either been overfed, been given milk that is sour or cold, been fed sweet milk one meal and sour the next, or the pails or troughs are dirty. Indigestion is the cause of scours, so in treating the trouble the first thing to do is to correct the conditions that brought on indigestion. Then give a dose of castor oil in milk and follow with the formalin treatment. This consists in giving one tablespoonful of formalin solution, made by adding one-half ounce of formalin to 15½ ounces of water, in each pint of milk fed. Only half the usual amount of milk should be given at a feed for a few days, when the amount can be increased to normal again. There are other remedies but this has been highly recommended.

TEST COW FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Law Makes It Compulsory in District of Columbia—Big Decrease of Disease Noted.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In the District of Columbia it is compulsory to test dairy cattle for tuberculosis. The law was passed in 1909. During the year which followed 1,701 cattle in the District were tested, and 19 per cent were found to have tuberculosis. In 1918, 1,204 cattle were tested and less than 1 per cent was found to have the disease. Since 1914 not more than 2 per cent of the dairy cattle in the District have been found to be diseased. This illustrates what systematic effort will do in the tuberculosis fight.

CLOVER SEED SHORTAGE PREDICTED

European Demand Cuts In—Prices Will be High

A serious shortage of clover seed for the coming year is predicted by Dr. A. J. Pieters, legume specialist of the U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry who has just finished an inspection trip through Michigan. Decreased acreage in this country and the demand for seed in Europe are the reasons given for the threatened shortage.

"Clover seed will be short next year," declares Dr. Pieters, "and it will be important to save all the seed we can. We got a small amount from France and Italy this year, but next year all of the production of these countries will go to Germany and Hungary. I learned of these facts during a recent trip through European countries studying the situation."

As a measure in aiding the production of as much seed as possible in Michigan, the Michigan Agricultural College advises early cutting of the first hay crop of June clover, in order to increase seed production in the second crop. The crop for hay should be cut while in full bloom and before the heads begin to turn. Grazing or clipping back of mown hay before it blooms will also increase the seed of seed.

Indications are that prices for clover seed will be high next spring.

AUTOMOBILE JAMS INTO WINDOW

Finishing Touches Put to Already Broken Glass

It almost seems that the south window of Benj. Brown's garage is followed by a jinx, at least every green driver of a car seems possessed to take a smash at it.

About a month ago it was run into and smashed by a car and Saturday night Ed. Stewart, who in making the turn into the garage, struck foul weather and put the finishing touch to the already badly smashed plate glass. He hit it head on, and had it not been for the steel protector imbedded in concrete at the side of the door entrance, he probably would have went straight through window, wall and all.

GOOD BLOOD ASSISTED DAIRY

Good Dairy Bull, Purchased as Calf for $100, Put at Head of Herd is Good Investment.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A good dairy bull, purchased by a Montana county fair bureau member, cost $100 as a calf; it was put at the head of a herd of ten cows, the average annual production of which was 4,800 pounds of milk and 200 pounds of butterfat. The daughters of the bull have now replaced the old cows in the herd and exceed the production of their dams by an average of 102 pounds butterfat and 1,828 pounds of milk per year. This improvement nets $300 profit each year without taking into account the difference in value of the calves. A cow should "carry on" for at least six years, which would mean $1,800 additional profit from the ten cows, because of the $100 invested in the bull calf. "It was a bully good investment," says the farmer.

ENEMIES OF DAIRY INDUSTRY

They Are the Men Who Cause to Be Manufactured Poor Grade of Butter for Market.

There is a class of men who are more dangerous to the dairy industry than the men who use the substitute, and they are the men who cause to be manufactured a poor grade of butter. There is no substitute for first-class butter, but for butter made from old, stale cream there is not only danger of substitutes, but there is danger of many people not using butter at all.

Saves Family Expenses

The dairy cows under reasonable conditions will save nearly or quite half of the expenses of a small family.

The wish that is merely father to the thought is a poor kind of parent but the wish that is father to the act takes home the bacon.

You are no bigger than the man you consent to quarrel with.

EMMETT TO BOND FOR GOOD ROADS

Board of Supervisors Contemplating Move Along This Line

The board of supervisors of Emmet county are contemplating bonding the county for from $350,000 to $500,000 to be used as the county's share of the cost in building one hundred miles of concrete road.

The committee on roads has the matter under consideration, and action may be taken during the session of the board this week to put the proposition across.

It is estimated by road builders at the meeting that with the state and federal aid such roads could be constructed at a much less cost per mile than under the present plan they have in force.

SHALL AMERICA BE RUSSIANIZED OR PRUSSIANIZED

State socialism grows on what it feeds on. Every expansion of governmental powers, every addition to the public payroll strengthens the influence operating for the perpetuation of bureaucracy. One of the most startlingly significant phases of the progress we have made during the past few years toward a state supreme, like the Prussian government, over the minds and bodies of slave citizens, is the reluctance with which officialism surrenders swollen powers, and the difficulty encountered in shortening the pay roll of the national government.

Despite the fact that Prussia on the one hand, and Russia on the other, have recently furnished to the world horrible examples of the tyranny involved in the erection of a state which, as employer, banker, landlord, transportation and communication trust, dispenser of food and raiment, holds every citizen in its keeping and at its mercy, the assaults upon the American system of individual freedom continue; the effort to make America a slave state goes on.

Every new office created, every new bureau erected, every unnecessary existing bureau or job retained, every expansion of governmental power authorized, every meretricious right of the citizen compelled by legislation, every new grant of power to the executive department, pushes this country further away from the historic landmarks of Americanism toward the slavery of European state socialism. This issue is raised in most of the legislation proposed, in some form, and it is the duty of those who believe in traditional, free America, and do not wish to see substitutes for it the monstrous exaggerated state dominated either by dynasty or class autocracy, must set their faces against every proposal which tends to destroy the fundamentals of American representative government.

Shall the people own and control the government or shall the government own and control the people? Shall this be a government of, by and for the people, or a government of, by and for an official class? Shall the people support the government or the government support the people—that support involving the sacrifice of individual independence and initiative? This is the most fundamental question in American politics today, and nearly every public problem presented involves some phase of it.

Beyond national domination of the individual's economic life international control is now proposed. Sunday pacts formulated in connection with the league of nations contemplated.

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

Don't Stay Gray! Here's an Old-time Recipe that Anybody can Apply.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back in grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty in the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

plate the control of things which heretofore in this country have been considered in the domain of private choice, by organizations with headquarters in Switzerland and dominated by alien influences and interests. Our food, our clothes, our money, our raw materials are to be parceled out to us from Geneva. Whatever individual or group controls the basic elements of economic life can bestride the world like a Colossus. Men of boundless ambition to dominate are constructing political machinery more powerful than Caesar or Alexander or Napoleon ever dreamed of—and we have some idea from the events of recent years, how such power, once obtained, may be used.

THE WAR AND WAGES

The war did more to promote and stabilize wages than all the labor unions and organizations have accomplished in twenty-five years. At least the war furnished the excuse and the government used the situation to bring about conditions as they now exist. It is openly charged the party the Democratic party had in jumping wages in the public utilities, under government control during the war, was political. Investigation does not exactly warrant such a charge, but granting the statement is entirely correct, the Republican party will not attempt, for the same political reasons, to lower the wages advanced to employees of these utilities so it can be claimed with perfect safety that certain classes of labor in this country will never go back to lower wages. The efficient operation of the railroads, express, telegraph and telephone lines was essential to war success and the government was obliged to maintain these utilities regardless of profit or loss. The government was in some measure responsible for the labor market, through its ten per cent plus war contracts, which put all kinds of labor at a premium, but regardless of it all, mistakes as well as proper methods, the government was actually forced to do what it did through circumstances growing out of war exigencies, and in a certain sense beyond its ability to control. Of course the people in one way or another will have to pay for these wage increases, but on the whole the situation is satisfactory because the wage standards granted by the government practically amount to a guarantee that wages of all other trades must be kept up to their present schedule, which is, of course, the highest ever known. This all means that the present high prices of everything we eat and wear must remain somewhere near where they are now in order to complete the circuit—high prices go hand in hand with high wages. Some people claim the worker is better off than he was before the war—this is probably true of single men—but we seriously doubt if wages, outside the automobile centers, have kept pace with the cost of everything the working-man buys. But that is another subject, and a big one.

FIVE GENERATIONS CROWDED INTO FIVE YEARS

In change of conditions the gap that divides 1919 from 1914 is as great as the gap that divides the Twentieth Century from the Eighteenth.

The man who looks to a return of the conditions of 1914 in adjusting business or social relations is as badly out of joint as if he looked to a return of the conditions of 1800.

Think of the things these short five years have witnessed!

Machines loaded with men and cargoes fly through the air for long distances at the rate of a hundred miles an hour. Ships travel under the seas at speeds that rival the fastest sailing vessels of a hundred years ago. Men on the surface of the earth talk through wireless telephones to men flying a mile in air.

Great tonnage of freight is moved by trucks over open roads for greater distances and at higher speeds than were achieved by our early railroads.

Ships that required years for construction are built in a month. Time of production for commodities of all kinds has been cut and cut again. Processes of manufacture have been revolutionized.

America has passed from a debtor nation, owing billions to a creditor nation, loaning billions. Thousands of security holders in America have expanded into millions.

The impossibilities of sixty months ago have become common occurrences.

Financially, commercially, socially, the world has been turned upside down.

We are in a new world. The past and its conditions have gone never to return. We are living in a new era. It's time we realized it.

If you have something to sell—go ahead and sell it. If you need anything—go ahead and buy it. You will not be able to either buy or sell at the price level of five years ago. Stop thinking about it. Do business.

Burleson says that he has received threatening letters, also, but was not frightened. He probably figured it out that cries of bum service wouldn't use bombs.

Butler is quoted at $50 a pound in Moscow. That doesn't mean that butter is worth so much, but that the paper to print rubles with is becoming scarce.

Penny! A coin of infinitesimal value, minted by the government in order that citizens may pay it back to the government as a tax on all luxuries.

The big war is now ending. It only lasted five years. The war in Washington may last longer than that from present indications.

England, it is said, now has 1,500,000 more women than men. The Englishman who talks mushy to a girl over there is taking chances.

There isn't any such thing as a friend. Nobody is a friend until he has seen you at your worst several times and is still "for" you.

Congressmen are preparing measures to punish bomb plotters. Would it not be a good idea to lock the door before the horse is stolen?

There is no pot of gold at the end of the rainbow but if you accumulate a pot of gold you may find a rainbow at the end of life.

Sometimes we are rather impatient with those who complain of taxes. They seem to forget that patriots must live.

Jamaica Ginger is henceforth barred from Maine, by court order. Maybe they don't need any ginger down in Maine.

Personal in New York Herald: "To W. W., Paris. Come back soon for the children are behaving awful. U. S."

The Turks are summoned to Versailles and the Allies will proceed to "talk Turkey" to them.

Bushy eyebrows may serve some wise purpose, but who knows what it is.

Take care of your pennies and your heirs will take care of themselves.

Somebody is knocking whale meat. Says it is "most as good as carp."

URIC ACID IN MEAT CLOGS THE KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder bothers you—Drink more water.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach aches, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus aiding bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink.

COWS INCREASE UNDER TEST

As Result of Work of Testing Association in Ohio Community Material Gains Noted.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The cow-testing association of Hamilton county, Ohio, which is composed of 24 members of the county farm bureau, placed 804 cows on test for four months or more during 1918. Of this number 151 cows were on test for the full year. In 1918 the cows owned by members of this association produced 4,128 pounds of milk and 175.96 pounds of butterfat a head. In 1917 the cows produced 4,721 pounds of milk and 212.9 pounds of butterfat.

Although Apparently Healthy This Animal Is Positive Reactor to the Tuberculin Test.

fat, while in 1918 the average was 6,107 pounds of milk and 250 pounds of butterfat.

The average gain a head in pounds of milk during 1918 over the first year was 1,981, while the average gain a head in butterfat was 83 pounds. The average gain of 1,358 pounds of milk in 1918 over 1917 represents a total gain for the association of 415,204 pounds. Figuring this at $2.975 a hundredweight, the average price for the year, gives an added value of $12,334.14 to the association.

The returns show there were no exceptionally high producers, but the average production of the entire association shows a very material increase.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS

Increase in Butterfat Production Largely Attributed to Work of Organizations.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The estimated average butterfat production of all the dairy cows in the United States is about 100 pounds a year. From 80 yearly summaries of cow-testing associations, including the records of 26,710 cows, their butterfat production averaged 245 pounds a year. This is more than 50 per cent above the country's average production, and a large part of the gain may fairly be attributed to association work.

From every point of view, therefore, the cow-testing associations seem to be successful. Measured by the strict rules of the investigator they have made good; tried out in the field of practical experience they have proved true; weighed in the balance of public opinion they have not been found wanting.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache, or if your meals sour and turn into acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

To-morrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour oil, toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backache, biliousness, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quart or pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning insides-bath. It is said that men and women who try this become enthusiastic and keep it up daily. It is a splendid health measure for it is more important to keep clean and pure on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing disease, while the bowel pores do.

The principle of bathing inside is not new, as millions of people practice it. Just as hot water soap cleanses, purify and freshen skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

by the producer. That puts the burden squarely upon the shoulders of industry and puts profit into the pockets of the middle-men. It creates false values and imposes an additional burden upon the ultimate consumer. While the consumer is at the mercy of the producer, industry, commerce and trade is in turn dependent upon the consumer's effort and toil. You cannot cheat one without cheating the other.

In a number of cities throughout the country farseeing employers have begun to curtail the food graft. They have established community stores which are selling staple foods at a price so far below the market figures that comparisons are odious. Instead of trading through regular channels, they have sent representatives into the country for produce and are selling that produce at a discount from 20 to 40 per cent off the market price.

The fact that this can be done in a few instances shows that the practice can be made general. Sooner or later there will come a smash of some kind. Prices cannot continue to rise with the abandon of the past because industry cannot support a false valuation. There is a limit to what it can pay, the same as there should be a limit to the cost of living.

Wages must necessarily follow the cost of living. There was a time when employers did not reckon that way, but that time is gone. Prices cannot be arbitrarily regulated by law. They must be regulated by conditions and competition. Industry must intercede for the return of lower prices. Paying the high wage is not enough.

Not long ago the Commonwealth analyzed the cost of an ordinary scrub brush. It was found that where the manufacturer had raised the price of the brush one and one-half cents, it was increased at the stores from four to seven cents, depending upon the nerve of the merchant to ask what he thought people would pay.

Price is established according to value. The value of an article is figured according to the cost of its production. When the price is inflated it establishes a false value, which the consumer, in the end, must pay.

The worker has learned to strike for what he wants. But the strike alone will not restore this or any other country to normal times while more money is being charged for the necessities of life than they are worth. There must be a strike against high prices, against inflation of values. In that strike the manufacturer and his workers can go hand in hand by forcing the regular channels of trade to cut out the graft and abide by a fair profit.—The Commonwealth.

Jutland's Wealth In Peat

The utilization of the largest peat areas in the north part of Jutland is receiving much attention. The area is said to be as much as 28,000 acres, which might be completely drained by gravitation, and the total contents would be equivalent to 23,000,000 tons of coal.

World Owes Much to Jenner.

May 17 is the anniversary of the birth, in 1749, of Edward Jenner, the doctor who rid the world of the scourge of smallpox by vaccination. The first public vaccination occurred in 1796. Jenner received large money grants from various cities as reward for his great discovery.

ON THE ROAD JUST 27 DAYS

HENRY BROWN WRITES OF TRIP TO CALIFORNIA

Passed Through Miles of Beautiful Country—Big Wheat Crop in Kansas

Henry Brown of Essex, who with his brother-in-law, Wm. Adema left by automobile for Long Beach, Calif., where he will make his future home, arrived at his destination on June 4th and writes G. C. Townsend a very interesting account of his trip. Mr. Brown and Mr. Adema are well known here and Mr. Townsend knowing that many people will be interested submits the letter for publication.

Long Beach, Calif., June 12, 1919.

Mr. Glen C. Townsend, Ellsworth, Mich.

"Dear Friend: I thought I would drop you a few lines. We arrived in Long Beach on the 4th inst., just 27 days from the time we left Central Lake. We averaged about 135 miles per day. The best run was the first day and then in Kansas where we averaged about 200 miles and the smallest was in Colorado and New Mexico. We struck some very bad roads from Trinidad, Colo., to Raton, N. M., and from Las Vegas, N. M., to Santa Fe, and again from Holbrook, Ariz., to Flagstaff. The above mentioned road was nearly clear rock and very rough.

The crops and stock looked fine in Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas. The wheat certainly looked good in Kansas. The farmers in the big wheat belt of western Kansas were estimating it at 30 to 40 bushels per acre, providing no drought should come. The farmers were very late with their corn. In fact, very little was planted in Iowa, Nebraska or Kansas. They were also busy cutting alfalfa and haling the same in Kansas. It looked good. But from Garden City, Kansas to the coast very little good farming and a good deal of the country is worthless even for grazing, only fit for rattlers and gophers.

"But the poorest of it all is from Kingman, Arizona to San Bernardino, Cal., nothing but sand. The heat was something awful. I never want to cross the desert again. The weather here is nice and cool, cloudy every morning until about nine o'clock.

"Long Beach is booming. One of the biggest building booms in its history. It has two shipyards, has six or eight tuna canneries, five banks and 10 or 12 good hotels, one the Virginia, a 1,500,000 hotelery. "House rent is very high, four and five room cottages furnished from $25 to $40 per month. But groceries and dry goods are fully as cheap as back home.

"Called on Mr. and Mrs. A. A. White last Saturday evening found them both well and enjoying the fine, cool weather of California. U. J. Akley, a former business man of Central Lake is married again. Henry Knagy, son of Dr. Knagy, is living here and works at the shipyards. "I must close and will try and do better next time."

MAYOR APPOINTS WEED COMMISSIONER

Noxious Weeds About City to be Taken Care of.

The council Monday night confirmed the appointment made by Mayor Rose for weed commissioner, and during the balance of the year Fire Chief H. D. Marshall will see that all obnoxious weeds and brush on the streets and alleys of Charlevoix are destroyed.

In some sections of the city, large beds of Canada thistles, milk weed and rag weed have been allowed to grow, the owners of the property apparently paying no attention to them nor realizing their effect or appearance.

Charlevoix has a reputation as a hay fever resort. A hay fever sufferer had rather meet a rattlesnake than run into a bunch of rag weed or golden rod, and if the owners of property covered with weeds of this kind are lacking in civic pride or do not care, it is high time the city officials take the matter into their own hands.

Cut your weeds. If you do not, the weed commissioner will, and the cost will be charged up against your property.

George Pappin arrived home last week from the Soo, where he had been in a hospital for a short time with a badly injured hand.

On June 10, while employed as engineer on the barge Stevenson, his left hand was caught in the machinery while oiling, severely crushing and cutting the hand in a manner that it was necessary for the surgeon to take seven stitches.

The barge ran into port at Detroit and Mr. Pappin went from there to a hospital at the Soo.

The hand is healing nicely and on Monday of this week he commenced work on the tug Parmalee.

FARMERS WIN DAYLIGHT REPEAL

Daylight Saving Plan to Cease on October 26

Doom of the daylight saving, in operation as a war measure, was pronounced last Wednesday by congress, both senate and house adopting by overwhelming vote measures to terminate operation of the law October 26.

The house, after three hours debate 233 to 132 passed a bill to repeal the law but rejected an amendment to make the repeal effective now.

The senate, 56 to 6, after brief discussion, added a rider to the agricultural bill providing for repeal of the daylight measure.

The senate measure goes to conference with the agricultural bill and the house bill is to be sent to the senate. Action of congress, therefore, means continuation of the present time this summer and early fall with return to sun time October 26.

Members of both houses in advocating repeal said they were guided largely by wishes of farmers and laboring men who opposed the advance working hours.

Opponents of repeal declared the extra hour of daylight was a boon to city dwellers and asserted others easily could adjust their affairs.

More than two score house members participated in the debate. Senate discussion was confined to addresses by Senators LaFollette and Calder.

Dance every Wednesday and Saturday nights at the Lakeside Pavilion. 2612

Three Weeks Dry Spell Ended by Drenching Rain

It is difficult to estimate the value of the rain storm on Tuesday afternoon and evening to crops, fruits and vegetation of all kinds. After a continual drought for a three week period the ground was about dried out and crops of all kinds suffering for rain. Even with the shower Tuesday, grain crops and hay have been damaged to a considerable extent.

Small fruits such as strawberries, were hard hit and the crop shortened, thereby increasing the already high price asked for this delicious fruit.

Hay has been damaged somewhat, as well as all crops, but with a little more rain, indications for bumper crops were never better.

CHILD'S BODY FOUND IN CAR OF COAL

Found by Employees of Michigan Tanning & Extract Co.

The badly decomposed body of a child, presumably but a few hours old, was found by employees of the Michigan Tanning & Extract Co. of Boyne City last Friday morning.

The car had stood on the siding near the plant for several days and was probably weeks in transit and the little body, which was found wrapped in paper and an old cloth, was in bad condition and was buried at once.

The shipping point from which the car came is being looked into and possibly a legal investigation will be instituted by prosecuting attorney Rueggesser.

SENATE PASSES 27 MORE LAWS

SLEEPER SENDS IN FORTY-TWO MESSAGES

Six Bills Pertain to the Good Roads Movement—One Amendment Is Provided

Gov. Sleepers forty-two messages to the legislature during the special session, ended June 20, resulted in passage of one joint resolution promising an amendment to the Constitution and twenty-seven acts, of which six are returned to the good roads amendment which caused the legislature to be convened.

Thirty-nine bills, just short of one for each message, were introduced. Of these twenty-four were introduced in the house and fifteen from the senate. Only fifteen of the house bills passed, while twelve introduced in the senate are scheduled to become law. None of the measures has yet been signed by the governor, but he has given no indication that he intends to veto any.

The Baker bill goes to the governor with no provision for the three-man highway commission he desired to appoint, but adding to the authority of the highway commissioners, whose office he sought to abolish. Under it the commissioner may select two deputies at salaries to be fixed by himself and appoint an advisory board of five members who are to receive $10 a day and necessary expenses.

Senator Baker's amendment remains in the Connolly bill. It provides a tax of one-fifth mill in 1920 to meet interest on road bonds and to build roads, and a tax of one-half mill in 1921, and every year thereafter. A board of state officers is created to have charge of the sale of bonds at the rate of not more than $5,000,000 a year, the bonds to bear interest at not more than 5 per cent, and to mature in from five to thirty years.

The Aldrich bill amending the present Aldrich act was passed after it had been amended so counties will be required to pay only from 5 to 25 per cent. of the cost of trunk line highways built under the act within their borders. The proportions any county is to pay depends on its wealth and the number of trunk line miles within its borders.

Senator Baker succeeded in bringing back to life his bill appropriating $20,000 to pay bounties authorized during the Civil war for volunteers to the United States army. All cases of bounties authorized during that war that were not paid are to be investigated by the board of state auditors. Descendants are eliminated from the bill, but the former soldiers or their widows may collect the amount of the bounty plus 5 per cent interest.

The Brennan-White resolution, submitting a constitutional amendment to permit cities to take by condemnation more property than is immediately needed for public improvements, was passed and the proposed amendment will be submitted at the November election in 1920. The Scully bill, prohibiting insurance companies from collecting any surcharge above the usual rates for the risk involved, was passed after an effort had been made to leave the matter in the hands of the insurance commissioner.

The Lewis amendment to the Wiley prohibition act was passed. It lowers the minimum penalty for a first violation of the prohibition law from six months in prison to thirty days in the county jail.

Other bills passed include: Person bill, appropriating $950,000 for construction of the new state office building in Lansing. This is

CHILDREN'S DAY AT M. E. CHURCH

CROWDED CHURCH ENJOYS THE PROGRAM

Performance of Children Reflects Credit on Teachers and Instructors—Given Diplomas

Children's Day at the First Methodist Episcopal church, last Sunday, was a very happy day. At the morning service the pastor, Rev. Henry Candler, preached a special sermon on "Habits" to the children and administered the sacrament of Holy Baptism to more than twenty infants and children.

The evening service was attended by a congregation that filled every seat in auditorium, gallery and Sunday school rooms. The service consisted of exercises by the children of the Sunday school and reflected much credit on the teachers of whom Mrs. W. B. Marshall is superintendent.

The program consisted of songs, drills, solos, duets, recitations and a chorus number by the recently organized Queen Esther society.

Mrs. Oluf Nordrum, superintendent of the Cradle roll, presented a number of children for promotion from the cradle roll to the primary department. Mrs. W. B. Marshall presented a large class of boys and girls for promotion from the primary department to the intermediate department. These graduates were given diplomas.

A special offering was taken to be used by the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church in assisting worthy young people secure an education.

MARRIED THREE COUPLES IN ONE DAY

These young people are residents of Boyne City where they intend to make their future home.

PALACE THEATRE OPENS JULY 10

WITH AFTERNOON AND EVENING ENTERTAINMENT

Special Features Booked for Opening Attractions—New Playhouse a Model Structure

Charlevoix's new theatre and moving picture house will open on Thursday, July 10, with both afternoon matinee and evening program.

During the summer season the house will be open both afternoon and evening with a complete change of program each day, including the Sunday evening show, which will be the very best obtainable along religious and educational lines.

While this modern playhouse is as yet not completed, nor will be on the opening day, what work remains to be done will be finished during the hours when not open to the public. Interior decorations, features that will add to the comfort of those who attend, will be added as fast as the management can obtain them, and when completed, will stand second to none in this section of the state.

Manager Moon compliments himself on being able to obtain the services of Mrs. Rita Amick of Kansas City, professional picture player and orchestra leader, who will delight the "movie fans" with both classical and popular music.

For the opening numbers the management has secured William S. Hart's masterpiece, "Border Wreath," a thrilling, gripping play that will hold the closest attention of those fortunate enough to be present. In addition to this "Fatty Arbuckle" will appear on the screen in one of his side-splitting comedies.

The program for the balance of the week is high grade and as good as can be obtained and without a doubt the new playhouse will be filled to capacity during the entire week.

One of the features of the new theatre which will be appreciated by its patrons are the rest rooms for both sexes, located at the right and left of the main entrance. Another feature worthy of mention is the ventilating system installed, which completely changes the air in the building every twenty minutes, also the comfortable upholstered chairs and modern fixtures throughout. A full announcement of the opening day and program appears on page ten of this issue.

MARION DIST. NO. 5 A STANDARD SCHOOL

Work of Constructing New Building About to Start

Work will start within fifteen days on one of the most modern school buildings in the country. The new edifice will be erected on the former site of what was known as the Johnson school, and the name will be changed to Marion Dist. No. 5 or Standard school No. 10.

It will be built of stone, one story and basement, and contain two school rooms, a domestic science room, manual training room and an auditorium capable of seating 100 people. The proposition to build was closed at a meeting held in the district Tuesday evening without a dissenting vote.

It is estimated the new structure will cost in the neighborhood of $6,800. However, through courtesy and kindness of A. H. Loeb, owner of the Loeb Farms, the school district will bond for the amount of $4,000 only. Mr. Loeb contributing the sum of money above this amount needed for the construction of the building. Also in connection with this magnificent gift, he will also install a complete electric lighting system, besides additional features that will add to the comfort and completeness of the building.

It is planned to make this building a community center where meetings will be held and questions of value and importance to residents of the districts will be discussed. The regular meeting of the agricultural class of the Loeb Farms will also be held there. Work is to be started within 15 days, the building to be completed for the opening of school, September 15.

OLD SETTLERS MEET BEST EVER

PIONEERS ASSEMBLE FROM MANY COUNTIES

Northport Selected for 1920 Meeting Place—Officers Elected—Good Program Enjoyed

Grand Traverse Region's Old Settlers' Association will assemble for its annual get-together session in 1920 at Northport. Such was the decision reached at the meeting held in Traverse City last week. Several other towns put in bids for the meeting, but Northport was the choice, as the association had not assembled there for twelve years.

Dr. R. E. Flood of Northport will head the organization the coming year, as president. W. H. Anderson of Kewadin was selected vice president at large. Mrs. William Love retains her post as secretary. W. S. Anderson remains treasurer and Mrs. E. S. Pratt, historian. Vice presidents for the counties included in the association are: Grand Traverse, E. O. Ladd; Antrim, O. J. Powers; Elk Rapids; Leelanau, Robert Ahgosa; Kalkaska, Dr. Babcock; Charlevoix, Capt. S. M. Rose; Emmet, Mrs. Edith Fasqualle, Patoskey; Benzie, E. T. Huntington, Benzon. Among important matters taken up at this year's session was that of erecting a memorial to E. S. Wait. It was revealed that already the Brotherhood of the Congregational church has the project well started. However, the proffered aid of the Old Settlers' Association and the Woman's Club is greatly appreciated and will be utilized. It is planned to erect a memorial monument near Bowers Harbor, at the spot where Mr. Wait taught the first school in the region.

Preliminary plans were also made for forming individual branch county organizations of the association, so that greatest benefit may be gained from Michigan legislation which stipulates that county boards of supervisors shall make annual appropriations for preserving the traditions of the respective localities which they represent. The matter is to be taken under advisement, and it is probable that a definite report will be available in the near future.

Hon. Archie Butters of this city, one of the charter members of the association and a pioneer resident of this region, attended the meeting, representing Charlevoix.

DEATH FOLLOWS ILLNESS OF TWO YEARS

R. H. Williams Resident of County Nearly 30 Years

R. H. Williams, resident of Charlevoix for nearly thirty years, passed away, Monday, June 30, at 12:09 noon, following an illness of two years.

Mr. Williams was born December 22, 1868, in Montcalm county. He moved to Charlevoix when about twenty years of age. For a number of years he conducted a livery stable on Mason street, where Frank Welch's riding school is now located. February 12, 1900 he was united in marriage to Mary Allard of this city, and to this union two children, a son and daughter were born.

Two years ago Mr. Williams was stricken with locomotor ataxia and from that time has gradually failed. The past year he was able to get about in a wheel chair, and last summer was frequently seen upon the streets. Four weeks ago he was confined to his bed, medical care and the care of a loving wife and children, proving of no avail, death claimed him at noon Monday.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 10:00 a. m. from the Church of God, of which he was a member. Rev. Pontius officiating.

Pleasant Birthday Party

Mrs. A. M. Paulson was pleasantly surprised Thursday when twenty-eight of her friends gathered at her home on Upright avenue to remind her of her forty-sixth birthday. The afternoon was spent in visiting. A bountiful pot luck supper including a birthday cake with forty-six candles was served at six o'clock at which time the ladies presented the hostess with a casserole in remembrance of the day.

SPRINKLING RULES TO BE ENFORCED

Water Users Must Abide by Rules of Council

Flagrant violations of the use of the city water outside of the hours set aside by the council for sprinkling have been reported and unless discontinued at once, the water will be cut off in every instance and a fine of $1.00 imposed upon first offense, and upon second offense a more severe penalty will be decided upon.

It must be remembered that on account of the burning out of the big motor that drives the city's largest pump, it is impossible with the crippled equipment to pump enough water to allow the users to water their lawns more than between the hours of 6:00 and 7:00 a. m. and 7:00 and 8:00 p. m. Every possible effort is being made on the part of the city officials to remedy the situation. The co-operation of the citizens is asked, and if not freely given, other measures must and will be taken to protect the city in case of serious fire occurring when the water pressure is below normal.

Citizens and resorters alike must abide by the ruling, for their own protection as well as those who do not use the water for sprinkling purposes.

RUM VIOLATOR MUST BEWARE

WAY OF TRANSGRESSOR TO BE HARD AFTER JULY 1

Uncle Samuel Prepares for Rigid Enforcement of Dry Laws—Federal Court Aid

Hard will be the way of the liquor law transgressor with national prohibition which went into effect Tuesday, July 1.

Beginning Tuesday, the person who sells a drink of liquor although the beverage never has been outside the state of Michigan and was here before the state went dry last year, will be liable to prosecution in the United States courts, as well as in the Michigan courts where his case now would be sent.

"This means," said Louis W. McClellan, assistant United States district attorney, "that there will be less liquor violations than at present, for the people have learned that the United States will surely prosecute. There will be no dallying."

"The law is there to be enforced, and this will be done, whether a wholesale or retail sale, from a shipload to a single drink."

"This does not mean that cases will be taken away from the state courts entirely. They will have the same jurisdiction as before, but the United States court will have concurrent jurisdiction, and violators will know that the officers of the law have it in their power to send a case to either court if they wish to do so."

"I rather think most of the cases not coming under an interstate classification will still be sent to the state courts, but the fact that the federal courts might step in at any moment will be deterrent both to violations themselves and to kid glove treatment of the offenders when they get into the police and recorder's courts."

LEFT MONDAY FOR COLUMBUS

M. E. Pastor Takes Well Earned Vacation Trip

Rev. Henry Candler started for Columbus, Ohio, last Monday evening to attend the great Methodist Centenary Exposition which closes July 13th. Rev. Candler expects to return home the latter part of next week.

Arrangements have been made to have Rev. Louis Grosenbaugh, D. D. of Petoskey, to fill Mr. Candler's pulpit for next Sunday.

Fountain City House Opens

Mrs. Harrison Bedford arrived in the city Tuesday from Grand Rapids and on Wednesday opened the Fountain City house for the summer's business. The opening of this well known hotel will greatly relieve the congestion caused by the number of demands for rooms, which are far more numerous this season than in several years.

THE INN READY FOR BIG SEASON

PLACE WAS NEVER MORE ATTRACTIVE THAN NOW

Charlevoix Summer Hotels Report Heavy Reservations and Private Homes Are All Taken

Indications for a banner year among Charlevoix summer hotels and private residences for rent were never brighter than at the present time. Hotels that have opened or are about to open report heavy reservations covering the entire season, and private homes for rent are almost at a premium.

The Inn, under the management of A. I. Creamer, opened Tuesday morning with a number of guests and every train and boat is bringing hundreds to Charlevoix with the result that before the middle of the month all hostilities will be filled to capacity. "Charlevoix the Beautiful" extends the hand of welcome to the throngs who spend the summer months here, and the city itself has never presented a cleaner and more hospitable aspect than at the present time.

The secret of the tourist proposition is hospitality. Charlevoix has every advantage to make it the ideal tourist town known all over the country. It has beauty, climate and accommodations unexcelled, and some of the best people in the world live in Charlevoix county. However, the fact remains, that unless our people make themselves acquainted with our summer visitors, the latter will not fully appreciate the beauty or charm of our beautiful city. Make the tourists feel at home. Tell the newcomers that Charlevoix is a good place to live in, to invest in and a fine place for a permanent resident. The way to get people interested in a place or anything at all is to show that you are also interested. The citizen who is indifferent and disposed to belittle his surroundings, quickly brings a visitor to the same state of mind and the good things are overlooked in considering the disadvantages. Hospitality makes the visitor to cottage or hotel equally comfortable. Tourists treated as friends frequently prove to be most worthy, and very seldom overstep the bounds when given a greeting.

In the old world and in many sections of the new, resorts not only proclaim a welcome to visitors, but go to a considerable expense to entertain them. Charlevoix has mainly relied upon her climate and natural attractions in the past, but is slowly realizing that pleasure grounds, parks, rest places, beautiful drives and good roads bring handsome returns in increased interest and patronage.

Praise your town, improve it, be public spirited, remember it is YOUR home, and extend the hand of welcome to those who come here to spend the summer.

SOCIAL MEETING EPWORTH LEAGUE

Forty Present at First Event Held This Season

The Epworth League of the Methodist church held its first social gathering Monday evening with about forty present. Various games were indulged in and dainty refreshments served. The league members are always glad to welcome the summer visitors and all those who are not attending services elsewhere are extended a welcome hand both to the services and social gatherings. These social gatherings will be held every other Monday evening at 8:30 p. m., the next meeting on July 14th. There will also be a short program prepared for each evening. Topic for this coming Sunday service: "Our Relation to Others Toward Enemies." Leader, Miss Grace Meggison.

Banks and Banking.

The national banking law was passed in the United States February 20, 1863. The first bank authorized to do business was the First National bank of Philadelphia, but the oldest one was the Bank of North America, which was chartered by the state of Pennsylvania in 1782, and became a national bank December 3, 1864. In view of its long history and pioneer services to the government, it was permitted to organize as a national bank under its old name of "Bank of North America," without the usual prefix of "national."

To Preserve Clothing.

Men's and women's clothing is often discarded before it is worn out because of the objectionable "shine" which appears on material after a short time. This condition can be remedied by spraying the shiny places on the garment with pure vinegar boiling hot. Rub the vinegar into the material plentifully and vigorously. Then press with pressing iron as usual. This process should be repeated whenever the shine reappears.—Thrill Magazine.

Key a Prolific Writer.
Francis Scott Key, the author of "The Star-Spangled Banner," wrote quite a number of poems, which were collected and published in book form in 1857. He was the author of several sacred hymns, including the national Thanksgiving hymn, beginning "Before the Lord we bow." This was written for the Fourth of July, 1832. He also wrote the hymn beginning, "Lord, with glowing heart I'll praise thee," and "When troubles, wave on wave, assailed," and others. He died in 1843, while United States district attorney at Washington.

Algerian Women Did Well.

In no countries have the harem which have hedged women in been broken down to a larger extent by the war than in Mohammedan countries. The women in Algeria took charge of the estates of their husbands, who had gone to fight, or who, in many cases had gone to France to work in munitions plants and factories for higher wages than those they could command at home. The women seem to have used their new independence well. They subscribed heavily to the government loans.

Coffee to Relieve Hernia.
An ancient remedy for strangulated hernia is black coffee. There seems no scientific explanation for it, but the Medical Record quotes records of three cases relieved after the administration of a cup of black coffee, with very little sugar, every quarter of an hour. In one case the hernia reduced spontaneously after two cups, another case needed four and the third needed six cups.

Adjustment That Squares with Goodrich Performance

In practical usage on road and pavement, Goodrich Tires are to-day consistently delivering remarkable mileage, showing a strength and endurance which proves them the best tires the rubber industry has developed.

Knowing by actual performance what splendid service Goodrich Tires are giving, the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company has taken a step frankly intended to induce every motorist to share the more mileage of its tires.

It has established this new adjustment mileage worthy of the proven durability of its tires—

6,000 miles for Safety Treads—8,000 miles for Silvertown Cords, instead of the old adjustment of 3,500 for Safety Treads, and 5,000 for Silvertowns. The new adjustment holds good for all Goodrich Tires, including tires already purchased in the hands of user or dealer.

Go to a Goodrich dealer, and buy Goodrich Tires, sure that they will fulfill their mileage.

FOUNDATION FOR DAIRY HERD

Excellent Results Obtained in Starting With Grade Calves From Good Producers.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Young calves from good dairy cows are a satisfactory foundation for starting a dairy herd. Ordinarily the method advocated is to grade up common cows with a pure-bred bull, requiring a number of years of patient selection and breeding—a period sometimes discouraging to an energetic dairyman. Frequently this causes farmers, who want results too quickly, to change breeds.

It is expensive to buy mature dairy cows that are free from disease, that have good breeding and show desirable productive utility. Often, especially in new dairy sections, a farmer buys mature stock without being properly prepared to care for it, and many discouragements follow. To a great extent most of this difficulty can be avoided by buying good grade heifer calves from herds of well-established milk production. In some dairy regions it is a common practice to sell the heifer calves for veal. Those calves, while only grades, are usually from good producing ancestors and carry a productive ability much greater than common cows.

The buying of such calves to start dairy herds has been tried in several states with excellent results. Of course the cost of small calves is much less than mature animals and the danger of disease is also greatly lessened. In general, shipping is simpler. Calves may be shipped by express at from two to four weeks old, depending upon the distance, with good results. If they are properly cared for upon arrival.

In buying it is important to deal only with dairymen. Do not buy from men who purchase calves at stock yards to ship back to the farmers, because it is not always possible to determine the breeding of the calves, and calves that are physically unfit may be shipped.

In some cases shipments are made C. O. D., which enables the buyer to see the calves before paying for them. A man who sells calves in this way makes a special effort to please his customers. It seems desirable, especially in sparsely settled sections, that more attention be given to perfecting a satisfactory system of distributing dairy calves to farmers.

Plan to Meet Increasing Demand for Milk by Raising Better Dairy Heifers.

Advantages in buying small calves as a foundation for a dairy herd are summarized as follows:

- Small investment.
- Better breeding.
- Greater freedom from disease.
- In case of accident loss is smaller.
- Raising calves stimulates interest and in consequence causes better care of live stock.
- A satisfactory herd can be established more rapidly than by grading up common cows.

SEND HOLSTEINS TO FRANCE

Herds of Pure Breds and Grade Run-chased by French Commission to Be Sent Over.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

American dairy cattle are to follow American soldiers to France. One hundred and four Holstein-Friesian cows—42 pure bred and 62 grades—and four pure-bred bulls are to leave this country shortly on a specially equipped transport. "Passports" have been issued to Havre, France, and from there the cattle will be sent to devastated districts where they will do their bit in bringing back health and happiness to the children of those regions. The cattle were purchased by the French high commission, and at the commission's request dairy specialists of the United States department of agriculture assisted in selecting the animals.

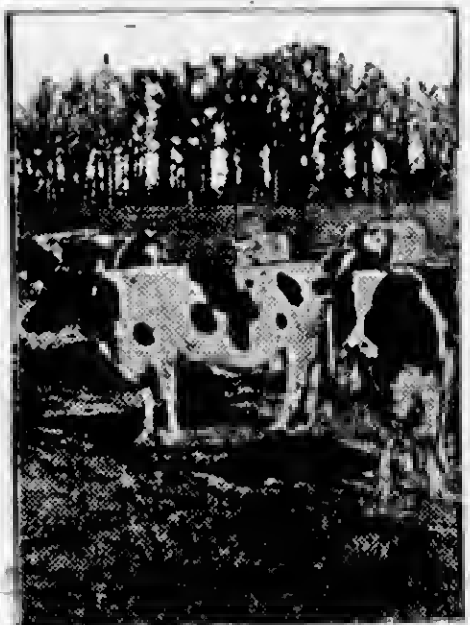

Efforts were made to collect the animals from herds believed to be free from contagious disease, especially tuberculosis.

Of the entire number of cattle selected from 42 herds a very low percentage reacted to the tuberculin test.

Special efforts were made to select only well-grown, large, strong animals, of good conformation, which showed evidences of becoming large milk producers. In age they varied from two to four and one-half years, so that a long period of usefulness lay ahead. All were due to freshen soon after arrival in France, so that milk will be available at once.

The animals were shipped from the assembling points by express to New York, where they are to be loaded on a specially equipped transport. To insure proper care throughout the ocean voyage, a dairy expert of the United States department of agriculture will accompany the shipment.

Members of the French high commission expressed themselves as being well pleased with the cattle selected. It is understood that these dairy cows are to help satisfy the urgent demand for milk from the war-stricken areas.

SUMMER FORAGES FOR COWS

Plan Recommended by Missouri College Expert Calls for Seeding of Sudan Grass.

A good general plan recommended by Prof. Sweet, of Missouri Agricultural college, for providing late pasture for cows is to plant Sudan grass about June 1, at the rate of sixteen pounds to the acre. This should yield ten to fifteen tons to the acre and should be ready for feeding from about July 15 to August 1. An early maturing variety of soy beans planted at the rate of thirty pounds to the acre May 30 will be available for feeding from about August 1 to 20. A good northern variety of corn planted about the middle of May at the rate of six quarts to the acre will become available about August 10 and can be fed whenever needed. The second crop of Sudan grass will be ready to cut about August 25 to September 1. Cow peas planted at the rate of five pecks per acre about July 1 may be fed from about August 25 to September 10. After this time field corn may be used at any time. Sorghum crops give good results during the late summer.

BETTER BREEDING WILL AID

Furnishes Most Economical Way to Obtain Large-Production Cows—Use Best Heifers.

In dairying, large production and profit go hand in hand. Breeding furnishes the most economical way to obtain large-production cows. The pure-bred bull, with generations of high-producing ancestors back of him, must be used for breeding, and only the best heifers from the best cows should be chosen to be the dams of the next generation.

Cow for Tropical Countries. The black Holstein cow is being urged for dairying in tropical countries.

Salt Is Important. Do you salt the cows regularly? This is just as important as regular milking.

New York's Afflictions. Most of New York's serious epidemics occurred in the first half of the last century. The city was swept by yellow fever in 1795, 1799, 1805, 1813 and 1822; by cholera in 1832, 1834 and 1855.

Washing Enamel.

All dirty marks on white enamel should be rubbed with a piece of flannel moistened with methylated spirit. Then wash the enamel with warm soapy water, dry and rub with a flannel sprinkled with whiting. Polishing with a dry duster completes the process. White enamel furniture treated in this way from time to time retains its brightness for a long period.

RELIEVED HIS MIND

Summer Shaw Tells of His Defeat of Insomnia.

Possibly There Are Others Who Would Sleep More Peacefully if They Squared Up With Conscience, as He Did.

The schoolmaster, who with others was whittling away an hour in Squire Marr's office, complained that he had not been sleeping well lately. He dignified his trouble by calling it insomnia. As might have been expected, the squire had a specific.

"The thing to do," he said, "is to make your mind as near a blank as possible. When I find that my mind is disposed to work overtime, I resort to the old nursery jingle: 'The House That Jack Built.' I repeat it rather slowly from beginning to end, and go over it again and again. To me the rhythm is very soothing, and the pictures that the words call up are constantly changing, just as in dreams. Presently I begin to get a little tangled up, so that perhaps it will be the priest all shaven and shorn that milks the cow with the crumpled horn. It is not long after that before I drop into real slumber that lasts until I am awakened, may be, by the cock that crows in the morn."

"Did you ever try reckoning interest as a means of inducing sleep?" asked Summer Shaw, the carriage maker.

"As a rule, I'm not much subject to insomnia," he went on. "But I got an inkling of what it is like when I was staying overnight at my nephew's in the city, four years ago, or so. They make long evenings, and it must have been close on to ten before I got off to bed."

"Remember that you don't have to get up at some unseemly hour, Uncle Summer," says Susie. "We don't have breakfast until eight."

"Well, I dropped right off to sleep, same as usual; but when I woke up and turned on the electric light at the head of the bed, I found it was only three o'clock."

"Now, then," says I to myself, "I'll have to get another nap."

"But that was easier said than done. The harder I tried the whiter awake I was. I guess it was insomnia, fast enough. Finally I got to thinking over my past life. Well, probably I'd done worse things in my life, but what I seemed to fasten on was a little business transaction with the Widow Wiggin. I sold her a sleigh at my own price; and the very next day I sold one just like it to Captain Gray, and he bought me down five dollars, and I made something at that. In the circumstances I felt as if it would be no more than fair to go to Mrs. Wiggin and make her the same discount. But you are not to let such things go, and pretty soon she took sick and died. She had no immediate family, and the property went to distant connections out of the state. So I kind of let the thing slide, as being of no great consequence, anyway."

"But it loomed up big there in the dark, and at last I had to promise myself that if I lived to get home I'd get clear of that five dollars somehow. At that time a Belgian relief fund was being raised, and I concluded that it would please her as much as anything, if she could know it, to put down a subscription in memory of Mrs. Maria Wiggin."

"Having settled that, I felt easier, but not real sleepy, as it still seemed a long ways ahead to breakfast time. Then it occurred to me that about eighteen years' interest ought to go with that five dollars, and I fell to considering how much that would be. I am pretty good at figuring in my head, and I could have worked out the simple interest easily; but compound interest is another matter. However, I began casting it up, and I got as far as the fifth year. Then the next thing I knew Susie was slugging me: 'Breakfast, Uncle Summer!'

"So you see, reckoning interest got the better of insomnia that time, Mehbe, though, purging my conscience had something to do with it. You are welcome to both of these remedies, Mr. Jenkins," he added with a friendly wink. "In case the squire's doesn't work,"—Youth's Companion.

A Rare Bird.

The white-headed stork, one of the most interesting and valuable possessions of the London Zoological society, is dead. It was a native of the Upper or White Nile, and so far as is known the only living specimen of this remarkable bird in Europe. As long ago as 1890 the then British vice consul at Khartoum—Mr. Petherick, himself an indefatigable naturalist—brought two specimens to London, and these were the first ever seen alive in Britain. After an interval of many years the present stork—Sir Reginald Wingate—presented to the society the specimen which has just died, and which was a familiar object in the vicinity of his palace at Khartoum. Visitors to the garden in Regent's park will recall the rather unbecomingly looking bird in the aviary adjoining the southern entrance. For long periods it remained almost motionless save for the twinkle of an extra mobile eye.

CONGRESS TACKLING HARD LEGISLATIVE PROBLEMS

League of Nations Cause of Considerable Debate—Doings Among Lawmakers at Washington

Congress has tackled some of the big problems of legislation with a determination that promises results, and it is to be hoped that the harvests of the present legislative session will measure up to the crop estimates.

The senate has spent a good deal of time debating the league of nations and the peace treaty, the net results of which indicate that the supporters of the president are backing a definite, concrete policy, while the opposition sort of pawed the air. Daylight saving has occupied a good deal of time in the forefront as a legislative problem, and members of both branches of Congress busied themselves cuffing the hands on the clock in their vain endeavors to make it a matter of tremendous importance whether "lunars begin" to crow like chanticleer an hour earlier or an hour later each day. The program of the Secretary of the Interior to furnish lands to soldiers has insistent supporters in congress, but somehow or other there is a lack of enthusiasm that does not spell hopefulness.

When everybody pulls together things move in Washington. There is fresh evidence of this in the fact that after several years the senate has decided to ratify the treaty with Colombia, and to give that country something like $25,000,000 for putting them on the map, by reason of having brushed them aside in order that the Panama Canal might be built. But twenty-five millions is a mere incident nowadays, and in panoramic Pan-American days like these who wants Colombia to keep on nursing a grudge against Uncle Sam? Since Colonel Roosevelt has passed away the main obstruction to the Colombia settlement is removed—and so the senate has grown sweet and tractable and indulgent with "innocent" Colombia.

It remains to be seen whether congress will get on top of the big industrial problems that confront it, or whether, as in the case of the last congress, final adjournment will reveal another legislative wreck, with hope deferred in the matter "that maketh the heart sick."

When Congress Makes Steam

The last campaign books revealed how congress made many, and wonderful laws for the people. Both great political parties claimed the credit in their guides to spellbinders. It is fatuous to say that congress doesn't produce results, for when it steams up—as was particularly the case in enacting war measures—things go by with a hum. But the congressional locomotive is most awfully shy of collisions with public sentiment, and the old steam horse has for a long time been eyeing askance the water-powers, the public utilities and the railroads, and the realization has been percolating mightily slow that there is a clear right of way in sight for the settlement of these problems. However, though the leavening processes have been tedious there has, nevertheless, resulted a definiteness of purpose that is encouraging. Out of the present arrangement there may be evolved an early solution for many of these A 1 problems.

It is recalled that the task of reforming the banking system of the country was taken up in congress six years ago. The method of national bank control was as unscintillating and wobbly as that which has been applied to the railroads for a quarter of a century. But in the case of the banking system congress made steam; partisanship was thrown aside, and in a single session the Federal Reserve Act had been passed and had the signature of the president. Our banking system has since weathered a world war, and on its sure foundation our country has established itself as a world banking power. Will congress do as well with the railroads, which are now the first number on the program, presenting the biggest industrial problems of the day? Everyone knows that there is something radically wrong, and nearly everyone has a plan of reform. The plans for new railway legislation are as varied as were the proposals for banking legislation in 1913. But now, as then, there is a pretty general understanding and agreement all over the country as to the fundamental principles that must be incorporated in a sound railroad law that will insure for the future the growth of our transportation facilities. The country is behind the basic principles of private ownership, management and operation, safeguarded by national regulation—all along a manner that will provide a return to the owners commensurate with that earned in other industries, while at the same time preserving the high status of railroad employees that has been arrived at in the evolution of the railroad industry. These things seem certain—and they all spell a square deal for everybody. Punitive measures in our industrial plan have become archaic; and a basis that will leave railroads without huge deficits, that will provide proper competitive features for the benefit of the public, and which will turn private initiative loose again under government control, seem to loom in the immediate perspective. It does not matter so much that there are all kinds of plans being offered for these can be speedily sifted down and the anathematic ingredients saved from each. But it is important to have congress make steam, and that, apparently is what is being done.

Merilly We Roll Along

Everybody is going to have a fine time, if those who promise so much for everybody, are to be half believed. Official proclamations and messages have been ringing with this oh be joyous stuff ever since war began to work its changes in the economic and industrial scheme of humanity. The American Federation of Labor, in its Atlantic City convention, recognizes the new era, and in putting forth a reconstruction program, proclaims the expectancy that it will "bring to all people greater hope for a better day, a brighter life, greater liberty and a larger degree of independence for the workers of America."

The man who wears the other boot in this industrial marathon is wondering how he, too, can get "a larger degree of happiness," since the problems of higher fixed standards are up to him, if he is to keep going. But the policy of loving thy neighbor is in good working order, and if everyone totes fair in this reconstruction period all will be well with the world.

In the meantime the anarchists, the Bolsheviks, the I. W. W.'s and the radical Socialists are finding themselves to be quite as useless to society as the fifth wheel to a wagon.

War Risk Insurance
Director R. G. Cholmley-Jones is making good progress in checking the growing tendency among the returning soldiers to drop their insurance upon re-entering civil life. The war risk was one of the biggest business propositions of the war, and as might have been expected there has been an endless amount of confusion in the records. Time and perseverance is remedying this, and in the meantime every effort is being made to impress upon the young men in the service the fact that they are being furnished the best form of insurance in the world, at a rate far below what it can be supplied for by private companies. It certainly is a mighty poor business venture for the soldier, or former soldier, to drop this insurance, which the government has arranged for him in such a way as to make it a real asset for anyone able to avail himself of it.

SPANKING AN UNRULY HOODLUM

Mexico needs a spanking. No, we will take that back; some Mexicans need the spanking.

And if they continue their rough house tactics so near our Rio Grande border they'll get the spanking. But an international spanking is much like a rain, falling upon the just and the unjust alike. A few good, peaceful Mexicans will suffer with the many unruly hoodlums who have for some years past made of Mexico a miniature hell on earth.

Naturally, this being an international affair, the aforesaid spanking—if it comes—will be administered by force of arms.

But it won't be a war.

Only the most elastic imagination could picture the thing culled war, as the world learned to know war, when the American armies throw the weight of American strength against the bandits of Mexico.

It wasn't a real war when Scott and Taylor escorted a handful of Americans through overwhelming numbers of Mexicans. It wasn't a war when Pershing ran the outlaw back into the hills and penned them up there.

And it isn't going to be any war.

So don't get excited about it and get all heated up in this warm weather, if the spanking can no longer be delayed, if it must come now to make life bulletless in El Paso and other American border cities, why there is an experienced, trained, equipped American army already on the job.

If spanking the Mexican bandits happens to be the next thing on our army's program, the spanking will come. It is our honest opinion that no other body of men in the world is as well able to spank these bandits into leading peaceful, industrious lives, of course, there'll be many a Mexican underground when its over but that bandits must expect when they invite an international spanking. Their removal from the scene of action will make it possible for Mexico to raise more food and less hell in some years to come.

SOLUTION OF FOOD PROBLEM

Dairymen Should Make What They Have Go Further—Not Necessary to Slaughter Cows.

Dairymen can solve the feed shortage by the same method that people are using to solve the food shortage. They can make what they have go further. If food economies can result in feeding more people, the same feed can feed more cows.

No one advocates the killing of part of the people in order to provide an abundance of food for the rest. It is not more necessary to kill large numbers of dairy cows because of a short feed supply. Such action, moreover, taken in the face of our national need for dairy products, would be calamitous.

BABCOCK TEST VERY USEFUL

By Its Use Together With Lactometer Composition of Milk Can Be Determined for Solids.

The Babcock test is a device for determining the fat content of milk or cream. With this test and a milk scale one can determine the best cows in the herd. By using the Babcock test and the lactometer together the composition of the milk can be determined for total solids.

A Reminder.

Let us all each day, in every and all of our actions and endeavors, practice truth and altruism, the eternal enemies of hypocrisy and selfishness, for the inevitable result of a violation of these principles are long in those enlightened times will bring us misery and pain in the face of the fulfillment of our methods in an endeavor toward a higher civilization.

If you've never been tempted you don't know what you've missed.

WHAT FOE ESCAPED

No comment has come from Germany regarding the flight of the American seaplanes and the British airplane across the Atlantic. In view of the attention given by Germany to long distance aviation during the war, there ought to be considerable interest in this enterprise. But the Germans remain silent.

Perhaps they are doing some thinking. They ought to be, if they realize the purpose for which those wonderful craft were intended.

The Vickers-Vimy plane in which Capt. Alcock flew from Newfoundland to Ireland is one of a big fleet built by Great Britain for the specific purpose of bombing Berlin. In retaliation for the German raids. It can carry more than a ton of explosives in addition to its crew and the necessary fuel. The Atlantic flight is four times the distance from the former French battle line to Berlin.

The American seaplanes with their liberty motors, though originally designed for sea patrol, were also built with this possibility in view. They are admirably qualified to act as bombing planes, and can carry a bigger load than the Vickers-Vimy, and probably go as far in one flight. It would have been easier for the fleet of NC's to fly from Paris to Berlin than from New Foundland to the Azores.

Germany, beaten at her own game, and fortunate in having avoided the consequences of further fighting, does well to say nothing.

GERMANY ACCEPTS

Whimpering, Germany decides to accept the Versailles peace terms as alternative to utter destruction. The attitude of the new representative government is childish—as childish as the sinking of the surrendered fleet in British waters, says the Herald Examiner.

The national assembly views the treaty as a "peace of violence" and wants the world to know that it will be signed "under compulsion."

Of course it is a peace of violence. Germany started out to sweep up Europe in a war of violence. The German nation for four years put all the violence it had in stock into the proceedings. And it was quite a bunch of violence.

By superior violence the United States and the allies overcame the violence of Germany. In consequence they imposed peace terms under threats of violence, but the terms probably were less harsh than the Germans would have imposed on us had they been victorious.

The blatant that the treaty is accepted "under compulsion" discloses a peculiar slant in the Teuton mind that is hard to understand. It is

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair, can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or makes the face. When faded, turned gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture, you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

almost as hard to understand as the mental processes by which the old military autocracy concluded that Americans couldn't or wouldn't fight.

Of course a humiliating peace is accepted by a beaten combatant "under compulsion." Were there any way to avoid the compulsion Germany would do it. Change of ownership and management of a disorderly household while the police are breaking in does not lessen the duty of the police to deal with all the participants.

The German people are in a sorry plight. They were misled by an autocracy, but they fought and sacrificed heartily under it and they hated us soundly and systematically. It is strange national thinking that would expect the world to forgive and forget.

The wanton sinking of warships was a grandiose act of insanity, an exhibition of fool heroics and sentimentality, which proves that loyalty to the traditions of the ancient regime, with all its faded "Fatherland" and "Deutschland Uber Alles" trimmings, is not dead.

Thousands of men risked their lives at a given moment to gain nothing but trouble for themselves. Some of them died. Epics will be written about them in Germany. That the first sinking conspiracy was headed by an admiral and kept a tight secret down to the last humble deck-swabber indicates a large survival of German old-style war thought than we had believed existed.

The ships were sunk to keep faith with the Kaiser, "who wanted them never surrendered." Page Bill Hart! Or make it Charlie Chaplin.

Somebody is stealing their stuff.

FLU AFTER-EFFECTS

If you don't feel very good; if you are nervous, fretful, forgetful, despondent; if you seem to have slight indications of tuberculosis or are even troubled with temporary "mental aberration," there is no cause for alarm. It is just the last departing fling of the flu.

Flu has proved itself the worthy companion of war. Its results are just as far-reaching and discouraging.

As the Irishman said long ago about the grippie, "It is the kind of a disease that makes you worse when you are getting better, and sick a long time after you are well."

It seems as if the time would never come when the world could settle down to the ways of peace. Yet here we are almost eight months on our way toward the settled life. Gradually normal conditions will reassert themselves, business will get better, prices more reasonable, tempers less edgewise and just the same with the after-effects of flu. You may feel miserable, but you are on your way toward health in spite of it; and if the same common sense and thought are applied to observing the rules of health which everybody is giving to settling his business affairs in order, the miserable effects of flu, like those of its counterpart war, will gradually disappear and be forgotten in returning normality and comfort.

Most people would appreciate it if, the next time the war department disposes of any surplus foodstuffs, it would offer them in less than "carload lots." The ordinary kitchen ice box won't hold that much.

Among the things the Germans must surrender, in accordance with the accepted terms, is the skull of the sultan of Makwawa. Perhaps by now they think the relic a hoodoo and will gladly give it up.

Several bank robberies have been reported lately. We can't figure out why anybody should go to the trouble and peril of robbing banks when money has so little value. If it were a butcher shop now.

Some idea of what suffering New Yorkers must endure shortly is furnished by the statement of one of its restaurant proprietors, who says he has 120 kinds of substitute drinks ready to serve.

Having oversubscribed five Liberty loans the United States is now going to have a chance to oversubscribe a Sinn Fein bond issue.

Having signed the peace treaty, perhaps the German delegates will send the gold pen to Wm. Hohenzollern for a souvenir.

The Ifuns complain that they are asked to accept "iron terms." Sure! And if they refuse, it will be iron rations for them.

While the Ford trial is getting old tales from the border, Mexico is providing a large 1919 edition.

Carranza seems to have learned from the Germans how to howl for home consumption.

The peace treaty has all the clearness of a heavy fog.

NEW RUBBERS ESSENTIAL IN CANNING

Use of Old or Poor Rings Pointed Out as Poor Economy

"It is poor policy in home canning to use rubber jar rings a second year," declares Miss Anna B. Cowles, of East Lansing, state leader of Girls Canning Clubs. New rubbers of good quality are absolutely essential for consistent success in canning. Metal tops should also be inspected carefully, as they must fit perfectly.

Even a new rubber is not necessarily a good one, for there are many rubbers of poor grade on the market today. Miss Cowles gives the following tests for an acceptable rubber ring:

1. A rubber should stand a reasonable amount of stretching and pulling without breaking and should always return to its original shape.
2. A good rubber will not crack or show results after being pinched between the thumb and forefinger.
3. For pint and quart jars a rubber should be 5-16 of an inch wide, 1-12 of an inch thick and have an inside diameter of 2 1-4 inches.
4. Color is no index of quality. Good rings can be either red, white or black.

Full information on canning subjects may be had by writing to Miss Anna B. Cowles, state leader Girls Clubs, East Lansing.

Cheery Kitchen.
Women who perform their household work unaided could see to it that the kitchen is made as cheery and convenient as possible. Perhaps, if many a housewife's steps were counted, it would be found that she travels several weary miles each day, yet a great deal of this unnecessary exertion could be avoided if her kitchen were fitted up with a few labor-saving devices and all surplus furniture, plates and sundries that catch dust and make a lot of work were removed.

Have Strong Hold on Life.
Even earth worms are among the creatures that can be dormant to a dried-up state. Peter Schmidt reports that when desiccated to 40 per cent of their normal weight, length and volume, they may be restored to active life after 20 hours in summer or 48 hours or more in the cold.

SALTS IS FINE FOR KIDNEYS, QUIT MEAT
Finish the Kidneys at once when Back Hurts or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any local pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with bicarbonate and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning.
Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside, to pour bile to coat your tongue and slicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood; while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting "more food into the stomach."

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless except a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of those vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

FISHING OPENS UP IN GOOD SHAPE

String of Seventeen Black Bass Caught by Two Men

Fishing has opened up in good shape and fine catches of bass are being made each day. On Tuesday of last week L. VanSkiver and Mr. Davenport of Chicago, captured a string of seventeen black bass and on the following day took twelve bass during the forenoon, the fish ranging from one and one-half to three and one-half pounds. Mr. VanSkiver also caught with casting rod and line a twelve pound pickerel.

Fishing bids fair to be the best this year of any time recently and with the splendid accommodations for fishing parties furnished by the hotel here, there is no reason why Ellsworth should not entertain a large number of fishermen during the summer months.

COMMUNICATIONS

Editor Charlevoix Courier:—In an issue soon after November election you said, "Don't worry, Republicans are in power in congress."

Then followed a note of worry on your part almost a wail. What was the matter? Oh, Socialists are busy and faithful, and Republicans ought to be. Politics should be your business and you should work at it, if you do not want the things Socialists are after.

Do you know what they are after? They want to quit coming under the crack of the party whip like well trained oxen. They want to establish a government of justice to all, such as God ordained. Each for all, and all for each. Christ taught the exaltation of service. Be not masters; call no man master.

He that would be greatest among you, let him serve all. Christ came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and gave his life as ransom for many to put down partisanship, caste, clique, class and clan; to exalt and establish the fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man.

To blot out these relics of barbarism, socialism are in the fray, and to win, so beware brother, what you do. Remember right is right since God is God and right the day will win.

U. S. spells us. The sovereign people. It is their duty to reign, to command their hirelings, executive or legislative, and to demand of them righteousness in service. Remember your party created the whiskey ring in the sixties, giving it autocratic power, through the revenue and federal license. Gave it to a gang of hyphenates to degrade, debase and demoralize and kill our freeborn citizens. And in every great campaign state or national, the cry rang out. The German-Americans and the Irish Americans must have their rights. And yet it took a costly investigation to show they were in politics. Also they sold our best lands to hyphenated syndicates who through the group power drove out our own citizens.

They sold us to monopolies and trusts, in fact, to all the monied powers where they could find a market for us. Now you are crying out in nearly every issue again bureaucracy or autocracy of the party in power. Were your party in, they might get and keep all they could use of power by any name, and you would be glad.

But the people are waking up, psitticism is doomed. "Righteousness exalts a nation but sin is a reproach to any people."

Yours in the fight for right, V. L. NELSON.

(We wonder what the writer of the above is driving at, anyway. Can it be he wants conditions here as they are in Russia and practically all God-forsaken, war devastated countries of the old world? Or has the recent spell of warm weather affected his head. If we knew the writer, we could judge more accurately, but from the tone of the above, would advise his neighbors to keep close watch of him. Sound like Bolsheviki prattle to us.—Ed.)

SUPERVISE PURITY OF MILK

List of Equipment Necessary to Furnish Laboratory Is Sent Out by Dairy Division.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A letter has been sent by the dairy division of the United States department of agriculture to 1,500 health officers in cities having over 5,000 population urging the city governments to supply the health officers with proper laboratory equipment so they can adequately guard the city milk supply. A health department without a laboratory equipment is as helpless as a soldier without arms, says the letter. A city government has no right to hold its health department responsible for the health of the community unless it has provided the department with the equipment necessary to wage the fight against disease.

The work of supervising the safety, cleanliness and purity of its city milk supply is one of the most important duties of the modern health department. Bacteria, dirt, added water and preservatives in milk cannot be determined without chemical and bacteriological apparatus. The letter gives a list of the equipment necessary to furnish a laboratory for milk analysis.

DAIRY COW MOST PROFITABLE

Animal Never Fails to Return Profit for Feed and Care—Keep Her Comfortable.

The dairy cow is the most profitable animal on the farm if rightly managed, as, under ordinary conditions, she never fails to return a profit for her care and feed, if she is given the right kind of food and just the right quantity. If she is underfed, her product will be correspondingly small, and if she is overfed, she will be unhealthy. Feed the cow just right, keep her quiet and comfortable, and she will be equal in value to the goose that laid golden eggs.

DRIVERS LICENSE RUSH NOW ON

State Department Looking for One Thousand a Day

Applications for automobile drivers' licenses, under the new law amended at the special legislative session which closed last week, will be going into Lansing at the rate of more than 1,000 a day, according to Frank E. Fitzgerald, deputy secretary of state.

In response to the sending out of the blank applications, which are now in the hands of chiefs of police and sheriffs in all the cities and counties, several hundred applications were received the first two days of last week. Some officers have already reported that they are deluged.

Not more than 5 per cent of the applications received are from women and very few are from boys and girls from 14 to 18 years old. In some instances, application for all members of the family eligible to drive motor cars have been received. "We want the applications, accompanied by the 50-cent fee, to come in as rapidly as possible but licenses may not be sent out until on or about August 14," said Mr. Fitzgerald, last Tuesday. "It will not be necessary for applicants to make inquiry about licenses before that time when they will be promptly mailed to everybody."

Two kinds of licenses will be issued, one in general, permitting the licensee to operate any kind of an automobile or other motor vehicle, while the other is "limited," permitting the driver because of physical defects to operate only the one car with which he is familiar.

DEATH CLAIMS

NANCY MORRISON
After an illness covering a period of three months

Mrs. Nancy Morrison, age 63 years, passed away Tuesday, July 1st, following a three months illness.

Mrs. Morrison was born near Macksberg, Ohio, and came to this city about nineteen years ago. For the past three months she has suffered with stomach trouble and has been confined to her bed for about six weeks. Death claimed her Tuesday evening at 10:15. As we go to press arrangements for the funeral have not been made, owing to members of the family in the southern points waiting to be heard from.

What about that Boyne City Silo?

Congregational Church

The communion of the Lord's Supper will occupy the hour of morning worship next Sunday. The morning service will begin promptly at 10:30 o'clock. The Bible school will return to the noon hour for its meeting. The attention of all the members of the school is called to this change.

So many of the active members of the Christian Endeavor society are out of town for the summer, and so many more are engaged in work of such a kind as to make it impossible for them to attend its meetings, that the society has voted to discontinue its meetings for the summer, to be resumed in September.

The hour of the evening service is seven-thirty o'clock. The theme next Sunday evening will be "The Glory of the Church."

Mid-week service every Thursday evening at seven thirty.

To any and all of these services the public is cordially invited. An especial welcome is given to visitors and summer residents.

Dance every Wednesday and Saturday nights at the Lakeside Pavilion.

COUNTY EMPLOYEES A MOTOR COP

Will Make Effort to Stop Speeding on Country Roads

Drivers of autos afflicted with the speed mania are due for a severe jolt just now, and a trip to the office of some justice of the peace where they will be asked (?) to make a deposit of from $5.00 up for their fun.

Charlevoix county's speed cop is on the job. He rides a motorcycle and can run circles around about the fastest car we have in this section. He has been instructed to pick up every car driven over a speed of 25 miles an hour on the county roads, and from the looks of the chap, he won't hesitate to tackle anything or anyone, should they violate the rules of the road.

He does not intend to confine his activities alone to the speeders, but is also after the fellow who fails to dim his lights when approaching another car or horse drawn vehicle. Violations of this kind are more frequent than speeding, and it stands the driver of a car to pay special attention to his lights.

Many of our citizens have been making trips to the justices' office for speeding of late, and we are of the opinion that from now on, these visits will be more frequent unless a few individual drivers who think it funny to blind the other fellow with his lights, is not more careful than he has been of late.

Grill Opens at Petoskey

Mrs. F. J. Nell of Petoskey, will conduct the cafe formerly known as the Grill, at Petoskey, under the name of "Nell's Cafe," during the present season. The cafe has the reputation of being about the best in this section of the state, and in former years has received liberal patronage from summer visitors, not only of Petoskey, but neighboring cities and resorts.

County Purchases Tractors

Charlevoix county, through its road commissioners, have purchased three Fordson tractors from the Northern Auto Co., to be used in road construction work on the new concrete road between Greensky hill and the county line. The tractors can be seen at any time at work on the road near Burgess.

There are many kinds of bread, but McCann's Milk-Made is the best sold in Charlevoix. Insist on having it.

BIOSSAT CASE COMES TO END

AFTER HANGING IN COURTS FOR MANY MONTHS

Convicted Woman Sentenced to Detroit House of Correction—Review of Case

Cora E. Bioassat, former owner of the Hotel Michigan, who was placed under arrest for being more or less connected with the mysterious burning of the hotel March 10, 1917, and whose case has taken considerable time of both the local circuit court and the state supreme court, and who was convicted in the December 1917 term of court, was sentenced by Judge Guy M. Chester on Tuesday last, to serve from one to ten years in the Detroit House of Correction. The sentence, however, contained the recommendation that she serve two years.

The burning of the Hotel Michigan on two separate occasions, has been the cause of more or less newspaper notoriety. It will be remembered that Mrs. Bioassat confessed to the part she played in the fire, as did also Pearl Johnson, the man who really applied the torch. Later Mrs. Bioassat denied the confession made, and the trial was postponed from time to time, was carried to the supreme court, where the decision of the lower court was sustained.

Johnson was also convicted and since his trial has enjoyed his liberty, being placed under bonds.

The warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Bioassat was issued the 16th of April, 1917, and her arrest took place the following day. She was given a hearing and placed under bonds, and since that time has enjoyed her freedom up to the time she received her sentence.

The case was up for hearing time after time until Judge Chester pronounced the sentence.

Below is published in full Judge Chester's statement at the time of sentence:

State of Michigan, the Circuit Court for the county of Charlevoix. The People of the State of Mich.

—vs—
Cora E. Bioassat, Respondent.

Respondent was convicted by the verdict of a jury of the offense of causing or procuring the setting fire to and burning the Hotel Michigan, in the city of Charlevoix, this state, with intent to injure and defraud the Continental Insurance Company, in violation of section 15289, C. L. 1915. The testimony tended to show that respondent engaged one Pearl Johnson to set fire to the hotel, so that she could collect insurance. Johnson testified that pursuant to that arrangement he did set fire to the hotel, and that the hotel was damaged by the fire he set. There was testimony also tending to show that respondent had made a written confession to the officers that she procured Johnson to set this fire, and that she had made statements to other persons that she didn't know why she did it. During the progress of the trial, it developed that respondent had had a fire before this and received quite a large amount of insurance.

Respondent testified in her own behalf and introduced other testimony, tending to show that she did not commit this offense. While she admitted her signature to the confession, she claimed that because of her nervous and weakened condition, owing to the sickness of her daughter, her age, and being at a time when she was having a change of life, and the excitement of arrest, that she had loss of memory, disorder of memory or mental confusion to such an extent that she did not know

ISAIAH SAW DRY SPELL COMING

Isaiah the Prophet may have had some inkling several thousand years ago of the thirst prohibition would raise in the land. Attention is called today to the prophet's words, as found in Isaiah xiv: 11, 12.

"There is a crying for wine in the streets; all joy is darkened, the mirth of the land is gone.

"In the city is left desolation, and the gate is smitten by destruction."

that she made a confession; claims she does not now know that she ever admitted that she confessed this offense. She claimed to remember some things stated in the confession, but not this part of it. She also claimed that so far as the statements made to other people, that they were made because she was having a great deal of trouble with her husband's drinking, and that all she then said was she wished the hotel was in the bottom of the lake, or that it was burned, because she had so much trouble with her husband. There is quite a large amount of this testimony in this case. Expert witnesses were called on the part of the defense, and also on the part of the prosecution, bearing on the question of respondent's mental condition.

GENERAL BREAKING DOWN OF HEALTH

Cause of Death of N. P. Munyon on Sunday Last

Nathan P. Munyon was born in Wayne, New York, October 7, 1837, and passed away July 6, a general breaking down of health from old age causing his death.

When a small boy he moved with his parents to Michigan and settled in Branch county, a short distance from Coldwater. In later life he moved to Muskegon and continued to make that his home. Early in March of this year he came to this city to spend some time, with his son, Charles, at whose home he passed away.

Mr. Munyon served two enlistments in the civil war, receiving an honorable discharge September 16, 1865 at Nashville, Tennessee.

Deceased is survived by three sons and one daughter, Edgar L. of Cadillac, Guy A. of Detroit, Mrs. Nellie Finn of Muskegon and Charles R. of this city.

Remains were taken to Muskegon Monday night for burial accompanied by his two sons, Guy of Detroit and Charles of this city.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING MONDAY

EVERY TAX PAYER IN CITY SHOULD ATTEND

Matter of Building a Gymnasium and Auditorium to be Threshed Out—Important Business

The annual school meeting will be held in the school house, on Monday evening, and it is the desire of the Board of Education that patrons of the school and taxpayers take sufficient interest to be present.

While the law leaves the fixing of the amount of tax to the Board of Education, and the conduct of the schools is entirely in their charge, that is no reason for lack of interest in the annual meeting. The voters should turn out and listen to the reports, and by their criticism and suggestion, which the Board of Education welcomes, assist in making our schools an institution in which every taxpayer and every parent will take pride.

The matter of building a gymnasium and auditorium has been discussed by the board, and by the people, for some time. While the board has not gone so far as to have plans prepared, and the matter of actually deciding on the erection of the needed building cannot be done at this meeting, a resolution will be presented expressing the sentiment in favor of such a proposition, and asking that a special meeting be called in the near future to decide if a gymnasium shall be built. There has been much sentiment expressed in favor of this project, and all who wish to see this done should make it a point to be present when this resolution comes up. If the resolution carries the board will at once procure plans and estimates. If it is defeated, it will have saved the cost of the plans and estimates to the district.

The project, then, and the purpose for which the Great Lakes, St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, is formed, is to promote with every ounce of energy the deepening of the St. Lawrence to a depth that will accommodate standard lake cargoes, to encourage and permit of an enormous trade in minerals, farm products, meats and the various other products of this country, with the European countries, as well as South and Central America, and to open the heart of the American continent to the traffic of the high seas.

Michigan is enlisted. The commission of seven, approved by the governor, will be appointed immediately and the wheels of concerted action throughout the state will soon be in motion. Other states to benefit directly from such a provision are adopting similar measures and the project, once a futuristic dream, is assuming the form of reality.

Probably the most significant statement in the latter announcement and one which has awakened the intelligent masses to a full realization of the future was: "the route is available only to vessels of less than 14-foot draft."

RUM DISAPPEARS; SHERIFF ON TRAIL

Boys' Citizen Tells Story of Quantity of Missing Booze

The Boys' Citizens, under date of July 7, contains the following article: "Sheriff Weaver left Sunday for Toledo, Ohio. He expects to return with Frank Hammond who's home is just beyond the ferry at Ironton, and who is accused of being implicated in the surreptitious removing of liquor valued at $240.00 belonging to Mr. Robert Stuart of Chicago, from his summer home known as Breezy Point Farm.

"The liquor which has been stored for some years in the basement of the house, was discovered missing by manager Earl Clark after he had been 'tipped off' to the fact that it had vanished. He notified the county officials that on or about March seventh it has been taken, and later, it is reported, Mr. Hammond and a companion admitted purloining it and promised to settle the matter in a satisfactory way, but when the date of hearing arrived Mr. Hammond had disappeared. The sheriff has been on a still-hunt ever since, and when the telegram arrived stating that the police of Toledo had Hammond locked up, he left at once for that city.

"If Mr. Hammond does not return voluntarily with the officer it is claimed extradition papers will be asked for."

Sheriff Weaver returned on the morning train Tuesday with Hammond, who was given a hearing and bound over to the next term of circuit court.

PROJECT OF OCEAN TO LAKES

GOVERNOR SLEEPER PUTS HIS O. K. ON BILL

Provides for Commission of Seven to Promote Connection of Atlantic to Lake Ports

The birth, to the state of Michigan, of a movement so vast in its possibilities to the upper peninsula and to the head of the lakes region particularly, that to even estimate its advantages and subsequent value, in dollars and cents, is a tremendous task, occurred Tuesday, June 24, when Governor Sleeper, at a special session of the legislature "okeyed" the deep waterways bill, providing a commission of seven to promote the lakes to ocean project. The plan, to connect the great lakes with the Atlantic via the Welland Canal and the St. Lawrence River, originating with the organization of the Great Lakes St. Lawrence Tidewater Association in Washington, February 4, 1919, is recognized by commercial and industrial experts as to the greatest undertaking from an emmerical standpoint, that has ever been attempted by this or any other country.

Preceding this announcement by a brief twenty-four hours, and peculiarly coincident to it, came dispatches that the first cargo of provisions had left Chicago direct for Liverpool and that this event apparently marked the beginning of regular traffic from the lakes to the ocean, via the Welland Canal and the St. Lawrence river.

Probably the most significant statement in the latter announcement and one which has awakened the intelligent masses to a full realization of the future was: "the route is available only to vessels of less than 14-foot draft."

The project, then, and the purpose for which the Great Lakes, St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, is formed, is to promote with every ounce of energy the deepening of the St. Lawrence to a depth that will accommodate standard lake cargoes, to encourage and permit of an enormous trade in minerals, farm products, meats and the various other products of this country, with the European countries, as well as South and Central America, and to open the heart of the American continent to the traffic of the high seas.

Michigan is enlisted. The commission of seven, approved by the governor, will be appointed immediately and the wheels of concerted action throughout the state will soon be in motion. Other states to benefit directly from such a provision are adopting similar measures and the project, once a futuristic dream, is assuming the form of reality.

ELECTRIC IRON CAUSES FIRE LOSS

Owners Return in Time to Prevent Loss of Home

Had the family of James Parsons stayed away from home a few minutes longer on Sunday last, it is quite likely a disastrous fire would have resulted.

Some member of the family (we won't tell who) had been using an electric iron and upon completing their work, failed to turn off the juice. Shortly afterward members of the family left the house for a short time, and upon returning found the kitchen filled with smoke and a fire burning on the floor under the ironing board. It took but a short time to put out the blaze, which if members of the family had not returned and discovered in time, might have resulted in the loss of the home or a serious loss by fire.

SHOE PRICES ARE GOING HIGHER

Reports Say No Prospects of Reduction in Footwear

A report from the shoe salesmen's convention in Chicago, says: "This is a good time to buy shoes. They are cheaper than they were, but they are going higher. Leather prices are still going up, and the end is nowhere in sight.

The army is paying more for shoes. In March it paid a minimum price of $4.83 1-2; in May, a minimum of $5.94; this month a minimum of $6 and this up to $6.69. The last law bid averages $1.12 higher than the one before and these prices so say shoe men, are being reflected in all shoe sales now made, while similar increases may be expected soon.

These facts are reflected in the Chicago National Shoe Exposition which is to be held at the Hotel Morrison, July 7 to 11 inclusive. This is an exposition gotten up, promoted and managed entirely by salesmen and they are showing their lines for the first time under a single roof, without the aid of manufacturers, jobbers or dealers.

The shoe salesmen in charge of the exposition say the trend of leather prices, which average from 10 to 40 per cent. higher than a year ago, indicates that shoes made later in the year will be at far higher prices than those made now, and that for at least a year and possibly longer, the upward range of prices will continue.

There is no prospect of a reduction of the high cost of being shod. Footwear is keeping step with every other commodity that is reaching skyward, and one purpose of the Chicago National Shoe Exposition is to cause dealers generally to realize this fact.

FOREST FIRES ARE REVIVING

Rain July 4 Not Heavy Enough to Put Them Out

William J. Pearson, state forest fire warden, enroute to the upper peninsula Monday, expressed concern over the forest fire situation. Dry weather and high winds are fast undoing what the rains of July 4 accomplished. A number of bad fires are reported in localities where the rains were light.

Chief Pearson has notified all his deputies to be on a sharp lookout and warn them against being lulled to inactivity because of the recent rain. "I fear that unless we get additional rain the localities where the firefall was light will constitute a serious menace," he said.

Great clouds of smoke are visible again in numerous directions from the railroads south and east of here. If the dry weather continues Chief Pearson will ask Commissioner Baird to inaugurate a railroad patrol. This will enable the organization to early get upon the scene of at least 80 per cent of the fires.

NEW MOTOR WILL ARRIVE THIS WEEK

Relief in Sight and City Will Soon Have Water Supply

With the arrival of the new motor to replace the one recently burned out at the city water and light station, water users about the city will be enabled to resume the old schedule and the wild scramble to restore burned out lawns, caused by the short hours now in force, will commence.

The accident took place at a time of the year when the water consumption was the heaviest, and also during a period of drouth. Many lawns, both in the residence district and on resort property, have suffered, and the closest attention of their owners will be required to restore them to their proper condition. It is hoped that in the future accidents of this kind will occur other than at a time when winter is needed the most, or an equipment will be installed of a capacity that will meet all requirements.

All water users are hereby notified and requested to use water for sprinkling purposes only between the hours of 6 to 7 a. m. and 7 to 8 p. m., until further notice.

By order of the Common Council. Archie Livingston, City Clerk.

TWO KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

RESORT SPECIAL STRIKES CAR AT CENTRAL LAKE

Four Persons in the Car Were Badly Hurt—Injured Taken to Petoskey Hospital

Driving their car with considerable speed, either with the purpose of beating the onrushing passenger train across the crossing south of the Central Lake railroad station, or because they could not check its speed after coming down the grade, at an early hour Sunday forenoon has cost the lives of Ray Clark and Lyle Tyler, of Central Lake, and the serious injury of Wesley Clark and Glenn Peters, two other Central Lake young men.

The latter Tuesday forenoon was still unconscious from a badly crushed shoulder and body and a crushed head.

Wesley Clark seems the least hurt of the four and word from Petoskey hospital where the young men were taken Sunday conveys the news that he will likely recover.

The train was the heavily loaded resort train on the Pere Marquette. It was slowing down to make the Central Lake stop to let off passengers, and trainmen say, had it been going at full speed it would have ground the occupants of the car to pieces.

Engineer Fulkens reports that he had blown the usual whistle for the crossing and for the station, and trainmen say the bell was ringing a warning. The track at that point is said to be open to the view of motorists for considerable distance.

Lyle Tyler was the first of the young men to pass away. He died at 11 o'clock Sunday night. He was terribly cut to pieces, crushed about the abdomen and his head cut and crushed. Ray Clark, who died early Monday morning, had his head crushed and received cuts and other injuries.

Glenn Peters, who is still unconscious, has his head crushed, one shoulder crushed and probably has internal injuries.

Ray Clark was sixteen years old; his brother, Wesley, twenty; Lyle Tyler was twenty-three, and Glenn Peters eighteen. The young men had just started for East Jordan to visit relatives.

The accident is the worst in northern Michigan, this year and should serve as a warning to other motorists to stop, look and listen before driving across railroad tracks.

DEMORILIZED BY AUGUST 1, RUMOR

Demobilization will be completed by August 1, in the opinion of army officials. Final decision they say, will rest with the army general staff, not the Department of Justice. When it has been made, Gen. March, chief of staff, will advise Attorney General Palmer, who will notify the President, leaving no obstacle to suspension of the wartime prohibition act.

Officials reason that when the troops brought home this month are mustered out the forces remaining will be so small in comparison with the 4,000,000 men who were under arms that demobilization can be readily declared.

The General staff, it is said, can announce demobilization terminated although there may still be units for emergency in the service.

A GLIMPSE IN THE FUTURE

In an attempt to peer twenty years into the future and without the slightest desire to alarm, we can see political questions supplemented by economic problems of the most serious type. Tariffs, leagues of nations and sundry issues will be toys for high school debaters compared to the economic problems facing the people of this country at least a part of it, in the not very distant future. It is going to be a question of food—the plain, nourishing food that keeps the body and soul together. The price is not going to be so vital as the question of production, if food isn't produced it cannot be consumed. This is the crux of the situation. The cities, especially the industrial centers, are filling up with labor, the bulk of which is from the farms, young men attracted by the high wages and anxious to throw off the routine drudgery of farm work. This young artisan dismisses entirely the great and growing independence of farm ownership, not only the sweetest kind of individual independence, but above all that, a positive assurance of life itself from the fertility of the very soil he scorns when he leaves it for the dirt and grime of the shop and the thrice daily discipline of a time clock or factory whistle. There can be only one result—the farm is furnishing the big percentage of this new labor moving into the cities. These new arrivals immediately become consumers at the direct expense of an already reduced production element. This shift from country to city is going on all the time, thousands of farm lads who served in the war will never return to the farm and incidentally this idea of the government giving our soldiers a parcel of unimproved land is a colossal joke. Fifty per cent would regard the proffer as an insult, while forty per cent of the balance would abandon the proposition in five years flat broke. This offer to a city man looks like a great piece of federal philanthropy, but boiled down it is largely political bunk. Anyone with a modicum of intelligence can readily understand this order of things cannot go on forever without serious results. The old-time tariff orators told us supply and demand always regulate and control prices (except where they are made by a trust) and the demand is growing daily while the supply is diminishing in exactly the same proportion. Some claim it will readjust itself; that when the farm crops reach a point where their production will pay the farmer better wages he will desert the shop and return to the old farm and help out the weary father, who has broken his health trying to keep up with the unequal struggle. Any boy who by environment or inclination is a farmer can, in our opinion, make himself comfortably well to do in the next ten years by farming for himself. Modern day farming does not require a bit more industry or application to business than is demanded from shop labor today and the difference between the two employments at the end of this speculative ten years is the present day comparison between the Packard and the Ford with a few picture shows, for extra measure thrown in on the side of the Ford. In other words there is no comparison, present and future prospects considered. We volunteer the prediction that the 1920 federal census will show a gradual population slump in all the big agricultural counties of the state. The conditions we are bringing to your attention have barely been noticeable, but totaled up, even today, the question takes on a decidedly ominous hue. Now add twenty years of constantly decreasing production and correspondingly increasing consumption of food supply and you will have something to think over. The government has no greater problem confronting it than to fathom, through subsidy or other legislation, the great question of where our workers are going to get their bread to say nothing of butter, which long ago passed out of view from the workingman's table. It is a battle against hunger that we're facing in America.

THAT FIRST CALL

Recalling to mind the first call on a girl, probably his own girl, an inspired editorial writer in the Milwaukee Journal proceeds to rejuvenate some of us that have had the identical experience. He asks:

Remember the first time you called on a girl? How you saved your newest shirt, and bought a new tie, and shined your shoes the day before, and put 'em away and then shined them again; how you worried your mother a whole half day putting a crease in your trousers that looked like a new seam? And then how carefully you planned a lot of things to say that would sound as though the business of the world was your theme? How you tried to think up opinions on life that would appeal to her? How you spent the time on the way trying to remember all your mother had ever said about company manners? Not least how your knees got shaky and your voice quaky as you waited for her to answer the door bell? Of course you remember it?

And then, how the first ten minutes was so stiff it felt like a funeral or an execution, until, somehow, you forgot all about your company manners (and so did she) and fine feelings and world problems—well you couldn't remember what an hour afterward.

Of course you remember it all. You would like to go through it once more. To be sure, most of your preparations to charm the eye and delight the heart went for nothing. Long afterward you found out how she detected that new tie and could hardly help laughing at the ridiculous crease in your trousers. Yet somehow the spirit that moved you to all that effort to please got across, and she was pleased and you were happy.

Was it all just the spirit of youth? Can it never be done again?

JUST SWIMMING

Many a woman never expects to venture farther into the water than up to her chin, and so thinks it useless to learn to swim. Far from true! Swimming is one of the greatest beautifiers known.

Plenty of men do not like deep water bathing, and would rather see their friends drown than get their ankles wet. But for all that, any man who wants to be in the pink of physical condition—or the tan, if you prefer—has only to swim regularly and he will find his wish gratified.

Out of the millions who enjoy swimming, only a very small percentage will ever be called upon for any life-saving deeds. That is the last reason in the world for learning to swim. But any one who loves fun, and enjoys the cooling effect of the water, and who would be glad to improve both health and looks should learn to swim.

Man has not mastered air flight without the use of machinery, but it is possible to enjoy as exhilarating a feeling as must delight the bird who floats on his own wings if one will put laziness and timidity aside and learn the buoyancy of water and the delightful ease with which the body can be moved through it.

Even if one never acquires courage to venture out into the cool blue water beyond his depth, he can still learn to swim in water where bottom can be touched by the exploring toe. But the truth is, that when one has learned to swim he has also learned that to the swimmer no water is deep—it is only good to swim in.

Remember the oldtime dog meat that the butcher "threw in" with a 50-cent roast?—now they call it "braised beef" and we ate some at a leading hotel the other day.

Maybe the Detroit woman who sought an injunction to restrain her husband from taking the furnace apart feared that he couldn't get it together again in time.

When the peace terms are signed German army officers threaten to resign "to save their honor." What's honor to a German officer?

So far as we know, no senator has yet complained because he was not consulted about the framing of the Ten Commandments.

That romantic Englishman who lists the "seven ages of love" fails to mention puppy love and second childhood's.

Heinic is between Foch and Lenin, and for once we are to see the middleman get what is coming to him.

The Knox iden is to have immediate peace now, and future peace later on. Seems logical enough.

Congressman Wisebean says the new boundaries should conform to orthographical lines.

THE CADDIE COLUMN

(A column edited by the Caddie-master for the purpose of sharpening the caddies' interest in their work and keeping parents in touch with those in charge of the boys at the golf grounds.)

A new system of rating and payment has been adopted for the boys, the first change since 1912 when the fees were raised from twenty-five cents for nine holes and forty cents for eighteen to thirty cents and fifty cents respectively. There was a vague and scattered opinion among the boys last year that they pay should be increased, but it was only this year that they made a general request for it. It should be a matter of interest to the community that when five or six years ago the caddies would have summarily "struck" and demanded what they wanted, they have this year asked quietly, but none the less earnestly, and have gained what they sought. The executive committee of the golf club has been glad to recognize this manly and honorable method of doing things and has not removed a single cent of the prize money or privileges given the boys and girls annually. As it is desirable that parents of the boys understand somewhat the new system, it has been thought well to explain it in this column. There are to be two classes of caddies, the first class, comprising those boys who rise to the required standard in their work, and the second class, consisting of all the rest. The rates paid these are as follows. First class caddies, single sacks, 9 holes, 40c; 18 holes, 75c; double sacks, 9 holes, 60c; 18 holes, $1.20. Second class caddies, single sack, 9 holes, 30c; 18 holes 50c. Double sacks, 9 holes 45c; 18 holes, 80c. For carrying sacks to or from the 10th hole, 10c per sack extra. For chasing balls, 40c an hour. It is hoped that the increased rates will have the double effect of drawing more boys to the links and improving the service. The improvement of service should come from the fact that every boy will work hard to be a first class caddie and once being in that class will work hard to remain there. Poor service or bad behavior on the part of any boy in the first class will be grounds for his reduction to second class until such a time as he has redeemed himself. Meanwhile he may have lost several dollars and certainly will have lost some self-respect. To get from the second class into the first the boy must have (1) a good record for behavior and regularity, (2) five recommendations from players who have employed him and who are competent judges of what a real caddie should be, and (3) five recommendations from reliable caddies in the first class. All recommendations are subject to the approval of the caddie master. Of the sixty-seven boys enrolled, twenty-five were chosen to form at once the first class. There are 25 or 30 more of the 67 who, with good behavior and honest, sincere service can be admitted to this class within two or three weeks. It must of course be understood that boys who are very small and rather young (eight, nine or ten years) will hardly be eligible for the first class this year. But they can make themselves reputations

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to flush kidneys and neutralize irritating acids—Splendid for system.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

this year and perhaps be admitted at once next spring. Girls are eligible for membership in the first class, though as yet none have been promoted to it. The 25 boys chosen last Monday are as follows: Robert Miles, Frank Novotney, Martin Halverson, Ray Gordon, Glen Curtis, Frank Krulik, Ormlston Parmelee, Earl Harrington, Arel Cooper, J. C. Marshall, Leon Solomon, Elmer Barber, Lewis O'Neil, Lester Fay, Clayton Bencot, Vern Sanford, Carlton Oberlin, Alfred Pontious, Hubert McCann, Claire Myers, Joe Hamilton, Leonard Burns, John Burns, George Hlgman and Clinton Sanford. All first class caddies will be supplied soon with badges by which they are to be known as members of that class. Announcement of new promotions will be made every Saturday afternoon. The new wages are going to mean hundreds of dollars extra this summer. But there is going to be no shirking of duty. This money is going to the boys who deserve it.

Caddies are reminded of the value of being clean and neat. It is so valuable in fact, that any caddie who presents himself for work dirty and unkempt is going to be asked to absent himself until he has cleaned up. Dirt was made to walk on, don't wear it. And a haircut will pay for itself in a week. Try it and see.

Six girls have reported so far, Sadie, Ida and Charnel Curtis, Isabelle Switzer, Beatrice Miles and Anna Jones. These have been given letters and are working regularly. We regret the loss of so many of the fourteen girls who served last season and hope that more of them may yet report. Girls who are interested may come to the golf course any afternoon and receive instruction.

Remember the bank books and get the habit. Earl Harrington and Arel Cooper are to carry ice for the water coolers this summer. There is provision for $10.00 to be divided between the boys who do this.

Frank Hull is professional caddie for the current week. We hope his number (13) will keep him going.

Here's the best one of the week: Bud Gill had just come in from a rather unsuccessful encounter with a heavy double sack job.

A Player: "Hello kid, how many balls did you lose?" Bud: (cheerfully) "Three." The Player: "Well that's pretty good isn't it?" Bud: "Not for me it ain't."

FIGHT THE HOPPER

Grasshoppers are beginning to do very serious damage to crops and pasture lands throughout the eastern half of our county and on the Beaver Islands. Farmers are face to face with the prospect of most serious losses. Something must be done.

Many means have been devised to combat the pests, but the one method generally used now in sections where they have had years of experience, is the poison bait method, which is as follows: Mix one bushel of screened sawdust and one pound of poison dry. Into one gallon of water put three-fourths of a pound of salt and half a cup of molasses. Stir well and thoroughly mix with the sawdust and poison. Add water until you have a good stiff mash. Scatter this where the grasshoppers are feeding as you would sow grain. For poison use good strong Paris green or White Arsenic. Arsenic of Lead will not give satisfactory results.

Grasshoppers will not eat the bait when it becomes dry, therefore it should not be applied during the heat of the day, but rather apply it the last thing in the evening, so that the bait will be ready and attractive to the hungry hopper as he comes from his roost in the morning. Half rotted sawdust gives better results than newly sawed.

It must be remembered that one application will not rid a piece of ground of the millions of grasshoppers it may contain. Its use must be persistent and consistent.

DRASTIC ACTION TO BE TAKEN

RECKLESS AUTO DRIVING MUST BE STOPPED

Pedestrians Getting Tired of Dodging Cars Going at Fast Clip—
A Final Warning

The Banks township board at their meeting on Monday of this week decided on drastic action in regards to reckless automobile driving in Banks township.

A communication from the attorney general read at the meeting made clear the point that a complaint sent in by a township board meant the immediate revocation of a drivers license.

It has been noticed that several drivers run nights without lights and these, as well as fast drivers, will be taken care of.

It is usually the case that the driver is not the one injured in a smash-up due to careless driving, but the passengers or some innocent person pays the penalty with life or limb as in the Olney case at the bridge at Charlevoix a few weeks ago, or more recently the case last Sunday morning at Central Lake wherein a car with four people, the driver was the only one escaping death.

This item must be taken by auto drivers as a final warning that people are sick of dodging cars driven at forty or fifty miles per hour, and this notice is also written at the suggestion and with the approval of the Banks township board.

ROCK ELM

Miss Jesse Metz came home Friday afternoon for her summer vacation.

Farmers are hurrying to take care of their hay so as to be ready for the rain that is so much needed.

Last week while working on the ore charge, Mr. LaCroix was struck on the back by a piece of ore which fell from above. There were no bones broken but the jar caused him considerable pain through his heart and left lung.

In a recent letter from Saskatchewan, Ed. Metz describes a sand storm which he witnessed. He said there were forty acres of wheat nearly ready to harvest on the farm where he is working that was laid flat on the ground completely uprooted by the storm. Following the sand storm they had a big hail storm that nearly finished the crops. He does not think he cares to settle there.

TWO SMALL FIRES WEDNESDAY FORENOON

Blaze at Ward's Blacksmith Shop Did
Some Damage to Roof

The fire department was called out Wednesday forenoon to extinguish a blaze in the roof of Ward's blacksmith shop on Mason street. The fire was of unknown origin and was first discovered by Mrs. Williams, a neighbor living next door, who at once secured a garden hose and applied it to the burning roof. The fire was practically checked when the fire department arrived. The blaze which was confined to the roof, might have resulted in a serious fire owing to the wind that was blowing, had it not been for the prompt action of the neighbors.

Just before noon Wednesday the alarm again sounded, the call being from the north side. The fire was extinguished, however, before the department arrived at the scene of the blaze.

Others of my family have also used this medicine for lame back and pains in the kidneys with good results."

HAD "GONE WEST"

Pathetic Incident in Hospital
Bombarded by Huns.

Wounded Young French Infantry Officer Thought He was Going "Over the Top," and in That Belief Passed On.

The head nurse watched the stretcher bearers clatter slowly and awkwardly down the path and disappear in the darkness bearing between them a silent, blanket-wrapped figure. Then slowly and thoughtfully she turned and entered the field hospital tent. The pale little nurses' aid, garbed in the picturesque blue of the American Red Cross, rose and came to meet her. In subdued whispers, scarcely audible in the big vacant stillness of the tent, she told the story of any changes which had taken place in the condition of the boys who lay so bravely silent on the 50 day cots.

"Bartrand, that young infantry officer in bed No. 9, with the bad chest wound—he does not seem right," she said softly. "His lips are blue, and he sleeps so much."

"Bring your flash," replied the head nurse, as she led the way over to the dark corner, where, in a bed separated from the rest, the young Bartrand lay, apparently sleeping. Leaning over him lightly, with a motherly touch she laid her hand on his forehead. The boy's eyes opened, dazedly, and blinked in the glare of the aid's flashlight. Then, with an effort, he smiled.

Suddenly the tent flap nearest them opened. The Scotch orderly entered, reached quickly for the knob that governed the big center tent light and switched it off. Without a word the aid covered her flash and sprang to extinguish the desk light, while old Macdon, the trusty, crept along the tent wall behind the beds to be sure that each window was tightly closed.

Overhead there gradually came into hearing a steady, regularly interrupted drone, like that of a midnight insect—then a flash—a great roar, not very far away—and the tent shook like a leaf in the wind. At the first sound of the roar Bartrand had started, sitting upright in bed. The head nurse, helpless in the intense darkness and fearing to make him more restless by attempting to put him down, held him in her arms. Soon, says Modern Hospital, in relating the story, he began to call out orders, rapidly, precisely, like a man who was used to being obeyed, and then still louder, with more spirit, until his voice rang and reverberated through the open spaces of the tent. "Attention!—Attention!—Attention!—En avant!"

From somewhere in the darkness the voice of the aid, a trifle shaky, said: "He thinks he's going over." Another flash—another detonation—this time nearer. The head nurse felt something warm and wet soaking the front of her uniform. Then a silence—it seemed for ages. Finally Macdon, flashing on the light, called out: "They're gone, the boogymen!"

He came over to the bed and gave one look at the burden the head nurse held in her arms. Then, taking off his hat, he held it, folded, in front of his coat.

"You can lay him down, miss. I think there's just work for me and the stretcher bearers now. The poor lad—die's gone west."

Mule Objected in Burden.

An observer attached to the First army had been up for several hours making notes on enemy infantry operations when he was suddenly attacked by a single-seated combat plane, says the Popular Mechanics Magazine. The balloon crew on the ground immediately began to haul the big gas bag down, but the observer was running no chances and took to his parachute. This drifted well back of the lines and deposited him in the midst of a number of grazing army mules, and right astride one mule. The mule, not taking kindly to the sudden load forced on him, began to rear and plunge, starting quite a commotion among the herd, and the observer was rescued with difficulty from his precarious position.

Process Developed by War.

Making parabolic mirrors by rheological deposition on a glass mold is described as one of the war-quickened processes. A layer of silver was deposited chemically on a highly polished glass mirror, and was thickened electrolytically, after which it was given a sixteenth inch plating of copper and a suitable backing of strengthening material. Difference in expansion on heating gave a ready means of loosening the metal from the glass. The silver surface was given a waterproof and heatproof coating of lacquer, and was ready for use in much less time than would have been required for grinding and polishing a glass mirror.

American Chemical Products.

The interest in chemistry and chemical products has greatly increased in the United States owing to the fact that this country has been forced by the war to depend upon its own resources in this direction. The following uses are ascribed to these chemical products: In making soap and paper pulp, mercerizing cotton and purifying mineral oils, caustic soda is used; soda ash is necessary in the manufacture of soap and glass; silicate of soda (better known as water glass) is utilized in the manufacture of soap and in dyeing and printing cotton, making cotton goods, preventing rot and bleaching flax and preserving eggs.

PATHETIC RUINS OF FRANCE

Once Pretty Villages Which Are as Dead as the Remains of the Roman Forum.

Most of the villages of northern France are as dead and cold as the ruins of the Roman forum—and not half so beautiful. Here were no great architectural splendors. No priceless art collections. They were nothing but plain, humble little hamlets of plain, hard-tilling peasants. The houses were destroyed and the simple, brave, hardy folks who owned them were also destroyed. The graveyards of the men I had seen at Solsona, Champagne, Verdun, now upon silent rows. Here were the graveyards of their bones, village after village, as dead as the men. The only difference was that the soldiers had been buried underground while these ghastly mutilated wrecks still remained exposed to view, writes Elizabeth Frazer in Saturday Evening Post.

There was more of this kind of scenery. And more. And more and more. And at last—so soon does the mind become satiated by these sad external spectacles of horror—I began to feel welling up inside of me a vague irritation against all these graveyards of gaping, mutilated specters of what had once been human habitations for being so monotonous, so repetitious, so drably, bleakly, impassably the same. I wanted them to get better or I wanted them to get worse—or I wanted them to be blotted clean off the map. Those mutilated corpses of towns, with their stark immobility, their contorted postures, their shattered members lying rigidly outstretched on the pavement, began to get on my nerves. They had the same stiff fixity, the same grotesque sprawl that one notes in a human corpse frightfully mangled by a shell.

I had heard of men blown to pieces in battle and unrecognizable, even their identification plates gone. Here were their counterparts in hamlets. The lieutenant, searching his map, murmured doubtfully: "It might be A—or it might be B—. It's hard to say."

These nameless ones I put into a hat all by themselves and called them X. But presently I gave it up. It was too much like trying to count the volume of water in a reservoir by means of an eye dropper.

He Is Coming.

"But a few short years ago, my dear and gentleman," said the side show lecturer, in tones admirably adapted for declamatory purposes, "we had here, as our greatest living curiosity, that hideous human horror, the wild man of the Everglades, who three times a day leaped upon gun-rod racks of raw and reeking flesh and devoured them with terrible ferocity and blood-curdling yells. He was in due course succeeded by the repulsive freak of nature you now see before you—the bestial and bristly baboon. He will not work, he never bathes, but day and night kicks incessantly, and in the midnight hours screams denunciations of everything in existence. Probably your after next he will be superseded by the last pedestrian, a white-eyed, stammering wretch who will leap 18 feet sideways if you will make a noise like an auto horn."—Kansas City Star.

Where Allies Got Timber.

Timber was essential to military operations, as carried on during the war against the Huns. The chief war theater was northern France and timber was available largely because France had practiced forestry for generations.

One hundred years ago the southwestern corner of France, extending from Bordeaux to the Pyrenees mountains was almost as treeless as the prairie, and was fringed by sand dunes which were constantly in movement, burying fields and houses and even whole villages. Napoleon called in engineers and foresters. These men succeeded in holding the dunes in place by planting with maritime pine; and then they planted up the whole interior of the region with the same tree. During the war this region was the largest source of lumber not only for the French army, but for the British and American armies as well.

Trees as Aerials for Wireless.

It is difficult indeed to find something really new in radio communication. Things which are hailed as new in the daily press are more often apt to prove merely developments or improvements along well-known lines, and it is in that class that the recent tree aerial tests at Washington fall. As far back as 1907, experiments were carried out in which trees were employed as aerials. In the recent tests messages were received over quite a distance by means of tree aerials. It was also pointed out that messages could be transmitted through the agency of tree aerials over short distances. However, in view of the remarkably sensitive receiving apparatus available today, the use of tree aerials is no more remarkable than it was back in 1907, with the relatively crude instruments of that time.—Scientific American.

Farm and Country.

Secretary Daniels said at a dinner: "When the layman tries to talk intelligently he makes as many mistakes as the city girl on the farm." "This city girl was smoking her after-dinner cigarette in the hammock on the lawn when a cow began to baw. The city girl blew a smoke cloud into the air and said: 'I don't know what that cow is bawing for but she's out of her mind!'"

FEW ATTEND SCHOOL MEETING

PROPOSITION TO BUILD GYMNASIUM TURNED DOWN

Business Transacted of Importance That Should Have Had Attention of All Tax Payers

The annual school meeting of School District No. 1 of the township and City of Charlevoix, held in the assembly room of the high school building on Monday evening last, was very poorly attended, not one out of ten of the city's tax payers or patrons of the school being present. President Hampton called the meeting to order and the yearly report of the secretary and treasurer were read and approved. The board recommends the raising of a ten mill tax for school purposes, a conservative estimate showing this amount being necessary to carry on the financial end of the school system. At the present time the indebtedness of the district amounts to $10,000 in bonds and loans to the amount of $4,500. During the past years the board found themselves $1,500 short in meeting current expenses. The debt, from borrowed money, previous to the closing year, was $3,000, and adding the $1,500 shortage the past year, brings the indebtedness up to $4,500. It is the plan of the board to raise enough money by taxation to meet all current expenses without being compelled to borrow from the banks.

A resolution was presented to the effect that a special meeting be called for Monday, August 4, to decide whether or not it was advisable at this time to build an auditorium and gymnasium, the board in the meantime to procure specifications and costs of a suitable building. After considerable discussion, the resolution was changed to read "a suitable high school building" to replace the present inadequate quarters, the matter to be decided at the next annual meeting. The matter was discussed from all angles, some in favor of it, some not, and a large majority of those present not expressing their views at all. When brought to a vote, the proposition was lost by 26 to 25.

In commenting upon the subject, without committing ourselves for or against the proposition, we cannot help but express the thought that it does not look like a fair deal to the great majority of tax payers or parents who have, or who have not, children in the school, to have a question as important to them, to the health of their children and the general welfare of both teacher and pupil, decided by 26 voters.

It looks to us that it is a question to be decided by the mothers and fathers of children of school age, also those eligible to vote on the proposition, although not present at the meeting. It is well to remember that it is the small property owner with a large family that compose the greater portion of those who pay the expense incurred by the public school system, and their views are as of much importance as those who make it a point to be present at the annual meeting each year.

The matter should have been decided at some future meeting or by special ballot, thus giving all a chance to voice their sentiments.

E. B. Ward, in behalf of the county agricultural association asked the board to appropriate $100.00 towards the erection of a new education building at the county fair grounds. The request was granted.

Mrs. P. E. Vandermaede was elected to succeed E. J. Hiller, as member of the board. The resignation of W. E. Hampton was also presented and accepted, and R. L. Lewis, elected to fill the vacancy.

SERG. L. A. HART NOW IN NEW YORK

Was With Mechanical Repair Shop Unit While Overseas

Mrs. A. L. Hart received word Saturday that her son, Sgt. Loren A. Hart had arrived in New York. Sgt. Hart enlisted in the quartermaster's department of the national army, in the summer of 1917. In May, 1918, he was transferred to Atlanta, Georgia. On September 10, the unit left for overseas as Motor Transport Corps Mechanical Repair Shop Unit 308, and since that time has been stationed at Neufchâtel, France. Sgt. Hart has had charge of the motor room.

ALL SHOULD GET THEIR $60 ALLOWANCE

Americas Legation Appoints War Risk Insurance Officer

In order to assist its members who were discharged from the army prior to February 20, 1919, to get promptly the $60.00 bonus and travel pay allowed by the government, the American Legation has appointed a national war risk insurance officer with complementary officers for each state and local post.

Form required for claiming this money will be supplied to each post in Michigan and the war risk insurance officer appointed by each post will assist the men in getting these benefits.

The extra travel pay allowance was given by congress last February and the law provides that every soldier, sailor or marine discharged since November 11, 1918, shall receive five cents per mile from the place of discharge to either his home or original mustering point.

Up to February 28, 1919, nearly all men received only three and one-half cents per mile, so that they are now entitled to an additional one and one-half cents. Arrangements will be made to handle the claims expeditiously through the war risk officers of each local post.

14-YEAR-OLDERS MAY DRIVE AUTOS

STATE LAW HAS BEEN RECENTLY AMENDED

Secretary of State Vaughn Says that New Application Blanks Are Being Sent Out

Children of fourteen years of age and over may secure licenses to drive cars, under the recently amended state automobile law. The original law placed the age limit at sixteen years or over.

The following letter on the subject is of interest to those who wish to secure such licenses.

Lansing, July 8, 1919. "Section 1 of Act No. 368 of the public acts of 1919, was amended at the special session of the legislature in July whereby the age limit was reduced from sixteen to fourteen years.

"The act appearing upon the first blanks sent out is the original act and does not show the amendments made at the special session which accounts for our circular letter not agreeing with the act in this respect. The new blanks which are being furnished now sets forth the act as amended.

"Respectfully,
"Colman C. Vaughan,
"Secretary of State."

DOUGHBOYS PUT IN VILE PRISONS

Serious Charges Made Against the Military Police

Investigation of charges of cruelty to American soldiers arrested in France and placed in prisons in and near Paris will be conducted this week by a sub-committee of the special house committee investigating war expenditures.

Accusations made in the house by Rep. Dillinger (republican) of Massachusetts, will be inquired into first.

"Assertions are made that our loved ones were beaten, clubbed, starved, all in the name of democracy," Mr. Dillinger said, "that men caught in the web of the American military police system of Paris were placed in prison pens viler than those of Andersonville.

"Evidence can be procured showing that men were hit and clubbed until they bled and fainted and that one man even preferred death to the treatment to which he was subjected and took his own life."

Mr. Dillinger declared he would furnish the investigating committee with information regarding "talon of barbarism" which were a fitting parallel to the horrors of the middle ages and the tragedies of the French revolution.

U. S. WILL CONTROL WHEAT

ESTABLISHED GRADES TO CONTROL SELLING PRICE

Farmers and Grain Dealers Should Both Know Grades and Prices in Marketing Crop

The fact that the United States Grain Corporation has issued instructions that all wheat shall be bought according to the federal grades makes it very necessary that both farmers and grain dealers understand thoroughly the grades of wheat established by the U. S. Bureau of Markets. This ruling means that the application of the grades will extend to small country points where wheat is sold, as well as ruling at the terminal markets, and a difficult situation may arise when the 1919 wheat crop begins to move unless the regulations are thoroughly understood.

The importance of the grades was brought out at a series of meetings held recently at Detroit, Saginaw, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo at the request of the Michigan Agricultural College. At these meetings Supervisors H. P. English of Washington, D. C. and R. M. Taylor of Detroit gave the demonstrations.

Some questions have arisen among the farmers of the state as to whether they will get the government price of $2.20 a bushel for their wheat at their local buyers. In explaining this point at the Grand Rapids demonstration meeting, John Higgins of the Valley City Milling Company, stated that the government price guarantee expressly states a price of $2.26 at Chicago, for his locality, for No. 1 red wheat. From this price, Mr. Higgins explained, must be deducted 8 cents a bushel freight from Grand Rapids to Chicago, 2 and 26 hundredths cents a bushel (1 percent) charge by the U. S. Grain Corporation for handling at the terminal buying point, and 6 cents a bushel charge by the grain dealer to cover his expense of handling the grain. As a result the government price at the local buying point will be based upon the $2.20 price, less handling charges and freight to Chicago or to some seashore shipping point.

F. B. Drees, secretary of the State Millers Association, Lansing, states that in many Michigan points "the most favorable shipping point" designated in the U. S. Grain Corporation contract is more likely to be a seashore point such as Philadelphia or New York, instead of Chicago. This means a considerable variation in the freight, and the individual handling charges also vary considerably according to the volume of business and the handling facilities.

Farmers with badly smutted wheat, with wheat considerably mixed with rye, weed seeds or dirt, or with wheat which runs light in weight will receive a price based on the value as compared to No. 1 red wheat. In case of dispute as to the proper grade, the grower and buyer may obtain an official grade test by sending a two quart sample in an air tight container to the nearest licensed grain inspector.

The inspectors are located at the following points: W. W. Recker, chief inspector, Detroit Board of Trade, Detroit. D. R. McEachron, Association Commerce Bldg., 35 Pearl, N. W., Detroit. H. L. Peters, Chamber of Commerce, Port Huron, Mich.

In taking the sample for test, both parties should together take several small samples from the lot in question, mix them, and enclose the whole sample in an air tight container such as a tight molasses bucket, which should then be mailed or expressed to the inspector.

Questions in regard to the application of the grades will be answered by R. W. Taylor, Detroit Office Bureau of Markets, 605 Free Press Bldg., Detroit. If properly understood and applied the grades will work to the good of grower, dealer and consumer, alike.

NEW GARAGE OPEN FOR BUSINESS

INVITES PUBLIC TO VISIT MODERN HOME OF THE FORD

Structure a Credit to Its Owners and Community Where Located—Has Distinctive Features

What is destined to take a prominent place in the automotive sphere in Northern Michigan, is the Northern Auto Co., organized two years ago and under whose direction a modern and up-to-date garage has just been built in this city.

The new garage just completed and now open to the public for inspection and service is 65 x 150 feet, facing on Clinton street. In point of spaciousness and general appearance, light and pleasantness, it stands without a rival anywhere in this section of the state.

Very pleasantly located on the east side of the garage is a classroom intended also for a reception or waiting room for patrons, which will be especially appreciated by tourists and summer visitors, who, while waiting for various kinds of service to be performed, can spend their time in comfort and ease. An inspection of the building will reveal that nothing is lacking to make for the convenience of patrons or guests.

The Northern Auto Co. will handle the entire Ford output, which includes both automobiles and tractors. The Fordson tractor will be featured and demonstrations can be had for the asking.

One of the distinctive features of the Northern Auto Co. is the machine and repair room, which is located directly in the rear of the main office, accessible both to the main floor of the garage and stock room. Expert Ford repair men have been placed in charge of this department and with the slogan "service" to characterize their business enterprise, there is little doubt that the venture will prove not only a valuable asset to Charlevoix, but a paying one to its promoters.

DEATH COMES TO MISS IDA BLISSETT

Will be Missed by Host of Friends and Acquaintances

Ida M. Blissett was born November 30, 1886, in Atwood and passed away Tuesday, July 15th at 6:30 p. m. at the home of her mother on May street, cancer of the liver causing her death.

Late in the fall of 1918 Miss Blissett went to Florida to spend the winter months. During her stay there she was in poor health, but her condition was not thought serious. She returned home nine weeks ago and has been confined to her bed since that time. She received the best of medical care and every thing that could be done by the family and relatives was done, to no avail.

Ida was a member of this Methodist church, joining when she made her home in Atwood, and was always active both in the church and Sunday school work. She was a girl of sterling qualities and was loved by all who came in contact with her. She has many friends and acquaintances beside the family who will mourn their loss. She is survived by her mother, three sisters and one brother.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 1:00 o'clock from the home on May street. Rev. Candier officiating. Interment in Antrim City cemetery.

PALACE THEATRE OPENING DAY

Crowds Flock to Playhouse Afternoon and Evening

Nearly a thousand people were in attendance Thursday during the afternoon or evening at the opening of the new Palace theatre.

Although not as yet completed, the theatre presented an appearance most pleasing and when entirely finished, will stand second to none in northern Michigan. Manager Moon is to be congratulated on the enterprising way he has made his bow to public favor and is entitled to the support and patronage of every citizen of Charlevoix.

The new ventilating system will be installed before the week end, an added feature that will be appreciated.

There are many kinds of bread, but McCann's Milk-Made is the best sold in Charlevoix. Insist on having it.

MAYOR ROSE SELLS STEAMER PE-TO-SE-GA

Boat Formerly Made Daily Runs on Inland Route

The latest of the many boat deals which have taken place in Charlevoix was that of the sale by Mayor S. M. Rose of the Str. Pe-to-se-ga to Captain Charles Straub of Erie, Pa., who will outfit the boat here and as soon as completed will proceed to Erie with his newly acquired property.

The Pe-to-se-ga was built at Grand Haven some twenty years ago and was immediately placed on the inland route (Oden to Cheboygan) as a resort and pleasure boat, and when first placed in commission was known as the Topinabee.

The boat, under the management of "Dolly" Hamill of Petoskey, did a thriving business for a number of seasons, the route becoming known throughout the entire country as one of the prettiest in the northern section.

Mayor Rose became owner of the boat about two years ago and for a time it was used by the state game and fish department. Being of light draft, it was of but little use on the lakes around this vicinity. The boat will be utilized by its new owners as a ferry in the harbor at Erie.

ONE DEAD IN AUTO ACCIDENT

HOWARD PEASLEY ALMOST INSTANTLY KILLED

Pinned Beneath Steering Wheel of Car When It Turned Turtle Near Ponshevaing Sunday

Howard Peasley, Petoskey blacksmith, was almost instantly killed Sunday forenoon at a turn in the highway at Ponshevaing, when the car he was driving turned turtle on the curve and pinned him beneath the steering wheel. Three other men, Will and Gus Peasley, brothers of the dead man, and Henry Smith, all of this city, were injured but not seriously. It is said by members of the party that the driver instead of stepping on the brake as the car was about to take the curve touched the accelerator and that the car leaped ahead instead of slowing down.

All the occupants were underneath the car but all but one escaped with only minor hurts.

Passing autoists picked up the party and brought the men to Petoskey. Mr. Peasley was still alive when placed in the car for Petoskey but died before this city was reached.

The dead man made his home with his brother, Gus Peasley, of Ionia street; another brother, William, resided at 203 Ingalls avenue, and Jessa Peasley lived in Detroit. Three sisters also survive him.

The dead man was sixty-three years of age and had resided in Petoskey for forty years. He had been employed at the McDermott shop on Ingalls avenue for eighteen years.—Petoskey Evening News.

WAR ON MOTHS IS NEXT MOVE

LITTLE INSECT BUSY DURING GREAT WAR

Pest Destroys and Ruins Clothes Calore and Plague is on in Northern Michigan

This will introduce to a palpitating public the lepidoptera, the co-conspirators of the Kaiser.

While the Germans were busy shooting holes in the cathedrals of Ypres and Reims and Amiens, the lepidoptera were cheerfully engaged in chewing holes in the overcoats and flannels and blankets and draperies of Charlevoix and Northern Michigan patriots.

The lepidoptera—or the common clothes moths—have wrought destruction in much clothing while people were busy with war work.

"Government scientists at Washington are studying ways to wipe out the moths, which are exceptionally abundant in Chicago this year," said Prof. Conrad E. Tharaldsen of the zoology department at Northwestern university. "The moths are laying their eggs just now. The eggs must be killed; it is the best preventative. "Sprinkling hot sand in furs is a good remedy for moths. Brushing with benzine or ironing with a hot iron will kill the moths in clothing. If housewives will place the woollens in a box with an unopened bottle of carbon bisulphide the fumes will kill all moths and will not hurt the garments.

"Tobacco dust sprinkled on carpets may be untidy and the men may be scolded, but it's an excellent poison for carpet moths. If housewives would use these simple preventatives there would be no moth plagues.

"There are three kinds of clothing eating moths, and the damage is done, not by them but by their larvae. A simple way to kill them is to have all clothes, especially woollens, well and frequently brushed, besides being given lots of sunlight and air.

"Clothes should not be stored in camphor chests or buried in moth balls until these simple precautions have been used. The 'buffalo' moth, which burrows into the carpets and other woolen fabrics, works all the year round. At least once a year carpets should be given a long airing, followed by a benzine spray."

RESORTER LANDS SIX POUND RAINBOW

One of the Finest of Kind Caught in Many Seasons

M. J. Spiegel of Chicago, hooked and landed a six pound rainbow trout near the old sugar plant on Pines Lake on Thursday forenoon of last week, the big fish weighing six pounds and measuring 26 inches in length.

Mr. Spiegel was with John Wine-man, one of our summer visitors who spends a greater part of his time on the lakes and streams in quest of the "big fellows," and who owns a small launch built especially for lake trolling.

This big rainbow is the largest caught so far this season and was sent by its possessor to Chicago, where it will be mounted and placed in his business office, an advertisement to Charlevoix of worth hard to estimate.

It is sport of this kind that has been the aim of members of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, who have taken the lead in restocking the streams and lakes in and around Charlevoix. Our summer friends tell us we have done and are doing good work, and also emphatically state that rainbow trout fishing in Pines Lake is equal to salmon fishing on the big rivers of Newfoundland or the British Columbia.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Enjoyable Time at Parmelee Home Tuesday Evening

A miscellaneous shower was given Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Wm. Parmelee for her sister, Mrs. Harry Smith, formerly Miss Mamie Stafford. The guests enjoyed a social evening after which iced cream and cake were served. Mrs. Smith received many pretty and useful gifts. She expects to go to house-keeping as soon as her husband returns from overseas duty.

A great deal of good is being accomplished by these meetings. Everyone is invited to come.

H. L. Francisco is the proud owner of a Ford touring car. Mr. Francisco was so enthusiastic over making the trip to Charlevoix that he forgot (?) to give his Ford a drink of cold water. Lizzie brought him safely home on this occasion but on Sunday when he wanted to take her out for a ride she absolutely refused to go. With quite a good bit of coaxing and cranking she at last was persuaded to go. Well, Mr. Francisco, you have all Ford owners sympathy for they all have their Ford troubles.

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

The trial of Mrs. Stanislaw Lypchinski, charged with the murder of Sister Mary, the Isadore nun, eleven years ago, came up in the Leelanau circuit court last week. The prosecution promises some surprises whether or not the defendant may be pronounced insane and escape trial. It looks as though there were others connected with the case against whom there is sufficient evidence to warrant prosecution. The unfortunate woman stands in about the same position to her superiors that Hindenburg does to the kaiser.

Michigan will license more than 300,000 automobiles this year, according to Deputy Secretary of State Frank Fitzgerald. Already the state department has issued 284,902 automobile licenses, compared to 262,125 last year and 160,052 in 1916. In 1916, the department issued licenses for 8,951 motorcycle. The total number of motorcycles licensed last year was 7,848, and so far this year only 6,388 motorcycles permits have been granted. Three years ago the state licensed 682 dealers and manufacturers, while so far this year 915 licenses of this class have been granted. Deputy Fitzgerald makes another appeal to automobilists to rush their applications for drivers' licenses in order to avoid delay in getting these out before August 14, when the new law requiring every operator of a motor vehicle to have a state license goes into effect.

Cheboygan's mountain of sawdust caught on fire from sparks from a passing boat or railroad locomotive one day last week and for a few hours nearly smoked Cheboygan east side residents out of their homes. Flames from the pile shot many feet into the air and carried firebrands considerable distance.

The state board of auditors has received more than 100 letters from civil war veterans inquiring about the possible payment of soldiers' bounties provided for in the Baker bill, passed during the special session of the legislature this year. These bounties are due soldiers who have never received all or part of the $100 bounty offered by the state under an act of 1864 and range from $50 to $450, including interest, each. Application blanks are being prepared and will be sent to the veterans registering for the bounty within the next couple of weeks. On return of the blanks each case will be investigated and, if the bounty is found due, payment will be made. The sum of $20,000 has been made available, under the Baker bill, for this purpose.

A loaded revolver, two boys playing Indian, one is dead. Thus is the story of a sad accident told. William Page, aged 16 years, and his brother, Reginald 13 years old, were playing Indian at their home Tuesday afternoon just before supper, when William pressed the revolver to his younger brother's chest and pulled the trigger, shooting him through the right lung, death following in a few minutes. It was not known that the gun was loaded, although after the shooting it was found that it contained only the one bullet. The boys were sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest H. Page. Mr. Page came from Detroit only last week to visit his family. It is reported that this is the third time the dead boy has been shot while playing.—Mancelona News.

F. M. Sayre, superintendent of the Corn Products Refining Co.'s plant at Argo, Ill., declared that one of the results of the strike, in which three have been killed and a score seriously wounded, will be the elimination in the future of all "non-English speaking employees from the plant." This will mean the dropping of the names of about 700 men and women strikers from the rolls when the plant reopens. Officials of the company blame aliens for the strike.

Alpena vesselmen and the owners of steamships using the harbor frequently are protesting vigorously against the decision of the United States engineers to construct a rip-rap breakwater near the mouth of Thunder Bay river. A big petition signed by the vesselmen and business men of Alpena has just been forwarded to Hon. Frank D. Scott, member of congress from the Alpena district, requesting him to object to the rip-rap construction and to secure a square-faced breakwater that is more suitable to the needs of Alpena harbor. All large boats using the river have to back out there, as there is no harbor tug. Backing out in a beam wind, the big steamers are constantly in danger of getting on this bank, to the detriment of the bank and danger to boats. In the fall, Alpena harbor is used as a harbor of refuge by all small and medium sized craft, and they are very short of dock room. During certain times the river is full of boats and there is need of a breakwater built in such a manner that boats can tie up to it in shelter. The board of supervisors of Alpena county has also sent in a request to Congressman Scott to use his influence to secure a change from rip-rap to square-face wall construction.

The July issue of "All Outdoors," New York magazine for nature lovers and sportsmen, has five pages devoted to summer charms of Michigan under the caption of "Why Michigan? Here's Why." Entirely logical reasons are advanced as to why Michigan is the most desirable spot for summer resorting and touring supplemented by a series of fine illustrations and a tourists' map of the western section of the state, showing practically all the West Michigan Pike and the Dixie Highway routes of travel, as well as lake and rail connections. Charlevoix and immediate vicinity is given favorable mention.

Many fire losses are reported the past week in this vicinity owing to the extremely dry weather. James Thompson in Echo township, lost a tenant residence, barn, sheds, tools and 150 chickens in a fire, Wednesday. Geo. Patterson, residing near Intermediate lake lost his residence and barn. On the John Schroeder farm, timber and grain were destroyed and Ben Schroeder lost a quantity of hay.—East Jordan Herald.

Twenty six new laws were passed during the special session of the Michigan state legislature just ended and the total cost to the taxpayers of the state was about $30,000 or something more than $1,000 per law, according to the records. Each member of the legislature received $100 and mileage for attending the special session. The House salary roll was $10,000 and mileage paid representatives was $3,187.40. The 32 senators were paid $3,300 this included the salary of the lieutenant governor, a while their mileage amounted to $957.60. Each member of the legislature gets a salary of $800 for the regular session and $5 per day, not to exceed 20 days, for each special session. Mileage is paid at the rate of 10 cents per mile. Senate and house employees were paid $7,466 for the special session and mileage for employees totaled $1,160.40.

East Jordan experienced a heavy hail storm Wednesday afternoon of last week which did considerable damage to fruit and growing crops in addition to breaking many window lights in various parts of the city. The hail stones were of jagged shape rather than the usual round ones. Some measured nearly two inches across and weighed nearly three ounces. The heavy wind which accompanied the hail stones broke down several trees and caused some damage to the telephone and electric light wiring.—East Jordan Herald.

Ely July, Cheboygan young man, was burned to death at the Cheboygan home of his sister, Mrs. Ehrig, Sunday morning, July 6, when a kerosene can from which he was pouring oil onto the fire in the kitchen stove exploded and covered him with burning fluid. He lived about five hours after the accident. In hurrying to the scene in answer to cries for help from the young man, Charles O'Brien fell and broke one knee. The flames spread so rapidly through the house that Mr. and Mrs. Ehrig barely had time to save their children.

EDITORS AND RAILROADS

A questionnaire submitted to the newspaper editors of the United States on the subject of the railroads shows an overpowering majority opposed to government ownership. About 83 per cent declared themselves in favor of turning the roads back to their owners, and only 11 per cent take a definite stand against that step.

The poll is probably conclusive as an illustration of the sentiment of the country. It includes the weekly newspapers as well as the dailies. Nearly 6,000 editors were heard from.

ANOTHER LIBERTY LOAN

"Are we to have another Liberty loan?" is a question occasionally heard, says the Chicago Herald-Examiner. We had believed it hardly possible that a sixth drive for war funds would be necessary. With the end of demobilization in sight, the peace treaty signed, revenue pouring in from the junking of aeroplanes and sale of ships, it seemed the need for artificially replenishing the nation's war chest had passed for good.

But we had overlooked the cost of making peace. In our provincial narrow-mindedness we had not taken account of those smart social accompaniments of diplomacy which are taken for granted in the continental atmosphere.

Our bill at the Hotel Crillon has not been handed to us and, as there was no understanding when Uncle Sam tossed his scarpetbag to the bell hop, we haven't the faintest idea what it is going to be.

Of only two items are we certain. One is 2,000,000 francs for closing the doors to the public. The other is 100 bottles of champagne for a party. How often such parties occurred we do not know.

While the American peace delegation occupied the hotel, by the way, the place is theoretically United States territory. But we learn that corks popped there as late as July 5.

Still, if we do have to dig up a Liberty loan to get out of Paris without a visit from the sheriff, there will be comfort in the fact that our gallant little band of 400 or so officials, relatives and attaches got along with only one servant for each guest, and that they struggled through with a puny little fleet of seventy automobiles.

"Please, mister, can't I sell you a plus bond this morning?"

United States Marshall Behrendt thinks that congress ought to pass some laws so that federal officials could stop crimes before they are committed. So do a lot more of us. But locking the barn after the horse is stolen has always been a feature of American criminal law.

ANOTHER RULING ON SOLDIERS INSURANCE

No Increase in Rates on Policies of Certain Dates

News of interest to all discharged service men who hold government insurance policies has been received in a circular letter from the bureau of war risk insurance. The letter states that no man whose policy dates from later than July 1, 1918, need pay any increase in his premium rate when he sends in his premium for this year. The 10 per cent increase affects only those whose policies are more than twelve months old and others need not pay the extra sum until July 1, 1920.

That's what Monarch Range Will Give You

The Monarch has been called the aristocrat of Ranges, an impressive name indeed. Aristocrat because of its beauty, so easy to keep clean. No stove polish needed. Then its sturdiness of construction assures perfect baking at all times for there is no stove putty to loosen and fall away in the years to come. The Monarch's low up-keep for fuel and repairs pays for itself within a short time.

THE CADDIE COLUMN

(A column edited by the Caddiemaster for the purpose of sharpening the caddies' interest in their work and keeping parents in touch with those in charge of the boys at the golf grounds.)

The following caddies were raised from second class to first last Monday morning: Miles Russell, Ward Richardson, Clayton McFarlane, John Kelterhouse, Gilbert Gordon, Louis Bersau and John Sharrow.

Lewis O'Neil served successfully as professional's caddie last week and Frank Krulik has made a good start on this week. This job keeps a caddie pretty busy now-a-days and pays well.

There are occasionally evidences that the caddies of today are too well off and don't know it. One of these evidences is the attitude of the boys on Sunday afternoon. The boys are not urged to appear on Sunday, but when they do appear it is understood that they have come for the purpose of working and working for the regular rates. There are no "Sunday rates." Wages have been increased for those boys who are worth the increase. Don't spoil a good thing by being obstinate or unruly merely because you seem to have things coming your way. If you do, you may find them going the other way the next morning.

Florence Holland, Louise Krulik and Lucy Walker have joined the caddie forces since last week. This raises the number of girl caddies to eight.

The "rush" at the links is rather slow in coming. But it will be here and that right soon. Boys and girls who intend to work there this season should report at once, so that those of them who need instruction may receive it before the heavy work comes.

Bradley Atchison appeared at the links the day after his father's return from the service, wearing an overseas cap. Said someone: "Well, kid, we're glad to see you back again."

Bradley: "Oh, this ain't mine; it's my dad's. He picked it up on the battle-field."

The other fellow: "Is that so; how'd he happen to drop it?"

Altogether Bradley is quite a veteran. He wears his gas mask to town occasionally and worked at the links all one afternoon with a "tin hat" on. We expect to see him come out soon leading the kaiser at the end of a rope.

With Exception of After Seven O'clock on Saturdays

Restricted sprinkling hours in the city of Charlevoix have been removed, and from now on water consumers can use all the water they need, the only exception being that the city council asks that no sprinkling be done on Saturday evenings after seven o'clock.

A new motor of sufficient horsepower has been purchased to replace the one recently burned out, and is now installed and in working condition. The burning out of the old motor, coming as it did at a time when water consumption was the heaviest, caused considerable inconvenience both to the city and residents.

OUTLOOK FOR CORN IS GOOD

ACCORDING TO BUREAU OF CROP ESTIMATES

Oats and Barley Below Ten Year Average—Other Crops in Splendid Condition

The outlook for corn, wheat and rye is the highest for more than 15 years in the state, according to the joint report issued by Coleman C. Vaughan, Secretary of State and Verne H. Church, Field Agent, Bureau of Crop Estimates. The state will produce more than double the amount of wheat, nearly 40 per cent more rye and, from present indications, nearly 46 per cent more corn than last year. The condition of all other crops is generally satisfactory except that of oats and barley which are 14 and 12 per cent, respectively, below the ten year average and hay which is three per cent below. The ground is exceedingly dry and all crops are beginning to suffer. Unless good rains come soon marked deterioration is inevitable.

The condition of winter wheat is 99 per cent, the highest on record for more than 15 years. It indicates a production of 21,008,000 bushels which is also the largest within the same period of time, being 560,000 bushels greater than produced in the banner year of 1915. Harvesting is well advanced in the southern half of the state and is being prosecuted under favorable weather conditions but with a shortage of labor. Only three other wheat states show a better condition than Michigan at this date.

The acreage of corn planted is estimated at 1,707,000, being 6 per cent greater than last year. The condition is 97 per cent, which is equaled by only one other state, Wisconsin, and which is 17 per cent better than the ten year average. About 40 per cent of the acreage is generally cut for silage, leaving an indicated grain production of approximately 39,000,000 bushels.

The oats crop has suffered much from drought and heat which have reduced the condition to 73 per cent. This forecasts a crop of 44,385,000 bushels or about two-thirds that of last year.

The condition of barley has also been lowered during the month being 76 per cent, which indicates a production of 6,278,000 bushels.

The condition of rye improved one point during June, being 98 per cent. Like wheat, it is the highest July 1 condition for more than 15 years. The estimated total production is 9,345,000 bushels.

The hay crop is being secured under generally favorable conditions, but the yield has been shortened by dry weather. The present outlook is for a crop of 3,217,000 tons. While this is less than the average, it is considerably more than the light crop of last year which amounted to only 2,718,000 tons.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illaess are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with paaty or maddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "aerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists who should see a little, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of Ilmestons phosphate in it. Ays and tea yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, soiled fermentation and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, many breath, rheumatism, colds and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of Ilmestons phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside beauty because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have bladder trouble—Take glass of Salts.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurt, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

The acreage of beans has been reduced considerably from that of last year, the greatest reduction being in the counties on the southern and western edges of the bean district. In the heavy producing counties, where the yields have been best, the reduction in acreage has been much less. The preliminary estimate is 353,000 acres; condition, 90 per cent; and the total production 3,654,000 bushels.

The acreage devoted to potatoes is estimated to be 333,000, two per cent less than that of last year. The stand is generally very good, the condition being 92 per cent. Beetles are reported to be more numerous than usual in many sections. While it is too early to make an accurate estimate of final production, the present condition, if maintained throughout the season, indicates a crop of 3,125,000 bushels.

A large acreage of sugar beets was planted, but a shortage of labor for field work, dry weather during the germinating period, diseases and insect pests have caused the loss of some fields in many localities. The condition is 85 per cent.

There has been a marked decline in fruit prospects during the past month. Cold weather during the glooming period caused poor pollination and reduced the set. In many orchards; this was followed by hot and dry weather which, while favorable for the elimination of scab and other fungus diseases, caused a heavy drop of the fruit that did set. Apples, peaches and pears show the greatest decline. Blackberries and raspberries have been injured by the dry weather, and the crop will be much less than the abundant crop promised earlier in the season.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

To prevent grasshoppers from cutting binder twine, mix two gallons of kerosene and one gallon of crude creosote and soak balls of twine until saturated. Let them drain and dry before using. This treatment is recommended by W. P. Flint, Assistant State Entomologist of Illinois, and is based on one year's results.

Now is the time to select and save samples of grain to show at the county fair.

These recent rains make us think we may be able to raise some clover seed in the county this year. In face of the predicted severe shortage, those who can raise their own seed, may undoubtedly consider themselves lucky.

The County Agent will be in attendance at the conference of county agents held at Grayling Thursday and Friday of this week.

Don't give up to the hopper. Fight him. Use the poison bait method.

Why Juniors Leave the Farm
Why did you leave the farm, my lad? Why did you bolt and leave your dad? Why did you beat it off to town and turn your poor old father down? Thinkers of platform, pulpit and press are wallowing in deep distress.

They seek to know the hidden cause, why farmer boys desert their past.

"Well, stranger, since you've been so frank, I'll roll aside the hazy bank; 'I left my dad, his farm, his plow, because my calf became his cow."

"I left my dad, 'twas wrong of course, because my colt became his horse."

"I left my dad to sow and reap, because my lamb became his sheep."

"I dropped the hoe and stuck the fork, because my pig became his pork."

"The garden truck that I made grow was his to sell; but mine to hoe."

"It's not the smoke in the atmosphere nor the taste for life that brought me here."

Dr. C. W. Hewitt Addresses Large Audience at Atwood

Dr. C. W. Hewitt spoke for one hour to one of the largest audiences that attended the Atwood M. E. church and it is the opinion of many that Dr. Hewitt delivered the most powerful sermon ever preached from that pulpit.

Taking for his text the twelfth verse of the fifty-fifth chapter of Isaiah, subject: "The Development of a Soul," Dr. Hewitt took up in a most masterful manner the handy work of God as seen in the waving fields of grain, and the forests, from the hill tops. And as Rev. Hewitt carried his large audience with him on this great subject he made it plain that the "hills shall break forth into singing, and the trees of the forests shall clap their hands," to the man who walks with Jesus the son of God. We wish to have the opportunity of again hearing a sermon from this great man of God.—A Subscriber.

BOARD ENGAGES PRIMARY TEACHER

Miss Smith Needs No Introduction to Pupils or Parents

Miss Ethel Smith has been hired as primary teacher in the Ellsworth school for the ensuing year, and although the hiring of a teacher has been long delayed, we believe the board has made a wise choice.

Miss Smith needs no introduction to either pupils or parents in this vicinity.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Smith, living just west of town, and secured a large part of her education in the schools she will now enter as a teacher. She graduated from Central Lake high and from the Mt. Pleasant normal. She has had two years teaching experience and has given excellent satisfaction and the members of this school district may consider themselves fortunate that she could be induced to accept the position.

WEATHER NICE; NOT TOO HOT

RALPH DAVIS TELLS OF WEST VIRGINIA CLIMATE

Says Beauty of Country is Long Season—Farming Different Than Charlevoix

Ralph Davis, who sold his store and warehouse at Phelps recently and moved with his family to West Virginia writes the following interesting letter to his father-in-law, Louis Williams, of Ellsworth:

"Well, Dad, I am taking a little nooning so will spend it writing to you. Ate so much ham boiled with cabbage that I am really no good to write.

"Weather is very nice, not too hot, but dandy corn weather. Have been cultivating a late piece yesterday and today (two horse riding cultivator.) Work corn has been shipped now. It is about seven to eight feet tall and just beginning to tassle. "Most of the tobacco is waist high and cotton beginning to bud or square as they call it here.

"The beauty of this country is the long seasons, lots of corn was up the first of April and more planted after taking off their oats and that is just right to cultivate now. Oats and wheat are both harvested and cut June 1st. First crop of potatoes was dug and second crop will soon be planted. Japan peas or soy beans are planted from May 1st to July 15th, for second crop to August 15 for hay. We have about 160 acres under cultivation planted to corn, cotton, tobacco, sweet potatoes, peanuts, melons and a few Irish potatoes, also Japan peas.

"Strawberries are all gone, also cherries and mulberries, but blackberries are now in season and the quality is simply fine and the quantity abundant. Never saw so many or such nice ones, they equal the best of Michigan's tame berries. We have them for breakfast, dinner and supper.

"It would make you smile to see them farm here, but conditions are so much different here. We use tons of fertilizer and very little can be grown without it. They don't plow under sod and the land looks rather thin to me where it is sandy, but it produces well. I never saw crops grow as they do here, but you have plenty of clay and land as black as tar and just like our Michigan muck.

"The land is full of ditches about four feet deep and from 40 to 80 rods apart running to the river (Tar river.) Snakes in the ditches, berries beside them and niggers in plenty between them.

"We have six regular niggers on this farm and some times 8 or ten when cotton and tobacco are ready we have many more. We have some of the finest mules and also some fine horses. What cows they have are on a good average.

"People here talk a little crooked. They never hoe their crops, they chop it, they never have a lot or a quantity of anything, but in the language of a typical southern man in an answer to a question I asked him, he said, 'Yess-ah boss, I reckon we done plant a right smart of bacco heah in Noth Klina.'

"Well, Lewis, come down and stay a year with us, I know that you will like the people. Fishing good in the river. Rabbits, quail and squirrels abundant, some pigeons and I am told that wild turkeys are plentiful in the timber, also wild cat and bear along the river.

"Jim and Dan are anxious to get to work so I must hitch up, Jim and Dan are my team. We have four horses and three mules on the plantation.

"Persimmons and melons will soon be plentiful, come and help us eat them. Regards to all,"

RALPH DAVIS.

AMERICANISM WITH PEACE OR INTERNATIONALISM WITH WAR

Persistent efforts are being made to cajole the public into the belief that the League of Nations is a "league for peace." To prove the utter falsity of that assertion the Republican Publicity Association, through its president, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., herewith presents an analysis of the covenant, by articles, clearly demonstrating that the adoption by the United States of the proposed League of Nations means WAR, not PEACE.

The stork argument of the proponents of the covenant for a league of nations has been that the undertaking will prove an instrument for world peace. They have even gone so far as to characterize it as a "league of peace," and its opponents have been denounced as preferring war, as trying to make political capital at the expense of the peace of the world, and as putting obstacles in the way of the future happiness of mankind. Going before the people with their plans to support the league if they wanted peace, the league advocates have won many individuals to their cause who have accepted the statements of the agitators at their face value without troubling themselves to see if they were borne out by facts. But like the peace cry away from the league advocates and there is nothing left on which to base their claims for support of the covenant.

The whole structure of the league is centered about the idea of compulsion. Starting with a council of the representatives of nine states, really dominated by three nations, or two, if the United States stays out, it is proposed to subjugate all the rest of the world to its will. The very essence of the covenant is force, to be exerted on any nation which, in the opinion of the council, is not comporting itself according to the rules laid down in the covenant and interpreted by the council.

The covenant bristles with limitations and restrictions on independent nationalism that will prove a constant irritation to countries accustomed to determine their own affairs free from foreign interference. Almost every article in the covenant, save those that deal purely with administrative routine, has in it the essentials for the creation of friction likely to lead to war between nations; in fact, some of them not only tend to war but make war automatic and compulsory.

Article 1, in defining the method

DARKEN GRAY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens
So Naturally that Nobody can tell.

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe. Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Article 6 provides for the appointment of the first secretary general of the league and authorizes him to appoint the secretaries and all other members of the league staff. That official has already been named. He is an Englishman of note, and doubtless a very worthy and able gentleman—but an Englishman with all that the word implies. If there is one trait that distinguishes a British citizen above all others it is loyalty to king and country. Everything is subordinated to service of the empire. Every incident in English history is a separate incentive to the Britisher to think of his country first, last, and all the time. The secretary of the league, with his absolute power to appoint subordinates, will see to it that the personnel, if not composed entirely of Englishmen like himself, are completely amenable to his dictation. How will Americans like that situation, and are they likely to accept it with submissive acquiescence? Would we not feel a little resentful if every official in our own senate and house of representatives was an Englishman? Yet in this super-government, clothed with power to override almost anything our own congress may do, the entire secretarial work, including the care of the archives is under the complete jurisdiction of England. Is that a tendency toward peace or war?

Article 7 establishes the seat of the league at Geneva. That means that our destinies are to be determined by a court sitting 3,000 miles distant from our own shores, only a cable connecting us with the proceedings and even that means of communication subject to such censorship restrictions as may be prescribed at the time. Our experiences during the war have shown how easy it is for all news from across the water to be denied us when the officials so decree. The location of the headquarters of the league at Geneva simply means that the question of our participation in world wars, of tremendous taxation on our people, of life or death to our soldiers, and of our commercial relations with other nations of the world, are to be considered and determined behind closed doors, so far as our keeping in touch with them is concerned. Is that state of affairs likely to promote peace and contentment, or will it probably engender irritation likely to find expression in armed resentment?

Article 8 relates to disarmament. It provides that the council, "taking account of the geographical situation and circumstances of each state," shall plan the reductions in the armies and navies of the several nations. After those plans have been accepted they shall not be exceeded without the concurrence of the council. Here is the situation proposed: Each nation submits a report of its military and naval strength to the council of nine, and those gentlemen, putting their wisdom of the affairs of all nations ahead of the knowledge possessed by the representatives of those nations themselves, proceed to cut down and pare away armies and navies according to their own conception of national needs. England, seeing at once the danger of such an arrangement, has made a reservation that, no matter what is done, the supremacy of her fleet shall not be endangered. The United States, on the other hand would be completely at the mercy of the council, dominated as it will be by eight foreign votes to one. Is that a situation into which you want to project your country, and are we going to accept with equanimity the judgment of that council when it orders us to dismantle our modern battleships, remove fortifications from our coasts and the Panama Canal, and destroy our army organization that has been built up at such fearful cost? Do you believe in putting in the hands of foreigners the power to run riot ad libitum with our national defenses?

BETTER APPLY FOR LICENSES

BLANK APPLICATIONS HERE FOR DRIVERS

Sheriff, Deputy Sheriff and County Clerk Have a Supply—How to Make Application

Licenses Will be Issued to 14-Year-olds
The original law for licensing operators of motor vehicles provided that no license could be granted to a person under 16 years of age. At the special session in June this section of the law was amended and the age limit placed at 14 years. It now reads, "no license shall be issued unless the applicant is over 14 years of age."

Have you applied for your license as an auto driver? You better not be caught driving an automobile without one after August 14, next. Sheriff Weaver and his deputies, also county clerk Richard Lewis have a supply of applications, as well as many of the local granges.

Anyone who wishes to obtain a license to drive a motor vehicle, must first fill out the application blank. This must be sworn to before a notary or justice. After being properly sworn to before the officer, the application must be taken to Sheriff Weaver or to one of his deputies, who must examine and express his approval by his written signature.

After the application blank has been properly filled out, sworn to before a notary, examined and approved by the sheriff or deputy, then the application with 50 cents fee, must be sent to Hon. Coleman C. Vaughan, Secretary of State, Lansing, Mich. DO NOT send stamps or uncertified checks, as they will not be accepted. Send money orders or drafts or registered letter.

If you drive for hire you must secure a chauffeur's license for which the fee is $2.00.

BUTTERMILK HAS KICK TOO

Prof. L. B. Allyn of the State Normal school is deluged with samples of non-alcoholic beverages that he is asked to analyze. The food expert recently received a consignment of prune wine that the owner felt sure would have a broad demand.

On analysis, Prof. Allyn agreed that the demand would be phenomenal. The non-alcoholic drink, which apparently lacked even a mild kick, contained 52 per cent alcohol.

Because of rapid fermentation few samples of buttermilk show less than 1 per cent alcohol and thereby buttermilk, as a beverage, is endangered if the law is strictly enforced, Prof. Allyn says.

a full and accurate list of all the licenses he issues, which lists must be preserved as a public record.

The law is printed in full upon the back of each application. It will be well for every motor vehicle driver to get a copy and read it carefully.

TICKET SELLERS HERE AUGUST 10

Charlevoix to Entertain Guests While in the City

W. E. Wolfenden, general passenger agent of the Pere Marquette railroad, was in the city Friday of last week, arranging for the entertainment of a bunch of P. M. ticket sellers, who are due to arrive in this city August 10.

The ticket sellers, estimated fifty in number, will arrive by special train and will be here from 7:00 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. They will be guests at the Inn for breakfast and at 11:30 will be entertained by the business men of Charlevoix at a special luncheon at the Beach Hotel.

During the forenoon they will be taken in cars provided by our citizens and shown the reason for the name of our beautiful city, "Charlevoix the Beautiful."

The event is an annual outing and from this city they will go to Potoskey.

VOTE ON TWO PROPOSITIONS

SPECIAL MEETING OF BOARD OF EDUCATION JULY 28

Matter of Refunding Bonds to Be Taken Care of and Purchasing Smith Property

A special meeting of School District No. 1 has been called by the Board of Education, at which time two propositions will be put before the people. One is to issue refunding bonds to the amount of $9,000 to take care of that amount of bonds that fall due this fall. A resolution was adopted at the regular meeting authorizing the issuance of these refunding bonds, but there seemed doubt of the legality of the action then taken, and to make sure, the special meeting will be held and the authority to refund be again voted.

The other proposition is one authorizing the purchase of the Oscar Smith property, adjoining the school ground on the northwest. The board of education has had the plan of this purchase in mind for several years, and it is something that we feel sure the voters will sanction. The purchase of this land will square out the tract of land owned by the school district, which is now in an irregular shape.

Some day in the not distant future the additional space will be needed for new buildings, and it is the part of wisdom to obtain the title at this time. Should it be deemed best, the house can be left where it is for a time, and rented at a figure which will pay interest on the investment the district may make. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have set a price of $2,000 on the property, and the board considers this a reasonable figure.

It is to be hoped that the authority to purchase this property will be voted at the special meeting, which is to be held on Monday, July 28.

LIVE STOCK MEETING ON THURSDAY

County Committee and County Agent Call One This Date

The Live Stock Committeemen of the County Farm Bureau and the county agent are calling a live stock meeting at East Jordan, Thursday, July 24th at 2 p. m.

Recent work with individuals through the county has awakened a wonderful interest in better livestock. This meeting is being called as a means of uniting these interests for a better livestock campaign for Charlevoix county which will place our county on the map as one of the foremost breeding centers of the state.

Anyone who has a vision of what such a campaign will mean for the development of our county is asked to attend whether he is a livestock breeder or not.

TRIP WAS A STRENUOUS ONE

CHARLEVOIX PEOPLE SPEND DAY AFTER HUCKLEBERRIES

Party Who Rescued Watermelons Objects to Certain References Regarding Act—Sand Deep

"Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Usher, of Charlevoix, where Mr. Usher is managing editor and proprietor of the Charlevoix Courier, with a company of Charlevoix people consisting of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Butler, Col. and Mrs. A. J. Hamilton, Richard Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black, Mrs. Lou Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Miller, with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Leveek as guides, drove east of Potoskey for huckleberries Saturday. A fake raid on their camp Saturday night caused the newspaper man to chase the watermelons into his own tent. Seven bushels of berries were secured, everybody was tired and happy when Potoskey was reached Sunday afternoon. 'Fires everywhere made things slightly unpleasant at times,' said some of the party Sunday."—Potoskey Evening News, issue Monday, July 21.

Well, we cannot refrain from commenting on the above article, not only to correct any wrong impression those who read it might form, but to add additional information as to the conduct of other members of the party. We plead guilty to the charge made in regard to the watermelon, but felt rather peeved when some member or members remaining in the tent turned the flash light in our direction when we entered after our heroic rescue. It took some nerve to leave your downy (?) couch and rescue the melon, but to have a strong light thrown on you, with only your B. V. D's on, was, in our opinion, a poor manner in which to show their appreciation.

We also desire to congratulate the Leveek's on the able manner in which they conducted the party to the berry patch, our only comment being on they way they fell down in their attempt to conduct the "bunch" into dreamland.

We might also criticize Col. Hamilton for attempting to monopolize the jar of butter the flies drowned in and also remarks of another member of the party directed toward a certain innocent puppy dog.

The journey over was a strenuous one, due chiefly to sandy roads, steep hills, frequent stops to jolly "Lizzie" and the horrible thirst, contracted or acquired by some of the ladies. "Dick" Lewis' bottle of tea was a life saver on more than one occasion, and regardless of the fact that his snoring during the night kept the other members in the tent awake, he was given a vote of thanks for his forethought.

The trip home was made without incidents of a serious nature other than a sudden attack of "sea-sickness" which caused one occupant of the guide's car some inconvenience. This might have been from overeating some cheese included in the "eats," or possibly from the swaying of the car.

Charlevoix members of the party arrived home safely, despite the many hardships they underwent, and on Monday greatly enjoyed the first huckleberry pie of the season.

DOROTHY GISH IN "THE HOPE CHEST"

Summer Visitors Ask That Entertainment Be Repeated

A petition signed by over half a hundred summer visitors was presented to manager Moon of the New Palace Theatre the first of the week, asking him that the picture, "The Hope Chest," by Dorothy Gish be repeated.

The management of the theatre wishes to announce that the picture will be repeated here on Monday, August 11th. The picture is said to be one of the best ever thrown on a local screen, and many who were not able to attend the afternoon and evening of its presentation here, will have the opportunity of seeing it on August 11.

Governor Sleeper Here

Governor A. E. Sleeper and a party of friends who were touring northern Michigan last week, on Friday visited Charlevoix, Potoskey and Harbor Springs. The party made made but a short stop here.

AUTO THIEVES BUSY AT WORK

LOCK YOUR GARAGES AND KEEP AN EYE ON CAR

Three Cars Are Stolen and Run Into the Brush When They Break Down

Sheriff Weaver of Charlevoix county and Sheriff Miller of Emmet county are trying to round up a gang of automobile thieves who have been operating in this section the past ten days. While no arrests have been made as yet, evidence that may lead to the offenders has been obtained which we hope will eventually land them in jail where they belong.

The first report of their operations came from Central Lake Thursday, where a car, evidently stolen further south, was found near the village discarded and run into the brush. From there a Ford was stolen and driven north to a point near Pellston, where it was left in the brush broken down. From Levering another Ford, this one belonging to Ivan Athren, was taken and driven to Potoskey and left in the park near the Lincoln school. Then the thief or thieves stole a Willys-Knight touring car belonging to A. A. Wheat from the garage near the paper mill, and since no trace of this car has been found. The other three cars have been returned to their owners.

The Potoskey car was a 1919 model, painted a black brown, had yellow wheels and was fitted with Fisk tires. The Michigan license number was S-2964 and the factory number of the car was 18,509. A reward of $75 is being offered for the return of the car and the arrest of the guilty parties.

CHARIOT RACE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Big Event Takes Place on Bridge Street Between Teams

Probably one of the most amusing and side-splitting stunts to be pulled off in Charlevoix this season will be a chariot race on Bridge street, Saturday afternoon at 4:00 p. m., between picked teams of boys hitched to a small chariot, and driven by one of their number.

Each team will consist of four boys, beside the driver. The run will be fifty yards, the team making the best time winning the prizes offered. The event is being staged by the Blanchard Hardware Co. and Sanitary Engineering Co. jointly, the hardware company acting as agents and the Engineering company as manufacturers of the chariots.

Manager Allen has secured permission from the mayor to divert traffic off Bridge street during the time of the contest, and without a doubt the event will be witnessed by a large crowd of people.

CHARLEVOIX HAS A MERRY-GO-ROUND

For First Time in Many Years—Fun For the Kids

The Collins Amusement Co. of Grand Rapids have rented the Sears property at the foot of Clinton street and are busy placing the merry-go-round in readiness for the opening night, which is Wednesday. The Collins Co. need no introduction to the public as they have local fairs in Grand Rapids, St. Louis, Marquette, East Jordan and several other towns where the people enjoy good clean fun.

The Merry-Go-Round will run every afternoon at 3:00 o'clock and at seven o'clock in the evening.

This is a new entertainment for the youngsters of the city and mothers will be perfectly safe in allowing their children to participate in this good clean sport.

Good order will be kept around the grounds and everything done for the welfare of the public.

Giva Violin Lessons

Rita Jarvis Amick, teacher of violin, will form a class within the next week, which is now open for those who desire instruction. MANY CALLS FOR FURNISHED ROOMS

Charlevoix Commercial Association Flooded With Requests

Hundreds of inquiries have been received by the Charlevoix Commercial Association for furnished rooms, cottages, or concerning some good convenient place to spend a few weeks or a large portion of the summer months from people local in all parts of the country.

Inquiries are still coming in daily and the association desires all who have furnished rooms or cottages for rent to notify the president or secretary of the association at once, describing just what you have, thus enabling them to answer the inquiries, stating at the time just where they are located.

The association has taken this duty upon themselves and will do their part in filling every room or cottage in the city if the owners will co-operate with them.

If you have rooms, or a cottage you want to rent for the balance of the summer, give a description of it, location, how many rooms, then mail or hand it to Mason Rose, secretary, or H. K. Allen, president. No charge will be made for the work by the association.

GOOD DOPE FOR POISON IVY

TREATMENT USED BY MANY WITH BEST OF RESULTS

Cut Out Recipe and Paste in Convenient Place—No Telling When You May Use It

Below is a quick and sure cure for poison ivy, at least it has been recommended to be by a person we know well and in whom we have considerable confidence. It has been used many times and so far has never failed to cure if used according to directions.

As there is a great deal of the poison ivy in this part of the state, and it is nothing unusual to meet one of its victims, we are glad to be able to publish the treatment for the general good of the public.

Since poison ivy is a sticky, mucilaginous substance which sticks to the skin, the first thing to be done is to wash, really scrub, with a scrubbing nail brush, with gold dust or strong laundry soap, or some other strong alkali, then bathe parts with aqua ammonia or gasoline if you have no ammonia, to kill the poison. Then paint with potassium permanganate diluted with ten parts of water to one of potassium permanganate. When you have surely killed the poison so that there are no water blisters forming, then wash with alcohol, and bandage with the following solution:

Carbolic acid 2 grams
Resorcin 2 grams
Bismuth subgallate 4 grams

Equal parts of water and lime-water to make 250 c. c. Bathing with solution of epsom salts will stop itching.

Care must be taken during the water blister stage not to let this seeping of water touch other parts as it will infect whatever parts it touches. Bandaging with absorbent cotton is good.

FREIGHT AND DUMMY MEET HEAD-ON

Crews of Both Trains Escape Without Serious Injury

A freight train on the G. R. & I. railroad and a dummy train met head on near Waynagum on the shores of Round lake north of Potoskey at 8:00 p. m. Tuesday, completely demolishing the dummy and badly wrecking the engine and several freight cars.

The freight was running on schedule and the dummy wild, when they met. No one was killed outright but one man had his arm broken and seven or eight of the lesser injured were taken to Potoskey hospital.

Both train crews jumped before the crash and one man, on the dummy, feeling the effects of the emergency brake, jumped through the window and escaped injury. The impact of the trains when they met was so great that less than four hushels of coal was lost in the tender of the freight engine, and pieces of the cars were thrown considerable distances.

GERMAN U-BOAT WILL DOCK HERE

CAPTURED GERMAN SUBMARINE WILL STOP HERE JULY 31

Charlevoix Included on Its Itinerary of Lake Ports—May Stay Two Days

The U. C-97, a captured German submarine will visit Charlevoix next week. The U-boat is scheduled to arrive here Thursday, July 31 and leave on August 1. This will give the people of Charlevoix and vicinity a splendid opportunity to inspect the craft.

The ship is now on a tour of the Great Lakes and attracting great crowds wherever it is exhibited. The "sub" made its first stop at Alpena on Saturday and Sunday it reached the Soo.

The schedule of the submarine is as follows:

	Arrive	Depart
Houghton	July 23	July 24
Duluth	July 25	July 27
Maackinac	July 29	July 31
Charlevoix	July 31	Aug. 1
Manistique	Aug. 1	Aug. 2
Menominee	Aug. 2	Aug. 3
Green Bay	Aug. 3	Aug. 5

Several of the captured U-boats are making tours of the country. One is along the Pacific coast and another up the Mississippi valley. The purpose of these tours is to show the people of this country what the submarine is and what the allied navies had to contend with to overcome its danger.

Very few cities of the country offer the opportunity that Charlevoix does for an exhibition of the kind that the submarine will give here. The excellent harbor will permit the craft to glide up the river, giving the people an opportunity of viewing the boat from both shores of the river and the bridge.

It is understood that a gun-boat manned by members of the naval reserve will probably meet the submarine at one of the lake ports and come with her to Charlevoix as an armed escort.

SOME HEN-IN LACROSSE, WIS.

No one in LaCrosse believed it when Gna Rhodes, farmer, living near West Salem, claimed he had a hen which was laying six and seven eggs a day. Poultry men sent J. H. Benson of LaCrosse to the farm to watch the hen for two days. Later Benson appeared in the county judge's office there and swore to an affidavit that Rhodes' hen laid fourteen eggs in two days. The next morning Rhodes called up an announced the hen laid nine eggs that morning. Why not send for a setting of these eggs? You chicken fanciers, we mean.

Most wonderful of all is the nest of the hornbill. The hen bird lays her eggs in a hollow in a tree, and as soon as she is settled on them the male bird walls her in with clay, leaving just space for her head to stick out. He feeds her, and there she sits, not only until the eggs are hatched, but until the young are big enough to come out.

The first annual meeting of the East Jordan Co-operative Association was held at the armory in East Jordan Saturday evening. Over two hundred representative farmers and producers of this territory were in attendance and the spirit of co-operation and good will was a predominant feature of the evening. Officers of the association made most gratifying reports of the year's work. The organization has completed a year's work and is now on a firm business foundation which means that its success in the future is assured. At a subsequent meeting of the directors the following officers were elected: President: James E. Secord; vice president, Stephen Shepard; Secretary Treasurer, S. E. Rogers. At this meeting it was decided to increase the membership fee to $20. This to take effect on August first. During the balance of July new members will be received into the association at the old rate of $10.00. Those not already members are urged to consider the benefits to be derived by affiliation with this live organization, and place their application with the officers.—East Jordan Herald.

According to statistics compiled by Auditor General O. B. Fuller the apportionment of primary school money which will be made this week will be on the basis of $7.70 per capita and the fund which contains approximately $7,000,000 will be appropriated in the basis of $18,376. The counties will receive $7.70 for each child of school age.

Congress will investigate the charges that the big packers are conducting a nationwide propaganda directed against the pending Kenyon bill to regulate them, Senator Kenyon, Iowa, author of the measure, declared last week. The senate agricultural committee will conduct an investigation, he said. He collected evidence which will be placed before the committee. Included he said are copies of circular letters sent by packers to stockholders, bond holders, branch houses and bankers, urging protest.

Congressman Carl E. Mapes has introduced a bill requiring all passenger boats going out of sight of land to carry a wireless outfit. The bill also requires all coast guard stations to be equipped with wireless outfit. The bill was introduced at the instance of Joseph Horner of Grand Rapids who with his wife and family were passengers on the steamer Holland which was lying off Muskegon two days disabled, June 28 and 29.

More than $2,000,000 worth of trucks, equipment and explosives, to be used in federal aid highway construction has been turned over to the state highway department of Michigan by the federal government, deputy commissioner Leland W. Carr announced late Tuesday afternoon. Michigan seems to be among the leaders in the number of trucks and other materials received from the government for road work, and the obvious reason is the forward strides the state is making in its new program for construction of federal aid and trunk line highways. A large number of the trucks have already been received from the government and are generally in good condition. Most of them the state will have to equip with boxes for hauling road materials and means of transportation.

AN ACT OF KINDNESS

A Charlevoix Resident Speaks Publicly for the Benefit of Charlevoix People

If you had suffered tortures from kidney trouble, Had experimented with different remedies without relief; If you were finally cured through a friend's suggestion— Wouldn't you be grateful?

The following statement has been given under just such circumstances: Mr. Herington has used Doan's Kidney Pills.

He publicly tells of the benefit he has received.

It is a simple act of kindness to other Charlevoix sufferers.

No need to experiment with such convincing evidence at hand.

Mr. Herington speaks from experience.

You can rely on what he tells you. Barney Herington, cement contractor, 108 W. Garfield Ave., says: "About eight years ago my back gave out on me. It became so lame and sore I could hardly bend or stoop. When I did, sharp, knife-like pains caught me in my back and I could hardly straighten. My kidneys were out of order, also. As I had often read about Doan's Kidney Pills I tried them. Three boxes cured me and fixed me up in good shape. Since then when I have had to use a kidney medicine, Doan's Kidney Pills have always done good work."

A committee composed of Messrs. Craig, Hase and Brown from Walloon Lake, were in Petoskey last week to interest the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce and Petoskey business men in Walloon Lake. The men urged that every effort be made to have the road from Petoskey to Clarion completed at the earliest possible moment, and that the men here assist in securing fish fry to be planted in Walloon Lake. They returned home with the promise of assistance from the Petoskey men, that the road will be buried to completion as rapidly as possible, and that their needs in the way of fish fry would be cared for by the state fish commission as rapidly as proper applications for fish were made. Their visit is expected to assist in bringing about a closer relationship between Walloon Lake and Petoskey.—Petoskey Evening News.

HARD DRINKS AND SOFT

Every experienced tippler knows what used to happen to the man who mixed his drinks too freely. But that was probably nothing to what would happen to a teetotaler who went around, in the old-time way, sampling all the temperance drinks on sale now-a-days.

The Louisville Courier-Journal suggests, as an appropriate punishment, that a "delightful prohibitionist" should do this very thing. But it would be indeed a cruel and unusual punishment, and not altogether logically suited to the offense.

Nobody has ever determined how many alcoholic drinks a man can imbibe with impunity. There are thousands of men extant who in their time have drunk a couple of dozen glasses of beer in rapid succession, or half as many highballs or cocktails or glasses of whiskey. Is there any man living who has ever drunk so many non-alcoholic drinks in one series?

Where is the man or woman darling enough to put down so much as three consecutive glasses of ice cream soda water of different flavors, or even of the same flavor?

It is not the purpose of this screed to prove that prohibition drinks are more deadly than booze, though a sophist might make a pretty good argument along that line.

The only salvation in these supposedly innocuous beverages is that somehow or other, people don't keep right on drinking them the way they did with alcoholic drinks.

Some day, however, some unregenerate druggist may start putting alcohol in his ice cream sodas. Then when the rush at that particular counter is over, and the inquest is held, it may remain forever a debatable question whether it was the alcohol or the ice cream soda that caused the mortality.

ROAD ENGINEERING

An engineering expert says that a motor truck going eight miles an hour, along a highway, though moving only twice as fast as a truck going four miles an hour, does four times as much damage to the roadbed.

If the speed is doubled again, making 10 miles an hour, there will be 16 times as much damage as there was the the four-mile speed.

The fact is reduced to a mathematical formula thus: "Poundage on a road—which amounts to the same as damage—increases as the square of the speed." Thus weight is a far less important factor than velocity.

The same reasoning naturally applies to a touring car or a wagon. It is probably new to most people. It may be verified by any doubter if he will take the pains to experiment and observe as carefully as the engineers have done. One state has partly recognized it by charging higher license fees for fast vehicles.

Such experimental work ushers in a new era in what the experts call "mobile transportation." It calls for thorough knowledge not only of the destructive power of vehicles but of the resisting power of the road they travel over. It is a big subject, growing more important every day.
One of the big universities has decided to establish a department of "transportation engineering," dealing particularly with this subject. If the knowledge already available were generally diffused, it would be worth hundreds of millions to the country.

PACKERS' PRICES

The experience of the War Department in selling the surplus army foodstuffs throws an interesting little sidelight on the cost of living with special reference to the meat packers.

The department tried to dispose of 143,000,000 pounds of canned and cured meats by the usual process of sealed bids. It was obliged to reject all the bids because they were ruinously low. The highest prices offered for bacon and other staples was about 50 per cent of what the government had paid for them.

Nearly all of the 86 bids received were submitted by the packers themselves. They completely dominated the bidding in the number of offers and in the quantity of goods they themselves had sold the government.

It is indeed an illuminating commentary on the packing industry, its war profits and its present relation to the cost of living when, seeking to buy up those army supplies in order to keep them from being sold in competition with their present output, the best the packers feel able to offer is half as much as they received for those same goods a few months ago.

Is that what the stuff is really worth? And is the public now paying the packers twice as much as their product is worth?

However the packers may explain these bids, the government is certainly doing right in declining to sell the food in the open market. Instead this food is being offered to municipalities and there will be plenty of enterprising, wide-awake cities and public institutions glad to get it at what the government paid for it; they can make a big saying at that price and to some extent cut the ever-with-us-high-cost-of-living. If such disposal results in lowering prices, as it should, we're not going to sit up nights wasting sympathy on the packers.

LAST WORDS OF THE STARS AND STRIPES

With its issue of June 13th, the "Stars and Stripes," official organ of the American Expeditionary Forces, became no more. But the doughboy who served in the trenches in France will long remember the "Stars and Stripes," and the memory will be a pleasant one.

The Stars and Stripes never uttered anything that more strongly expressed the view of the doughboy when it said editorially in its last issue—"Nobody under God's tranquil skies can tell of the rottenness of war but the men who suffered through it. Upon them rests a solemn duty. They must go home and shake the coward jingo who masks himself behind his blatant, false patriotism and the merchant-politician, not content with stuffing his home coffers until they burst—but anxious to barter the blood of his country's young manhood for new places in the sun."

Unless a man is willing to volunteer himself, and not ask that other men be conscripted, he ought not to advocate a league that will mean spilling the blood of America on all the battlefields of Europe and Asia and Africa.

retary Glass, "but no further bond is-

COMMUNICATIONS

The Courier received the following communication from J. L. Crane, president of the Charlevoix State Savings Bank, calling our attention to a certain statement made in an article appearing in an issue of the Courier dated July 3, 1918, and, as it appears to be misleading and not a matter of record on the books of the bank, we willingly give space to the communication in question. The policy of the Courier has been and always will be, under the present management, to publish facts, and should we err, or give space to a communication containing a misleading statement, we will at all times most gladly retract. In this case we were under the impression the writer of the communication was familiar with the subject he submitted to us, but as developments have since shown that he was not, we as willingly correct the mis-statement in this case as we would regardless of whom it referred to or involved.

AMERICANISM WITH PEACE OR INTERNATIONALISM WITH WAR

Persistent efforts are being made to cajole the public into the belief that the League of Nations is a "league for peace." To prove the utter fallacy of that assertion the Republican Publicity Association, through its president, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., herewith presents an analysis of the covenant, by articles, clearly demonstrating that the adoption by the United States of the proposed League of Nations means WAR, not PEACE.

The last paragraph of Article 8 obligates the members of the league to "interchange full and frank information" of the "condition of such of their industries as are adaptable to warlike purposes." Which of our industries are not? In the last two years practically every industry in this country has been working for the success of our armies, with more or less direct application of its product to the actual fighting. This provision of the covenant means nothing more or less than the publication of every trade secret that enters into the success of American industry. Even patents may be construed to come within the definition of "full and frank information." Industrially this paragraph puts our manufacturers completely at the mercy of foreign competitors who care to take advantage of the opportunity it affords. Again, do you think such a course is wise, either from your standpoint as an American citizen or as a member of humanity in general? Article 8, purporting to turn swords into plowshares, carries almost in its every word the germs of future wars and is nicely calculated to excite deep-seated animosities sure to lead to international bloodshed if the irritating cause is continued.

Article 9 provides for the creation of a permanent commission to advise the council on the execution of the military and naval questions involved in Articles 1 and 8. It is not stated what authority shall appoint the members of the commission, but probably the council will make the appointments and the national complexion of the commission will be akin to that of the council. The activities of such a body of experts will merely add a touch of refinement to the decisions of the council, and accentuate the world-wide resentment by which its decisions will be received.

Article 10 breathes war from the first word to the last. This is the provision that pledges member nations to preserve the "territorial integrity and existing political independence" of every member of the league. Its acceptance by the United States is certain to involve this country in foreign wars with states with which we have no quarrel and perhaps are on the most friendly terms. The sentiment of the article is the direct antithesis of peace. It proposes to extend to all the world every local disturbance, precisely as the dispute between Serbia and Austria involved the nations of both hemispheres. It is preposterous to call the covenant a "league for peace" when it contains such a mandatory summons to war. Article 10 alone is sufficient to damn the league covenant forever in the eyes of everyone who really wishes to see a step taken in the direction of future peace.

Article 11 is nothing more or less than an automatic declaration of war for every member of the league. Its opening sentence reads as follows: "Any war or threat of war, whether immediately affecting any of the members of the league or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to the whole league." Under this provision the United States, if a member, immediately becomes involved in every war of the future, no matter how remote from our own shores, regardless of our relations with the parties to the dispute, or our desire to remain at peace. Our soldiers and sailors, to all intents and purposes, automatically become hirelings of the league, subject to orders to proceed to the scene of bloodshed and fight against the country that the council may deem to be in the wrong. Do you want to send your boys off on such a mission? What becomes of the "league-for-peace" cry in the light of this article?

Article 12 includes an agreement by member nations to submit to arbitration or to the council any dispute in which they may be involved, and not to resort to war until three months after the award by the arbitrators or the report of the council. It is provided that in such cases the arbitrators shall submit their award "within a reasonable time" and the council "within six months." Suppose the dispute had been submitted to the council, then a period of nine months may elapse before a nation is permitted to vindicate its rights by force of arms. Meanwhile it must stand idly by and witness the destruction of its civilization, the murder of its nationals, and the overthrow of its government, entirely destroyed.

This provision is really a prohibition against the establishment of peace. If you find your family menaced by a gang of thugs you are prevented from raising a finger in protest until the matter has been thoroughly thrashed out by a regularly constituted board of umpires. Is that a theory you wish to see applied to the United States, in its dealings with Mexico, for instance? Article 12 is an insurance of war rather than a step toward peace.

Article 13, like the provisions that precede it, contemplates war, but under different circumstances. After providing for the reference of disputes to arbitration and the award of the arbitrators, the Article reads: "In the event of any failure to carry out such an award, the council shall propose what steps should be taken to give effect thereto." The ominous meaning of that declaration is apparent. The nation that declines to abide by the decision of a council, stacked eight to one against it, is to feel the full force of such "steps" as the council may prescribe. In other words, war will be waged against the disobedient nation until it is willing to subjugate itself to the will of the league. Here, again, we have war, not peace, with the United States inevitably involved if it shall be a member of the league.

Article 14 stipulates that the council shall formulate "plans for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice." Inasmuch as the council, the secretariat, and the assembly are dominated by England, it is not difficult to forecast the complexion of the court. While it is not mandatory for a nation to submit its disputes to that particular court, the inference is plain that such a reference is expected. Article 14 does not have the elements of friction in it possessed by most of the other sections of the covenant, but it is easy to see that disagreements and misunderstandings, liable to lead to open rupture, may arise from the judgments of such a court.

Article 15 is the section that pretends to reserve so-called domestic questions for determination by the nation concerned, free from interference by the league. This is the article under which England will reserve to herself the determination of the Irish problem. Insurrection and bloodshed may run rampant in Ireland for all that the league of nations will do to prevent it. Likewise, revolution may disrupt every country on the face of the globe before the league will step in with its courts of arbitration, council, assembly, and other machinery for "peace" to bring about a cessation of the carnage. The inconsistency of the league as an agent for peace is conclusively demonstrated in this article. Members of the same national family may murder each other with impunity, but let one of them shoot somebody on the other side of the border, and the league awakes to the fact that there is trouble brewing for humanity and fuses about to find a remedy.

Article 16 prescribes in considerable detail the methods that will be followed by the league in enforcing its decrees. The moment a nation resorts to war to preserve its national honor in disregard of the obstacles to prompt action put in its path by the covenant it is to feel the might of the league. A world boycott is to be instituted against the offending state at once. All "financial, commercial, or personal intercourse" with the rest of the world is to be severed, and an international army and navy, recruited from the military strength of the other member nations, are to proceed against the offender. Article 16 is war from start to finish. Force without stint is the prescription set forth in its language.

Article 17 offers membership in the league to a nation, party to a dispute likely to lead to war. If such a nation declines to enter the league and assume its obligations, and undertakes to settle its own affairs in its own way, then the drastic punishment prescribed in Article 16 will descend upon it. War again! This time it is to come as a measure of coercion to compel a nation to enter the league and yield up its sovereignty to the dictation of foreigners. Let a country assert its independence and evince a determination to mind its own business and compel its neighbors to mind theirs, and its lands are to be laid waste by "this league for peace," its nationals slaughtered in the defense of their homes, and the country as a national entity destroyed.

Article 18 prevents any future treaty from taking effect until it shall have first been registered with the secretary general of the league. This transcends completely the treaty-making power of the senate, and prevents the consummation of treaties designed to promote amity between nations unless they shall have taken the course prescribed by the meddling league. Let a country undertake to enter into a separate agreement with its neighbor, as every nation has a perfect right to do, and it is immediately liable to all the rigors of military and economic pressure that the league can bring to bear. Situations have often arisen in the past when the interference of a third party in the treaty agreements between two nations have led to war, and it is easily conceivable that they may be repeated in the future.

Article 19 empowers the assembly to advise member nations to reconsider treaties that the assembly thinks have become inapplicable. No compulsion to change such treaties is contained in the article, but the inference is plain or the provision would never have been included in the covenant. England, it is understood, intends to reserve the treaty of alliance she has with Japan, but what will happen to other nations that persist in keeping their international obligations is a matter of conjecture.

Article 20 goes a step further than 19 and binds members of the league to abrogate all obligations or understandings inconsistent with the terms of the covenant. That means that a member nation, having a treaty with a non-member nation, shall immediately repudiate its written word. Such a state of affairs has been productive of wars from time immemorial. Germany started hostilities by repudiating her treaty with Belgium and invading that unhappy country. But the league actually proposes to make such repudiations mandatory. Any self-respecting nation that is thus flouted by another with which it has a solemn undertaking is justified in resorting to arms, and such will be the result of a general application of the principle enunciated in Article 20.

Article 21 is declared by President Wilson to preserve the Monroe Doctrine. English authorities say it does nothing of the sort. Here is a clash even before the league becomes an actuality. Suppose we proceed on the theory that our Monroe Doctrine is not invaded by the league and undertake to enforce its restrictions against foreign states. Immediately there is a conflict with the league, and it becomes incumbent upon us to retreat from our position or fight. We are at once confronted with the alternative of abject surrender or war.

Article 22 is the one under which mandates are to be provided for weak states. It is suggested that Armenia and possibly Constantinople are to be allotted to the United States. Think of the millions of dollars and scores of precious American lives that will be sacrificed if we undertake the policing of that portion of the Turkish empire. However great our compassion for the sufferings of the Armenians, are we ready to send armies for their protection against the cruel Turk? Actual war may not result from Article 22, but unnecessary shedding of good American blood is inevitable if we assume the obligations that it contemplates.

Article 23, among other things, declares that members "will make pro-

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.

MONDAY MORNING CLEAN-UP TIME

Ellsworth Development Ass'n Lays Plans for Cleaner Village

The Ellsworth Development Association met at the Citizens bank on Monday evening of this week for the discussion of the regular business and several matters were taken up. A committee consisting of M. R. Nelson, Arthur Gidley and Wallace Weiss were appointed to devise some sort of entertainment for one or two evenings of the week, and a committee was also appointed to look after sanitation of the town where this was needed. E. R. Harris and L. VanSkiver were the members appointed on this committee.

It was also decided to make Monday morning of each week a time for white wing activities on the street and plans were made for the cartage and disposal of the rubbish swept up and collected at that time.

The building of side and cross walks were discussed at some length, as was the matter of a special school election to make District No. 9 a graded school with a board of education consisting of five members.

The association is composed of enthusiastic members and the chances are that something decidedly worth while will be accomplished in the near future.

He was taken to Charlevoix where the fracture was attended to by Dr. Armstrong and up until this time he has been getting along nicely.

Americanism with Peace or Internationalism with War?

vision to secure and maintain freedom of communication and of transit and equitable treatment for the commerce of all members of the league." This is a vague and dangerous obligation for any nation to assume, full of pitfalls if it is to be literally enforced. This is another world guarantee, this time of a commercial nature, to which every nation becomes a party. Is the United States to insure the inviolability of the commerce of Hedjaz, for instance of Czecho-Slovakia or Serbia or Siam? Contemplate, if you can, the manifold complications in which we would become involved were we to adopt such obligations, any one of which might easily plunge us into war if our duty was conscientiously performed.

Article 24 places all international bureaus under the direction of the league. That means that the Pan-American Union, designed to foster more amicable relations between the American republics, shall move its headquarters from Washington and become a part of the organization of the league at Geneva. The Union heretofore has been a power for peace, enabling the United States to keep a close touch with affairs to the south of us. With its relegation to far-away Switzerland, much of its potency in that direction will be lost.

Article 25 contains an agreement to encourage national Red Cross organizations, having as purposes "the mitigation of suffering throughout the world." Probably a belated realization of the world trouble that will be hatched the moment the league becomes a reality, prompted its authors to insert this encouragement to the Red Cross, so that it will be prepared for what is to come.

Article 26 prescribes the method of amendment of the covenant. Before taking effect an amendment must receive the unanimous vote of the council and also a majority of the assembly. Such restrictions make it practically impossible for an individual state to succeed in getting amendments that it desires, and a failure to do so is bound to lead to strained relations and possibly open rupture. Compulsion is the keynote of this article, as it is of the whole covenant.

During our life as a nation we have not enjoyed uninterrupted peace. But the wars in which we have been engaged concerned issues directly affecting our national life and welfare. Any man who would have suggested that we rush into Asia to settle a controversy between China and Japan would have been branded as insane. It never entered anybody's head in 1904 that we should interfere by force in the Russian-Japanese war. Yet each and every one of the old world conflicts that take place in the future is to be made a "matter of concern" to the United States, and we are to become embroiled in it if we subscribe to the obligations of the league covenant.

A policy of Americanism means that we go to war only to protect our country from foreign aggression. The policy of internationalism embodied in the league means that we go to war to protect every other country on the face of the globe from foreign aggression. Which do you prefer? Is it to be "Americanism with Peace, or Internationalism with War?"

Nobody seems to sow so many of them as the man who sows his wild oats late.

GLASS OF SALTS IF YOUR KIDNEYS HURT

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have Bladder trouble—Salts fine for Kidneys.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night. To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.

DRUGGISTS MAY HANDLE WHISKEY

But Only as Medicine—Few Will Bother With It

Liquor for medicinal purposes may be sold on physicians' prescriptions, under the war prohibition act, according to orders received from the Internal Revenue department. Druggists who have been licensed for the sale of non-beverage alcohol, and have paid the federal tax for retail liquor dealers may fill prescriptions, subject, however to certain restrictions.

The law provides that physicians may prescribe spirituous liquors for patients who are under their constant supervision, and that each doctor must keep a record, with separate page for each patient, in which is to be entered the name, address and the nature of the illness for which the patient is to use the stimulant and the name of the druggist who is to fill the prescription.

Druggists are required to file liquor prescriptions in separate guarded files and to enter the name, address and specified disease of each patient, and the name of the doctor who ordered the liquor. Once a month, the law requires that a report be filed with the revenue collector by each druggist who dispenses spirits, giving the names of those to whom prescriptions have been given, and the amounts each has received, together with the names of the prescribing physicians.

The collector is required to check these reports each month and in the event that persons have been presenting prescriptions for liquor from more than one physician, or in the case of doctors who have issued an undue number of prescriptions, he must report each instance to the revenue commissioner for his district, and also to the United States district attorney.

THE CADDIE COLUMN

The following caddies were promoted last Saturday from the second class to the first, having secured the proper number of recommendations and maintained a good record for behavior and regularity: Clyde Cross, Harold Eichers, Harold Taylor, Thaddeus Brown, Alfred Gill, Harold Dutcher, Mark Smith, Oakley Crandall and Roy Anee. This raises the total number of first class caddies to 42.

The new system of graded caddies is working well. It is just what was needed to make a fellow's work worth while and his efforts steady. Yet it must be thoroughly understood that failure to deliver the goods will put a boy back where he belongs. Good pay calls for good service.

The badges came last week, and all first class caddies have been supplied with them. Each boy deposited fifty

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhance its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store, a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing it through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

cents upon receiving his badge. The money was immediately placed in a small envelope with the boys' number on it, and this fall, when the boy turns in his badge, the envelope with his number on it, containing his fifty cents will be returned to him. These badges should not be lost, they should be fastened securely in such a place as they can be easily seen and recognized.

There is to be a new dime-a-week club. Last year the Charlevoix caddies gave nearly $70.00 to the local chapter of the Red Cross society by the dime-a-week method, each boy contributing a dime a week for ten weeks. This year it has been decided to contribute in the same way, for five or six weeks to a fund to be turned over to the Charlevoix Free Library on September 1, for the purchase of boys' books of travel, adventure, biography, etc. Practically every boy in Charlevoix uses the library in the long winter months, and surely nothing will give such boys more satisfaction than knowing that they have helped build up and make serviceable this fine public institution. Each book will have a bookplate in it indicating that the volume is the gift of the Charlevoix caddies. Let every boy help in this movement.

Frankie Krulik (9, second class) finished the week as professional's caddie with something like $25.00 as his remuneration. Leon Solomon (20, first class) has been chosen to serve this week.

The patronage at the course now averages 160 to 170 players a day. It has been necessary to set aside three groups of boys, chosen from the first class caddies, to send out with doubles on alternate days, the first shift on one day, the second on the next, etc. This is done to guarantee as far as possible that the same caddies will not always get the doubles.

By the way, have you commenced that bank account? Or are you spending most of what you make in these days? Do you buy a lunch of hot dogs, ice cream and cocoa-cola, paying the price of a meal for it, when you might as well bring a lunch from home and save your money and your health. Do you want the caddie master to help you save your money? If you aren't busy, get busy; if you are busy, keep going.

The excursion? How about August 24?

AUTOMOBILE PARTY FROM CLEVELAND

Pleasantly Entertained at Home of Mrs. Moyer of Hayes

Friday of last week an automobile party consisting of two machines from Cleveland, Ohio, pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Moyer of Hayes township. In the party were three brothers of Mr. Moyer, two of whom he had not seen for twenty-four years. The whole party included Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Moyer and son Clarence, his wife and son, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Moyer, daughter Marie and her chum Iva Sulzer and Mr. LeGrande Moyer. Miss Marie is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Tunison of Bay Shore.

WORK RENEWED ON CITY HOSPITAL

With View of Completing Structure This Season

Work has again been started on the proposed new Charlevoix hospital, and it is expected that before the summer is over, the building will be ready for occupancy.

At a meeting of the board of directors held Tuesday evening, ways and means were discussed and it was found that enough money was available to complete the hospital, and the work would be pushed as rapidly as possible. A building committee was named, whose duty will be to direct the building operations.

FIRE LOSS NOT AS REPORTED

No Fires Within 20 Miles of Charlevoix of Serious Nature

Reports published in state papers during the past few days state that fires are running through all parts of northern Michigan, causing heavy property loss and endangering the lives of its inhabitants. One dispatch states there is a bad fire between Charlevoix and Petoskey, and the eastern part of the county is in danger of being wiped out.

"Such reports as these are false. In no part of Charlevoix county are fires of a serious nature. The fire north amounts to nothing at all, and in the few sections east, it is running over the plains, doing little or no damage. We make it a point here, to emphatically state these reports are published under a Petoskey date line, that they undoubtedly originated in the brain of some cub reporter who knew no better, and was only after the few cents he would receive as pay for sending in "the news" as he sees it.

In the northern part of Emmet county, fires have swept over miles of territory, and in several instances, farm buildings have been burned. Saturday morning Wolverine suffered a loss of a large portion of its main business district, and on the east side of Crooked Lake, several resort cottages, in a remote section, have been burned.

But as far as fires in Charlevoix, around Charlevoix, or any danger from them, it is bunk, pure and simple.

SOUTHERN PEOPLE ENJOY LONG DRIVE

Make Trip From Charlevoix to Mackinaw by Auto

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hensel, Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Hensel and Master Harry Hensel, all of Brunswick, Ga., arrived a few days ago to spend the summer with Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ferris of Hayes township, but unfortunately the two gentlemen were called home on account of business, having been interested in government work and so many adjustments taking place at present were obliged to shorten their stay in northern Michigan.

However, a motor trip had previously been planned and was carried out on Sunday, motoring from Charlevoix to Mackinaw City, taking in all the beautiful points along the way. Notwithstanding the dense smoke they all thoroughly enjoyed the trip, and pronounced it one of the most beautiful trips they had ever taken.

The ladies will remain for an indefinite length of time and from here will visit another sister, and other relatives in southern Michigan before returning to their homes in Georgia.—Contributed.

Full Glory of Cherry Blossoms. Bloom of the cherry trees in Japan occurred earlier this year than usual, owing to the exceptionally warm weather of the early months. The blossoms were out in great profusion on Sunday, March 30. The big sakura trees in Uyeno park were in full bloom; the yoshino sakura, or common variety, came out in full bloom on April 3, the anniversary of the first emperor of Japan. Everybody in Japan is enjoying the arborescence of springtime.

Resist the Impulse. The impulse to write poetry is one that at one time or another convulses every one of us, but our action is that quite a number ought to control and smother it and very few ought to attempt it without first consulting friends and the family physician.—Houston Post.

Speaker's Sore Throat. "Clergyman's sore throat" is, according to Dr. John J. Levharg of New York, due to an incorrect method of breathing, which causes the speaker or singer to use his muscles incorrectly and thus overtax the throat. The proper way to breathe is to use the diaphragm and the lower ribs, keeping the upper chest full of air.

STATISTICS OF THE WORLD WAR

WHAT THE WAR COST IN MONEY AND MEN

United States Placed Same Number of Men in France in One-Half Time England Did

The Courier has received from the secretary of war an extended statistical report entitled: "The War With Germany." It was prepared under the direction of Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, chief of the statistics branch of the general staff, and is the official report of the general staff on the operations of this country at home and abroad.

Space will not permit the publication of the report in the columns of this newspaper, but following are a few statements taken from the summaries of the various chapters:

"The number of men serving in the armed forces of the nation during the war was 4,800,000 of whom 4,000,000 served in the army.

"The British sent more men to France in their first year of war than we did in our first year, but it took England three years to reach a strength of 2,000,000 men in France, and the United States accomplished it in one-half that time.

"Of every 100 men who served, ten were National Guardsmen, 13 were regulars and 77 were in the National Army.

"Of the 54,000,000 males in the population, 26,000,000 were registered in the draft, or were already in service.

"In the physical examinations the states of the middle west made the best showing.

"There were 200,000 army officers. Of every six officers, one had previous military training with troops, three were graduates of officers training camps and two came directly from civil life.

"Forty-two divisions were sent to France.

"More than two-thirds of our officers were graduates of the officers training camps.

"During our nineteen months of war more than 2,000,000 American soldiers were carried to France. Half a million of these went over in the first thirteen months, and a million and a half went over in the last six months.

"Among every 100 Americans who went over, forty-nine went in British ships, forty-five in American ships, three in Italian and two in French, and one in Russian.

"Requirements for some kind of clothing for the army were more than twice as great as the pre-war total American production of the same articles.

"The distribution of supplies in the expeditionary forces required the creation of an organization called the Service of Supply, to which one-fourth of all troops who went overseas were assigned.

"American engineers built in France, 83 new ship berths, 1,000 miles of standard gauge track and 538 miles of narrow gauge tracks.

"The signal corps strung in France 100,000 miles of telegraph and telephone wires.

"Prior to the armistice 40,000 trucks were shipped to the forces in France.

"The army in France always had enough food and clothing.

"The total production of Springfield and Enfield rifles up to the signing of the armistice was over 2,500,000.

"The entire number of American machine guns produced to the end of 1918 was 227,000.

"American production of rifle ammunition amounted to approximately 3,500,000,000 of which 1,500,000,000 were shipped overseas.

"Two out of every three American soldiers who reached France took part in battle.

"American divisions were in battle for 200 days and were engaged in thirteen major operations.

"In October the American divisions held 101 miles of front or 23 per cent of the entire western front.

"In the battle of St. Mihiel 550,000 Americans were engaged. The artillery fired more than 1,000,000 shells in four hours, which is the most intense concentration of artillery fire recorded in history. The Meuse-Argonne battle lasted forty-seven days, during which 1,200,000 American troops were engaged.

"The American battle losses of the war were 500,000 killed and 236,000 wounded. They are heavy when counted in terms of lives and suffering, but light when compared with the enormous prices paid by the nations at whose side we fought.

"In this war the death rate from disease was lower than in any previous American war.

"Pneumonia killed more soldiers than were killed in battle.

"Out of each 100 cases of venereal disease recorded in the United States, ninety-six were contracted before entering the army, and only four afterwards."

Another Birthday Party

Lawrence Korth proved himself a charming host Tuesday afternoon to twenty-three of his friends, the occasion being his fourth birthday. Various games were indulged in during the afternoon and a general good time enjoyed. A delicious luncheon was served, after which the little folks departed wishing Lawrence many more happy birthdays.

NUN MURDER CASE TO OPEN JULY 29

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT IS DENIED BY JUDGE

Court Holds Sufficient Evidence Is Produced to Hold Suspect to Circuit Court

Attorneys for Mrs. Stanislaw Lypchinski, the priest's housekeeper who is charged with the murder eleven years ago of Sister Mary John of the Isadore convent, announced that the habeas corpus writ petition would be carried before the state supreme court following the decision of Judge Frederick W. Mayne at Leland that the aged woman must stand trial July 29.

The court held that sufficient evidence has been produced upon which to warrant holding her to circuit court. He also stated that there was sufficient evidence that the body dug from beneath the Isadore church and transferred to a cemetery at night was that of the missing nun. He also held there was sufficient grounds to believe murder had been committed. The only clue to the identity of the corpse was the nun's possessions found buried with her. The fact that she had been missing eleven years while seven years constitutes legal death was sufficient grounds to believe Sister Mary John dead, the court ruled.

A change of venue from Leelanau county probably will be asked. The case will be called despite the appeal to the Supreme court and will open unless an order postponing the trial is received from Lansing.

WILL PURCHASE SMITH PROPERTY

Special School Meeting Held Monday Evening

The matter of refunding bonds to the amount of $9,000, due September 1, was taken care of at the special school meeting held Monday evening, and arrangements were made whereby one bond of $1,000 will be paid each year.

Another matter of considerable importance to the citizens of Charlevoix, the purchase of the Smith property, on Clinton street, was sanctioned, and the board was instructed to close the deal.

The acquisition of this property will square out the land owned by the school district, and will without doubt be utilized within the next few years.

Improving Store Front

The hallway leading to the second floor of the property owned by A. Butters, occupied by Geo. Glados, is being rebuilt of brick veneer, greatly adding to the appearance of the building and making a connecting wall of brick between the Butters property and the New Palace Theatre. Mr. Butters is to be commended on his action in thus improving the appearance of our main business thoroughfare.

UC-97 UNABLE TO VISIT CITY

MACHINERY OF EX-GERMAN SUBMARINE BREAKS DOWN

Will Stop Only at Western Ports on Way to Chicago—Hundreds Are Disappointed

The ex-German submarine UC-97, scheduled to arrive at Charlevoix July 31 and depart August 1, has been forced to cancel all dates scheduled on account of a breakdown of machinery, and will not stop at Charlevoix as announced.

The following letter explains the situation in detail. Hundreds of people who had planned to visit the city and see the under water boat will receive this information with keen regret. The boat, as stated in the letter, may stop here at some date later in the season, and its arrival and departure will be announced in these columns. The letter follows:

Great Lakes, Illinois, July 28, 1919.

Charlevoix Board of Commerce, Charlevoix, Mich.

"Dear Sirs:—You have, no doubt, received information either from this office or from the commanding officer of the ex-German submarine UC-97, that that vessel would, sometime during the summer, visit your city for the purpose of exhibiting her to the people of your neighborhood.

"It is to be regretted that, on account of numerous breakdowns and accidents to the machinery of the submarine, it has become necessary to modify the proposed itinerary, and to send her as soon as possible to Chicago, Illinois, for repairs, stopping at such places on the west coast of Lake Michigan as it may be found feasible to do so on her way to Chicago.

"Therefore, it would be impossible at this time, and probably impossible this summer, to have the vessel visit your city. If, by some good fortune the machinery is placed in safe operating condition for making the return trip from Chicago in your city, there is a bare possibility that the visit may be undertaken late in the season. In this event, you will be duly notified in advance.

"Yours very respectfully,
"HERBERT M. NULTA, Lieut. Com. U. S. N. R. F."

CHAMPION SKATERS AT ROLLER RINK

Four Day Contest Staged for August 5, 6, 7 and 8

The greatest roller skating attraction ever staged in Charlevoix, or for that matter, all northern Michigan, will take place at the Charlevoix Roller Skating Rink on August 5, 6, 7 and 8.

The leading attractions at this event will be Paul Drew of Chicago, champion roller skater of the world and holder of the best speed records so far made, and Vereal Seaman, champion of the world for his size, and holder of speed records equally as good as those of the world champion. The contest will be the best two out of three, and in case of a tie, the fourth race will be run on the last night. If the first three nights decides the race between the two champs, the fourth night will be devoted to an exhibition race.

Both Drew and Seaman have made records that have rather staggered those following this line of sport, and without a doubt some record-smashing will be done on one of the four nights during this contest.

Seaman, although a youngster, has speed and endurance, and will give his older adversary a run for his money. The event will be a thriller and local fans should be there every evening and boost for the home boy.

Captain Spring Married

Announcements have been received in this city of the marriage of William Clark Spring, formerly of East Jordan to Miss Teresa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McRea of Detroit. Captain Spring will be remembered in connection with Co. 1, of East Jordan, having been lieutenant at the time the company went overseas. Charlevoix friends extend their sincere congratulations.

Go to Mrs. G. Taylor, 309 Bridge street for fresh Grand Rapids and Charlevoix Bread. Fresh baked goods every day. New assortment of candy just received.

MENAGE TO ALL CEREAL CROPS

HIGH BARBERRY BUSHES MUST BE DESTROYED

U. S. Department of Agriculture Representative Reports Hundreds of Bushes in City

Have you the high bush or purple-leaved barberry on your premises? If so, it is your patriotic duty to destroy it at once, because it endangers Michigan's grain crops. The amount of rust loss for next year depends on whether you allow this shrub to continue to grow in your yard or garden.

A. G. Weldermann, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has been working in and around Charlevoix for the past week, and reports a large number of barberry bushes in this vicinity. On one piece of ground, on the Stover road, between the cemetery and the railroad tracks, he dug 84 plants on Tuesday last, and many remain undug. He also found some on the Belvedere grounds and on lawns in different parts of the city.

The bushes on the Stover road have badly affected the oat crop on the Washburn property, especially on the south side of the field. Samples of the oats, as well as the barberry bush, will be placed on exhibition in one of the store windows this week, that all may see what the bush looks like and the effect it has on oats, as well as all cereal crops.

Mahonias bushes also have the same effect on cereal crops as the barberry, and several bushes have been located in the city, which will be removed.

Every farmer is familiar with the appearance of rust on the grains. The blasted heads that sometimes are so badly affected as to drop from the stalk and the light, poorly filled kernels are well known evidences of the effect of the parasite upon the crop. Rusty plants are covered with a rusty powder which is composed of the minute seed-like bodies—the spores of the parasite. These spores have the power of spreading the rust, and whenever one is carried by the wind to a wheat plant and growing conditions are favorable, another rust spot quickly develops. Over and over again this story is repeated until no grain field escapes severe rusting. After a time, the red rust stage is replaced by the black rust stage by the development in the red rust spots of black spores. These spores are heavy-walled and serve to carry the rust over winter.

Now comes the part that the barberry plays in the distribution of the rust. The black rust spores live over winter on straw, wheat stubble and on the common grasses, and in the spring produce a second set of spores. These spores are powerless to attack any cereal or grain, but can only attack the leaves of the barberry. On this plant the Black Stem Rust makes a yellow spot and later develops small cluster cups, each of which is filled to the brim with minute spores. It is one of the provisions of nature that the spores from the barberry can not attack the barberry leaf, but can only gain nourishment from the grasses and common cereals.

The common grasses near the barberry bushes become heavily rusted in the spring and thus the rust which starts with the barberry becomes enormously multiplied. The wind entices up the spores which are produced in countless numbers and blows them to other grasses and cereals. Thus it is that a barberry bush in a city can exert so powerful an influence over distant grain fields.

The complicated nature of spore forms just discussed make up the ordinary life of the Black Stem Rust, but it should be mentioned that in the south the red rust stage which is capable of infecting the grass or cereals over and over again probably is important in the wintering of rust. In the northern wheat states observations seem to show that the barberry is the important source of spring infections on the grains.

Under the authority given by Act No. 59 of the Public Acts of 1919, to enforce the destruction of the barberry and mahonias bush, governor Sleeper, on Friday, May 2, 1919, issued a proclamation to this effect. Watch for the plant—also look your grain over. If rust is evident, search for the barberry bush, destroy it and the loss to your grain will cease. It is necessary to destroy the bushes, and all should do it at once.

TUG PARMALEE GOES TO BUFFALO

Sold to Halloway Sand Co. by Former Owners

The steam fish tug Parmalee, owned and operated for the past twenty years by John O'Neill and son, has been sold to the Halloway Sand Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., and left Charlevoix early Tuesday morning in charge of a crew of men for Buffalo.

The Parmalee was built in Saugatuck and has been owned by the O'Neill's for over twenty years. She was about the largest steam fishing tug engaged in the fishing industry in this section of the state, and at the time of her disposal was the only remaining tug of her size and class on the great lakes between Cheboygan and Grand Haven.

She left Charlevoix at 5:00 a. m. Tuesday morning in charge of Capt. S. M. Rose, George Pappin as engineer and Pat Holland fireman. The new owners, the Halloway Sand Co., are the largest operators in their line of business in Buffalo, and it is their intentions to use the Parmalee for towing sand lighters.

With the disposal of the Parmalee, the fishing industry completely changes from the steam driven tug to the gasoline boat, the Parmalee being, with but one exception, the only steam driven tug operating out of Charlevoix.

STATE TROOPERS GO TO PELLSTON

CONSTABULARY PASS THROUGH CITY THURSDAY

Mounted Police Assist Fire Wardens in Suppressing and Reporting Small Fires

Sixteen mounted members of the Michigan State Constabulary, fully equipped for any emergencies, passed through Charlevoix Thursday evening, via the Pere Marquette, with Lieutenant LaFever in command.

The constabulary were sent north by the state authorities to work in connection with the fire warden's department in preventing fires. The men will ride the fire district in pnis, and small fires will be reported to the supervisors of the respective townships.

Owing to the bad fires west of Carp Lake and Pellston, the troops will camp at the latter place, where they went early Friday morning, after a conference with Chief Deputy Fire Warden Pearson and District Deputy Bryant.

The troopers are fully equipped and mounted, and present a soldierly appearance.

Lieutenant LaFever served seven years in the regular army and during the "booze" runs at Monroe was stationed at that place by Colonel Vandercreek, who is the commanding officer of the constabulary.

It is believed by the authorities that there will be no further fires as the systematic patrols and effective work of these two state departments working in conjunction, will endeavor to curb them before they become dangerous.

DEATH CALLS WELL KNOWN FARMER

DIED ON FARM HE TOOK UP AS HOMESTEAD

Fell and Broke Hip Twenty Days Ago—Shock Resulted in Death Friday

Robert Matchett, one of the first pioneers of this district was born December 25, 1834 in Poles, Cavern county, Ireland. At the age of twelve he with his parents moved to Arkwright, Ontario. When he was thirty years of age he and his brother, Thomas, came to Michigan, Thomas settling in Kingsley and Robert coming on to Barnard, settling on what is now the William Burns farm. While living there he selected his homestead upon which he lived until death claimed him.

He was united in marriage to Ellen Burns, July 1869. To this union ten children were born, two dying in infancy, the eight living children being at his bedside at the time of his death.

About twenty days ago Mr. Matchett fell and broke his hip and from that time has been confined to his bed, death claiming him at 9:30 p. m., Friday, July 25.

He was a kind, faithful husband and father, always a generous, true-hearted citizen, standing firm for the right and will be mourned by his children and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held Tuesday from the Barnard church at 2:30. Rev. Henry Candier, officiating. Interment in the Barnard cemetery.

AUGUST SECOND RED TAG DAY

Buy a Tag and Help Some Poor, Homeless Child

Saturday, August 2 is Tag Day in Charlevoix. Buy a Tag—it is a part of your public duty as a citizen and the funds thus raised will relieve a lot of suffering among the homeless and friendless children of Michigan.

Tag Day is being conducted under the auspices of the Michigan Children's Home Society, located at St. Joseph. Tag days have been conducted in Charlevoix for several years and for all we know, will continue indefinitely. As long as children are born they must be taken care of and given a chance to live a clean life, gain an education and take their part in the activities of public life.

The Michigan Children's Home Society has 1500 children under their supervision during the past year, they received 600 at the home and now are caring for 270. They are non-sectarian—every child receives the same attention and are placed in some good home. Their only support is by voluntary contributions.

Headquarters for Tag Day, Saturday, will be at the Hotel Charlevoix. Local women interested in the work will help. Prizes for the girl or boy selling the largest number of tags will be given. Buy a tag—and then buy another—the cause is a good one.

Death Takes Mrs. Woodgate After Continued Poor Health

Minnie L. Tift, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Tift, was born June 22, 1847, in East Nassau, New York. At an early age she moved to Portland, Mich., and later to Vineland, New Jersey. In 1897 she again came to Michigan and entered the Kellogg sanitarium at Battle Creek as a student nurse, completing her course and following her profession in Battle Creek and Kalamazoo. In 1906 she was united in marriage to Merritt C. Woodgate. To this union three children were born, one dying in infancy.

Mrs. Woodgate has lived in and near this city for the past eight years and for the past two years has lived on a farm two and one-half miles north of the city. She had been in poor health for some time, but her condition was not thought serious until a few days before her death which took place July 23, about noon.

She is survived by a husband and two children besides many other relatives. Brief services were held at Brookside cemetery Friday afternoon by the Rev. Henry Candier.

Pearl Superstition.

Pearls used to be considered unlucky and history tells of more than one queen who, before the sudden and tragic death of their royal consort, saw a dream all their jewels turned to pearls and were told that it preaged tears. Just the same, women were not afraid to wear them and nowadays we laugh at superstition.

Made Record Trip.

Capt. Klans Larson, in his little motor boat Ferro, made a successful trip from the foot of the castrat through the Whirlpool rapids of Niagara falls on September 19, 1910. Despite the battering of the Whirlpool rapids Larson went through safely; the little boat was lost to sight most of the time, but at Great Wave it was shot 20 feet out of the water. Except the old Maid of the Mist, sent through in 1914 to avoid seizure, Larson's is the only engine-propelled craft to have gone through the rapids.

INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

The state of Connecticut has recently amended that portion of its motor vehicle law pertaining to the theft of automobiles, according to report, which amendment gives the courts a weapon which, if effectively used, should cut the theft of cars to a minimum. The penalty provided is a term in state's prison of not more than ten years. A few such sentences headed out to those who live by stealing automobiles should bring results.

The Ohio legislature has passed the Lloyd bill providing for speed limits of thirty miles in the country, fifteen miles in built-up section of municipalities and twenty in residence sections of cities and towns. This law succeeds the old state law and nullifies all ordinances which seek to fix speed limits.

Frank Shaginaby and John Kewayaki, two Indians confined to the county jail, were captured last Thursday night by Sheriff Miller of Petoskey, after they had saved their way to freedom late Sunday afternoon. Sheriff Miller and family were away for a short ride and while gone the two men using caseknives for saws sawed off one bar, crawled through, picked the lock to the door, into the jailer's residence and walked out the front door. Shaginaby was captured at the home of his father near the stone crusher and Kewayaki was taken here in town. They are now confined to individual cells. Kewayaki was serving sixty days for selling booze, and Shaginaby was awaiting trial on a similar charge.—Petoskey News.

In every community the people are divided into two classes, the boosters and the knockers. You can ask yourself where you belong. The booster class is made up of people who appreciate the value of the town in which they earn their living, who always speak a good word for the town, its schools, its churches and its people; they are liberal, broad minded, and are glad when the other fellow as well as themselves is prospering. The knockers or negative class are those who care nothing about their town, just so long as they can grab the dollars, who never speak a good word for any local institution or for the other fellow, unless they have an axe to grind; who are always telling about how much better things are done in another town; who are narrow, selfish and jealous of everybody else's success. They never bought a Liberty bond or a War Stamp unless they were obliged to do so, and then sold them at the first opportunity. Again we say: ask yourself to which class you belong. If you are a booster, keep on boosting—we need you in our town. If you are a knocker, either throw away the hammer or get out of the town and give a live man your room.—Durand Express.

A boom for Senator Herbert F. Baker of Cheboygan for governor was launched at the convention of members of the Michigan Potato Growers exchange held in Cadillac last week. Forest A. Lord, editor of the Michigan Business Farmer, made the proposal and Perry F. Powers, former editor of the Cadillac News, supported the idea. The principal discussion was regarding bolshevism. This subject was injected into the confab on co-operation by E. L. Luther, of Madison, Wis., state farm leader, who declared there is a lot of bolshevistic talk among farmers regarding curtailment of production as a means to boost prices. Senator Baker, toastmaster, answered this by declaring there was no more chance for bolshevism in this country than for the prohibition party to dominate the next national election. Others also discredited the idea, declaring farmers are merely working toward elimination of the middleman. The potato growers are considering a proposition offered by G. E. Prater, sales manager of the exchange, to handle all crops and livestock raised in Michigan. If this idea is adopted a large stockyard for grading cattle will be built at Cadillac. All of the 200 delegates present declare this one of the largest and most representative farmer meetings held this year. The exchange officials reported the central exchange made money in the face of a declining market, but that some locals lost money.

Some time ago State Food and Drug Commissioner Fred L. Woodworth received information that the liquor men were circulating petitions for a vote on the ratification of the federal prohibition amendment at the November election in 1920. Petitions containing the signatures of approximately 35,000 electors have been filed with the secretary of state, but they have not been accepted pending a ruling from the attorney general. It is the contention of the state department that the referendum clause of the constitution does not apply in the case of a legislative action in ratifying a federal amendment. If the contention of the state department is sustained by Attorney General Groesbeck the question will not be submitted at the November election next year unless the supreme court overrules the decision of the state's legal department.

Upon entering his apiary, near Wm. J. Bennett's, Antrim county, early Friday morning of last week, Ira D. Bartlett discovered that some one had removed a super of combs from one of his hives of bees, and someone had been in the apiary on the evening of July 11th and taken out two combs of boacy. He decided that he would like to know who this miscreant was, and forthwith phoned to several adjoining cities to see if a good bloodhound could be obtained. He located one at Petoskey which would do credit to any sheriff's posse, and had him on the job inside of two hours. Unfortunately it rained for some time which with a very light scent on a dry grass sod made it impossible for the hound to get a sufficient scent to follow. Mr. Bartlett says that thieving in this community out only of honey and bees but of other farm commodities has been quite common in the past few years, and that eventually he will get the thieves if they continue their work. He warns would-be-thieves that a special act of the legislature makes molestation and the stealing of bees and honey a crime no less than grand larceny, which is punishable by imprisonment in the state penitentiary.—East Jordan Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sweeney and son, of Conway, were badly shaken up and bruised and their Hudson touring car wrecked Tuesday forenoon of last week when the auto collided with the G. R. & I. suburban train on the Harbor Springs run at the Bay View crossing. The accident was a peculiar one. A freight train going south had the crossing blocked for a minute or so. From the south the Harbor train was approaching the crossing. As the last car of the freight passed, the auto was started across the tracks only to crash almost instantly into the side of the engine of the passenger train. The auto was knocked to one side, two wheels being broken off, the fenders demolished and the engine broken to pieces. Mrs. Sweeney was painfully bruised and shocked but Mr. Sweeney and son were not as badly hurt.

The claims and record office of the ministry of labor at Kew, England, which is now dealing with millions of forms in connection with unemployment pay, has electrically driven accounting and tabulating machinery. Figures are transferred to special cards by holes punched in certain positions and the cards are sorted by machine into groups. These groups then pass through a machine which prints the details from each card on rolls of paper, at the same time accumulating the figures and producing a total at any given point.
An alphabetical index, consisting of looseleaf registers of all insured workers, contains 10,000,000 names, of which thousands are identical. There are 6,000 John Smiths, 2,000 John Browns, 2,000 William Browns, 1,500 William Jones, 1,000 John MacDonalds and 1,000 William Davies.

Eye Drill for Flyers.
The royal air force of England has instituted an eye drill that has made many splendid pilots out of men who would otherwise have been useless. It was discovered that a large percentage of men only use one eye at a time, and in the early days pilots were not tested for eye balance. Many men were then passed into the air service who could never land correctly. When these deficiencies were discovered a school was formed and under an eye specialist twice a day airmen undergoing the cure were paraded for eye drill and taught how to use both their eyes at the same time. The result was that 95 per cent of the men who would have been bad pilots became good ones in a little while.

Immigration Statistics.
Between 1790 and 1890 the estimated number of immigrants was 390,985, while the increase in population from other sources was 5,322,254; 1890-1900, immigrants 604,125, others 8,002,308; 1900-1910, immigrants, 1,814,257, others 4,308,166; 1910-1919, immigrants, 2,508,214, others 5,053,231; 1920-1929, immigrants, 2,316,824, others 4,790,220; 1930-39, immigrants, 2,812,191, others 8,285,221; 1940-49, immigrants, 3,246,010, others 7,230,851; 1950-1959, immigrants, 3,844,420, others 9,527,995; 1960-69, immigrants, 3,844,420, others 1,171,409. Until 1954 all alien passengers entering the United States were classified as immigrants, hence the figures until this date do not take into account travelers and are in consequence inaccurate.

Correct World Maps Cannot be Made for Months Yet

The Boyne Citizen says: "If a fellow comes along and tries to sell a set of 'up-to-the-minute' maps of the world to school district officers, pass him up. Such a chap or possibly several of them, has been at work in this state, and has succeeded in getting perfectly good money from school districts for maps that in a few months will be next to junk, considered from the standpoint of geography. The peace terms with Germany have just been signed. Those with Austria, Turkey, and Bulgaria have not been concluded and may not be for several weeks. The geography of Europe, Asia and Africa, as well as of many islands in three oceans and in the Mediterranean, will be decided by these treaties with the Central Powers. It will be many months at least, and probably not until next year, before an accurate set of world maps can be made that will give the correct boundaries in three continents, and the ownership of many islands. "Hence we say, and we know the advice is good, give the agent who wants to sell you a set of accurate up-to-the-minute world maps a glad smile but none of your cash in exchange for maps that will be worthless in a few months."

CATTLE TICK IS BADLY WALLOPED

Bloodsuckers Receive Severe Trouncing in Infested States During Month of March.

FINE WORK OF ERADICATORS

According to Reports 1,203,497 Cattle Went Through "Canal to Prosperity"—Big Increase Made in Number of Dipping Vats.

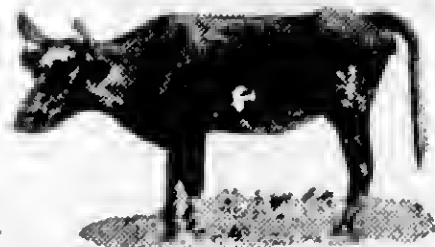

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If the annual battle against the cattle fever tick can be compared to a boxing match of nine rounds—each month from March to December being a round—it is true that the tick got a thorough trouncing in the first round, and the bell rang with the parasite figuratively hanging over the ropes.

March of this year brought more dippings of cattle for the tick than were recorded in any other March since the federal and state governments began to fight the parasite in 1906. According to reports from all tick-infested states 1,203,497 cattle went through "the canal to prosperity" in March, 1919. This compares with 696,505 in March, 1918, and 720,552 in March, 1917.

This year's results came from an effort to "Dip That Tick in March" with the object of preventing so far as possible the reproduction of the parasite. The ticks that were killed in March will produce no thousands and millions of descendants to suck cattle blood all summer. With the flying start in March, and with continued vigorous attacks through the dipping season, it is believed that the tick eradication has good chances of reaching their aim of cleaning up 90,000 more square miles of territory this year—more than ever has been released in one year from the federal quarantine against the pest.

Healthy increases in the number of dipping vats available for use also are shown by reports to the bureau. In Shorthorn Heifer, Tiek Infested.

March, 1917, there were 15,765 vats; and in March, 1918, there were 22,873. This year there were 29,255.

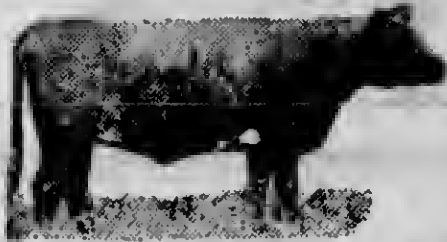

Reports From States.

A summary of the state reports shows that Alabama with 6,230 vats had 143,384 dippings in March; Arkansas, 2,301 vats, 13,770 dippings; Florida, 1,114 vats, 61,505 dippings; Georgia, 1,220 vats, 182,704 dippings; Louisiana, 4,450 vats, 253,129 dippings; Mississippi, 5,533 vats, 128,703 dippings; Oklahoma, 1,053 vats, 44,838 dippings; South Carolina, 801 vats, 1,447 dippings; North Texas, 4,905 vats, 278,437 dippings; South Texas, 1,220 vats, 66,574 dippings. Preliminary and reorganization work was conducted in North Carolina.

Amply provision has been made in every state for dipping vats, and an adequate supply of dipping materials has been distributed to the counties that will likely need them this season. Satisfactory progress in constructing vats and in preparing the dipping solution was made despite the excessive rains.

In Texas, which has the largest amount of infested territory, encouraging progress is reported from zone No. 1, which includes the territory in which eradication work is to be planned most vigorously this year. Nearly all the counties in zone No. 1 have made appropriations for the work, and construction of dipping vats is being pushed as rapidly as possible.

Shorthorn Heifer, Free of Ticks.

It is believed that the general dipping of cattle every two weeks will be conducted in nearly all of zone No. 1 during the present year.

The Oklahoma state legislature, by making a special appropriation of $40,000 assisted several counties in the southeast corner of the state which seemed unable to raise funds with which to carry on county work. With this assistance it is believed that Oklahoma is now in a position to get rid of the tick by the end of 1920.

The Arkansas legislature recently appropriated $100,000 for tick eradication in that state, and with the large force of federal, state and county employees now at work it is believed that all of the state, with the exception of seven or eight counties, will be released from quarantine next December 1. The Louisiana forces seem determined to wind up the tick fight this year, and the indications are that they will be successful.

In Mississippi, where final clean-up work is being conducted following the release of the state from federal quarantine, the courts recently decided that the state laws providing for state quarantines are legal, and it is believed that the final work in Mississippi will be successful during the present year.

State-wide Law in Alabama.

As a result of the new state-wide tick-eradication law in Alabama it is hoped that the entire state will be released from federal quarantine by next December. The law requires all county commissioners' courts in tick-infested counties to provide means for dipping and to require the dipping of cattle every two weeks between April 1 and December 1.

Systematic work is being conducted in 22 counties in Georgia, giving ground for hope that these counties will be released from quarantine at the end of the dipping season. The state-wide law enacted by the Georgia legislature at its 1918 session becomes effective in December of this year, and 1920 may be the last year of the tick's residence in that state.

In Florida it will be necessary to conduct eradication work in units composed of several counties, and for this reason more time is required to construct dipping vats and make arrangements for systematic work. The people of Florida, however, are alive to the necessity for tick eradication, and the state co-operation given in the federal government makes it seem certain that Florida, despite the great area still under quarantine, will not be the last state inhibited by the tick.

In North Carolina the eradication work is being reorganized with encouraging prospects for an early clean-up. Final "mopping-up" work is being conducted in South Carolina, from which the federal quarantine was removed last year.

COOLING MILK ON THE FARM

During Hot Weather It Is Best to Arrange System So That Water Comes Direct From Well.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Milk may be cooled most efficiently on the farm by running it over a surface cooler in which the available water supply is used at its coldest temperature and the cooling completed by storing the cans of milk in a tank of ice water. It is possible in that way within a short time to lower the temperature of milk to below 50 degrees F. Frequently the water used for cooling milk is not used to the best advantage. Spring water is sometimes allowed to flow over the surface of the ground and is warmed several degrees before reaching the cooling apparatus. During the summer water from a storage tank above ground is usually much warmer than that drawn directly from the well. It is best, therefore, to arrange the cooling system so that the water which flows through the surface cooler or cooling tank comes directly from the well or, if from a spring, it is conveyed in a pipe well below the surface of the ground. If ice is used in a cooling tank the quantity of water surrounding the cans should be as small as possible to give satisfactory results. Space enough should be provided between the sides of the tank and the cans of milk to allow for a sufficient quantity of ice and water to cool the milk properly. If a large volume of water has to be cooled much more ice will be necessary. If it is desired to cool milk quickly from an initial temperature of about 85 degrees F. to one of 50 degrees F. by setting the cans in a tank of ice water, the ice water in the tank should have a temperature of about 37 degrees F. Under these conditions about four gallons of water will suffice for each gallon of milk.

In order to cool and hold milk at low temperatures on the average farm, a properly constructed cooling tank is necessary. In fact most dairy farms have some sort of tank in which water or water and ice are used to cool and store milk. When an abundant supply of cold-running water continually passes through the tank it is unnecessary to go to the expense of insulation.

MAKE AND USE STERILIZER

Necessary for Production of Dairy Products of High Quality—Steam Is Recommended.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Sterilization of dairy utensils is necessary for the production of dairy products of high quality, particularly milk and cream, because the washing of dairy utensils, at least by the process generally used, is not sufficient to insure freedom from infection and contamination. Steam is necessary to kill the disease germs and harmful bacteria that lurk in milk cans, buckets and other such equipment used wherever milk is produced. Dairy utensils on small farms are not often sterilized efficiently because steam is not available. The United States department of agriculture has devised a simple and inexpensive, yet efficient, steam sterilizer which can be provided at such a small cost as to justify its use on any farm from which milk or cream is sold. The additional keeping quality which the sterilization of utensils will give milk and cream probably will pay for the cost of the sterilizer in one season. Full particulars on how to make and use this device are described in Farmers' Bulletin 748, a copy of which can be had, so long as the supply lasts, on application to the United States Department of Agriculture.

USE FEED TROUGHS FOR PIGS

Should Be Constructed So That Each Little Piglet Will Get His Full Share.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Young pigs should be given their feeds in such a manner that each individual pig gets his share. The simplest way to accomplish this is to allow the pigs to eat from a properly constructed feed trough, one that will keep the pigs out of the feed and will lessen the possibility of crowding.

SYSTEM OF SHEEP FARMING

To Be Successful Wool or Mutton Cannot Be Ignored—Two Products Profitable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A system of sheep farming that is to be continuously successful can not ignore either wool or mutton. In many cases the two products will be worthy of equal consideration. In others either one may be emphasized according to the peculiarities of conditions, management, and marketing.

BEST TIME FOR SOWING RAPE

If Done at Last Cultivation of Corn Lembs Can Be Turned Into Cornfield in Autumn.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is good practice to sow rape at the last cultivation of corn. The lems can then be turned into the cornfield in the fall and will feed upon the lower leaves of the corn and rape and make excellent gains.

"Cobbler's Dazen."

While in most countries thirteen is always spoken of as "the baker's dozen," in Italy it is called "the cobbler's dozen." There is a tradition in Italy that formerly there was a law compelling cobblers to put twelve nails round the edge of a boot heel, and that when nails were cheap, a thirteenth nail was driven in the center for luck.

VIOLATES HIS OWN TREATY

SUCH IS ACCUSATION AGAINST THE PRESIDENT

Deliberately Violates One of Its Provisions Within Forty-eight Hours After Attaching His Signature

Does President Wilson regard the Franco-American treaty as a mere scrap of paper? If not why did he deliberately violate one of its most important provisions within a fortnight after he, as "President of the United States," and Mr. Lansing, as "Secretary of State of the United States," attached their official signatures to the agreement?

That he did that very thing there can be no question. Article 4 of the treaty reads:

"The present Treaty will be submitted to the Senate of the United States at the same time as the Treaty of Versailles is submitted to the Senate for its advice and consent to ratification."

Submitted by whom? By the president himself, of course, who alone is empowered to submit treaties and who alone with the Secretary of State has a right to sign them and who with the Secretary of State did sign this one. And it was as "President of the United States of America" that he entered into this engagement with the duly authorized representatives of the French republic and gave in writing under the great seal of this honorable nation that solemn pledge.

Did he keep it? He did not. This is what he said and all he said respecting the treaty on July 10, when he submitted the treaty of Versailles to the senate:

"I shall presently have occasion to lay before you a special treaty with France, whose object is the temporary protection of France from unprovoked aggression by the power with whom this treaty of peace has been negotiated. Its terms link it with this treaty. I take the liberty, however, of reserving it for special explanation on another occasion."

He did not submit the treaty; he did not divulge its terms; he did not even summarize it; he simply "took the liberty" of violating it.

Why? There must have been some reason for the incorporation of that particular provision in the Franco-American treaty. There is none such in the Franco-British treaty, wherein article 4 provides merely that "the present treaty shall before ratification by his Majesty be submitted to parliament for approval," not coincidentally with the submission of the treaty of Versailles nor at any other specified time.

How can this marked difference be accounted for? We can only conjecture of course, but it is surely a fair presumption that the provision was not inserted at the instigation of the president, who would hardly have gone out of his way to bind himself unnecessarily to do a certain thing upon a certain day. Seemingly, then the idea must have originated in the French government.

But why should M. Clemenceau have desired so particularly that the two treaties should be placed before the senate simultaneously? Again we can only guess, but it is not reasonable to surmise that he, being aware of the co-equal treaty making powers of the senate, felt that all interests, especially those of France, would best be served by presenting to that body both agreements as embodied in the two treaties at one and the same time, and thus enable it to consider and act upon each with full knowledge of what the other contained?

Such procedure would possess at least the merit of frankness and open dealing and could not fail to impress the senate favorably. It seems strange that the premier should not have taken for granted that the president would take this natural course, but being old and wise and prudent he apparently preferred to take no chances; so he put it in black and white, and the President signed the commitment.

Why he subsequently broke his pledge is a matter of speculation. Perhaps he feared that one of the treaties might run crosswise to the other, or that the senate might think that, if one were ratified, the other need not be. Then there was the question of the need of a special pact if the league were anything more than a shell. Discussion involving close analyses and striking contrasts at any rate would better be averted if possible; so all of M. Clemenceau's painstaking caution went for naught, and the presentation of full information to the senate which he thought was assured was not made after all.

Or it may be that there were things in the separate treaty itself which the president thought would better not be revealed at the moment. In any case, to the best of our knowledge, it has not yet been published in this country, which seems strange, if we are correctly informed that it has appeared in England, in view of the enterprise of our great newspapers in promptly presenting to their readers the texts of documents of such obvious importance, unless, of course, prevented by the censor.

Anyhow, here it is: "Whereas, the United States of America and the French Republic are equally animated by the desire to maintain the peace of the world so happily restored by the treaty of peace signed at Versailles the 28th day of June, 1919, putting an end to the war begun by the aggression of the German empire and ended by the defeat of that power; and,

"Whereas, the United States of America and the French Republic are fully persuaded that an unprovoked movement of aggression by Germany against France would not only violate both the letter and the spirit of the treaty of Versailles to which the United States of America and the French Republic are parties, thus exposing France anew to the intolerable burdens of an unprovoked war, but that such aggression on the part of Germany would be and is so regarded by the treaty of Versailles as a hostile act against all the powers signatory to that treaty and as calculated, to disturb the peace of the world by involving inevitably and directly the states of Europe and indirectly, as experience has amply and unfortunately demonstrated, the world at large; and,

Whereas, the United States of America and the French Republic fear that the stipulation relating to the left bank of the Rhine contained in the said Treaty of Versailles may not at first provide adequate security and protection to France, on the one hand, and the United States of America, as one of the signatories of the Treaty of Versailles, on the other;

Therefore, the United States of America and the French Republic having decided to conclude a treaty to effect these necessary purposes, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, and Robert Lansing, Secretary of State of the United States, specially authorized thereto by the President of the United States and Georges Clemenceau, President of the Council, Minister of War and Stephen Pincheon, Minister of Foreign Affairs, specially authorized thereto by Raymond Poincaré, President of the French Republic, have agreed upon the following articles:

Article 1.—In case the following stipulations relating to the left bank of the Rhine contained in the treaty of peace with Germany signed at Versailles the 28th day of June, 1919, by the British Empire, the French Republic and the United States of America among other powers:

"Article 42. Germany is forbidden to maintain or construct any fortifications either on the left bank of the Rhine or on the right bank to the west of a line drawn 50 kilometers to the east of the Rhine."

"Article 43. In the area defined above the maintenance and assembly of armed forces, either permanently or temporarily, and military maneuvers of any kind, as well as the upkeep of all permanent works for mobilization, are in the same way forbidden."

"Article 44. In case Germany violates in any manner whatever the provisions of Articles 42 and 43, she shall be regarded as committing a hostile act against the powers signatory of the present treaty and as may not at first provide adequate security and protection to France, the United States of America shall be bound to come immediately to her assistance in the event of any unprovoked movement of aggression against her being made by Germany."

Article 2.—The present treaty, in similar terms with the treaty of even date for the same purpose concluded between the French Republic and Great Britain, a copy of which treaty is annexed hereto, will only come into force when the latter is ratified.

Article 3.—The present treaty must be submitted to the council of the league of nations and must be recognized by the council, acting if need be by a majority, as an engagement which is consistent with the covenant of the league; it will continue in force until on the application of one of the parties to it the council, acting if need be by a majority, agrees that the league itself affords sufficient protection.

Article 4.—The present treaty will be submitted to the senate of the United States at the same time as the treaty of Versailles is submitted to the senate for its advice and consent to ratification. It will be submitted before ratification to the French Chamber of Deputies for approval. The ratifications thereof will be exchanged on the deposit of ratifications of the treaty of Versailles at Paris or as soon thereafter as shall be possible.

The Franco-British treaty is substantially identical, with the exception that, instead of being "bound to come immediately" to the assistance of France, like the United States, she merely "agrees to come immediately." Great Britain exempts all of her dominions from any obligation "unless it is approved by the parliament of the dominion concerned," and makes it a condition of her agreement "that a similar obligation is entered into by the United States of America," whereas the Franco-American treaty contains no such provision as to the participation of Great Britain.

We take pleasure in affording the senate of the United States an opportunity to inspect this transcript of the Franco-American treaty pending the arrival of the original, and we cannot deny to it the additional privilege of meditating upon its amazing quick violation by the President of the United States who negotiated and executed it.—Horvey's Weekly.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infect the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

THE DAYS WHEN DOLLARS WERE DEAR

Money Scarce in 1874 and Produce Correspondingly Low

We often hear the remark that a dollar would buy enough eatables in the old days to break a mule's back, while now a dollar won't buy enough to fill the vest pocket.

This statement has been made so often that the Courier decided to look it up and find just what prices did prevail in Charlevoix in prewar days, with the following result, which also shows the markets of the corresponding weeks of July in 1874, 1914 and 1919:

	1919	1914	1878
Eggs	.38	.18	.10
Butter	.45	.20	.16
Beef, alive	7.00	5.00	3.00
Hogs	20.00	8.00	3.00
Beams, cwt	6.00	2.65	3.00
Wheat	.210	.80	1.30

These figures do not tell the whole story, for in 1874 a good man could be hired on the farm during the summer months at $15 a month. Today that same man will command nearly double that amount each week during haying and harvest. In 1874 a dollar was much harder to get hold of than in 1919, for at that time the country was just recovering from the alleged crime of "73" with the consequence that a dollar would bring home a lot of bacon and other eatables, while today, with money and work plentiful, a dollar will not go far toward buying groceries for over Sunday.

So far as we can see, the man who suffers most severely from the high prices is the man with a certain fixed income; large enough in the olden days to live in comfort, but today scarcely enough to get through on.

Seaman and Drew will meet at the Charlevoix Roller rink on August 5, 6, 7, and 8. Greatest event of season.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

The world has not been made safe for democracy; Democracy is not safe in America. Democracy perhaps will never be in that happy condition where a struggle to maintain it will be necessary. The world history proves that where upbuilding is attempted or going on, some force is always seeking to tear down. The constructive work of stabilizing human liberties has never met with experiences that teach differently.

The American Legion with a potential strength of 4,000,000 men who bore arms across the seas or at home, is committed to the policy of strengthening and developing liberties, opportunities and rights of the individual acquired under our form of government. They are disinterested beneficiaries of Democracy, as we have come to use the term—the safeguards that the people, collectively, pledge to each other through our governmental organization.

Of necessity, such an objective precludes partisan politics. There is now and has been for months much talk, and what the Legion leaders characterize as "mawkish bunk," about the "soldier vote." Undoubtedly, partisan politicians will make the usual appeal to the "soldier vote" and will take the usual steps dictated by fear of that "vote." But, insofar as the most serious utterances of the leaders of the American Legion are concerned—reiterated everywhere by the members—there is only one class of men that need fear the "soldier vote"—those who are not American in spirit and deed; the men who fail to realize that living in the United States means living in the land where human liberty has reached its highest degree and they owe to that land—the flag that symbolizes it—the duty of safeguarding and extending the principles and ideals that gave birth to these liberties.

Whether the forces that the American Legion will combat are alien or home birth; whether they seek to destroy by violent means or insidious gospel or whether they are motivated by greed and the desire for power to pervert American ideals and governmental control to their own benefit—the Legion will not differentiate. Its leaders assure. The Legion intends to carry on in America the struggle it bore in France and Germany and for precisely the same objective.

It is seeking to crystallize in concrete terms at home the ideals that underlay America's entry into the war. And a review of the trend and conditions in the United States will not deny that the legion has a great mission—a duty, even for which it is peculiarly fitted by experiences and lessons of the last two years.

"PASSING THE BUCK"

The officials of the War Department are now busily engaged in attempting to "pass the buck" in placing responsibility for the department's amazing delay in declaring a food surplus until a large quantity of it had deteriorated to such an extent that it had to be sold at a great loss to the government. Various witnesses appearing before the Committee on War Expenditure have testified to the fact that it took the de-

THIS IS CERTAIN

The Proof That Charlevoix Readers Cannot Deny

What could furnish stronger evidence of the efficiency of any remedy than the test of time? Thousands of people testify that Donn's Kidney Pills have brought lasting results.

Home endorsement should prove undoubtedly the merit of this remedy. Years ago your friends and neighbors testified to the relief they had derived from the use of Donn's Kidney Pills. They now confirm their testimonials. They say time has completed the test.

Mrs. R. M. McKeel, 214 Mason St., Charlevoix, says: "I suffered for several months with kidney trouble. I was bloated quite badly and had a weak and lame back. Donn's Kidney Pills, procured from Metcalf's Drug Store, brought me relief."

FIVE YEARS LATER Mrs. McKeel said: "All I have said in praise of Donn's Kidney Pills holds good today. Donn's completely cured me of kidney trouble and the cure has lasted."

partment half a year after the signing of the armistice to declare that a food surplus existed, but each witness has placed the blame in a different spot, and now comes General March, chief of staff of the army, who says that a surplus could have been declared in February instead of May, but that the attitude of the Secretary of War, who desired that the canners should be protected against a flooded market, had doubtless prevented the Quartermaster Corps from announcing it at that time.

Chairman Reavis pointed out that although demobilization of troops had commenced almost immediately upon the signing of the armistice, it had taken the administration six months to commence a demobilization of food supplies.

WHIPPING AND DUCKING

A speaker at a big women's convention in St. Louis, urged the revival of the old-time whipping post. It was to be used for men, and specifically for men who beat their wives.

The suggestion is all right. Any brute who beats his wife deserves nothing better than an official beating himself, preferably in public. It is one of the rare punishments which really fit the crime.

But the women had better be careful, lest they invite the revival of another old punitive institution intimately associated with the whipping post—namely, the ducking stool, which was particularly designed for women, and used in colonial days for "common scolds." It is still on the statute books in one or two of the older states.

A wife-beating husband may be worse than a continually scolding wife, but some authorities hold a contrary opinion, and there is at least room for debate. Now that the women have had their say, it would be instructive to hear about it from the men.

THE LIMIT

Two hundred seventeen Americans cold bloodedly murdered in Mexico as testified to by Ambassador Fletcher, and this admittedly not a complete list either, to say nothing of other horrors and outrages too numerous and revolting to mention, is no more than the country has suspected but this is the first specific list to be brought forward.

It may be recalled that the "watchful waiting" policy, though it was not then called by that name, began under the Taft administration, but it has seen its greater, not to say absolute perfection, under the administration of the colner of the phrase itself. The Mexican imbroglio began to assume serious phases after Wilson was first elected but before he was inaugurated, and Taft naturally regarded it unwise to begin a policy which his successor might see fit to change. But during all the years that have passed since then, so far as anyone can see, the United States has had no definite policy whatever as respects Mexico. It has been content to drift with the course of events. It has spoken softly and carried no big stick—indeed when it has been shamed into taking some reluctant stand, it has backed down again at the earliest convenient opportunity. Why shouldn't things get worse and worse under such handling?

We all know that heretofore in this country's history, whenever the United States has been imposed upon it has taken a firm and irrevocable position, and the imposition has been stopped. Why not this time? And if not heretofore, why not now?

The Japanese have killed 361 Korean demonstrators in favor of self-determination of peoples in 41 days. It is a good deal safer to talk about freedom and self-determination in a presidential message than it is in a good deal of the territory dominated by some of the powers it is claimed have joined in a covenant to emancipate mankind.

Henry Ford testifies that a newspaper reporter wrote the stuff against preparedness printed over his signature as advertisements throughout the country, and that a good deal of it he never saw. By such means are the American people educated by uplifters of the administration type!

"No Republican organ would admit that Woodrow Wilson ever advocated preparedness," says the New York World. It would be an unwise publication that would risk the statement that there is anything whatever within the whole range of political discussion that Mr. Wilson has not at some time advocated.

William Randolph Hearst says that there is no cherry tree episode in President Wilson's career. If Mr. Wilson did chop down a cherry tree he would write something about it that would make a lot of people believe that the tree chopped itself down and that it was better off for being down anyway.

On Bastille Day President Wilson congratulated France on "breaking the chains that once bound France to an intolerable servitude." On what day will Mr. Wilson send his similar felicitations to the people of Korea and Shantung?

Barney Baruch, talked of as Burleson's successor, is described as a "daring Wall Street operator." He must be daring if he is willing to tackle the mess Mr. Burleson has created in his exemplification of administration efficiency.

Maybe the reason Burleson has given us the kind of an administration of the mails and wires we have endured is that he was trying to qualify as the legitimate successor of McAdoo and Hines as Director of Railways.

Perhaps the reason Lloyd George does not select an ambassador to the United States is that he believes Great Britain does not need a representative in Washington in order to have her interests looked after.

The Woodrow Wilson highway is to run from Ely, Minn., to Mexico City. It ought to run over some route that will enable it to meet itself coming back.

The war department says that a report sent to it last fall has not arrived. However, patience should be exercised; possibly it was sent by mail.

The Audubon Society complain that thousands of animals are skinned annually. At the present prices, millions.

Germans prisoners of war interned in Switzerland, objecting to being sent home, want to remain where they are. Think of the poor Swiss.

Henry Ford says he is either for the league of nations or war to the hilt. Well, son Edsel is safe either way it goes.

Regardless of any vote of confidence, didn't Clemenceau announce he'd resign after finishing the job?

The "lost report" sent Secretary Baker may become as famous as the "Lost Battalion."

Atrocious, indeed. One of the most famous—as well as one of the worst—puns of history was perpetrated by King James I of England, when Sir Walter Raleigh, whom for political reasons he disliked, was presented to him. Suppose there were no more advertisements

Just imagine for a minute that some power could stop all advertising. How would that affect you?

It would cut you off from all direct, commercial news about things that you need and use in your every-day life. Somebody might be selling a new, better, more economical food; or a utensil that would save money and time; or an article that would add greatly to your comfort and well-being; or some better material for making shoes or clothing—but you would never know it.

Merchants and manufacturers would be unable to tell you about new and better things. They would thus find it hard to put these things on the market, and often would not try.

Merchants, unable to tell you what they had to offer you, could not take the risk of buying goods for which they might have no customers.

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE." AND ADVERTISING PAYS NOT ONLY THE ADVERTISER AND PUBLISHER, BUT PAYS YOU TOO. IT KEEPS YOU INFORMED ABOUT THE THINGS YOU NEED IN ORDER TO LIVE A PROFITABLE, HAPPY AND USEFUL LIFE IN THIS AGE OF PROGRESS.

Not Going to Withdraw It. A man who had a very bad impediment in his speech once got into an argument with an acquaintance to whom he had taken a great dislike. The dispute became hotter and hotter until the unfortunate stammerer completely lost his temper. "You're a f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f-f!" he shouted furiously. "Sir," replied the acquaintance coldly, "you must retract that utterance." "Never!" retorted the stammerer. "I'm only too glad to g-g-g-g-g-g-g-g-g-g it out!"

The Eagle of Napoleon. Napoleon revived the ancient symbol of the Caesars. The Napoleonic eagle itself was eight inches in height and nine inches across the wings. It stood on a brass block three inches square, and weighed three and one-half pounds. Modern eagles are as nothing compared to the old ones, as difficult to bide as the big drum.

Rich Silver Coins. In the republic of Honduras the silver currency was for years minted from Socorro bullion. This nearly always contains a certain proportion of gold, which used not to be separated before it went to the mint; so the Honduran silver coins prior to 1911 generally contain a certain proportion of gold.

STOCK BREEDERS ORGANIZE

IMPORTANT MEETING HELD IN EAST JORDAN

People Interested Present From All Parts of County—Officers As Elected

One of the most important meetings ever held in the county, for its development and wealth producing qualities was held at East Jordan, Thursday afternoon, when the Charlevoix Live Stock Breeders association was organized under the auspices and direction of C. W. Wing, our county agent, who by the way, is over on the alert toward fostering and directing anything and everything that means a better county.

The meeting was well attended and the county well represented by the lovers of pure bred live stock.

Instructive and inspiring talks were made by R. O. Bisbee of East Jordan, Mr. Roy V. Otto of the Loeb Farms, Mr. Paddock of Charlevoix and Sam Rogers of East Jordan and others.

The officers elected were: President, Frank Bird; vice president, Sam Rogers, secretary-treasurer, Jas. Hart.

Direct action and instant success was assured the movement by the plan of dividing the membership into groups, favoring the different types of cattle.

Mr. Otto of the Loeb Farms heads the Holstein Breeders division, Mr. Emmet Coulter of Charlevoix heads the Jersey division. Mr. Rogers of East Jordan heads the Short Horn division and James Hart of East Jordan the Cuernsey division.

Anyone in the county wanting a sire or female of any of these breeds has only to call up or visit one of these men and he will be given prompt information as to where and how to fill his wants.

It developed during the meeting that the Loeb people will give the service free of their $10,000 bull to anyone owning a registered Holstein cow.

Mr. Wilson, the mayor of East Jordan, spoke for the East Jordan fair and wanted all to understand that it is a county fair and not a local matter. His remarks were well received and the fair will be better patronized from now on.

One of the direct results of the organization was the passage of a resolution asking our representatives at Lansing to pass a law making it a misdemeanor to allow owners of scrub bulls to run at large and making them liable for damages where valuable rows have been clandestinely served by these scrubs.

The makers of the county expressed their willingness and desire to assist the farmers by loans in getting improved live stock.

The association was invited to have their next meeting here and it will be even more largely attended than the first.

There will be a good natured rivalry among the different fanciers of live stock, in getting in speakers and arousing enthusiasm for the different breeds.—Boyer Citizen.

They say the Boyne City Silo is the best on the market today. Have you seen it.

THE CADDIE COLUMN

(A column edited by the Caddie Master for the purpose of sharpening the caddies' interest in their work and keeping parents in touch with those in charge of the boys at the golf grounds.)

The following caddies were promoted from the second class to the first last Monday morning: Ross Tui, Frank Krulik, Jimmie Marsh, Don Swinton, Neil Swinton and Emerson Sanford. The following others, who came to work at the links Monday morning were placed in the first class because of past experience and reputation as caddies: Harry Paulson, Marshall Ackert, George Jeffries, Emerald Loskot and Arden Ulrich. The total number of first-class caddies now is fifty-three.

On August 1st announcement will be made of girl caddies promoted to the first class. Several of them are worthy of the advanced standing.

Commencing August 1st a careful record will be kept of all money earned on the links by the caddies. The results will be published in the column from week to week and the total announced immediately after September 1st. The amount will undoubtedly be astonishing to most of us. Let every caddie resolve to get his share. He can make his family were serving as caddies; share a worth-while one by being Charles, Ida, Sadie, Clarabel and Gene. A few days ago Ida deserted us to take up other work.

John Sharrow (17, first class) is serving as professional's caddie this week. John is one of the two or three caddies who have attained the first class this soon in their first year at the links.

Monday, July 28, coming perfect after several days broken by rain, was the record day of the year so far. There were 212 players and 24 double-sack jobs. "Goud night," exclaimed Gordon Todd, "ain't you ever goin' to gimme a single again?" But Todd is such a cute little six feet that we hate to give him just one sack; it might get lost somewhere on him.

The dime-a-week library fund, for the purchase of boys' books for the Charlevoix Library this fall, started well. It amounted to $7.00 last Saturday evening. Harold Dutcher (46, first class) said ten cents a week wasn't enough and subscribed twenty. Lewis O'Neil (23, first class) thought it would be nice to pay three weeks in advance, and did so. Leon Solomon (20, first class) looked at this, then stepped up and paid the whole six weeks at once. All this made Ormiston Purnalee (12, first class) pretty mad; so after one of his jobs he threw the caddie master two half dollars with: "Here's mine, put it all in." Ralph Burns (97, second class) some time after contributing his first dime, came up with another nickel, saying: "Here's a nickel I don't need. Put it in for the books. Don't put it down to anybody; just put it in." Lots of pep! Where's your dime?

"I don't go to the library none, but I'm goin' this fall." That's what we want.

The Curtis family holds the record for heavy duty on the links. Until very recently five members of this family were serving as caddies: Charles, Ida, Sadie, Clarabel and Gene. A few days ago Ida deserted us to take up other work.

Anna McCann, one of last year's prize winners, returned to the business of caddying last Monday morning.

Harold Geiken, sometimes known as the "speed king," has accepted a position inside the club house, taking the place of Jeff Novotney who, since Berkeley West took up golf instruction at Petoskey, has been promoted to the repairing bench. Everyone is waiting for the first golf club Jeff turns out. We want to tie a bell on it.

How often do you go to the bank? Are you putting it in or taking it out? "Red" McCann (35, first class) backed a dray up to the caddie master's stand last Saturday evening and carted home $15.10. It's easy. All you have to do is, first, work for it; and second, save it.

What about that Boyne City Silo? 18tf

Missing His Opportunity. The conductor of a band, giving an open-air concert, heat time very energetically, leaning now toward one part of the band and now to another, and attempting his foot apparently in prooxysms of musical fervor. Mike, in the audience, watched him, fascinated; but at the end of the selection, with a disappointed air, he turned to leave. "How did you like it, Mike?" asked his friend. "Come away!" said Mike, in disgust. "O've been watchin' him for half an hour, and he hasn't hit one of them yet!"

Fellowship. It is for him that is lonely or in prison to dream of fellowship, but for him that is of a fellowship to do and not to dream.—William Morris.

FARM FLOCKS IN CONTESTS

Demonstration to Show How Proper Management Will Increase Egg Production.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Something different in egg-laying contests is being carried on in Missouri this year. Instead of a few selected fowls competing under the care of experts, whole flocks of hens on the home farm and under the care of their owners are matched against similar flocks in all parts of the state. This is not only a contest to see which hens can lay the most eggs, Flock of Young White Leghorns.

the extension specialists say, but is also a demonstration to show how proper management will increase the egg production and profits of the farm flock.

The plan is to have one poultry keeper in each community of the various counties enter the contest. The contestants agree to care for their entire poultry flock as nearly as possible according to directions furnished by the poultry-extension workers through the office of the farm bureau. At the end of each month each contestant is to report expenses and income from his flock for the month. This plan will stimulate better methods of poultry management by demonstrating on a typical farm in the neighborhood the results which can be secured by proper care of the flock.

According to reports of the extension workers, 37 farm flocks are entered in the contest, with an average of 155 hens to the farm. In February the hens in the contest averaged 8.1 eggs. The value of eggs to the farm amounted to $32.08, the cost of feed per farm $19.17, and the average net profit $12.91. In the four months, November, December, January and February, eggs valued at $100.53 were produced on each farm at a cost for feed of $78.50 for each farm. While Leghorns averaged 25 eggs for the four months and led all breeds in egg yields.

The highest record in a similar contest held in the state last year was made by N. P. Hollar, living near Harding, who secured an average production of 140 eggs from a flock of 430 birds.

POULTRY NOTES

A dust bath is necessary to the health and profitability of the hen.

Skim milk is a very efficient feed for producing eggs.

The laying hen has a bright red comb and a brilliant sheen about the feathers.

An important factor in keeping the chicks growing during hot weather is plenty of shade.

Dust baths for the fowls to wallow in whenever they wish is one way of checking lice.

Disease brought about by filth, malnutrition and neglect is a good way to make a failure in the poultry business.

In marketing turkeys it pays to have them well fattened and well dressed, so they will look better than the average.

Tame, quiet hens of the larger breeds, such as Plymouth Rocks and Orpingtons, make the best turkey mothers.

The poultry breeder should be very sure that the chicks are getting all they need, for trouble and disaster follow faulty feeding.

The poultry house should be built as low as possible without danger of the attendants' bumping their heads against the ceiling. A low house is more easily warmed than a high one.

LADIES! SECRET TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Bring Back its Color and Lustre with Grandma's Sage Tea Recipe.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at this cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness, by darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

FISHING FINE AT ELLSWORTH

WONDERFUL CATCHES BEING MADE EVERY DAY

Those Desiring Guides Advised to Make Advanced Arrangements—Some of the Catches

Fishing on the Ellsworth lakes has been exceptionally good for the last few weeks and landlord VanSiver and his two guides "Rock" Miller and George Liberty have been kept busy piloting fishing parties to the best fishing grounds or waters.

Several extra good strings have been taken. A party of three men brought in a string of twenty-two bass and six pickerel one day last week while on the same day a party of two, one man with guide, captured nineteen bass and pickerel, this party being gone from the hotel only four hours.

These catches are about an average of what is being done in the fishing business every day here now. "Van" and the two guides are experienced fishermen who know every inch of the waters here and also are good fellows whose intention is to make a fishing trip a day of enjoyment not soon forgotten.

Owing to the rush of business, reservation of rooms at the "New Orient" and advance arrangements as to guides and boats is almost a necessity. These arrangements can be made either by letter or phone.

LEARN FEW FACTS

Writer Criticizes Modern Teaching of History.

Important Happenings Recorded Without the Events Leading Up to Them Being Set Forth—Makes Heads Spin.

Take English history as it is taught in an English school. We begin with Celtic Britons. Enter Caesar and a Roman host. From where? We never learn. H. G. Wells writes in the Saturday Evening Post. Who is this Caesar and why did he come? Why did he go? Why did the Romans not come again for the better part of a century? Evidently something much more important was going on elsewhere.

A little way on in the story certain Angles, Jutes and Saxons rush in—as late as possible. Whence? Why? Later come the Danes. The history of England has the effect of something going on upon a doormat in a passage outside a room full of events, with several other doors. The door opens, the Norman kings rush out of the room, conquer the country hastily, say something about some novelty of which we have learned nothing hitherto, the Crusades, and exit to room again.

From which presently King Richard returns dejected. He has been fighting the Saracens. Who are the Saracens? We never learn. What becomes of them? We are never told. So it goes on. The broad back of history is turned to England throughout. Its face and hands are hidden, and we make what we can of the wriggling of its heels.

The American story is still more incomprehensible. An innocent continent is suddenly inundated by Spanish, Portuguese, French, Dutch and British, who proceed at once to pick up the thread of various conflicts—initiated elsewhere. Someone called the pope is seen to be dividing the new continent among the European powers. Colonies are formed. What are colonies? These colonies, in what is apparently a strenuous attempt to simplify history, break off from their unknown countries of origin. A stream of immigration begins from west and east. The American mind establishes a sort of intellectual Monroe doctrine and declares that America has no past, only a future. From which sublime dream it is presently roused to find something of unknown origin called European imperialism wrecking the world. What is this imperialism? How did it begin?

The teaching of history in most other countries is after the same fashion. Everywhere the teachers present more or less stilted histories of passages and doormats. Great events—the Crusades, the Reformation, the industrial revolution—come in with a bang and go out with a whimper, leaving no clear, leaving our poor heads spinning. Is it any wonder if history fails back for a little human touch upon childish anecdotes about Alfred and the cakes, the peerless beauty of Mary Queen of Scots, and King Charles and his spaniels?

LESS HOG-CHOLERA LOSSES

In 1918 Death Rate of Swine From Disease Was Placed at 42.1 Per Thousand.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Since 1913, when the United States department of agriculture began work to control hog cholera, the dreaded disease has become less and less destructive each year. A force averaging 165 federal veterinarians has been maintained, working in co-operation with state authorities in charge of quarantine and other regulatory measures necessary for the success of control work. During the fiscal year 1918 more than 5,500,000 hogs were inoculated with hog-cholera serum, and more than 2,200 farms found to be infected with cholera, were cleaned and disinfected under supervision of the department veterinarians.

There is No Profit in Unhealthy Hogs—Animals Kept Under Clean Conditions, as on Good Pasture, Are Better Able to Resist Cholera and Other Diseases.

Altogether, representatives of the department visited more than 15,000 farms to investigate reported outbreaks, to apply preventive measures and to clean and disinfect premises. How great a menace hog cholera has been to the nation's swine industry may be judged from the accepted estimate that 100 per cent of hogs lost from all ailments die from cholera. In 1918 the death rate of swine from disease was placed at 42.1 per 1,000. Thus the loss was slightly above 4 per cent for the United States, the lowest on record, according to the department's figures.

HOG RAISING IN THE SOUTH

Many Southern Farmers Growing More Animals and of Larger Type—Noticeable in Georgia.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An important result of hog-cholera control work which has resulted in a steady decline of the disease, has been the stimulus given the development of swine raising in the South. With other activities of the department in this line, the assurance given to Southern farmers that hogs can be produced without fear of losses from cholera has encouraged growing not only larger numbers of animals but also better types. This has been noticeable particularly in Georgia. A few years ago that state purchased about 40,000,000 pounds of pork more than it produced annually. But efforts for the control of hog cholera have gradually extended over the entire state, with resulting confidence in hog raising. By 1918 Georgia was producing pork enough to make shipments to outside points besides supplying a large number of hogs to local slaughtering establishments. Similar progress has been made in Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

HEAVY MEAT EATERS HAVE SLOW KIDNEYS

Eat less meat if you feel Backache or have bladder trouble—Take glass of Salta.

"No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally," says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salta from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous Salta is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salta is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

MORE PUBLICITY FOR NORTHERN MICHIGAN

Country Gentleman to Use Story
From Special Writers

Several counties in northern Michigan are in line for considerable publicity, both in newspapers and magazines, and it is believed that this will result in many additional home-seekers locating in this section, in increased number of people becoming interested in the cattle and sheep industry and more business for the summer resorts.

Through the efforts of W. P. Hartman, agricultural and industrial commissioner of the C. R. & I. Railway company, and John I. Gibson, secretary of the West Michigan Development bureau, The Country Gentleman magazine will soon carry a story on Northern Michigan and newspapers will give added publicity.

Last Wednesday a party of men composed of P. S. Lovejoy, special writer for the Country Gentleman; J. E. Ferrell, assistant manager of the agricultural section of the United States railroad administration at Washington, D. C.; J. D. Gennet, special writer for the Detroit News; A. M. Malsonville, advertising agent for the Pere Marquette Railway company; Mr. Gibson, Mr. Hartman and John F. Quinlan passed through Charlevoix county and the trip was for the purpose of giving the visitors first hand information of this vicinity as an agricultural and stock region.

They expressed surprise at the advanced state of development of the farms, and that there were as many successful sheep and cattle raisers in this region.

They stated that the region evidently has not received the publicity and advertising that it merits. They urged a campaign to secure the preservation of the timber along the highways, and also for greater protection from forest fires.

NICELY LOCATED IN PRIEST BLOCK

Dr. W. W. Mitchell Has Nicely Appointed Office

About as nicely fitted out offices as can be found in this community are those of Dr. W. W. Mitchell, in the Priest block, on the second floor. Dr. Mitchell occupies the front of the suite while Dr. Armstrong occupies the rear. One gains entrance to either from the stair way, and their neatness in appearance and excellent furnishings at once cause admiration.

The Courier takes considerable pleasure in mentioning instances of this kind regardless of their nature or location. We congratulate these professional men on the appearance of their place of business.

FORD AND MOTOR CYCLE MEET HEAD-ON

Lissie Puts It All Over Driver of Motor Cycle

It's hard to admit it when one tangles up with a "tin Lizzie" and gets the worst of it, but when you are battered up, covered with black and blue spots and can hardly walk, even with the aid of crutches, there is now way out other than admitting the facts and fessing up.

Lloyd Webster, an employee of the Benj. Brown garage of this city, has no desire for further encounters with the products of the pacific. He was on his way to Bay Shore between five and six o'clock Wednesday night, riding his motor cycle. When passing a stalled car someone called him and he stopped, turned his machine around in the road, and started back to the stalled auto. From what we can learn, he failed to notice where he was going or if the road was clear, and in an instant after mounting his motor cycle, ran head-on into a Ford car.

The Ford knocked him down and partially ran over him, also dragged him some distance. When the car stopped and he was rescued from under it, he was considerably bruised and scratched up, especially about the knees. The motor cycle and auto were not damaged. Webster is hobbling about on crutches now, but will soon be able to resume his work at the garage.

CHARIOT RACE CAUSES MERRIMENT

Ten Young Lads Make the Run Down Bridge Street

Ready to Go! The race was on. Two teams of boys hitched to a chariot, four abreast, with driver in seat, dashed down Bridge street. The race was close, the winners beating their opponents by less than a foot. Then came congratulations and praise, not only to the winners, but to the losers as well. Both did well, and should the race be run again, its hard to tell which team would win.

The winning team was composed of Clare Usher, driver; John Keldershouse, Earnest Hamilton, Norman Shanahan and Roy Anee. The losers, Ralph Burns, driver; Donald Swinton, Harold Dutcher, Bradley Atchinson and George Higman. They were evenly matched and are ready for another race, which probably will take place during the coming month. The winners were given the chariot as their prize and the losers received individual cash prizes.

PREVENT BIG LOSS OF GRAIN

Poor Work of Binder, Shattering During Shocking and Faulty Separator Are Causes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Under average conditions the loss of grain during harvest is far greater than is generally supposed by the average farmer. Poor work on the part of the binder, shattering during shocking and handling, faulty work of the separator, and minor losses at the machine result in a waste of millions of bushels every year. With a guaranteed price every farmer is offered an incentive to reduce such losses to a minimum this season. See that the binder is in good working order, handle the bundles carefully, using a tight floor or canvas on the wagon in hauling, and a demand by the farmer that the separator do efficient work will save many dollars' worth of grain as well as add to the pocketbook of the farmer.

REPAIR OF PASTURE FENCES

Little Time Spent in Replacing Weak Posts and Tightening Wires Will Prove Profitable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Advantage should be taken of the first lull in farm work to inspect and repair pasture fences. A little time spent from time to time throughout the season in replacing weak posts, tightening or splicing of wire and driving an occasional staple may save much trouble later when the pasture becomes short and the cattle are tempted by crops in nearby fields. A strong fence discourages cattle from attempting to break out, while a few successful attempts may make regular fence breakers of them. If plenty of water and salt are provided and fences are kept in repair, usually little trouble will be experienced unless the pasture becomes very short and the cattle are lured by other fields.

DON'T PAY TO SPRAY BEETS

Easier to Make New Plantings When Attacked by Leaf Spot, Especially in Small Garden.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Garden beets are attacked by a leaf spot which materially injures their growth, but it is so easy to make a new planting of beets that it hardly pays to spray, especially in the very small garden. This is practically true of a large number of diseases.

By keeping stock solutions of copper sulphate and lime on hand, a little Bordeaux mixture can easily be made up and applied with a cheap spray outfit that can be purchased in any seed store. Where these sprayers are not made of brass or copper, the Bordeaux mixture should not be allowed to stand in them, and they should be thoroughly cleaned with clean water after using.

CLOTHING ON A NON-STOP PRICE FLIGHT

Advance of 100 Per Cent Predicted by Prominent Designers

Oh, Boy! Hang on to your clothes. Treat 'em nice.

If not, take off your hats to the men's clothing designers. They are keeping strictly up-to-date in style and prices. In fact they are in the habit of giving the anxious male citizens news about their togs, at least one year in advance.

The latest is a report from the American Clothing Designers to the effect that men's clothing will advance 100 per cent in prices next year. Charlevoix clothing houses say it is more than a report. They assert it is a fact because wholesale houses have predicted it for some time.

Here is the New York report:

"An increase of 100 per cent in the cost of men's clothing was predicted for next summer by H. Simons, who presided at the opening of the American Clothing designers' convention. Some slight compensation is to be granted, however, as coats will be longer, shoulders broader and vests deeper. In addition to this, Mr. Simons said, gaudy linings of Albee blue, orange and similarly brilliant hues will be in vogue, while vests will be cut still lower to permit a greater display of dazzling shirts. He said that no departure from the present style of trousers would be noticed.

"Jazz styles, so called because of their freakish cuts, will continue popular with the young men. 'Pick-pocket proof' pockets were one of the novelties shown at the convention. They are like patch pockets, except that they are sewed all around, with a slit opening in the center.

Tuesday night, "The Law's Reflex and New Zealand the Home of Democracy." Wednesday night, "The Law of Opportunity, and Scotland and Scotch Characteristics." Thursday night, "The Law, Objections and Obligations and English and English Characteristics." Friday night, special, 25 cents admission. "Russia and its Island Prison." All these lectures are illustrated. While Mr. and Mrs. Robinson speaks in the Baptist church their lectures are not denominational but inter-denominational, and are highly recommended by all denominations. Dr. Robinson speaks on the law each night, while Mrs. Robinson follows with her illustrated talks on the characteristics of different peoples, as seen in program. She will give the final talk on Friday night on the Russian Prisoners. As admission will only be charged on Friday night, on the other evenings an offering will be taken. So everybody come and have a rich treat. Chas. A. Rice, pastor.

spent several days last week in the Stewart.

Both the gentlemen and their wives were delighted with Charlevoix and surrounding territory and were not in the least bashful in their words of praise of the beautiful little town known the world over as "Charlevoix the Beautiful."

They visited the Loeb Farm, government fish hatchery and other points of interest and left Saturday

PHONES GO BACK TO OLD RATES

ATTORNEY GENERAL GROES-
BECK SO RULES

Telephones Back to Private Ownership Midnight, July 31—Burleson Schedule Goes Out

The Burleson rates in telephone exchanges throughout Michigan ceased to be effective August first, and the only legal rates in Michigan are the flat rates that were in effect before the government took control of the telephone lines in 1918.

This opinion was just rendered to the Michigan public utilities commission by Attorney General Groesbeck, in response to two letters from the commission asking whether that body has power to set aside the Burleson rates without it giving notice and holding hearings.

The opinion was requested after the commission received a petition from the League of Michigan Municipalities requesting that the Burleson rates be set aside. One of the commissioner's letters asked whether the commission has any power to set aside the postmaster general's rate without hearing, and the other asked whether commission had power to substitute new temporary rates without hearing.

The attorney general's reply makes four points:

1. Collection of the Burleson rates is not lawful after midnight, July 31, when the lines go back into the hands of the private owners, because the act of congress endeavoring to make them effective for four months, unless they are changed by the state commission, is in violation of the Constitution of the United States. It is an interference with the right of the state to control inter-state business and commerce.

2. The rates in effect after August 1 are the flat rates effective prior to December 2, 1918, since these are the only rates that have been established in compliance with the laws of the state.

3. The commission has authority to issue an order declining the old rates to be in effect.

4. The legal rates established under the laws of Michigan cannot be changed without due notice and hearing.

This last point means that no temporary rate that is a modification of the Burleson rates or is in any way different from the flat rates of 1918 can be established without full hearing.

The commission is expected to issue an order declaring the Burleson rates to be illegal and the flat rates of 1918 to be again in effect as of midnight, July 31.

HOME COMING AT BAY SHORE

CITIZENS PAY HOMAGE TO BOYS IN KHAKI

Little Village Crowded With Throng Who Gather to Welcome Dough-boys and Make Merry

Nearly two hundred friends and relatives gathered at the Bay Shore hall, on Thursday evening of last week, to welcome home their soldier and sailor boys, who have seen service in France, Russia, or in training camps in the United States. The event is one that will long be remembered and the boys received a welcome never to be forgotten. Those who have returned and were present are:

Anson VanCamp, 23 months service at Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

Phillip Copping, 13 months service at Chaumont, France, General Pershing Hdg.

Otto Hartwick, 11 months service at Ft. Scott, Calif., and in France.

Joseph Laurence, six months service at Camp Custer.

Sergt. Analt Billeau, 18 months service in Archangel, Russia.

Bob White, seven months service,
Joinville, France.

Paul White, six months service at Camp Custer.

Earl Dickerhoff, 18 months service
Chateau-Thierry, France.

Jesse Tillotson, five years service,
France.

L. C. Newson, 18 months service on board U. S. Beale, torpedo boat destroyer, base 6, Queenstown, Ireland.

Everyone joined in singing America after which the address of welcome was given by Amos Dietz, a civil war veteran. Mr. Dietz was heartily applauded at various times by the boys and their friends.

Mrs. Oral Dodge read a poem by Edgar Guest in memory of the departed which left many with teardimmed eyes, as all hold dear the memory of the three boys who died in training:

Dean Scroggie, died of influenza
at Great Lakes.

Joseph Price, died of influenza at a southern training camp.

Joseph Thomas, died of pneumonia at Halifax, N. S.

The evening was spent in visiting and various games. A bountiful pot-luck supper was served which was enjoyed by all. The small hours of morning were spent in dancing.

MANY TOURISTS PASS THROUGH CITY

Traffic This Season Shows Need of Better Roads

Auto tourists arriving at Charlevoix, some spending several days here while others only over night, are quite numerous these days.

We notice cars from almost every state—from the Pacific to the Atlantic and from the Gulf to the great lakes. All parts of the country are represented. And they all tell us they are but the advance guard of the hundreds to enjoy their outing in this manner.

All speak of the roads of northern Michigan, especially the road from Eastport to Charlevoix, the only poor stretch of road, with the exception of a few short detours, between Charlevoix and Chicago.

This is the route all travel and the road should at once be placed in good condition and then kept in good condition. With the quantities of good road making material available there is absolutely no excuse for the condition of the road at the present time. It is hurting business—both for the rural resident and the resort towns.

We are going to have a concrete road on 12 miles of this stretch some day within the near future, but why allow the road to remain a continuous stretch of ruts and holes when a little work will place it in fair condition.

Excursion Yacht Puritana

One of the staunchest little excursion boats that sails the waters of Pine Lake is the yacht Puritana, H.
G. Pillsbury, master. The Puritana runs daily excursions on Pine Lake and can also be chartered for fishing and special trips. The yacht is the only excursion boat in the harbor to come under the steam boat inspection laws of the United States, and so far this season has been liberally patronized.

GIANT PAGEANT AT BAY VIEW

BEAUTIFUL COSTUMES SHIPPED FROM CHICAGO

Pantomimic History of Little Traverse Bay Region to be of Marvelous Grandeur

Thursday, August 14, at 8:00 p. m., the "Pageant of Three Cities," a gigantic spectacle of historic beauty, will be presented at the John M. Hall Auditorium, Bay View, Michigan, under the auspices of the Bay View association. In announce-ing this pageant the association wishes to state that it firmly believes that in the "Pageant of Three Cities" it is offering the greatest spectacle of beauty and inspiration which has ever been crowded upon the one hundred foot stage of the great auditorium. The cast including nearly three hundred men, women and children, residents of the "Three Cities," costumed in the exact fashion of the personages they will represent—Indians, truppers, Jesuit priests, fishermen, Mormons, soldiers, will reproduce the exact history of the founding and development of the three cities, Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, and Petoskey, including Bay View. Beginning as far back as 1670 and continuing for two hundred and fifty years to the present time, the history of the Little Traverse Bay Region will be reproduced in one continuous stream of beauty across the platform as though reflected from a mystic age-old mirror.

In order to present this history in the most attractive manner, the Merriman, one of the most competent and promising young coaches in the states, were secured, and after much study she has written and produced this pantomimic masterpiece.
At last the production is ready, representing more than two months work on the part of this talented young woman. Though symbolic representation of her vital love of nature, she has woven into the short story the glory of pine forests, the sparkling wave, and the golden summer sunsets.

The merit of the work lies in the fact that throughout the symbolic clouds and leaves and the forest fires the silver thread of reality is always present and, as in actuality, Father Dulaunay, John Dickson, King Strang, Andrew Porter, and many other outstanding spirits of local history, re-enact the parts they played two centuries ago, in the founding and developing of the "Three Cities". In this pageant, the 250 years representing the development of this territory are bound together and made a unit by the only things which, throughout that time, have remained the same—snow storms—symbolic snow storms, and bluebells and wild roses.

The pageant is divided into four parts, conforming to the four seasons, and, as though looking in the depths of a silver spring, there appears upon the stage the Summer or Harbor Springs episode. 'Tis 1670 and a string of French trappers making a portage, stop to trade with the Indians whose simple ceremonial they join. Father DeJaunay, leader of the Jesuit fathers, enters; the Indians are converted and a mission is founded. The season turns to fall and the Pine River Settlement, now Charlevoix, appears. Through symbolic forest fire, frightened by the threats of King Strang and his pillaging Mormons, John Dixon gathers his fishermen friends about him and flees from the village. Winter comes and Bear Creek, known now as Petoskey, is seen as Andrew Porter, the Presbyterian, enters and establishes the Indian school, which may still be seen standing in the near-by city. At last it turns to Spring and, through the imagination of the inspiring young author, with all the promise and hope of a new day, Bay View develops, from a little Methodist camp meeting to the great summer university of today. Two hundred and fifty years have passed and through it all, the career of mother earth.

One can hardly imagine a more truly delightful spectacle than the golden summer sunset, the devouring forest fire, and the snow storm, intensified by magnificent lighting effects, and accompanied by low, wistful music, furnished by the musicians of the University School of Music, which lends itself perfectly to the moods of the shifting scenes.

MADE BOOZE WITH AN AWFUL KICK

EAST JORDAN MEN PINCHED FOR MOONSHINING

Several Fill Up With Decection and Create Disturbance Resulting in Arrest.

Two East Jordan men, Frank Corman and Clifford Justice, were arrested on Monday of last week, charged with making, selling and distributing "booze" that had a kick worse than a southern mule. Prosecutor Rueggesser examined the witnesses the same day with the results that Corman and Justice were taken into custody and will be held for trial during the August term of court.

Gorman, an employee of the pickle factory at East Jordan, is charged with concocting and selling the beverage; Justice with steering the purchases up against the product. A number of woodmen in the employ of the East Jordan Lumber company obtained a quantity of the "tanglefoot" then the fun began. They pulled off all kinds of stunts, bumped their heads against trees, turned hand springs, howled, yelled and then wound up the event by pulling off a fight that had the Willard-Dempsey affair faded forty ways.

The bunch of wood cutters obtained their first supply the Saturday night previous to the day of the big doings, and returned on the following night for another supply.
They then attended a ball game and after the game started the free for all that resulted in their arrest, and the discovery of the men who were manufacturing the booze.

QUIETLY MARRIED SATURDAY NIGHT

Courier Reporter "Scoops" Both Paper and Friends

Newspaper editors always make an effort to publish items of news that their competitors fail to get.
They call it a "scoop." But to have a reporter in their employ put a "scoop" across both editor, his friends and the public, is rather embarrassing to all.

This is just what the Courier reporter did. She also exploded the old, old saying that "a woman cannot keep a secret." The party we refer to is Miss Francis Todd, daughter of Mrs. Clara Todd, who was united in marriage to Mr. Miles Olmstead, at 7:30 Saturday evening in Petoskey by the Rev. Carl Worden.
They were attended by Mr. and Mrs.
Harold Jacobs, and the knot was tied at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Glenn Ellis.

Congratulations are extended them by a host of friends, in this city and Petoskey, where they are both well known.

The bride has been in the employ of the Courier as bookkeeper and reporter for the past fifteen months.
Prior to this she had been with the Michigan State Telephone company for a number of years. Mr. Olmstead is the junior member of the firm of Erickson & Olmstead, engaged in conducting a garage and repairing automobiles. Both Mr. and Mrs.
Olmstead have lived in Charlevoix practically all their lives and commence their matrimonial career with the best wishes of a large number of friends and acquaintances.

GOOD ROAD IN THE MAKING

UNUSUAL PROGRESS ON 16-FOOT CONCRETE HIGHWAY

Grading Work Half Done, Culverts Completed and Over 600 Feet of Concrete Laid

Unusual progress has been made in the construction of the stretch of sixteen foot concrete highway, a little over six miles in length, commencing at the top of Greensky Hill and running to Bay Shore, on the Charlevoix-Petoskey road.

When one takes into consideration that the contract for building the road was confirmed less than sixty days ago, and at the present time is done, ninety per cent of the culing is done, ninety per cent of the culvert construction completed, and some six hundred feet of concrete laid, they will realize that the commissioner in charge has been "going some," using this popular term in expressing one's self.

The work was commenced at the west end of the stretch contracted to build. Here are practically all the hills to be leveled, cuts to be filled, and a greater portion of the heavy grade work. The person who has traveled this road in the past will hardly recognize the same territory today.

From the top of Greensky Hill east is an easy grade, all sharp turns being eliminated. The deep cut over Susan creek has been filled, making an almost level stretch from the turn to the slight grade near the Struthers farm. From this farm east the grade has been reduced to a minimum. Beyond here to Bay Shore, the grading proposition is an easy one, which will finally terminate in an almost continual stretch of level highway.

The laying of concrete was started on Greensky Hill. About six hundred feet has already been laid, and each day's output of the big steam mixer reduced greatly the number of yards to be laid.

Commissioner Hammond is putting forth every bit of energy to make a good showing for this season. The concrete work will not be completed this season, unless possibly, unusual weather prevails. Climatic conditions will control entirely the amount of concrete laid. When one remembers that less than two months ago the road was but a continuous stretch of bumps and holes, and today, the grading work on the west end is about completed; that concrete mixers, tractors, and other road making machinery was not on the ground, or even purchased by the county, we cannot help but realize that good work has been and is being accomplished.

The editor of the Bellaire weekly has given up the ghost because the ghost wouldn't walk every Saturday night. After summing up his penitential balance and discovering he had a $2.00 profit for his six months' work and worry he threw up his hands and said, "What's the use?" Probably he was charging a pre-war price for his paper and advertising and job work, while he had to pay about double for his material, labor and everything he ate or wore or drank. The patrons of a paper who expect to get a paper or advertising or job printing at pre-war prices don't show very good judgment and are not entitled to the benefits derived by a community or individuals from one.—Kalkaska Leader.

Ralph Anderson, the Traverse undertaker, who mysteriously disappeared while on a trip to Chicago, has been declared legally dead by the probate court of Grand Traverse county. His wife has been appointed administratrix, and the estate, which the inventory filed shows amounts to about $33,000, will be wound up and disposed of the same as if the proofs of death were beyond all question.

The First State Bank of Petoskey has just increased its capital stock from $50,000 to $60,000, this item of business being completed late last week. President Leon Chichester announced last week. The increase in capital stock is in line with the steadily growing business of this bank.

DRINK HOT WATER IF YOU DESIRE A ROSY COMPLEXION

Says we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leaves in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, forms toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skin; liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, had taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphate hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanse, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

Joe Hale received word Saturday from his parents at Alba that their home was struck by a bolt of lightning during a severe electrical storm last Friday night and was badly damaged. Joe's father, Comodoro Perry Hale, arose from bed to shut down a window and just as he had gotten it closed a bolt of lightning struck the roof near him and entered the room. The old man was knocked down and badly shocked. The freak of the lightning was certainly mystifying as out of eight rooms in the house, seven of them were invaded by the lightning and more or less damage wrought. In the dining room the wainscoting on one side of the room was hulled out, and plaster and wall paper littered about, and one large picture had its steel frame melted off, permitting the glass and picture to tumble to the floor. The lightning went out at the back porch which it shattered and in its final work of destruction, knocked a hole in the well curbing. Mrs. Hale and daughter escaped injury but were badly frightened by the terrific crash and the havoc wrought. Joe's younger brother, Virgil, escaped being killed by being absent from home that night, as his bed was struck and completely demolished.—Gaylord Times.

It is claimed forest fires have been deliberately or carelessly set in the slashings east of Kalkaska and Manclona. Woodsmen have threatened a lynching party should the firebugs be found. The rains since last Friday have pretty thoroughly extinguished the forest fires.—Elk Rapids Progress.

The barn of Ed. Sutter in North Milton was struck by lightning in the electrical storm of Saturday morning and completely destroyed with its contents. A large mow of hay, his wheat crop, farm tools, etc., went up in the flames. Mr. Sutter is a thrifty farmer, and the barn was a good one. The loss is placed at not less than $5,000, on which he had but little insurance, although he was preparing to have additional policies written for his protection. The loss falls heavily upon Mr. Sutter, and he has the sympathy of the entire community. This ought to be a warning to farmers and others to carry enough insurance to cover any possible loss.—Elk Rapids Progress.

Manclona had a woman jury in a case in Justice Wallace's court on Monday, or rather the majority of the jurors were ladies, and Mesdames E. S. Ashdon, A. H. Ballard, Arthur Dietz and Edith Carter had the honor. It was an assault and battery case against Joe Horn, for whipping his wife. The jury rendered a verdict of guilty and the sentence was a fine of $30 and $20 costs or 60 days in the county jail. Horn paid, but he will be careful in the future not to run up against a woman jury. Horn carried the idea in his defense, that a man had a right to whip his wife if he wanted to do so.—Manclona Herald.

Mort Smith of Bellaire recently paid a fine and costs of $57.60 for setting a fire to clear some land and then leaving it and going huckleberrying. The fire destroyed several buildings and crops on adjacent farms. Deputy Game Warden Ed. Nowack made the arrest. Be careful about setting fires these days for there is a law with "teeth" in it.—Elk Rapids Progress.

"On the job"

Certain-teed forms a complete, seamless surface that sheds rain, snow and sleet year after year with almost no attention. It is always "on the job."

The most severe weather makes no impression on Certain-teed—nor can sparks, fumes, gas, smoke or insects impair its protective strength.

Yet Certain-teed costs no more—less in fact than other types of roofs. It is easily and quickly laid by anyone who will follow the simple directions that come with the roll. Upkeep expense is too slight to consider.

Your buildings, old or new—large or small—in city or country—should have the protection of Certain-teed.

Certain-teed is made in rolls, both smooth and rough surfaced, (red or green) also in handsome red or green asphalt shingles for residences. Certain-teed is extra quality—the name means certainty of quality and satisfaction guaranteed. It will pay you to get Certain-teed—most dealers sell it. Ask for Certain-teed and be sure to get it.
